

Chapter 1458 The Military Merit Task

Cecil was shocked when he heard that, but he quickly understood what Liam meant.

Liam was worried about him because he thought he had been bullied.

Cecil felt a warmth in his heart.

Noticing Cecil's silence, Liam thought he was unsure about speaking up. Softening his voice, Liam said, "We're friends. You and Arthur have done so much for me. If you're in a tough spot, I'm here to help you, too."

Cecil smiled and replied, "Liam, I am not in any trouble."

Seeing that Cecil didn't seem to be lying, Liam grew even more curious and asked, "So why did you look so troubled earlier?"

Cecil said, "It's because of a new task that recently came up. I've been torn about whether I should accept the task or not."

"A new task?" Liam looked puzzled, not sure why Cecil was so conflicted over something like that.

Noticing Liam's confused expression, Cecil gave a bitter laugh and said, "Liam, someone like you doesn't have to worry about things like this. You are talented and skilled. But for me, I've got my limits, and this task could be really dangerous for me."

The more Liam listened, the more confused he grew. "Aren't tasks from the Network of Human Sovereign usually safe, unless they're special ones? Is this task one of those special tasks?"

Having been in seclusion lately, Liam had no clue what kind of task could leave Cecil in such a dilemma.

Cecil was shocked when he heard that, but he quickly understood what Liam meant.

Liam was worried about him because he thought he had been bullied.

Cecil felt a warmth in his heart.

Noticing Cecil's silence, Liam thought he was unsure about speaking up. Softening his voice, Liam said, "We're friends. You and Arthur have done so much for me. If you're in a tough spot, I'm here to help you, too."

Cecil smiled and replied, "Liam, I am not in any trouble."

Seeing that Cecil didn't seem to be lying, Liam grew even more curious and asked, "So why did you look so troubled earlier?"

Cecil said, "It's because of a new task that recently came up. I've been torn about whether I should accept the task or not."

"A new task?" Liam looked puzzled, not sure why Cecil was so conflicted over something like that.

Noticing Liam's confused expression, Cecil gave a bitter laugh and said, "Liam, someone like you doesn't have to worry about things like this. You are talented and skilled. But for me, I've got my limits, and this task could be really dangerous for me."

The more Liam listened, the more confused he grew. "Aren't tasks from the Network of Human Sovereign usually safe, unless they're special ones? Is this task one of those special tasks?"

Having been in seclusion lately, Liam had no clue what kind of task could leave Cecil in such a dilemma.

Realizing that Liam genuinely didn't know about the task, Cecil explained, "It's a military merit task. This involves actual combat with alien races, so it comes with a lot of risks."

Liam nodded and asked, "What's a military merit task?"

Cecil looked at Liam in surprise, not expecting him to ask that. But given alien races, so it comes with a lot of risks."

Liam nodded and asked, "What's a military merit task?"

Cecil looked at Liam in surprise, not expecting him to ask that. But given that Liam had come from the Celestial Realm, it made sense that he might not be familiar with certain things in the Human Clan of the Cosmic realm.

With this in mind, Cecil said, "A military merit task is basically a way for warriors to earn military merit. This merit is crucial for the Human Clan's army and is mostly gained by defeating alien races or completing war missions. When a warrior gathers enough military merit, they can be promoted in rank. The military merit task I'm talking about involves the No. 945 planetary system in the Rosefinch Galaxy. Recently, a large group of aliens from Dremer has invaded the planetary system, and their numbers are so high that it could lead to a small-scale war."

Liam finally understood everything. While he had been in seclusion, major events had unfolded in the Rosefinch Galaxy.

Although the Rosefinch Galaxy mainly served as a resource supply point for the Human Clan, it was still protected by powerful barriers.

The barriers made it very hard for alien races to invade the Rosefinch Galaxy.

Despite these barriers, the Dremer race had somehow launched an invasion in an inner planetary system of the Rosefinch Galaxy. Liam couldn't shake the feeling that something was off about this situation.

Then, a thought struck him.

The fact that the border forces of the Rosefinch Galaxy hadn't fought back suggested that the invasion of the Dremer race might have been allowed by the Human Clan.

1410