

Chapter 1582 Statues Of The Human Sovereigns

Liam trailed behind Christos, absorbing the grandeur of his surroundings as they strolled through the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign.

Magnificent statues flanked both sides of the path they took, towering over them.

A single glance was enough for Liam to sense the potent pressure emanating from the inanimate statues.

Liam was astonished. These statues were nothing more than stone, yet they possessed terrifying power.

He felt as if he were standing in front of great historical leaders rather than just lifeless statues.

Christos, who was walking ahead of Liam, noticed the shocked expression on his face. He turned back, looking at the statues with reverence. "These statues are crafted to match the height and appearance of every Human Sovereign in our history. Each statue contains a fragment of their power. So even though they're lifeless, they have an intimidating presence."

Liam was amazed. He hadn't realized all these statues were of Human Sovereigns.

He regarded them with even greater respect now.

Christos looked at Liam, a small smile tugging at the corners of his lips. What he liked most about Liam wasn't his exceptional talent, which was undoubtedly impressive.

What he truly admired was Liam's genuine respect for all things deserving and his polite, friendly demeanor.

Since Christos was walking ahead of Liam, Liam couldn't see the faint expression of satisfaction on his face.

Under Christos' guidance, Liam easily passed through the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign. The people they met along the way didn't ask much, they just greeted Christos with a respectful nod and resumed their work.

The Sanctuary of Human Sovereign was massive. Liam felt it was easily as vast as an entire planetary system.

The sheer size of the place left Liam amazed.

The creation of a space of this magnitude clearly demonstrated that the creator's power was immense.

Christos' voice rang out just then, offering more insight. "This space is what we usually refer to as an 'Inner Sanctum'. The creation of the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign in the Rosefinch Galaxy necessitates the collaboration of at least two experts with power on par with a Primogem Deity."

Liam gave a small nod. He was familiar with the concept of an Inner Sanctum.

Back when he had been on Blue Star, he had struck a deal with Lancy, the World Lord of Blue Star.

It was decided that once Liam's power reached the level of a Primogem Deity, he would return to Blue Star and establish his own Inner Sanctum, allowing Lancy to depart the Celestial Realm of Blue Star.

That promise had never left Liam's mind.

After all, without Lancy's assistance back then, his journey to ascending to the Cosmic realm would have been significantly longer.

He would forever cherish the memory of the kindness he had received from Lancy.

As Liam thought of Lancy, he couldn't help but think about Julie and Asher as well.

His gaze sharpened as he stared into the distance.

"Julie, Asher, hang on a little longer. I'll be there to save you soon!" he muttered to himself.
