

Chapter 1590 Significant Improvement

Liam was beginning to question if he could even trust his own senses.

At the moment, he was just a second-level Primogem King—a respectable rank, sure, but not exactly a powerhouse.

On top of that, his grasp over the Death Power was a meager 13%.

Yet, something was off. Just now, Liam had noticed that his mastery of the Death Power had inexplicably doubled to 26%.

The jump was nothing short of mind-boggling.

This meant that while he still appeared to be a second-level Primogem King on the surface, in truth, his combat prowess was now on par with someone at the eighth-level!

"Wait a second—the Law Power of Five Elements!"

Liam's thoughts flickered to the Law Power of Five Elements, and without wasting a moment, he decided to check its current state.

If the Law Power of Five Elements had undergone a boost similar to the Death Power, his combat capabilities would soar to an entirely new level.

Liam activated the Law Power of Five Elements, and as the five-colored energy danced and swirled at his fingertips, he was once again struck with astonishment.

His hunch had been spot on.

Even with his mastery stuck at 13%, the raw destructive force of the Law Power of Five Elements had somehow skyrocketed to a staggering 26%.

Liam couldn't resist glancing back at the enigmatic law power tree, his mind whirling with questions. It puzzled him how his law powers had suddenly skyrocketed to such a formidable level.

Deep down, though, his gut told him the key to this transformation lay with the tree.

Just as he was piecing his thoughts together, the space around him wavered like ripples across a still pond.

Sensing an approaching presence, Liam spun around swiftly.

Standing before him was Christos, his face lit up with a broad, knowing smile. Hands clasped behind his back, he regarded Liam with an approving look.

The moment Liam spotted Christos, he quickly greeted him with utmost respect.

Christos let out a soft chuckle, his voice warm and reassuring. "I'm here to offer you my congratulations!"

Liam didn't miss the hidden meaning behind those words. With humility in his tone, he replied, "Whatever I've achieved is all thanks to your guidance, Mr. Ellis."

Christos gave a slight nod, his smile never faltering, and said, "I imagine you're itching to understand the secret behind the changes in your law power. That's precisely why I'm here—to clear up the mystery for you."

Liam's eyes sparkled with anticipation at this, and he eagerly said, "I'd be grateful for your wisdom, sir."

Christos motioned with a flick of his hand, saying, "Come with me."

Without another word, Christos turned to leave, leading the way.

Liam followed closely, keeping his curiosity in check. He knew better than to pester Christos with questions now. After all, Christos had promised answers.

Liam trailed silently behind Christos, the minutes stretching into over ten as they walked. Then, Christos broke the silence.

"What you've experienced," Christos began, his voice calm yet profound, "is known as the Surge of Law Power, a phenomenon very rare. It's a gift that only the law power tree can bestow. To be chosen, one must possess an extraordinary blend of natural talent, profound understanding, and a sprinkle of luck. Among the entire Human Clan, fewer than two hundred individuals have ever had the privilege of experiencing this. Naturally, the Human Sovereigns are counted among them, and now, so are you, the latest to receive this remarkable blessing."

Liam was utterly stunned. He had never imagined himself worthy of such a rare opportunity. A wave of exhilaration surged through him, leaving his heart pounding like a drum.

This newfound discovery only fueled his curiosity further about "the Surge of Law Power".
