

Chapter 1591 I Want To Offer You A Piece Of Advice

Christos said with measured wisdom, "What you perceive as powerful waves rippling through the realm earlier were actually the surge of law power manifesting itself. These waves aren't mere phenomena; they're a reflection of the immense power now residing within you. Your mastery over both the Law Power of Five Elements and the Death Power is remarkable. Since you have passed the trial of the waves, both abilities will now flourish with doubled strength!"

His eyes gleaming with ancient knowledge, he continued, "Consider this: when you eventually perfect these powers to their full potential—that coveted 100%—the surge's enhancement will persist. It's akin to wielding two abilities at 200% potency."

He looked at Liam. "However, this blessing specifically empowers only the abilities you possessed before the surge's arrival. Any future powers you acquire will remain unaffected; the surge's doubling effect is exclusive to your Death Power and the Law Power of Five Elements."

Christos' words flowed with quiet authority while Liam absorbed every detail, his pulse quickening with each revelation.

Even though only these two powers got the boost from the surge of law power, Liam was quite content.

After all, both Death Power and the Law Power of Five Elements stood among the most formidable abilities in the vast Sea of Laws, both fist-tier law powers. Besides, the Law Power of Five Elements encompassed five second-tier law powers.

In essence, six law powers Liam possessed were amplified by the surge.

Curiosity burning in his eyes, Liam inquired, "Mr. Ellis, after the surge of law power, will I need to work twice as hard to cultivate these two law powers?"

"No," Christos answered simply, his response carrying the weight of certainty.

This simple answer deeply shocked Liam.

This revelation meant his path to cultivate these two powers would require less toil while yielding greater rewards!

Others would toil endlessly to nurture these two law powers through conventional means. Yet he could achieve identical results with half the effort.

His astonishment must have shown plainly on his face, for Christos' lips curved into a knowing smile. "This, young one, is the profound impact of the Surge of Law Power. It stands as the greatest opportunity ever bestowed upon our Human Clan! Truly, Liam, your extraordinary fortune even stirs envy in my heart. To be blessed with two first-tier law powers enhanced by the surge... You will achieve great things in the future!"

A humble smile graced Liam's features as he looked at Christos. "Such achievements would be impossible without your guidance, Mr. Ellis."

Christos' face illuminated with genuine pleasure, his hearty laughter echoing in the air.

After a while, his expression turned serious.

"Liam," Christos began, "I speak with utmost candor when I say my heart yearns to welcome you into the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign. However, circumstances beyond my control prevent me from extending this invitation at present. For you see, destiny has woven an even grander tapestry of opportunity into your future, and that is precisely why I want to offer you a piece of advice."

The "circumstances" Christos spoke of was the fact that the City Lord wanted to take Liam as his disciple.

Such an apprenticeship would far outshine even the prestigious opportunity of joining the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign, a fact Christos knew well.

Sensing the gravity in Christos' tone, Liam said, "Mr. Ellis, please enlighten me."

Christos leaned forward slightly, his eyes reflecting wisdom. "I know Caden has set his sights on recruiting you for the army, but listen carefully, Liam. While the military path holds merit, you should not limit your future to this one path. Your destiny stretches far beyond the boundaries of any single faction or allegiance. You are destined to stand among the brightest stars in the firmament of the Human Clan!"