

Chapter 1600 How Many Special Points Do You Have...

Lindy, driven by curiosity, turned to Liam and asked, "Liam, how many special points do you have now?"

In the Human Clan, delving into personal details was usually taboo, yet Lindy's question was free of any ill intent. She was sure that Liam wouldn't mind her inquisitiveness.

Her query was sparked purely by curiosity.

Liam was caught off guard by Lindy's question. He had been comfortably sitting on a mountain of special points ever since he had gained the Death Power. Consequently, he hadn't checked his special points in ages.

Prompted by Lindy's question, he decided check his special points. He checked them discreetly.

The numbers surprised him a bit.

Noticing Lindy's eager, expectant look, Liam hesitated before playing it down. "Lindy, I don't really have many special points, just slightly more than you."

Liam didn't realize that his vague response would only stoke the flames of Lindy's curiosity.

Lindy said, "Don't dodge the question, Liam. I'm genuinely curious. Just tell me how many special points you've got."

Seeing Lindy's persistence, Liam revealed his special points.

Eager to see for herself, Lindy glanced at the display. Her eyes widened in an instant.

She meticulously counted each digit.

Completing her count, she gasped in sheer disbelief. She stared at Liam, her eyes wide, and exclaimed, "Liam, you... You actually have seven hundred and eighty thousand special points!"

Lindy had believed Liam's earlier words, assuming he had only a modest lead over her sixty thousand special points.

The staggering number before her eyes left her completely floored. The gap between her estimate and Liam's actual points was vast.

Lindy's tally of special points was the envy of other cultivators at her level. Yet, her impressive count paled in comparison to Liam's.

Moreover, Liam had only ascended to the Cosmic realm less than six months ago.

The fact that he had accumulated such a vast number of special points in such a short time was nothing short of astounding!

But then, Lindy remembered the Death Power that Liam wielded.

With the Death Power at his disposal, it was no wonder Liam could amass special points so swiftly.

At that moment, Lindy couldn't help but smile bitterly.

It dawned on her that Liam had been vague about his points earlier, probably to keep her from feeling disheartened.

She shouldn't have asked him about the matter in the first place.

Still, Lindy wasn't jealous that Liam had this many special points.

Liam was fortunate to have ample opportunities, a fact well-recognized by everyone.

Lindy always considered Liam as family, and she wouldn't feel jealous because he was doing good.