

Chapter 1601 Advanced Spirit Search Stone

Liam noticed Lindy deep in her own thoughts, but he didn't care much. After all, the absence of any other emotions in Lindy's eyes was enough to prove that she wasn't jealous of him.

Turning his attention to the Network of Human Sovereign's exchange store, Liam browsed the inventory.

"Normal Spirit Search Stone. This tool detects and analyzes the clan and strength of creatures within a 100-kilometer radius for 24 hours, though it falls short against creatures beyond the Primogem King tier. It's priced at 100 special points."

Liam's expression tightened. Ineffective against anything above the Primogem King tier? The normal Spirit Search Stone seemed not very useful.

Liam scrolled down for more options.

"Advanced Spirit Search Stone. It can detect and analyze creatures' clan and strength within a 100-kilometer radius for 24 hours. It doesn't work on creatures above the Primogem Emperor tier. It's priced at 300 special points."

Liam considered the two options. The main perk of the advanced version was its enhanced scanning capability, yet it was priced three times higher than the normal one.

Nevertheless, Liam wasn't deterred by the higher cost of the advanced Spirit Search Stone.

Given its critical role in his mission, he preferred investing in quality that

Turning his attention to the Network of Human Sovereign's exchange store, Liam browsed the inventory.

"Normal Spirit Search Stone. This tool detects and analyzes the clan and strength of creatures within a 100-kilometer radius for 24 hours, though it falls short against creatures beyond the Primogem King tier. It's priced at 100 special points."

Liam's expression tightened. Ineffective against anything above the Primogem King tier? The normal Spirit Search Stone seemed not very useful.

Liam scrolled down for more options.

"Advanced Spirit Search Stone. It can detect and analyze creatures' clan and strength within a 100-kilometer radius for 24 hours. It doesn't work on creatures above the Primogem Emperor tier. It's priced at 300 special points."

Liam considered the two options. The main perk of the advanced version was its enhanced scanning capability, yet it was priced three times higher than the normal one.

Nevertheless, Liam wasn't deterred by the higher cost of the advanced Spirit Search Stone.

Given its critical role in his mission, he preferred investing in quality that promised to pinpoint potential threats early, allowing him to sidestep dangers that could jeopardize the mission.

He just felt pity that there were only these two types of Spirit Search Stones. If there were a version capable of detecting creatures beyond the Primogem Emperor tier, they would be better equipped for the mission.

Primogem Emperor tier, they would be better equipped for the mission.

Decisively, Liam acquired fifty advanced Spirit Search Stones.

Lindy gasped as Liam completed the transaction, spending 15, 000 thousand special points without hesitation.

If she had been handling those points, she would have orchestrated each spend with extreme caution, haunted by the fear of wasting even one.

Liam's lavish spending shocked her.

Despite her awareness of his ample resources, the scale of his expenditure prompted her to voice her concern.

"Liam, we're only getting 2, 000 mission points from this mission. Spending 15, 000 special points for this seems like a massive loss."

Prepared for her skepticism, Liam had a justification ready to go. "Lindy, remember I mentioned I'm on the brink of level-five authorization? I pick missions that balance the rewards with the effort, and this one fits the bill. I don't want to fail and lose special points, so this is the better move."

Lindy listened to Liam's explanation and then nodded in understanding.

For Liam, meticulously planning his approach to missions was crucial.

A mishap that could delay his elevation to level-five authorization was a risk he wasn't willing to take.

Moreover, mission points and special points served different purposes. While they could purchase the same basic items with either type of points, mission points offered exclusive benefits that special points did not.

For example, promotion in authorization levels could only be achieved through mission points.