

Chapter 1608 I'll Help You End Your Suffering

Liam used his inner World Power to take a closer look. He was stunned to discover the seemingly dying figure was actually the World Lord of the No. 1568 planetary system.

Liam felt a wave of sympathy for the figure, seeing her chained up and losing her World Power.

Her situation was surprising to him, especially considering she was a World Lord.

After all, a World Lord was supposed to be the strongest in their world.

Yet, here this World Lord was, enduring such cruel suffering. It made Liam genuinely feel for her.

Catching Lindy's skeptical glance, Liam nodded to confirm that the disheveled woman was indeed the World Lord of this planetary system.

Lindy was taken aback that her guess was spot on. She looked at the World Lord again, her heart going out to her.

She quickly deduced that the World Lord's dire state was the work of the mysterious creatures from the No. 1568 planetary system.

Meanwhile, the blindfolded World Lord seemed to pick up on the presence of strangers and began to struggle.

Her anguished cries and the clanking of chains tugged at Lindy's heartstrings.

Realizing he had been spotted, Liam stepped closer to the World Lord and assured her, "Don't worry; we're here to help you. What's your name?"

Ignoring Liam, the World Lord continued to thrash wildly, clearly not believing him.

Undeterred, Liam calmly tapped into his World Power and let the World Lord feel his aura.

This action served as his proof of identity.

As expected, once she sensed Liam's World Power, the World Lord calmed down.

After a moment of silence, she said weakly, "My name is Marlene Wallace..."

Liam nodded slightly and said, "Marlene, I'm not from around here. Like you, I'm a World Lord too. I was on a mission in your planetary system when I noticed that the odd creatures here all seem to have a touch of World Power. Is this due to your World Power leaking out? Can you tell me what's happening? In return, I'll help you escape."

Marlene's expression brightened with hope. She nodded eagerly and said, "I was ambushed by the creatures of this planetary system. They used a unique ability to immobilize me, and then they began to drain my World Power nonstop! If you help me, I only ask one thing. Once I'm free, I want to kill all the creatures in this planetary system myself!"

Liam gave a slight nod. His mission was only to deliver the crystal cores; he wasn't required to kill the mysterious creatures directly, so he readily agreed.

He then asked, "What exactly do you need me to do?"

He was relieved to know that Marlene's leaking World Power was only because of the mysterious creatures.

Eliminating these creatures would set everything right.

Marlene replied, "All you need to do is sever the chains binding my body. I have the power to reclaim all the siphoned World Power."

Liam nodded affirmatively and declared, "Alright."

No sooner had he spoken than the sword of darkness materialized in his grasp.

He raised the sword and brought it down in a swift arc, slicing through one of the chains that had ensnared Marlene for countless years.

The sharp, metallic clang signaled the chain's release, and a flicker of delight crossed Marlene's face.

Liam eyed the three remaining chains, took a deep breath, and struck again. This time, however, the chain did not break.

The mysterious creatures had clearly infused a hint of their power into this particular chain, effectively neutralizing the sword's force. The chain remained unaffected by the sword strike.

A slight shift in Liam's expression revealed his surprise; he hadn't expected the creatures to have fortified the chain.

Marlene noticed the failure and quickly asked, "What's the matter? Did something go wrong?"

Liam was candid. "My sword of darkness can't cut through the second chain. It's been enchanted by the creatures."

He then fell silent, pondering his next move.

If he couldn't help Marlene, there was little point in staying here.

Sensing Liam's thoughts, Marlene resumed her struggle, pleading, "Please, help me! If you can't free me, then at least end my suffering! I refuse to be food for those creatures any longer!"

Liam understood what Marlene meant.

For a World Lord to be reduced to such a state was truly deplorable.

Liam nodded slightly and replied. "Alright, I'll help you end your suffering."

But just as Liam was about to proceed, Marlene suddenly thought of something and urgently exclaimed, "Wait!"

Chapter 1609 Getting The Meteor Gold

Liam was taken aback by that, yet he knew Marlene wasn't afraid to die. She had sought his help to end her suffering, a clear sign of her courage in facing death.

When Marlene told him to wait, Liam halted right away. The menacing sword of darkness hovered just inches from her neck. Had she delayed her call even a moment longer, Liam might have already killed her.

Liam inquired, "What's wrong?"

Panting and visibly shaken, Marlene said, "Your sword has the power to evolve, right? But it has stopped evolving recently."

Liam, surprised by her accurate guess, looked at her, astonished.

He nodded and admitted, "Yes, you are right."

Marlene explained, "I've got a piece of Meteor Gold. I was saving it to defend myself if needed, but now, it seems it would do more good to upgrade your weapon. That way, you can help me get out of here!"

Liam was surprised Marlene had noticed the issue with the sword of darkness, but he then realized it made sense, given she was a World Lord.

Her extensive knowledge surpassed his own.

The revelation that Marlene possessed the Meteor Gold sent a thrill through Liam.

He recognized the extraordinary value of Meteor Gold, which could fetch at least 1.5 million special points at the Network of Human Sovereign's exchange store!

Liam decided not to delve into how Marlene had come by the Meteor Gold.

He nodded and said, "Give me the Meteor Gold, and once I've upgraded the sword of darkness, I'll pull out all the stops to get you out of here."

Marlene, realizing her best chance at escape lay with Liam, quickly and resolutely handed him the Meteor Gold she carried.

Liam accepted it, his curiosity piqued as he examined the Meteor Gold closely.

Inside the rare ore, a hint of gold glinted, lending it an extraordinary allure.

The aura it emitted instilled a sense of wonder in him.

Formed from the cataclysmic ruin of a planetary system, the Meteor Gold was indeed a marvel. The immense power it harnessed from the devastated planetary system was so potent that even Liam felt a tinge of fear.

However, the urgency of the situation left no room for admiration. Liam had breached this core world, and if he didn't hasten Marlene's rescue, they risked detection by the mysterious creatures here.

If the mysterious creatures found out about this, their plan wouldn't succeed.

Therefore, wasting no more time, Liam, now equipped with the Meteor Gold, began the process Katherine had told him to tap into the Meteor Gold's power.

Shortly thereafter, Liam held the activated power in one hand and the sword of darkness in the other. He turned to Lindy and said, "Lindy, I need your protection now. If anything out of the ordinary happens, I'm counting on you to handle it."

Understanding the situation Liam referred to—the potential discovery by mysterious creatures—Lindy nodded and responded, "Don't worry. As long as I'm around, I won't let anything disturb you."

Despite her limited strength and the formidable challenge posed by the creatures, Lindy was resolute. Should any of those creatures stumble upon them and try to interfere, she would fight them to death.

Liam carefully began to channel the power into the sword of darkness.

Upon making contact with the pure power, the sword of darkness immediately radiated a divine glow. It then started to absorb the power at an impressively fast rate.

As the sword steadily drew in the power, the blade began to tremble, emitting a resonant hum.

Liam felt a wave of joy, realizing the power was effectively repairing the sword of darkness.

Marlene, whose blindfold had been taken off by Liam earlier, watched the transformations of the sword in Liam's hands with awe and excitement shining in her eyes.

Once the sword of darkness reached the stature of an ethereal-grade weapon, it would shatter the chains that had bound her for years. Then, she would finally be free!

Filled with the prospect of imminent freedom, Marlene felt elated.

The lengthy years she had spent restrained were finally nearing an end!

However, just as Liam was intently focusing on refining the power within the sword, several mysterious creatures abruptly appeared within the core world.

Realizing one of the chains had been broken, the creatures had sensed that something must have happened. So they had quickly rushed over.
