

Chapter 1612 I Will Kill All Of You

Marlene glared at the frightened, mysterious creatures before her. Her face was grim and unyielding, showing no hint of compassion.

She exclaimed, "You vile creatures! You kept me locked up for so long! Now that I'm free, none of you will escape punishment! You will all die!"

The creatures whimpered softly, seemingly begging for mercy.

However, Marlene ignored their pleas.

After all, only she could truly understand the agony she had endured over the years and the tremendous power that had been stripped from her by these creatures.

It was their time to pay for the suffering she had endured!

Liam looked at Marlene and said, "Marlene, this is your battle. I'll stay out of it. These creatures deserve to die. I understand the anger you feel, so let it out!"

Marlene glanced at Liam and nodded.

Liam was the one who had saved her.

Without his help, she could still be trapped with no chance of escape.

After pausing briefly to reflect, Marlene turned to Liam and said, "Thank you."

Liam smiled slightly. Helping her was also motivated by his own interests.

He had brought Lindy along to see Marlene in action for a specific purpose—to collect the crystal cores from these creatures and to witness the full force of a World Lord's attack.

Despite being a World Lord himself, Liam had never used the World Power in his own realm.

Therefore, Liam was keen to watch Marlene, the World Lord of the No. 1568 planetary system, showcase her powers here.

The creatures on the surface realized Marlene had escaped their control and descended into panic.

After all, they had managed to capture Marlene and drain her World Power only by leveraging their unique bloodline abilities.

They had succeeded through a sneak attack.

How could a now-alert Marlene be fooled again by the same tactic?

Therefore, none of the mysterious creatures showed a desire to fight back. The moment they spotted Marlene, they opted to flee. In an instant, they dispersed in all directions.

When Marlene saw the creatures' attempt to escape, her face immediately grew dark, and she muttered coldly, "Die!"

As these cold words left her mouth, a formidable surge of energy exploded from her, like an unstoppable tsunami.

Her aura, brimming with a bone-chilling pressure, surged towards the retreating creatures.

At that moment, Marlene activated her World Power.

With Marlene's World Power unleashed, the fleeing creatures suddenly felt as though they were stuck in quicksand, unable to move.

Their eyes met in a shared look of dread, recognizing that escape was no longer an option. Out of desperation, they decided to fight back.

Marlene scoffed at their feeble attempts, "I will kill all of you!"

Did these creatures really think she was still the weak woman she had once been?

This time, she would show them no mercy at all!

Remembering the countless sufferings she had endured while held captive in the subterranean realm by these creatures, Marlene felt her heart turn cold.

There might have been a brief moment when she could have felt a sliver of pity, but it was long gone.

In fact, these creatures were beings she had created.

But as Marlene dwelled on the suffering she had endured, her heart hardened like a rock.

She believed none of these creatures were innocent.

As the World Lord of the No. 1568 planetary system, she wielded absolute power over their very existence.

The immense World Power within Marlene unleashed, like violent cyclones, enveloping all the creatures and rendering their figures nearly ethereal.

At that moment, the creatures fully realized the immense gap between their strength and that of Marlene. They became noticeably more subdued.

They all let out pitiful whimpers as if begging Marlene for mercy.

However, Marlene ignored their desperate pleas, and her expression grew even colder.

She sneered, "Now you beg for mercy? When you locked me up for years, did you ever think about my suffering? Now that you feel threatened, you know to plead and acknowledge your mistakes? Too late!"

Marlene's words cut through the air, as chilling as a blast of winter wind. Even Liam and Lindy, who were just watching, felt a chill run through them.

Liam glanced at Marlene. It was clear to him she was resolute in her decision to kill.

Was this the terrifying wrath of a World Lord?

The whole No. 1568 planetary system, under Marlene's fury, seemed bleak.

It was as if it were teetering on the edge of a dire catastrophe.

Liam carefully tuned into the changing energies around him.

Seeing a World Lord exert their powers was rare, and it was even more unusual to see one, like Marlene, engulfed in deep rage.

Liam was keen to understand just how much a World Lord's power could amplify in their own dominion.

Just then, Liam and Lindy heard a noise that sounded like the sky splitting open.

Then, Liam saw heavy, dark clouds form in the sky.

Lightning frequently flashed between the dense clouds, casting down intense strikes.

Liam also noticed something more.

He was startled to discover that Marlene was linked to the sky.

The calamities befalling the world were actually executions of Marlene's will.

In simple terms, should Marlene choose to, she had the strength to defeat any formidable entity, even a Primogem Saint, in the No.1568 planetary system now.

And Marlene had not yet fully restored her World Power yet.

Liam felt a mix of excitement and anticipation.

He couldn't help but imagine the level of Marlene's strength once she completely reclaimed her World Power.

He also thought about the fact that he had three World Powers.

If he could get his enemy in his own realm, he wondered just how powerful he would be.
