

Chapter 1615 Accompany Me To See Liam Now

"What could have compelled you to seek my presence, I wonder?" Caden asked.

He had swiftly made his way to the City of Divinity after being summoned by the City Lord.

He had a suspicion that the City Lord's summon had something to do with Liam, though he couldn't be certain.

His intuition turned out to be correct.

The City Lord had indeed called him over to discuss the matter about Liam.

"I summoned you here to talk about Liam," the City Lord said.

However, the City Lord's next words shook Caden to his core.

"Are you aware that Liam is the reincarnation of Necrothar?"

Caden had been smiling in satisfaction, pleased that he had guessed correctly.

However, the City Lord's question shattered his calm.

His eyes widened in disbelief, and his mind went blank, unable to fully process what he had just heard.

Necrothar's reincarnation!

Discovering Necrothar's reincarnation was the ultimate pursuit of all Primogem Emperors in the Human Clan.

Locating Necrothar's reincarnation was the key to merging it with Necrothar's Secret realm in the Human Clan and unlocking both the memories and power of his past life. It held the potential to instantly bestow the Human Clan with a Primogem Deity.

Not only that, but he would also be the strongest warrior in the Human Clan.

In fact, even in the entire Cosmic realm, finding someone with power even remotely close to Necrothar's would be a near-impossible task.

Simply put, it was a universally acknowledged truth among all Human Sovereigns in the Human Clan that discovering Necrothar's reincarnation would skyrocket the Human Clan's combat power.

Had Caden not heard the City Lord's explanation firsthand, he would have never dared to believe that Liam—someone he and the City Lord had placed such high expectations on—was the reincarnation of the legendary Necrothar.

As the sheer magnitude of the revelation sank in, Caden's heart swelled with an indescribable surge of excitement.

He promptly inquired, "How can I assist you now?"

The City Lord regarded Caden for a brief moment before stating, "Accompany me to see Liam now."

Caden instantly understood the reasoning behind the City Lord's request. Among all those in the Human Clan, he was the one who had interacted with Liam the most. Thus, Liam was more likely to trust him than anyone else.

Caden quickly nodded in response to the City Lord's instructions and complied.

Without another word, the City Lord lifted his hand and made a sweeping motion through the air. Instantly, a stable spatial passage materialized before them.

The City Lord stepped through first before turning back to Caden and saying, "Follow me."

Meanwhile, deep within a secluded cultivation chamber, was Liam, preparing to utilize the Blood Sovereign's Essence and Blood to fortify the strength of his physical body.

However, before he had the chance to spread the Blood Sovereign's

Life Essence and Blood across his body, he noticed the space within the cultivation chamber warping in a bizarre manner.

A look of bewilderment crossed his face as he stared at the strange spatial ripples before him.

The cultivation chamber was fortified with numerous powerful restrictions, designed to prevent outside interference. Breaking through these barriers and gaining entry into the chamber was very difficult.

Such a feat could only be accomplished by a powerhouse at the Primogem Emperor level.

The thought sent a ripple of nervousness through Liam.

He couldn't help but wonder which Human Sovereign might have ventured into the cultivation chamber.

Nonetheless, he couldn't deny a flicker of anticipation rising within him.

After all, he was now aware that both of his biological parents were highly esteemed Human Sovereigns within the Human Clan.

The sight of the two figures emerging from the passageway, however, made Liam's heart sink a little.

Because the individuals who arrived were not Emperor Hoffman or Forge Regal, as he had anticipated.

The two figures were Caden and a man who looked familiar. Liam believed he had seen the man before.

His brow furrowed slightly as he racked his brain, attempting to recall the identity of the man beside Caden.

Fortunately, he possessed a keen memory. He briefly recalled seeing the familiar man's statue in the corridor of the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign. He was the City Lord!

Once Liam realized that the figure standing before him was the City Lord, he quickly rose to his feet and greeted him and Caden.

with respect.

The City Lord's lips curled into a smile when he saw that Liam had recognized him.

He looked at Liam with appreciation.

But his eyes also held a glimmer of something deeper, an emotion that Liam couldn't quite decipher at first.

It took him a moment, but then it hit him.

Respect.

The City Lord was looking at him with a sense of respect.

Liam was astounded.

Why would someone as esteemed as the City Lord regard him, an ordinary person, with respect?

Liam was certain he wasn't misinterpreting the look.

This left him even more perplexed.

Liam snapped out of his thoughts at the sound of Caden clearing his throat.

"Liam, the City Lord and I came here specifically to see you," Caden said, his tone a little nervous.

Liam looked at the City Lord and Caden. "Is there advice you wish to give me? I'm all ears," he said.

The City Lord cast a glance at Caden, silently signaling for him to explain everything to Liam.

Caden noticed it and nodded in response.

Truth be told, he found the entire situation somewhat strange.

Until recently, Liam had been nothing more than a potential disciple of the City Lord.

However, now, after discovering Liam's mysterious identity and realizing he was Necrothar's reincarnation, the City Lord no longer viewed him as just a potential disciple.

Liam had transformed into the reincarnation of Necrothar, a figure the City Lord deeply respected. Caden found himself amused by the situation.

Just then, catching sight of the City Lord's stern gaze directed at him, Caden quickly composed himself. He straightened his posture, shaking his head to push aside the jumbled thoughts.

Caden turned to Liam and offered him a smile. "Liam, the real reason the City Lord and I are here is to assist you in awakening the memories of your past life."

Liam was caught off guard by the unexpected statement. He stared at Caden, a bewildered expression on his face.

His memories from his previous life?

Although he was aware that people had past lives, he had never felt the urge to delve into his own.

To him, those matters belonged to a time long gone. How could he let the events of his past life impact his current one?

Liam felt an instinctive urge to refuse.

However, Caden noticed Liam's intent to refuse and swiftly interjected, "Liam, don't refuse yet. Let me explain before you say no. You have no idea what kind of person you were in your previous life. I was brought here by the City Lord for the sole purpose of helping you regain your memories of your past life."

At these words, a peculiar expression crossed Liam's face.

It was hard for him to comprehend that Caden and the City Lord had come so far just to help him awaken the memories of his past life.

Liam shot a confused look at the City Lord and Caden.

He struggled to believe that his past life was significant enough to warrant this kind of attention.

