

Chapter 34

Emily Quest approached Xyla Quest almost as if she were a predator, ready to pounce at a moment's notice. There was an expression of hatred on her face that was covered in make-up.

"What do you want?" Xyla raised her brows coldly.

"Nothing much. I just wanted to tell you that Brother Sullivan and I are getting married. In fact, we are getting married in two weeks.

"I know you've always wanted to break us up to exact revenge on me so that I would lose everything.

"However, Xyla Quest, I'm letting you know that your plans will never succeed.

"I now bear the Sullivan family's child. I have a stable position. Even if you try anything dirty, you won't be able to drag me down.

"You have always been my defeated foe. It is your fate to be envious of me." Emily kept her hand up to block Xyla's way while she spoke with a satisfied expression on her face.

Once Emily became Tom Sullivan's wife, she would have the upper hand in the fight for the Quest family's inheritance.

With her in-laws' support, she would be much more powerful than Xyla Quest.

By then, Emily would only have to make her father happy and everything would go according to her plan.

“Oh,” Xyla replied nonchalantly before lightly grabbing Emily’s wrist and pushing it down so that she could walk into the kitchen.

However, Emily would not give up. She stood in front of Xyla yet again while she folded her hands across her chest. Emily then lifted her chin and glared at Xyla.

“You are just pretending to be calm. Deep inside, you are so mad that you could probably die. After all, everything you have carefully planned will now go to waste.

“Hahahaha... It’s all but a dream... Nothing you wished for would come true. Hahaha...”

When Xyla saw the way Emily behaved, she found it a little hilarious. In fact, Xyla felt as if Emily was like the ignorant Joker.

“As long as you’re happy,” Xyla said calmly before walking past Emily and opening the fridge to look for food.

“You really can act! You b*tch,” Emily murmured through gritted teeth.

Emily was gravely disappointed by not being able to see Xyla go mad today.

After stomping her foot on the ground, Emily hurriedly returned to her seat next to May Conner. She then turned on Weibo to check if her story on the most popular topics on the internet had been taken down.

After all, Tony Sullivan had personally asked Tom Sullivan to spend money to remove it.

However, when Emily turned on Weibo, she discovered that the hashtag '#Emily Quest hires goons to attack Xyla Quest but fails and ends up being arrested#' was still on the number one spot.

Did Tom really care about her? Logically speaking, if he had spent money to do it, the hashtag would have been taken down from the list of most popular topics on the internet by now.

Since it was still on the list, that meant Tom must not have transferred the money yet.

Since Emily was soon going to be Tom's wife, didn't it mean that the story would embarrass him just as much?

Did Tom not care at all? Emily was beginning to fume angrily at the thought.

She immediately called Tom on the phone...

Once Tom picked up, Emily tried to suppress her anger with a deep breath . “Brother Sullivan , didn’t Uncle ask you to remove me from the list of most popular topics on the internet? Why haven’t you done so?”

“Weibo just rejected my request... What else can I do?” Tom sounded annoyed.

“What? Weibo refused your offer to remove the story from the list of most popular topics on the internet . What kind of bullsh*t is that?” Emily seemed shocked and angry.

Meanwhile, Xyla had just taken some milk and bread from the fridge and closed the door behind her. When she overheard what Emily said coincidentally, a feeling of joy filled her heart.
