

Chapter 42

Josh's fans were going wild. Every single one of them was screaming at the top of their lungs. They had lost their senses—

“Ahhh...! Ahhh...!”

“Josh Batton! Josh Batton!!!”

When Emily Quest saw Josh, her eyes lit up immediately. She could not contain her excitement.

It had been a long time since she last went to his live concert. Emily could not help but think that her idol had become even more handsome. His look today was extremely attractive!

Emily was like a teenage girl who had just met her crush.

Accompanied by the sound of music and screaming from the crowd, Josh began dancing with one of his female dancers while he sang.

The upbeat music and his alluring movements made all the off-stage fans scream at the top of their lungs.

Everyone was hyped.

Meanwhile, off-stage, Xyla felt just as excited as everyone else when she saw Josh performing. She began screaming along with the audience.

Simultaneously , ‘#Josh Dances #’ soon became the second most popular topic on the internet. The word ‘ explosive’ was written behind the topic.

Short clips of Josh were posted within the trending topic.

After the dance had come to an end, the female dancers walked off-stage while Josh remained standing at the center of the stage, panting heavily as he did so. Closely after that , the music to his song ‘ You Are Everything Beautiful in the World’ began to play.

The cheering off-stage grew even louder.

Josh smiled a little before motioning for the audience to be quiet. Within a second, the entire venue became silent.

His smile widened while his rows of white teeth became visible . It was a warm smile that felt as if it were capable of healing everything terrible in the world.

Even Xyla, who had experienced a great deal in life, felt mesmerized by his smile at that moment.

Unintentionally , Xyla suddenly recalled something was crisp and clear, with an extremely attractive force to it.

After his performances were over, Josh politely bowed to the audience before he began diligently promoting Imperial Prime's property on sale.

Once again, the crowd went wild with cheers and screams. The ladies standing close to him seemed as if they would soon faint.

Having delivered his lines, Josh welcomed Xyla and a few other co-workers on stage to officiate the launching ceremony.

While Emily stood next to Josh, she still seemed to emanate a bright light, which was in no way diminished by Josh's attractive appearances. 10

Since the two of them were like the most intricate objects on display in the world, all eyes were on them even though they were not even doing anything spectacular. 1

When they simultaneously cut the ribbon with their scissors, Josh immediately looked at Xyla gently and smiled. Xyla did the same and smiled in return.

At that moment, Xyla was the most envied person in the whole place. All girls present were jealous of her because she stood right next to their favorite idol. More importantly, their favorite idol looked and smiled at her on his own initiative.

This was something none of them would even dare think about happening to themselves. ¹

Meanwhile, Emily observed all of this from afar. Her fingernails sank into the leather exterior of the steering wheel.

Words could not describe how jealous she felt right then.

What did Xyla do to deserve such an affectionate look from Emily's favorite idol? What did Xyla do to deserve such a wonderful smile and sincere help from Josh?

Chapter 43

Although Emily Quest had spent so much money on Josh Batton, she never received this kind of treatment from him. Each time, she could only look at Josh from afar. Now, Xyla was able to do something Emily could only dream about with ease. What right did Xyla have to do that?

After the ribbon was cut, Josh proceeded to leave while Xyla walked into the sales gallery behind her with a group of people.

When Emily saw this, she hurriedly got out of her car and made her way through the crowd to the sales gallery. Emily was here to watch Xyla get embarrassed and see how downtrodden Xyla would be once she realized the harsh reality.

Suddenly, the sales gallery became packed. When Xyla saw that the salespeople were fully occupied, she decided to join them as she began introducing the property's information to customers.

Emily watched with disdain. However, instead of moving closer, she stayed by the door and observed silently. 1

'So what if there are a lot of people? They are just here to enjoy the show. How many of them could afford to buy the units? None of the people here look here to enjoy the show. How many of them could afford to buy the units? None of the people here look really rich anyway.

“Xyla Quest... Today, you will realize how naïve you really are,” Emily murmured to herself through gritted teeth.

As soon as Emily finished her sentence, many of Josh’s fans were ushered by salespeople to sign their contracts. In fact, they did not even bother listening to the explanations.

Groups of customers took turns to get their contracts signed one after another.

Emily was beginning to doubt herself. “What the hell is going on?”

Why were things not going as she had expected?

Emily quickly approached Xyla and pulled her away from the crowd. “Did you hire those people to buy houses?”

“Why don’t you go with them and find out?” Xyla said coldly.

“Even if that’s not true... I doubt you would be able to sell half of the units in a day.” Emily was determined to think this way.

Right then, Sharon Lindt and a dozen rich wives entered the sales gallery. Each of them was dressed in clothes from expensive international brands and had light make-up on. Clearly, their outfits were properly planned.

Meanwhile, Sharon, who led the group in the front, was the most attractive among them. She wore a bright, rose-red coat, a white knitted sweater with a large butterfly knot, black skin-tight pants, and black boots. With her hair tied into a ponytail, coupled with her great physique, she seemed almost like a teenage girl.

Despite the crowd and clutter all around, Sharon was able to spot her daughter-in-law, Xyla, at one glance.

Nobody else in the crowd shone as brightly as Xyla. When Sharon saw how Xyla approached each customer with ease and grace, she felt extremely proud.

Xyla looked even better than she did in her photos. The longer Sharon looked at her daughter-in-law, the more she found her appealing and likable.

Sharon was barely able to take her eyes away from Xyla.

Right then, Sharon stopped walking and pointed in Xyla's direction while she turned to look at her friends. "Do you see her? That lady in the pink tuxedo is my daughter-in-law. Isn't she pretty? Isn't she attractive?"

Sharon was behaving as if she were proudly showing off her favorite idol to her friends. Her eyes glimmered when she looked at Xyla.

Very soon, the rich wives all spotted Xyla Quest. They were clearly admiring her just as much.

"Sharon, you really are fortunate to have such a pretty and capable daughter-in-law."

"Yeah. Why does this lady look like an angel who had descended from the heavens?"

Sharon became even more proud when she heard the compliments.

"Yeah... I think so too." Sharon's face was glowing.

"Alright, remember not to expose my identity later. Do you understand?" Sharon reminded them seriously.

The others nodded and gave her an 'OK' gesture with their hands.