

Chapter 867 Dragon Manor

Liam drove towards Dragon Manor on the elevated highway in the eastern suburbs.

Julie's phone kept ringing non-stop, with calls asking for the location of Asher's birthday party.

Liam calmly instructed her, "Tell them to wait at Rose Garden. Since the venue is a bit far, there will be a shuttle there to take them to it."

Upon hearing Liam's statement that the party venue was quite far away, Yesenia immediately asked from the backseat, "Did you book the event at a small restaurant in the suburbs? Oh my goodness, aren't you embarrassed enough?"

Julie sighed deeply. Yesenia's words hit too close to home. "Joy International Media's general manager is coming today. If the arrangements are not up to par, they might decide to terminate our contract. It would not look so good," Julie said.

Upon hearing this, Baxter became anxious. "We can't let that happen. If they cancel the contract, I will be back to my old position with the Williams family. Julie, there's still time. We can turn back and go to the venue I arranged!"

Julie couldn't help but look at Liam with a complicated expression. She felt extremely hesitant at the moment.

She was aware of how much Liam wanted to make up for the lost time with his son. She couldn't bear to let Liam down by ruining his plans.

However, with Edward's attendance, there was no room for error.

If Edward were displeased due to poor hospitality, the consequences would be severe, especially for Julie in her current situation. It wouldn't be as simple as Pearl Company going bankrupt once the contract was terminated. It might be much worse than that.

Liam sensed Julie's gaze and understood her struggle. He wasn't bothered by the others, but he felt the need to explain to Julie.

With sincerity in his eyes, he took her hand and said, "Julie, trust me. As your husband, I would never joke about you and our son."

Moved by Liam's earnest words, Julie couldn't say anything else. She picked up the phone to notify the guests to wait at the Rose Garden.

At this point, all she could do was to trust Liam. Although she didn't hold much hope, she just prayed it wouldn't be too embarrassing.

Half an hour later, the SUV exited the highway and was driving on a winding mountain road.

As Liam got further from the city center, Yesenia's anger had been building up like a volcano. It finally erupted when the car reached the winding mountain road.

She yelled, "Stop the car! We are in the middle of nowhere. Let me out! I doubt there is any good place in this god-forsaken place. I can't afford to be seen in such a place. If you all want to go, go ahead. I'll take a cab back!"

At that moment, Liam slowly stopped the car and said calmly, "We've arrived at the destination."

Everyone got out of the car and looked around in puzzlement. They were surrounded by lush green trees, the cheerful sounds of different birds, and the sweet, intoxicating fragrance of flowers. It seemed like a hidden paradise away from the hustle and bustle of the city.

Under the cover of the trees, they could see a large, ancient building. The signboard bore two words: Dragon Manor.

Shocked, Yesenia immediately scolded Liam, "You jerk, what the hell do you think you are doing? This is Dragon Manor, and it has already been booked by a VIP tonight. Coming here uninvited might cost us our lives!"

Baxter looked terrified and said cautiously, "Let's leave quickly and quietly. If we are caught trespassing, it will be the end of us!"

Julie was also scared. But before she could voice her concerns, they all heard a disdainful voice. "What are you all doing here?"

They quickly turned to see Doyle and Lori looking at them.
