

Chapter 908 Confronting Gallagher

Most of the senior executives of the Kingland Group had been replaced, so they didn't recognize Liam.

The senior executives present were puzzled and yelled, "What's wrong with you? Can't you see that we're in the middle of a meeting? Get out!"

Without sparing a glance at the person who said this, Liam fixed his gaze on Gallagher and said in a measured tone, "Uncle, when did you get the authority to make decisions for my Kingland Group?"

The senior executives' expressions changed when they heard Liam call Gallagher his uncle.

"Uncle? Is he related to the chairman?"

"I think I've heard that Kingland Group's former president is the chairman's nephew!"

"He is Liam!"

Once everyone figured out Liam's identity, their eyes turned to Gallagher.

Because of their experience as senior executives of the group, they were better acquainted with Gallagher's nature.

Although Gallagher usually appeared gentle, all the senior leaders were aware of his sinister and vicious side. He kept his evil thoughts well hidden inside him.

If anyone from the group offended Gallagher, they would suffer the most brutal revenge.

A low-level employee had once talked back to Gallagher. The next day, they heard the news that the employee's family had been shot dead by armed men.

Although Gallagher had never confessed, all the senior leaders knew he was responsible for that act.

At this time, Gallagher's expression shifted slightly as he met Liam's eyes.

He had never imagined that Liam would return to the Kingland Group.

However, it struck Gallagher that Liam no longer held the position of the succeeding heir of the family, and his eyes flashed with contempt. He calmly said, "Oh, Liam. It's you! I thought you had passed away in that disaster. I didn't know you survived. I'm so glad to see you! I'd like to point out that the Kingland Group is not yours. It belongs to the entire Hoffman family, and I'm just responsible for running it."

A commotion broke out amongst the senior executives when they heard this.

This man was indeed Liam!

The senior leaders automatically began whispering to each other.

They were all aware of what had happened to Liam.

However, they also knew how ruthless Gallagher was, so they didn't have the nerve to support Liam. They were forced to take Gallagher's side.

"Gallagher has done an excellent job as the chairman of the Kingland Group."

"Yes! The chairman is such an exemplary leader. You're just a young man. Do you think you can take the Kingland Group away from the chairman?"

"What a joke! Get out of here!"

However, Liam ignored the senior executives' jabs. He watched Gallagher with blazing eyes and said, "I haven't been a part of the Kingland Group for the past few years. I'm very grateful for your management. But I'm back now. You can return the group to me."

Gallagher's expression became grim when he heard that Liam intended to take back the Kingland Group. He scoffed and said, "The Hoffman family made me the chairman of the Kingland Group. Liam, you don't get to decide who leads the Kingland Group!"

Liam's expression was forbidding. He asked, "Uncle, do you even know what is happening in the family? Let me ask you, who is the head of the Hoffman family right now? Who has the authority to make such
