

Strongest 256

Chapter 256-Hugo Corporation, Hugo Skeeter Joseph Thomas was already prepared.

Joining the Preston main team was very dangerous, but the environment there was the most suitable for him.

“Commander, with Joseph’s talent as a martial artist, he should be able to join our northern army, right?” Sammy Dudley asked.

“No!” !!

Xana Thomas shouted angrily.

She was not stupid. After spending time with Braydon Neal for the past few days and looking up information on the Internet, she was shocked.

Xana also knew what the northern army meant.

That was the number one elite army in Hansworth.

Out of the top ten elite armies in the world, the northern army could be ranked in the top three. They could guard the northern region for eight thousand miles and defend against the eight foreign countries.

In the northern territory, large-scale battles often occurred in the past few years.

It was extremely dangerous!

In Xana’s eyes, the northern territory was a battlefield.

The owner of that battlefield was the eldest son of the Neal family, Braydon Neal.

Joseph's eyes lit up with a hint of desire.

From the moment he witnessed Sully Cage's incident, he was curious about the northern army. However, he felt inferior and felt that he was not worthy of joining the northern army.

"Joseph is not qualified to join the northern army yet." Braydon's thin lips moved slightly.

Xana heaved a sigh of relief.

Sammy did not say much. If the commander did not agree, this matter could be abandoned.

Not just anyone could join the northern army.

At the very least, the current Joseph was not qualified enough for Braydon.

The food was ready.

"Let's eat. Logan, tell Steve about Joseph joining the Preston main team," Braydon said softly.

"Yes, sir!" Logan Hall lightly nodded.

Joseph had already reached the warrior level and was definitely qualified to join the Preston main team.

To a certain extent, the strength of a warrior could already give him the position of deputy leader of the Preston main team.

Heather Sage was already starving. She picked up her chopsticks and ate heartily.

Although she had a slim figure, her appetite was not small.

Not long after, Xana's stomach was full. She leaned against the sofa with her head tilted. Her nose was slightly wrinkled, and her bright eyes were staring at Braydon. Her actions were elegant and indifferent. After eating two mouthfuls of rice, she put down her chopsticks.

"Why are you eating so little?" she asked suspiciously.

"You're not eating as much as me!" Joseph took a piece of pork knuckle in soy sauce and began to eat it with a shocking appetite.

"Do you think everyone is like you, a glutton?" Heather rolled her eyes.

"You don't understand. Martial artists are born to eat a lot." Joseph was right.

Low-level martial artists spent a lot of energy cultivating. They needed to eat meat to replenish their vitality.

People from wealthy families would also use herbal dishes to nourish their bodies, strengthen their bones, and strengthen their blood.

This required a strong financial support!

That was why there was the saying that the poor studied literature and the rich learned martial arts.

Xana's slender fingers gently brushed her long wine-red hair, revealing her delicate earlobes. She said in a charming voice, "Genius Neal, I want to learn ancient martial arts too!" "And me!" Heather raised her small hand proudly.

Braydon looked at the two of them and said, "You two just have nothing better to do!" Joseph burst out laughing.

The two women looked at him with resentment, feeling that Braydon looked down on them.

At this moment, a ten-year-old girl ran in and shouted, "Big Brother!" "Ginny!" Heather saw the little girl and pinched her round little face.

"Sister Heather, Sister Xana!" Ginny Neal called out sweetly.

"Why didn't you greet me?" Joseph's face darkened.

"Fine... Brother Joseph!" Ginny shrugged helplessly.

"Little girl, I heard that you're studying at the primary school affiliated to Preston No.1 Middle School?" Joseph was eating and drinking, but it did not stop him from asking about Ginny.

Ginny nodded obediently.

"Tell me if you're bullied in school in the future!" Joseph said confidently.

"You want to go to her school? You can kill a primary school student with one punch. Have some shame!" Xana rolled her eyes.

The siblings bickered with each other daily.

A faint smile hung on Braydon's lips. The warm scene made him feel relaxed.

Little Ginny looked up and said, "Oh right, Brother. There are guests at home. They are in the bright hall. Eldest Uncle wants you to go over." "What guest?" Sammy had once been a hidden agent for ten years. He understood the methods of a hidden agent the most. Infiltration was a basic ability.

Just like how he had infiltrated Namar and was even the deputy commander of Linar's imperial army. He could even meet the country's ruler, Cameron Linar.

He was already part of the upper echelons of Namar.

If it was not for the Namar delegation, Sammy would still be able to stay in Namar and continue to send information to Preston.

Now, Sammy's professional instincts made him ask Ginny about the background of the guests.

Braydon stood up calmly. "Don't be too nervous. I'll go over and take a look. You guys continue eating." Sammy followed silently, clearly worried.

Braydon did not say anything. However, in the Neal family manor, he was not the Northern King, but the eldest son of the third generation of the Neal family.

He was the eldest young master of the Neal family.

He was the legal heir to the Neal Corporation in the future.

Therefore, it was normal for Louis Neal to introduce the important partners of the Neal Corporation to Braydon.

Who asked Braydon to be the eldest young master of the Neal family?

In the bright hall.

Louis sat at the head of the table with Liam Neal accompanying him.

The other four people sitting there should be the guests of honor tonight.

Three elderly men in suits, who were close to fifty years old, were accompanying a young man with an arrogant expression as they ate and chatted merrily.

Liam smiled brightly. "Braydon, you're here. Let me introduce you to our guests. This young man is Hugo Skeeter, the director of Hugo Freighter corporation. These four are also the heads of the business department of Hugo Freighter Corporation." Sammy frowned slightly at this situation.

He knew that his commander disliked this kind of social interaction.

Before Braydon came, he had already expected this situation and sat down calmly.

The white-haired middle-aged man beside him laughed. "As expected of your child, Brother Louis. He has an extraordinary bearing. Like father, like son!" "Haha, Braydon is introverted and not good at talking. He's not as good as Hugo. He's so young, but he's already in an important position in Hugo Corporation. He's very capable." Louis smiled.

Braydon did not know whether to laugh or cry.

It was not because of this kind of talk that was common in the business market.

It was because he heard the hidden meaning in his father's words.

This sentence was not only meant for the people of Hugo Group, but also for Braydon.

He was probably blaming Braydon for not paying attention to the Neal Corporation.

Hugo sat calmly and said, "Chairman Neal, you flatter me. There are no mediocre people in the wealthy families. There are no good-for-nothings in the line of legitimate sons. I can see that Braydon has a long breath. If I'm not wrong, he's a martial artist, right?" "Just like you, he is also a martial artist. If you have time tomorrow, you can spar." Louis brushed this matter aside. He knew that the main point of tonight's discussion was not about martial artists.

It was the purpose of the Hugo Corporation's visit!

Hugo said bluntly, "This time, I'm here on behalf of my father and Hugo Corporation. I heard that the Neal Corporation has a top-secret technology patent that's leading the world. I wonder if it's true?"

Chapter 257-Tempting Conditions Hugo Skeeter went straight to the point and quickly cut into the conversation, directly exposing the Hugo Corporation's goal.

Louis Neal and Liam Neal had already guessed their intentions.

"You're talking about the anti-gravity device, right?" Liam nodded and admitted.

"That's right. I'm here this time to discuss the cooperation between the two parties. I want to ask if the Neal Corporation has any plans to sell this technology." !!

Hugo picked up a white handkerchief and wiped the corner of his lips slightly. His actions were elegant.

It really displayed the truth of his words: wealthy families did not have mediocre people!

For example, how many good-for-nothings were there in the lineal descendants of the seven great families of Preston?

Harold Sage of the Sage family was a famous young talent in Preston. He was in charge of the Sage Corporation and was developing rapidly.

Freddie Yackley of the Yackley family, Joseph Thomas of the Thomas Family, Braydon Neal of the Neal family, and so on.

None of the direct descendants were trash.

Wealthy families had a deep foundation. After the direct descendants were born, they would enjoy the best education possible and be nurtured into adults.

Of course, wealthy families also had rich playboys.

The key was that the formation of a profligate son had something to do with the elders behind the wealthy families.

If the elders of the wealthy families used the same method of nurturing their eldest sons on their second sons, they would be able to grow up to be extraordinary people.

In a wealthy family, both the eldest and youngest young masters were astonishingly capable.

It would definitely be a situation where two tigers fought.

They were determined to fight for the right to inherit the family!

Therefore, some wealthy families put an end to this situation in advance and focused on nurturing the eldest son. As for the second and third sons, they were not raised the same way and could do whatever they wanted.

Without strict restrictions and relying on the wealth and connections of the wealthy, they would grow up to be good-for-nothings.

The hedonistic son of a rich family posed no threat to the eldest son. He only needed to give him a few dollars every month to send him off.

The wealthy families had been passed down from generation to generation, and their foresight was far-reaching!

Right now, this eldest young master, Hugo Skeeter, was backed by a wealthy family.

Hugo Corporation had been listed in 2002 as one of the earliest pioneers in the freighter industry in the country.

Hugo Corporation's market value exceeded 100 billion. The group had sufficient cash flow and was developing healthily.

The anti-gravity technology was announced in Preston.

The people of Hugo Corporation were keenly aware of the business opportunities and the importance of this technology to them.

The Hugo Corporation's main business was freighting!

Sailing in the ocean was connected to international trade, and business was all international.

Under the Hugo Corporation, an ocean-going freighter could easily carry tens of thousands of tons.

Some cargo ships could carry up to 300,000 tons!

The bulk carriers were generally 70,000 to 80,000 tons, and there were even some that weighed more than 100,000 tons. In recent years, there were even some that weighed more than 200,000 tons. The same could not be said for the oil tankers. There was no shortage of tankers that weighed from tens of thousands to 300,000 tons.

Such a terrifying cargo capacity. As the cargo travelled on sea, it was common for it to take three to five months.

How important was the anti-gravity device to them?

Let's put it this way. The anti-gravity devices installed on both sides of the freighter could reduce the weight of the cargo. The freighter that originally carried a load of 100,000 tons could use anti-gravity device to offset a portion of the weight of the cargo. As long as the cargo could accommodate them, they could accommodate an additional 50,000 tons of weight.

The fuel cost of cargo ships had always been the biggest headache for shipping companies.

If dozens of anti-gravity devices were installed, a fully loaded cargo ship would be able to sail like an empty ship, and the fuel consumption would be reduced by several times!

This was an important reason why the Hugo Corporation had sent people over to discuss this matter!

Moreover, if the ships hit reefs and cause the ships to tilt, as long as they turned off the anti-gravity device on one side of the ship and turned on the anti-gravity device on the other side, they would be able to escape.

It could help the freighter offset the accident of overturning!

The Hugo Corporation could not let go of such a series of benefits.

Hugo opened his mouth, wanting to buy this technology.

"I knew you would say that," Liam said with a smile. "That's why I asked Braydon to come over. He's the owner of this technology!" "What?" Hugo was shocked.

He felt that Braydon was not a simple person. He looked calm and composed, wearing white clothes, giving off a sense of ease, but he gave off a lot of pressure to those sitting next to him.

"The anti-gravity technology is controlled by the military," Braydon said softly. "If it wasn't for the fact that it's beneficial to civil and commercial use, I wouldn't have agreed to release this technology. It'll be at least 20 years before it's made public!" This was something that every country would do.

Being twenty years ahead of the rest of the world meant that the technology that was announced would be outdated, and they could also earn a lot of money from it.

Hugo was a little surprised. He did not expect the eldest son of the Neal family to be related to the military.

He had really underestimated him earlier!

If that was the case, there was no need for Hugo Corporation to bid. It was impossible to even license this technology, let alone buy it.

This was a red line that the Hugo Corporation could not touch.

Hugo remained calm and continued to test the Neal family's bottom line. He said, "The Hugo Corporation can invest in the production of anti-gravity devices, and your Neal Corporation can provide the technology. We'll split the profits equally. How about that?" "The Neal Corporation already has a partner, Starbright Manufacturing." Liam reminded apologetically.

The Neal Corporation had already reached a partnership with Starbright Manufacturing.

No matter what, he could not abandon them and work with Hugo Corporation.

In the research and development of the anti-gravity device, Starbright Manufacturing had previously given their full cooperation. The technical experts, equipment, and the entire factory acted as logistics to provide all the accessories for the laboratory.

Now that the technology was mature, if the Neal Corporation held onto the technology and abandoned the manufacturing side, that would be too unethical.

Of course, Hugo knew that the Neal Corporation and Starbright Manufacturing had already reached a strategic cooperation.

Once the anti-gravity device was invented, the Hugo Corporation was bound to buy an anti-gravity device at a high price and install it on their freighter.

The price would be under the complete control of Starbright Manufacturing. As buyers, they had no say in the matter.

This was the terrifying aspect of monopoly.

The supplier had a monopoly position and could adjust the market price at any time.

Hugo said decisively, "If we reach an agreement, the previous conditions remain unchanged. The two parties will split the profits 30-70. The Hugo Corporation will take 30%, and 70% of the profits will go to the Neal Corporation!" As soon as he said this.

The four middle-aged men were shocked. "Young Master..." "Shut up!" Hugo had the courage to shut them up.

To be honest, Louis and Liam were tempted.

The Neal Corporation only needed to provide the technology, build the factory, purchase the equipment, and so on. There was no need to worry at all. It was a business that did not require capital at all. When the time came, they would get 70% of the profits.

This was too tempting!

Moreover, it was almost foreseeable that they would not have to worry about selling the anti-gravity device.

Hugo's conditions made Louis and Louis fall into silence.

"Hugo Corporation can guarantee that the anti-gravity device produced by the two companies will only be used in the shipping industry and installed on cargo ships!" Hugo continued.

Chapter 258-He Is Ordinary!

Once this condition was stated, it made Louis Neal and Liam Neal even more tempted.

Because Hugo Skeeter said this for the sake of the Neal Corporation.

The previous cooperation between the Neal Corporation and Starbright Manufacturing was to jointly produce anti-gravity devices for use in aircraft.

It was mainly used on passenger planes.

This was the main business of Starbright Manufacturing!

The Hugo Corporation could avoid them and not produce any anti-gravity devices that were compatible with aircraft.

This prevented competition.

It was still manufactured by Starbright Manufacturing, and the situation of one company dominating the market would not change.

Hugo Corporation even offered to give 70% of the net profit to the Neal Corporation.

This was a great temptation!

Louis thought for a long time and finally nodded. "We can't decide on this matter tonight. Logically speaking, our Neal Corporation needs to discuss it with our partner, Starbright Manufacturing!" "Sure!" Hugo was extremely patient.

He was certain that the two leaders in front of him were already tempted by his offer.

“Chairman Neal, you should rest early too!” Hugo and the others went to the guest room that the Neal family had arranged for them.

The few of them had just left the bright hall.

“Young Master, aren’t we making too big of a concession to the Neal Corporation?” The white-haired man hesitated.

“Yeah, if we give them 70% of the net profit, the Hugo Corporation needs to build a factory, purchase equipment, and bear other costs. That’s a huge sum of money.” The other three had the same opinion.

“You fools!” Hugo glanced over and scolded coldly.

The four of them were stunned. They did not expect that them being concerned about the company would get them a scolding in return.

Hugo said calmly, “This business must be done. There is only one company in the world that manages anti-gravity devices. Before visiting the Neal family, my father personally went to the headquarters of Starbright Manufacturing. You should have guessed the result!” The four people around could vaguely guess the answer.

If Hugo Corporation could reach a cooperation with Starbright Manufacturing, Hugo would not have to come to the Neal family.

Starbright Manufacturing did not allow anyone to interfere in their company’s matters.

Hugo said softly, "As long as this business is done, our corporation will make a huge profit if we don't lose anything. Once the anti-gravity device is put on the market, the Neal family and the Starbright Manufacturing side will be the oligarchs!

"The price of the anti-gravity device is up to them. Even if it's sold at a sky-high price, we, who are in a passive position, have to lower our heads and buy it.

"Also, do you think that the only industries that require the anti-gravity device once it enters the market are aviation and shipping?" ... Hugo looked at the four of them deeply.

Once the technology of the anti-gravity device was fully developed, it would have a subversive effect on all industries.

Sea and air, naval, construction, military industries, and so on.

All of them would use this!

The future was what the Hugo Corporation was betting on to reach a partnership with the Neal Corporation.

If one took the right step in the future, when it came to business, it would bring you shocking wealth.

It was just like how many internet companies had spawned billionaires over the years.

Therefore, Hugo wanted to reach a cooperation with the Neal Corporation at all costs.

Even if he had to give up a portion of the benefits, he was willing to do so!

The Hugo Corporation was not the only freight company in the world. In the face of the international freight market, the Hugo Corporation was just a green leaf of a towering tree.

The importance of anti-gravity devices in the shipping industry did not need further explanation.

Hugo represented the stance of Hugo Corporation!

His father was not young anymore. Hugo had been taking over the company's affairs because he was planning to take over.

Although Hugo was arrogant, his vision and talent were probably above Harold Sage!

People who could manage international trade did not lack strategic foresight.

Hugo returned to his residence and sat on the sofa, twirling the wine in his wine glass. Suddenly, he asked, "What do you think of the eldest young master of the Neal family?" "Ordinary!" "Very ordinary!" "Compared to his father, the difference is too great!" "He was born into a wealthy family and will take over the Neal Corporation's billion-dollar business empire in the future. His temperament is calm and quiet, as if he has nothing to do with the world. If he was the second son of the family, he could be a supporting talent. However, he is the eldest son. If the Neal family is handed over to him, the future will be worrying!" ... The four of them voiced their opinions.

Without exception, they all felt that Braydon Neal was much too ordinary.

Hugo took a deep look at the four of them and sighed in his heart. Although the four of them had some talent, they were still ordinary people!

They could not sense the aura of the eldest young master of the Neal family. It was strong and extended. The strength of a martial artist was definitely not low!

With just the strength of a powerful martial artist, he could protect the Neal Corporation for a hundred years.

This was also the reason why the wealthy families were trying their best to nurture martial artists.

Nurturing high-level martial artists, becoming an aristocratic family, coming into contact with powerful martial artists, and having extraordinary influence and terrifying connections in the secular world.

If they could make friends with the local special operations team, with the Preston main team protecting them, it would be hard for them to fall.

All parties had to give in to the people the special operations team wanted to protect.

In the end, Hugo said softly, "There are no mediocre people in the wealthy families. There are no good-for-nothings in the direct line of descent!" He sighed lightly, proving that he could tell that Braydon was not a simple person.

At the very least, this eldest son of the Neal family had mastered anti-gravity technology. Even if he left the Neal family and established his own family, he could still break into a new world.

The next day arrived.

"Chairman Louis, Fourth Master Liam, where's Young Master Braydon?" Hugo came to the bright hall upon invitation.

"Braydon trains in the morning. It's the same every day. Let's ignore him for now." Liam Neal brushed it off with one sentence.

He could not say that Braydon could not be bothered with such a small matter.

It would be awkward for everyone to say that.

Hugo's eyes flashed. "I also know a little about martial arts. I need to visit Young Master Braydon later to exchange pointers." "He has nothing to do, so it's convenient for you young people to communicate," Louis Neal said.

Liam began to talk about serious matters, saying, “Last night, I communicated with Starbright Manufacturing. There was a small problem.

“Starbright Manufacturing’s main business is aircraft manufacturing. It produces all kinds of accessories. It has no experience in the shipping industry” Hugo opened his mouth, and his words were sharp. He said in a serious tone, “The Hugo Corporation is mainly in the shipping industry and has connections with shipping companies from all over the world. Once the anti-gravity device is suitable for mass production, our corporation can use our connections to sell it, and we will have a large profit.

“Fourth Master Liam, you should be clear about this. The Hugo Corporation promised last night that the anti-gravity device we produce will only be used on cargo ships. This will not affect Starbright Manufacturing!

“They think that this cooperation doesn’t benefit them directly, hence it shows that their vision is much too narrow. In other words, it will harm the interests of both our families.” ... At this moment, Hugo was already faintly dissatisfied with Starbright Manufacturing.

Chapter 259-He Speaks for the Neal Family!

Starbright Manufacturing was obviously not doing anything worthwhile.

Even if they manufactured the anti-gravity device for cargo ships, would they have any channels to sell it?

Would they be able to quickly contact buyers for their anti-gravity devices like the Hugo Corporation?

It was absolutely impossible!

Hugo Corporation was a veteran pioneer in the shipping industry.

Therefore, the cooperation between the Neal Corporation and the Hugo Corporation would surely be mutually beneficial.

“No. Starbright Manufacturing is the Neal family’s partner after all. We need to consider their feelings.”
“Chairman Louis, it seems that Starbright Manufacturing is not the most suitable industry for the Neal Corporation. With just this anti-gravity device technology that will continue to develop in the future, the future business prospects will be amazing. With this technology alone, the Neal Corporation will be able to expand into a trillion-dollar business empire!” Hugo Skeeter was very young. He had the pride of a young man of the new era and was somewhat radical.

However, he could not deny the other party’s ability.

Hugo saw the commercial potential of the anti-gravity device.

“Don’t be agitated, Hugo. Sit down and talk slowly,” Liam Neal said with a gentle smile.

“Fourth Master Liam, do you think I’m joking?” Hugo’s expression was solemn. He said in a low voice, “The technology of the anti-gravity device will continue to be optimized and improved in the future. The industries involved will not only be shipping and aviation. Military, construction, and all transportation industries will be inseparable from it!” His words revealed that the anti-gravity device technology will be used in various businesses.

The commercial value it would bring was extremely shocking!

The future business prospects would not only involve the domestic market, but also hundreds of countries around the world.

Hugo said decisively, “To be honest, Hugo Corporation is currently the most compatible with the Neal Corporation. The conditions set forth by Starbright Manufacturing can be achieved by the Hugo Corporation too!

“Unlike last night, I can sign the contract on behalf of the company today. The Neal Corporation will get 80% of the profits from the anti-gravity device!” Hugo’s words were shocking.

The four people who accompanied him were all shocked and furious. “Young Master?” “Get out!” Hugo was slightly angry. He had had enough of the four good-for-nothings sent by his father.

In this place, the four idiots could not help with anything at all.

Moreover, they were constantly causing trouble!

Last night, Hugo had already reminded them about the cooperation with the Neal Corporation.

Even if their corporation suffered a slight loss, they could still accept it. They had to reach an agreement.

If they cooperated with the Neal Corporation, the current losses could be made up for in the future.

As said before, Hugo was arrogant, but his talent was above Harold Sage!

This person’s future achievements were limitless!

Louis Neal was surprised, and he could not help but think highly of the young man in front of him.

He did not lack courage at such a young age!

He was much more outstanding than many young people he had met.

Outside the bright hall, a young man in plain clothes was holding the hand of a ten-year-old girl as they walked toward the rising sun.

They looked like siblings.

Braydon Neal smiled faintly. “Young Master Hugo seems sincere. Fourth Uncle, why don’t you agree to the partnership?” “Braydon, Starbright Manufacturing...” Liam was rather helpless.

Braydon held his sister's hand and entered the bright hall.

Chapter 260-He was Above Ten Thousand People!

Therefore, the anti-gravity device had to be adjusted according to the market before mass production.

This process required Hugo Skeeter to do his own research.

Hugo's eyes flashed, and he said decisively, "Alright, I need the full support of the research lab." "No problem. You can sign the contract with Fourth Uncle. The new production plant will be built in Preston's new district. If you have any problems, you can directly communicate with Preston University's research lab." !!

Braydon Neal wanted the factory to be built in Preston.

Naturally, he had selfish motives!

The reason was simple. The development of a city required industrial support.

The manufacturing industry was the blood of the city and was indispensable.

Hugo nodded. "That's not a problem. I originally planned to build the factory here. After all, the industrial land and labor costs here are relatively low." After a simple conversation, the two sides officially reached an agreement.

When the factory was put into production and Hugo finished his research, it would be time for both parties to pursue performance and profits.

At this moment, Hugo's phone buzzed.

“I have to take this call,” he said apologetically.

“No worries!” Braydon held Ginny Neal’s hand and left the bright hall.

When Hugo picked up the call, he said that he was at the Neal family’s manor. It seemed that a friend was visiting.

Braydon did not care about these trivial matters. If strangers came, Sammy Dudley would screen them.

These were all basic matters that did not require any instructions.

In the small courtyard, Old Man Zito’s chives were growing luxuriously.

“Commander, there are foreigners approaching the manor.” Sammy returned quietly.

“He should be Hugo’s friend. Is there a problem?” Braydon stood with his hands behind his back.

Old Man Zito squatted at the door and leaned against the corner of the wall, smoking. He smiled and said, “He’s a martial artist!” Braydon’s eyes were sharp.

Foreign martial artists who crossed the border into Hansworth without submitting an official letter would be killed without mercy!

This was the ironclad law of the northern army!

This kind of martial artist belonged to the northern army, and they would kill him if they met him.

Braydon turned around and left, muttering softly, “Hugo, don’t do anything stupid!” Sammy followed him and knew what his commander was thinking. It was obvious that he valued Hugo’s ability.

If such a young elite had a connection with an overseas martial artist, no one could protect him and he would die without a doubt.

At the entrance of the Neal family manor.

A lean young man, who was not tall and somewhat skinny, walked arrogantly in clogs. He kept slapping the manor security guard's cheeks with his hands.

He opened his mouth and cursed. "Stupid pig. I'm your honored guest. Get out of the way!" The Neal family's security guard's eyes were filled with anger. He really wanted to retaliate. However, he knew that those who could come to the manor were usually distinguished guests.

Hugo, who was walking over from afar, had a flash of anger in his eyes. He obviously could not stand the insolence of this person. However, he came forward and laughed, "Brother Takagi, why are you so angry?" "A few watch dogs are stopping me from going in." The skinny youth was Ichiro Takagi.

Ichiro for short!

The foreigner was from one of the three countries outside the borders, Banko.

Forty years ago, the Ludwig army was plotted against and almost all of them died in the Ludwig mountain range.

The 36 islands of Ludwig had all fallen into the hands of the three countries. They had yet to take them back, and there had been no progress through diplomatic negotiations. Back then, the 700,000 valiant Ludwig elites had suffered a crushing defeat and died in battle, shocking the entire world!

The three countries outside the borders had boasted for decades that their military strength was above that of Hansworth!

As a result, ordinary people from their countries would look down on them when they came to Hansworth for business trips. Ichiro in front of him was a perfect example.

Hugo smiled. "Alright, why are you arguing with the security guard? Let's go in and talk." "Alright, I'll give Mr. Skeeter some face today!" Ichiro's bow-legged steps were a little comical.

Behind him were six people carrying suitcases like bodyguards.

At this moment.

Braydon stood with his hands behind his back and quietly appeared.

"No foreign martial artists are allowed to enter the Neal family manor!" Sammy said coldly. "Bastard, who are you?" Ichiro's temper seemed to be very bad, and he was instantly furious.

Hugo smiled helplessly. "Young Master Braydon, this is Ichiro's first time in Preston.

His father is a high-ranking official in Banko's Zuko Association. He has many industries under him, including the production of precision instruments." His words revealed that Ichiro was very important. He might need to buy some of the equipment to produce the anti-gravity device from him.

"Mr. Skeeter, who is he?" Ichiro asked in an unfriendly tone.

"I forgot to introduce you. This is the eldest young master of the Neal family, Braydon Neal!" Hugo introduced. However, Ichiro raised his head, and his originally arrogant expression froze on his face.

Even the six followers behind him were trembling.

Who among the martial artists of the foreign countries did not know the name Braydon Neal? The entire world knew that the Northern King controlled a million soldiers and suppressed the eight countries outside the borders.

Outside of the borders, Braydon had been branded as the Great Demon King!

He was an evil and deranged demon. Who did not know the name 'Braydon Neal'?

Ichiro came back to his senses and muttered, "You scared me. I really thought it was him!" "Oh, who did you think I was?" Braydon smiled brightly, his eyes sparkling. Sammy's face turned green.

The Northern King was smiling. Life and death were hard to predict!

"Who do you think you are?!" Ichiro glanced over and sneered.

He did not believe that the white-robed youth before him, with his red lips and white teeth, was the Great Demon King that he thought he was.

Many foreign martial artists had never seen the true appearance of the Northern King.

Many people could only guess Braydon's appearance.

Perhaps in Ichiro's heart, the thousand-year-old genius of the northern territory was a terrifying figure, even if he did not have a ferocious face.

Unlike the young man in front of him, who was dressed in snow-white clothes and had a spotless appearance. He had an aloof temperament, like a son of a wealthy family.

"What a coincidence. I might be the person you think I am," Braydon "What?" chuckled.

Ichiro was stunned again. The six middle-aged men behind him all raised their heads, disbelief flashing in their eyes.

Braydon stood with his hands behind his back.

He said softly, "My surname is Neal, and my name is the Northern King. I wonder if I'm the person you're thinking of?" "Impossible!" Ichiro's legs trembled, and he retreated a few steps in fear, instinctively retreating from the Neal family manor. In the past, a piece of cloth from Braydon could scare off 800,000 enemies outside the borders. Now, the name of King Braydon could still shock hundreds of countries around the world. A few days ago, this terrifying figure had killed his way through Namar alone with an injured body. He had traveled 8,000 miles and pointed his sword at the current ruler, Cameron Linar. He was extremely terrifying!

Ichiro would never have thought that he would meet a legend of the northern territory here. According to what they knew, although the Northern King had already left the northern territory, he should be in the capital now! Because the capital had publicly announced that they wanted to confer the titles Garrison King and the Viceroy of Hansworth to the Northern King. He commanded the three armies, nine departments, and twenty-four divisions. He was above ten thousand people!

Anyone who belonged to Hansworth had to listen to his orders.

Anyone who disobeyed the order must die!
