

Strongest 301

Chapter 301-The Neal Family's First Born, Billions of Wealth!

His northern army was ranked in the top three of the ten strongest armies in the world.

Most ordinary people in the world knew about this.

So of course, they knew him too!

Lotto Parkinson and the others fell silent.

They ran amok on the internet, turning the virtual space into their battlefield.

However, the domain that they were best at had been trampled on by this mysterious Northern King.

What was even more terrifying was that in the real world, this big shot was even more powerful.

If he wanted to kill them, no matter where the seventeen of them escaped to, they would be killed by the northern army's hidden agents.

Thinking of this... Lotto lowered his head and apologized. "Your Highness, it's our fault for not being respectful. I didn't expect you to be the one behind this." "If I had known it was you, I would have asked Namar to... add more money!" The black-skinned man straightened his neck and actually said this.

In facing their reaction... "Who found the Black Sword Virus terminal?" Braydon Neal asked softly.

Instantly, there was a brief silence.

No one dared to speak!

"It's me!" Lotto said.

"Tomorrow at 6 pm, report to the Neal Corporation in Hansworth's Preston city!" Braydon cut off the communication.

A bitter smile appeared on Lotto's lips. He had provoked the Northern King. It was a miracle that he was still alive.

If he did not go to Preston, the northern kill order would be waiting for him.

The matter had already reached such a point.

Lotto knew what to do. He turned around and left, preparing to book a plane ticket to Neal Corporation in Preston.

As for the 560 million dollars promised by Namar... Lotto did not care.

Everyone looked at each other, not knowing what to do.

Xandra Milton was in the Neal family manor. She had a slim figure and short hair that reached her ears. She wore a small suit and looked androgynous.

"Young Master!" she said softly.

Braydon turned around and handed the tablet to her.

He wanted to use the Black Sword Virus as capital to negotiate with the Namar officials.

Namar was already anxious. The Black Sword Virus had caused their economy to suffer.

To be precise, the economy was the strength of the country!

The strength of Namar had actually been reduced by 20% in just a few days due to the Black Sword Virus!

A decline of 20% in national strength was equivalent to a decline of ten years of development.

Namar could only swallow this loss.

If not, would they dare to fight against the northern army?

Even if they had ten guts, they would not dare to provoke the northern army!

Xandra took the tablet and thought of a solution.

“If we talk to Namar’s officials and state our conditions, and if they fulfill them, we will hand over the method to crack the Black Sword Virus to them!

“Instead of doing this, why not we use the Neal Corporation as the foundation to build a network security company and put the program to remove the Black Sword Virus up for sales!” Xandra gave two solutions.

She was more inclined toward the latter.

It was charged based on the number of downloads. Each download was for a single device and could only be used once.

If they did that, they would directly bypass Namar’s government.

The Neal Corporation would be reaping great benefits by doing this.

They were taking advantage of the people of Namar!

Braydon smiled faintly. "Do as you wish. I've already found a candidate for the software company. Tomorrow afternoon, Lotto Parkinson, the top hacker in Travio, will report to the Neal Corporation." Xandra was shocked.

She knew about the mysterious people on the hacker rankings.

However, she did not expect that Braydon would actually get such a big shot.

As for the Black Sword Virus, Xandra would handle it.

Braydon then asked about the investment department.

Xandra turned on the laptop she brought and said softly, "The investment department is doing very well. In fact, the funds in our account have already reached 50 billion!" The Neal Corporation's investment department had already become an investment company.

Braydon held all the shares, and it was a wholly owned subsidiary of the Neal Corporation.

At the same time, Braydon was also a director of the company.

Currently, on the board of directors of the Neal Corporation, there was a total of four directors.

The first was naturally Chairman Louis Neal.

Second, Liam Neal.

Third, Xandra Milton.

Fourth, Braydon Neal.

There were only four directors in the Neal Corporation, and all of them had real power and were responsible for their own matters.

Louis was in charge of the new district of Preston. He had invested trillions of dollars in succession, almost exhausting all his energy. Liam was in charge of connecting with Starbright Manufacturing!

It was said that the construction of the new factory of Starbright Manufacturing was very fast.

Colin Spades squatted in the laboratory of Preston University every day, asking Yonah Zill about the problems encountered in assembling the anti-gravity device.

The anti-gravity device had been developed to the fourth generation!

The production of anti-gravity devices was not a problem for Yonah and the others.

However, the core equipment needed to be entrusted to Gunter Bell and manufactured by the military.

The core equipment technology could not be handed over to Starbright Manufacturing for the time being to prevent leakage.

Therefore, they were already ahead of the Hugo Freighter Corporation in the construction of the production line.

Xandra's main focus was on investing in the company.

It could be seen that these directors were quite busy.

Only Braydon, who was an idle person, was arranged to forcefully take over the family business and be in charge of the Hugo Freighter Corporation's business.

However, Braydon left everything to Hugo Skeeter.

However, Hugo did not dare to have any objections!

On the surface, he was the young chairman of Hugo Freighter Corporation, but behind the scenes, he was a hidden agent from the northern army. When it came from Braydon, Hugo did not dare to have any objections.

In the living room.

Braydon looked at the computer. Xandra was in charge of the investment department. She had set up five funds, one fully owned fund, and four private funds.

The scale was not small!

Braydon looked at the company's account. Among the stocks he held, Cloud Biopharmaceuticals had already been cleared by Xandra and had earned more than 27 billion dollars!

This was the biggest profit Braydon had made after taking over the investment department.

The rest of the stock allocation was done by Xandra. It was a very stable investment.

When the Neal Corporation's shares were listed, Xandra had asked the subsidiary company to list a portion of them.

The Neal Corporation was listed with a total of 1 billion shares. 10% of the shares were listed, which meant that 100 million shares were issued to the public!

The price of each share was 80 dollars!

This was a valuation of the Neal Corporation at 80 billion dollars.

The Neal Corporation had risen by 40% on its first day of listing, and its market value on that day was 112 billion.

The new shares went public, and on the second day, the stock price rose by 10%, increasing the market value by 11.2 billion.

Its current market value was 123.2 billion!

On the third day, it was still at the daily limit, increasing its market value by 12.32 billion, and its total market value was 135.52 billion!

It was now the fourth day, and the total market value of the Neal Corporation was 149.072 billion.

However, looking at the future, the Neal Corporation would still soar!

Braydon looked at the company's account. On the day the company went public, Xandra had spent 4 billion to issue 50 million shares. Currently, the account had more than 70% in profit.

A profit of about 3 billion!

Braydon could not help but laugh. "You're investing in our own shares!" "Of course, the market value of the Neal Corporation will exceed trillions in the future. Once the two new factories of Hugo Freighter Corporation and Starbright Manufacturing are put into production and operation, they will bring hundreds of billions of profits to the Neal Corporation every year!" Xandra smiled playfully..

Chapter 302-: What Do We Do If We Don 't Compromise!

The Neal Corporation's foundation was enough for it to grow into a market value of trillions of dollars and create a business empire.

Therefore, before the Neal Corporation went public, Xandra had found a way to raise half of the 100 million public shares.

The company's shares would not be sold for the next three years.

This was because she could foresee that these 50 million shares would definitely be even more valuable in the future!

Braydon Neal passed the tablet to Xandra.

Among them was the source program to crack the Black Sword Virus. After downloading it on an electronic device, the virus in each computer could be removed.

Xandra asked her people to hurry up and register a network security company.

It was a wholly owned subsidiary of the Neal Corporation. They only had to do one thing to get the anti-virus software to remove the Black Sword Virus.

This was enough for Namar.

The Black Sword Virus had caused the overall strength of Namar to fall by almost 20%.

No one wanted to resolve this matter as soon as possible more than them.

Namar sent a representative to contact the Neal Corporation immediately, wanting to buy out the ownership of the anti-virus software.

In the end, they were rejected by Xandra!

What Xandra wanted was very simple.

She wanted to reap as much as possible from Namar.

As for anti-virus software, Xandra launched three.

The first one was for ordinary people, and it only cost 10 dollars to download.

The price was low and almost everyone could afford it!

Otherwise, the download price would be too high. A smartphone used by ordinary people would only be worth a few hundred or a thousand dollars.

If the price was over a thousand dollars, they might as well get a new smartphone.

Xandra was very good at doing business.

The first type of ordinary software only cost 70 dollars to download once, and it could solve the problem of the device being locked by the Black Sword Virus.

At the same time, she launched an anti-virus software that cost 140 dollars per month for the regular model.

It was a very simple transaction.

After purchasing the anti-virus software, it would cost 140 dollars per month. It could guarantee that you would not be invaded by the Black Sword Virus and protect your phone.

They were being hooligans!

They would use this to harvest the money of the people of Namar.

However, on the market, only the Neal Corporation's wholly owned subsidiary had the software to remove the Black Sword Virus.

They had no choice!

This was the status of a monopoly patent.

Her stand was very clear. They could either buy it or leave it!

The Black Sword Virus was still raging. In Namar, it had infected nearly 40 million devices, including smart phones and computers. No company, big or small, or ordinary telephone users were spared.

Even though there were many things that were against the rules, Namar did not dare to make a sound.

They knew who the founder of the Black Sword Virus was.

It was the Northern King.

If Namar dared to retaliate, the northern army would dare to counterattack and kill them.

Therefore, Namar had no choice.

There were some things that Namar had to pay the price for doing. Immediately after.

Xandra had launched the second version of the elite anti-virus software, targeting the small and medium-sized enterprises infected by the virus in Namar.

The price of a single download of the anti-virus software was 70,000 dollars.

The price for commercial companies had undoubtedly increased by a thousand times!

Small and medium-sized companies were much richer than ordinary users.

She also launched a monthly service of 140,000 dollars per month. It would protect the company from the Black Sword Virus and ensure the security of the company's network.

After the launch of the two anti-virus software, many companies secretly cursed them.

However, as they were cursing, they downloaded and restored the company's network data.

For many companies, the losses they suffered from the Black Sword Virus in the past few days were more than just this amount of money.

It was definitely worth it to spend money to get back their peace.

As for Xandra's third platinum version of the anti-virus software, the price was much more frightening.

It was as high as 70 million dollars!

This was simply extortion!

The platinum anti-virus software had a clear target.

They were the power companies, the communications headquarters, the railway operating companies, the major banks, and so on!

These companies were all the top giants in Namar.

There were nearly 100 million people in Namar. These business giants could easily earn billions of dollars a year. They could definitely afford the platinum anti-virus software.

Moreover, the most important data of the major companies was user data!

The server data of the power company included the electricity consumption of major users, the data of users who owed money, and the data of users who had pre-stored electricity bills.

If all this data was lost... The losses of Namar Power Company were at least two billion dollars.

To them, this was undoubtedly a heavy blow!

Therefore, the platinum anti-virus software was targeted at these giants.

The virus in their servers was useless if they only downloaded the first and second anti-virus software.

They had to download the third anti-virus software.

Xandra was ruthless. She grabbed the other party's lifeline and asked for a lot of money.

Let the other party make their own choice!

However, there was no need to think too much about the outcome.

For Namar, they had no other choice!

In the bustling capital of Namar, Linar.

In the resplendent hall, the country ruler, Cameron Linar, sat at the head of the table. He looked down at everyone below.

There was a big event today.

There was a way to counter the Black Sword Virus.

The commander of Linar's imperial army, Taraz Ross, was severely injured by Braydon Neal's blade and had yet to recover from his injuries.

He was unyielding. "Ruler, the Black Sword Virus originated from the northern army. Now that the so-called Neal Corporation has pushed out the software to remove the Black Blade Virus, it must be related to the northern army!" "Namar must not compromise!" Taraz and the others were unyielding.

"What do we do if we don't compromise?" Cameron was very calm.

"Let you lead the army to gather in the northern territory and point your blade at the northern army?"

"The current northern army is no longer as it was ten years ago. Once the war starts, the eight countries will have to mobilize all of our national strength!"

"If the northern cold sword attacks a country, no one can stop it!"

"We've already seen the sharpness of the cold sword three years ago. How can you not know how terrifying it is?"

"Last year, I was invited to participate in the first empire military exercise. Their first army was listed as one of the top ten armies in the world by foreign military newspapers!"

"However, in my eyes, that is a joke!"

“The northern army, one of the ten strongest armies in the world, is the leader.

“Three years ago, their commander, the genius of the current generation, the Northern King, was personally attacked by the eight kings of the eight countries with a million troops. We wanted to stop the commander from being conferred the title of king at the peak of Mount Bliz!

“In the end!” At this point, Cameron sat high up on the golden chair and gripped the chair with both hands, his knuckles turning white.

Due to the excessive force, a deep five-fingered mark appeared on the chair.

At this moment, despair appeared in the depths of Cameron’s eyes!

Behind the despair, there was a trace of fear.

Three years ago, the kings of the eight countries led their armies to invade the northern territory.

Everyone in the northern army fought them.

That battle was the focus of the entire world.

On that day, the seven armies of Hansworth were mobilized.

The capital’s Central Bureau issued six emergency military orders in one night..

Chapter 303-Back Then, Braydon Neal Was Like a God!

The six orders were for the western army cavalry, the southern army, and the other six armies to be on standby.

The eight countries were attacking together. If the northern army was defeated, the six elites must immediately go to their aid and protect the Northern King.

In the battle three years ago, the capital was angered and nearly launched an all-out war.

However, the northern army later displayed shocking battle strength.

It had stunned the entire world!

That night, all the warriors in the northern army had their swords unsheathed.

A million cavalries swept across 8,000 miles of the northern desert. In front of the ten great national gates, they opened up ten great battlefields, using the national gates as the boundary to destroy the eight countries outside the borders.

Braydon wielded the Northern King sword. On that night, his clothes were as white as snow. He traveled 8,000 miles in the north and slaughtered 810,000 enemies!

That night, his white clothes turned into bloody clothes.

The Northern King sword released a terrifying might.

That one battle terrified the entire world.

All the martial artists in the world would remember the name of the young king of Hansworth.

The martial artists did not sleep for the entire night. The entire country was shocked!

Northern King Braydon was too terrifying, much too terrifying!

He slaughtered 810,000 enemies by himself.

Looking around the world, who else could be as stunning as the Northern King?

It was no wonder that the heroic men of the northern army only respected the Northern King.

They no longer had any regrets following such a person.

The people of the northern army were all loyal to Braydon Neal!

If a full-scale country war really broke out in the future, Braydon would only need to wave the northern army flag and all the retired soldiers would return with their cold swords. Millions of retired soldiers would all listen to his orders.

Once the mark of the northern army was planted.

It was a lifetime!

The people of the northern army were all heroic heroes.

At this moment, in the Linar Palace.

Taraz said in a low voice, "In the battle three years ago, the northern army shone with unprecedented brilliance. The ten great armies were mobilized, and the students at the northern military school participated in the battle. However, the most terrifying thing was the power controlled by the ten great ruthless men!" "Cole Colbie's imperial guards of the northern army!" "King Carden of the northern army's hidden agents!" "White-clothed Qualls's northern school of martial arts!" "Laird Xenos' northern army calvary!" But he knew.

This was because the 30,000 imperial army soldiers he led back then were slaughtered by Laird's cavalry.

There were not many Northern King cavalries.

There were about forty-nine people!

However, every single one of them was a War God!

The mysterious cavalry of the Northern King had slaughtered more than 30,000 soldiers of Linar's imperial army.

It was all because three years ago, the eight countries attacked Hansworth.

Forcing the northern army to use all their terrifying power.

All forces in the northern territory were activated.

It was Braydon's order to kill.

The armies of the eight countries, millions of enemies, were all killed within 8,000 miles of the desert.

It was a battle of annihilation!

The fearsome reputation of the northern army was built in this way.

Taraz said hoarsely, "The most terrifying of the ten ruthless men of the northern army are the last three. The Immortal Sword of Mount Sino, Blake Matthews; his sword is terrifying. Once he is conferred the title of King, he will be invincible among his peers!" "Korbin Scamander is quite mysterious. I suspect that he's the young master of the 300,000 soldiers of western army, Joshua Mandor!" Taraz said something that shocked all the officials in the hall.

Korbin Scamander, who was ranked ninth among the ten regimental commanders of the northern army, was the commander of the ninth legion of the northern army.

How was this possible?

"How did you determine that?" Cameron's eyes were sharp like lightning.

"My intuition. I've seen the nine monsters of the northern army. The name Korbin Scamander is definitely fake." Taraz held the iron spear in his hand, and his eyes were filled with killing intent.

He could not forget the humiliation of being defeated by the commander of the northern army's ninth legion.

Joshua had defeated Taraz!

This matter was a secret and outsiders did not know.

However, Taraz remembered it for many years.

Until today, he still could not forget this humiliation.

In front of everyone, Taraz said indifferently, "The most mysterious person in the northern army is number zero, the last of the ten ruthless men!

"No one knows whether it is male or female, and no one knows how talented that person is!

"It's very mysterious!

“His personal file is listed as a northern army SSS-grade top secret, the same level as King Braydon. Only the northern army commander can access it.

“This person is extremely terrifying. He is in charge of the tenth legion of the northern army, but the mysterious power he controls in secret is probably even more terrifying.” In this hall, Taraz told them about the northern army.

Namar and the northern territory had been enemies for hundreds of years, so it was not surprising that they had such information.

However, Namar had no way of knowing the true core information.

Because the northern army was too difficult to infiltrate.

Even the hidden agents in their country could not infiltrate it.

The entire place was silent.

Everyone was probably shocked.

Even today, Namar still wanted to raise an army against the northern territory.

That would be courting death!

Perhaps it was for this reason that Braydon had invaded Namar alone a few days ago, pointed his blade at the ruler, Cameron, asking him to hand over the northern army’s hidden agent, Sammy Dudley.

Cameron did not dare to act rashly because he was afraid of the northern army!

However, the man sitting on the golden throne said softly, "The most terrifying person in the northern army is not the ten ruthless men, but Braydon Neal!" Cameron sighed softly; his eyes filled with reminiscence.

Earlier, Taraz had asked about the armies of the eight countries sweeping through the northern territory three years ago. The eight country rulers wanted to stop Braydon from becoming a king.

That night, Braydon fought against the eight country rulers. What exactly happened?

Cameron was one of them!

Today, he would tell Taraz and the others.

No one dared to make a sound and listened quietly.

"That night, in the northern territory, the eight of us acted together, wanting to kill the Northern King!" Cameron said softly.

"The result was... defeat!" Cameron smiled bitterly.

He continued, "You might be curious, but before becoming king, King Braydon was only a ninth-level marquis. How did he injure us when we were all king level?"

"Today, I will tell you!" "The reason is the eight ultimate techniques!"

Cameron revealed the secret of his defeat back then.

The eight country rulers personally made a move, preparing to kill Braydon.

In the end, they were killed by Braydon before he was even conferred the title of king.

The reason was the eight ultimate techniques.

As for the eight ultimate techniques, Braydon did not create all eight of them in one go when he was conferred the king title. He had already started cultivating them way before that.

It was just that on the day he became a king, he had completely perfected the eight techniques.

If Braydon had not created the eight ultimate techniques, he would have been crowned king at least seven years earlier!

Everyone in the hall listened quietly.

Cameron slowly stood up, his eyes revealing traces of reverence from his memories. He said softly, "In that night's battle, Braydon Neal fought against the eight of us and unleashed eight ultimate techniques! "That night, we saw the end of the art, the pinnacle origin!

"I've also seen a few other ultimate techniques!

"King Braydon, who had unleashed all eight techniques, was like a God and an immortal. At that time, this white-robed youth was like a God that was untainted by the mortal world!

"In that battle, he used eight ultimate techniques to crush the eight of us. We were unable to retaliate at all!" Cameron revealed the secret..

Chapter 304-Taking 42 Billion in One Breath Braydon Neal was able to kill eight of them in that battle.

But in the end, he chose to stop.

If the eight rulers died in the northern territory, what would the consequences be? The eight foreign countries would probably go crazy and attack the northern territory day and night.

The fall of the country's ruler was the death of the country. It was bound to arouse the hatred of the eight countries. They would hate the northern territory and want to attack and take revenge day and night.

Thus, in that battle back then, Braydon gave the eight country rulers a way out.

At the same time, it was not hard to see that Braydon's eight ultimate techniques had not been fully mastered yet!

If the eight ultimate techniques were to be mastered, once fully activated, the aura of humanity would be covered by divinity.

In Braydon's current state, all his enemies would not be able to escape death!

He would definitely not let it go so easily.

In the palace of the Linar, Cameron Linar recounted the situation of that battle.

The eight country rulers were defeated by Braydon before he was conferred the title of king. The million elites of the eight countries under their command all died within 8,000 miles of the desert.

In that battle, the northern army displayed the might of Hansworth.

It shocked the capital!

The northern army sword, who in the world could stop it!

At that time, the capital had already made preparations for a full-scale war between the countries. They had secretly mobilized 300,000 western army cavalries and the elite troops of southern Hansworth to help the northern border!

However, who would have thought that the northern army three years ago could already fight against the eight countries outside the borders.

All the enemies who came to attack were killed!

In that battle, the hundred countries around the world feared the northern army.

In the next three years after that, there was no more war within eight thousand miles of the desert.

With this battle alone, the northern territory had been without war for ten years.

The eight countries outside the borders were completely terrified!

Cameron Linar returned to his seat and said calmly, "Regarding the Neal Corporation, the various departments of Namar must not target them. The fact that they're willing to come up with a solution is already the best result we can hope for." "Yes, sir!" Taraz Ross lowered his head.

In the end, Namar did not dare to make any moves. Compared to Hansworth, they were still too far behind.

In the small courtyard of the Neal family manor.

Xandra Milton came to report the situation. The program to crack the Black Sword Virus had been downloaded more than ten million times in Namar!

More than 80% of them were ordinary people who had downloaded the ordinary anti-virus software.

A small number of small and medium-sized companies had downloaded the elite anti-virus software.

As for Namar's major companies, they had no choice but to get the platinum anti-virus software.

There were more than thirty business giants in Namar!

Tobacco, mining, coal, electricity, communications, and so on.

These industry giants all chose the platinum anti-virus software. Other than that, they had no other choice!

This business alone had earned the Neal Corporation 2.5 billion dollars.

For example, Namar Power Company was probably scared of the Black Sword Virus, so they decisively paid another 140 million dollars for the monthly service.

The other giants also made their choice and chose to pay for a peaceful time. The monthly fee paid by the giants was as high as 4-7 billion dollars!

It was like a protection fee to ensure that the company's server would not be attacked by the Black Sword Virus again in the next month.

There were very few giant companies in Namar.

The Black Sword Virus infected nearly 40 million computers and mobile phones.

It was a huge profit.

Ordinary anti-virus software had been downloaded more than ten million times, and more than 700 million dollars was directly transferred to the Neal Corporation account.

After all, there were some users who chose the monthly service, which was a continuous source of income.

The elite anti-virus software had over 200,000 downloads.

It was downloaded by small and medium-sized enterprises in Namar. It cost 70,000 dollars each time, and most of them chose the monthly service. Most small and medium-sized companies did not lack this bit of money.

These users contributed the most money.

It was downloaded 200,000 times, which made it 14 billion dollars. The first monthly service would earn them 21 billion dollars.

On the first day alone, the Neal Corporation's wholly owned subsidiary had a revenue of 42 billion dollars.

They were generating income without doing any work.

A large sum of money flowed into the Neal Corporation's account.

Namar did not dare to make any moves.

Xandra Milton smiled playfully. "Young Master, the company estimates that the Black Sword Virus will not disappear completely within three months. The estimated revenue for the next three months should not be less than 7 billion dollars per month." "That's right. This money will be transferred directly to the investment company's account. There's no need to give it to the corporation." Braydon was in charge of an investment company and a new network security company.

This was all due to his achievements. It would prevent Liam Neal and the others from saying that Braydon was an idle person who did nothing.

“Young Master,” Xandra probed, “with the Neal Corporation’s size, Preston is no longer able to support it. It’s time to expand our business.” Braydon did not reject her suggestion but was thinking about it.

The company’s business was now divided into three major segments.

The main business was real estate. They contracted the construction of the entire new district of Preston and attracted the trillions of funds under Xandra’s control. They vigorously built the new district, real estate, private hospitals, large-scale educational communities, ecological parks, and so on.

Louis Neal was in charge of this.

Next was the anti-gravity device project.

Braydon and Liam were each in charge of a piece. Once the new factory was put into production, there would be a large amounts of profit.

It allowed the Neal Corporation to have another label on its body outside the ranks of real estate companies, and that was a technology company.

The anti-gravity device technology was definitely the most advanced technology in the world.

In terms of potential, it surpassed the value of all the projects in the new district of Preston.

The third business segment was the investment company that Xandra was in charge of, as well as the newly added network security company.

However, Xandra was Braydon’s subordinate.

Braydon had taken over half of the Neal family’s business.

It could be seen that Louis and Liam's intentions were to pave the way for Braydon's future and gradually have him take over the entire business of the Neal Corporation.

Out of the three major business segments, Braydon's was the most profitable.

His father, Louis, was constantly throwing money to build the new district. It was not the harvest time yet.

Liam's project with Starbright Manufacturing was not profitable either.

Therefore, the investment company under Braydon, together with the network security software company, had the most terrifying ability to obtain money.

Today alone, he had earned 42 billion dollars.

It was liquid capital.

With this influx of money, the investment company under Braydon's name had nearly 100 billion in assets, all of which were real money.

It was almost close to the Neal Corporation's market value!

Soon, the news of the Neal Corporation establishing a wholly owned network security subsidiary was received by the major investment institutions on the official website.

The revenue on the first day was as high as 42 billion dollars.

The stock market was in turmoil.

He had earned over 40 billion dollars from a business in Namar.

This kind of big deal stunned all the shareholders.

Because just from this revenue alone, the Neal Corporation did not lack funds!

They only managed to raise 8 billion dollars from the initial public offering..

Chapter 305-New Factory Production Line Compared to their subsidiary companies, earning 42 billion dollars in a day was simply insignificant.

Soon, a new announcement was made on the Neal Corporation official website.

This was a major matter that a listed company had to disclose.

Once a company went public, it would be subject to public scrutiny.

The intention behind the Neal Corporation's announcement was very simple. There was a total of two wholly owned subsidiary companies under the Neal Corporation.

They were Neal Investment Co., Ltd. and Neal Cyber Security Co., Ltd.

The president of the two subsidiary companies was the eldest son of the Neal family. His name was Braydon Neal. The companies were completely independent. The annual profits did not need to be submitted to the head office. In the future, it would be listed separately.

The Neal Corporation's announcement was equivalent to completely separating the two subsidiary companies.

This meant that the two subsidiary companies were not under the control of the Neal Corporation.

The eldest son of the Neal family had absolute control.

When the news was released, many organizations and shareholders used their browser to search for news about the eldest son of the Neal family. However, there was no news about Braydon on the internet!

There was no official information.

This was very surprising.

According to the information disclosed by the Neal Corporation, the eldest son of the Neal family was the director of the Neal Corporation and the president of the two companies.

Why was there not any information about him on the Internet?

Only a small number of people knew the real reason.

The Northern King's personal information was not to be released to the public. Without permission from the capital, no media was allowed to report it!

If someone reported it randomly and angered the northern army, no one would be able to protect the person if the northern imperial guards were mobilized!

Braydon paid no attention to the discussions of the outside world.

After the Neal Corporation announced the news and separated the subsidiary companies, it meant that the companies under Braydon's name did not need to disclose any information to the public in the future.

Because there was no such obligation!

Xandra Milton sat obediently in the living room and revealed her thoughts. The company had a huge cash flow and could develop other industries in cities outside Preston.

“Which industry do you want to get involved in?” Braydon smiled faintly.

“Medical treatment!” Xandra said.

Braydon could not help but laugh. Xandra was determined to drag him down with her.

She was so smart that she must know that Braydon was a national doctor. If she were to enter the medical industry, Braydon would definitely give her the greatest support.

Xandra continued, “Medical equipment requires top-notch technology. Medicine requires top-notch biological talents. I want to open up a pharmaceutical business.” Braydon acquiesced to her thoughts.

The Neal family’s investment company was in charge of a large amount of money and could open up other industries.

Moreover, investing in medical research was essentially saving lives.

Of course, if a new drug was developed, it would also bring them a lot of profits.

For pharmaceutical companies, only with profit could they increase their investment and develop new drugs, forming a virtuous cycle.

The outsider Lotto Parkinson then arrived.

Sammy Dudley brought him to the manor.

“You’re Lotto Parkinson?” Braydon sat quietly and chuckled.

“Your Highness, the Northern King!” Lotto lowered his head nervously.

After all, the white-robed youth in front of him was a legend in the northern territory.

He was probably the most powerful young man in the hundreds of countries in the world!

Braydon smiled faintly. “Have a seat.

Xandra took out a special contract from her briefcase.

It was the employment contract of the Neal Corporation.

He was inviting Lotto to be the person -in -charge of Neal Cyber Software Co., Ltd.

This was the talent that Braydon had poached for Xandra.

Rather than saying that he was poached, it was more like he was coerced.

Lotto sat on the sofa and carefully opened the contract. The terms were very clear, and there was no intention of forcing him. They wanted to hire him as the head of the company with an annual salary of 21 million dollars.

In the eyes of ordinary people, this was a sky-high annual salary.

However, as the top hacker in Trivio, Lotto’s ability was definitely worth the price.

Lotto gritted his teeth, knowing that he had to sign the contract today.

The outcome of not signing was death!

He knew the consequences of offending the northern army.

It was not like there were no precedents in the past. If someone from outside the borders provoked the northern army for no reason, they would definitely be hunted down by the northern army.

Just yesterday, it was rumored that the Glorious Assassin Organization in Namar was wiped out overnight.

Thousands of assassins were all killed.

Rumor had it that it was the doing of the northern hidden agents.

That was because those assassins had actually tried to assassinate the Northern King.

Lotto braced himself and signed the contract.

Xandra stretched out her tender white hand and smiled sweetly. "Welcome to the Neal Corporation!" "From now on, I'll place myself in Miss Xandra's care!" Lotto stood up and shook hands with her politely.

Braydon chuckled. "Leave the Neal Cyber Security to Lotto. I don't have the energy to manage all of you. I only care about the company's profits. If you have any problems, come to me directly!" "Yes, sir!" Lotto did not expect Braydon to trust him so much.

This was Braydon's personality.

Use people without suspicion, never use suspicious people.

Since he had asked Lotto to come over, he naturally trusted him.

Sammy said from outside the door, "Commander, Hugo Skeeter called. The first batch of equipment has been shipped. Gunter Bell also called. The first batch of core equipment has been manufactured by the Research Institute and shipped to the new factory." The first anti-gravity production line could be assembled!

Originally, Liam Neal's project was ahead of Hugo's.

However, Braydon and the Hugo Freighter Corporation cooperated to get the first equipment production line started. They contacted many people to help, and the progress quickly caught up.

The assembly of the anti-gravity device production line involved a large amount of sophisticated equipment.

How could Hugo and these people know how to assemble it?

Therefore, they had to rely on Yonah Zill and Braydon to do this.

Ten black sedans set off from the Neal family to the new district of Preston.

When Braydon arrived, he saw that the construction of the new factory was in full swing. It was not affected by the coffin incident.

The previous Hundred Coffins incident that was left behind by the ancient evil-suppressing master meant that there was a big secret underground.

As for Luke Yates who grew up with Braydon, that little fool had been curious since he was young. Moreover, he was also greedy. When he was greedy, he would even eat bone ashes. One could imagine how curious he was!

Because of his curiosity, the little fool had been beaten up countless times by his teacher in the northern region.

Unfortunately, the little fool refused to change, and no one could do anything about it.

“Young Master Neal!” Hugo strode over from afar. Gunter and Yonah had arrived together.

“Chief Engineer Neal!” “How’s everything here? In the future, if the research lab of Preston University moves here, there will be enough space for you to perform various experiments.” Braydon led the group to a factory that had been built in the east..
