

Stubborn Love Of A Roguish Scion Chapter 36 – The Outcome of Offending Her

Chapter 36: The Outcome of Offending Her

Over the night, Mo Jiangye lost count of how many cold showers he took.

It was only when the person on the bed quietened down that he heaved a sigh of relief. She obediently lay on the white blanket. Her little face was buried in the pillow, revealing half of her pretty face. She was not wearing anything on her upper body. It was covered only with a piece of wool blanket, which left her fair, smooth arms and calves bare. She was sleeping soundly.

It was a little cold in the room. Mo Jiangye covered her arms and calves with the blanket. He stared at her in her sleep and his eyes gradually narrowed, revealing a deep and unfathomable look in them.

They dared to touch his woman...

Suddenly, a beam of cold and fearsome light streaked across his eyes.

The next morning, two corpses lay at the doors of Wang Zhendong's villa. The eyeballs of both corpses had been dug out. What was most frightening was that the brains of the two corpses had been pierced through with a tripod stand of a camera, stringing the two bodies together!

The two corpses belonged to Xiao Hei and Da Zhuang!

What Wang Zhendong could not accept most was that the police came knocking on his door shortly after he woke up. He had become a murder suspect for the deaths of both Xiao Hei and Da Zhuang. A few hours later, issues were found with the properties and various commercial products developed by his company. His wife had a kept man outside and there was news that Wang Qiang was not his biological son. A lot of negative press hit the Wang family. Overnight, all the assets under his name were froze and he was imprisoned.

When Ye Erruo woke up, her entire body was aching. As she had been sleeping on her tummy, her face felt a little numb. The lights in the room were dimmed. She could feel a slight warmth beside her on the bed. Obviously, Mo Jiangye had woken up not long ago.

Memories of yesterday began to flow into her mind intermittently. Laying on the bed, she suddenly fell into deep thoughts. Her eyes were cold and they could not focus. Almost... She was almost...

Click! The doors of the bathroom opened. Mo Jiangye was clad in gray pajamas when he stepped out. Seeing that the person on the bed was in a daze when she woke up, he walked over to her quietly.

He bent down and carried her together with the blanket.

Ye Erruo paled out of shock. She quickly reached out and wrapped her arms around his neck. "When did you come?"

"What are you thinking about?"

"Nothing." She nested on the side of neck, not moving the slightest bit.

He tilted his head and gazed at her wounded lips. "There is no next time."

"You're not allowed to attend those gatherings next time!"

He would not give her any chance to do so either.

"Okay."

Ye Erruo shut both her eyes slightly and nodded. She was inhaling the unique scent belonging to him in a smitten manner. She would agree to whatever he said.

Seeing that she was well-behaved, Mo Jiangye did not pursue the subject further. He personally helped her with dressing, washing up and eating lunch.

After lunch, Mo Jiangye was still worried. He sent the doctor over to check her body thoroughly again to confirm that there were no issues. He then felt assured afterwards.

"Hubby." During lunch, Ye Erruo suddenly called out to him sweetly.

"I have to go out this afternoon."

Mo Jiangye was holding his fork and knife in the air when he paused his movements. He stared at her. "No!"

She was really not well-behaved. Why was she thinking of running away again when she hadn't even recovered?

"I have submitted a song and it had been selected by the 'Star Glory' Company. So, I have to go there this afternoon. If I am lucky, I may be signed on as a singer."

Mo Jiangye's eyes dimmed. "You want to sing?"

Ye Erruo cupped her chin. "Erm... I want to give it a try."

Of course, 'Star Glory' did not want to meet her just because of the song that she submitted. It was because of the famous singer 'Little Ah Mei'.

Little Ah Mei was a famous cyber singer who was very popular in the music industry. She uploaded three songs in half a month's time and the number of hits and view counts for each song exceeded ten million. The number of fans was doubling everyday. Her fan base was even bigger than some well-known mainstream singers.

In actual fact, Ye Erruo was Little Ah Mei!

Why did she want to become a signed singer? Why did she want more people to know her? Why did she choose Star Glory Company?

Because...

Stubborn Love Of A Roguish Scion Chapter 37 – She Can't Help It That He Is Her Husband?

Chapter 37: She Can't Help It That He Is Her Husband?

This was because Gu Feirou was a signed singer with 'Moon Glory' Company, and Moon Glory and Star Glory had always been rival companies.

Gu Feirou made her debut one year ago. Her stage name was 'Little Ah Di'. Previously, Lin Jingxuan had helped her a lot behind the scenes. With Jingxuan backing her, she was quite famous in the music industry. She was not that popular yet. However, she always wore a mask and had never revealed her appearance when she sang. Additionally, she rarely participated in events. Hence, those who knew her had never seen her real face. She became popular all because of a concert.

After she was reborn, she specifically picked a stage name that was similar to Gu Feirou and opted to sign with a rival company. Her objective was to increase Gu Feirou's 'fame' in the music industry. She wanted her to have a taste of pain and know how it would feel to suffer a fall from great heights.

At that time, Gu Feirou was a household name and an extremely popular celebrity. She was loved by thousands of people in the entertainment industry and at the peak of her popularity. She was in so much limelight!

Actually, if she had been a little more careful in her previous life, she would have realized that Lin Jingxuan had been taking care of Gu Feirou in many ways. He and Gu Feirou's relationship was more than that of good friends. Unfortunately, she was too careless and blind!

"Star Glory Company?" Mo Jiangye narrowed his eyes.

"Yes. It's the rival company of Moon Glory Company. These past two years, Star Glory has not been doing as well as before. Moon Glory Company have poached many of their well-known singers. It is rumored that Star Glory is becoming bankrupt."

"Then why do you still want to sign with them?"

Ye Erruo slowly peeled the hard boiled egg and consumed the egg white. She then used a fork to put the egg yolk on Mo Jiangye's plate before she said softly, "I like stars. I don't like moon."

Mo Jiangye lowered his gaze at the egg yolk and silently ate it. He had heard her sing before but it was recently and unintentional. He never thought that she would decide to take up singing as a career.

Of course, he would support her in whatever she did, as long as she obediently stayed by his side and stopped having ideas of leaving him. He would agree to whatever she wanted to do.

"Star Glory Company is located quite near to Long Teng," Ye Erruo said. She peeled another egg, ate the egg white and passed the egg yolk to Mo Jiangye again.

"Hubby," Ye Erruo called out to him sweetly.

"You will support me in pursuing my dream, right?" She blinked her starry eyes at him.

In the afternoon, Ye Erruo met with the people from the Star Glory Company. They chatted many hours before signing the contract. Star Glory Company was short of talents now. Hence, the appearance of 'Little Ah Mei' was considered a 'savior' to them. However, they could not figure out why Ye Erruo would choose to sign with a company like them which was facing bankruptcy!

This time, Mo Jiangye even came along with her. His car was waiting for her downstairs outside the Star Glory Company.

Ye Erruo was holding onto the contract when she got into Mo Jiangye's car. Everything had gone smoothly. She had signed a three-year contract with Star Glory Company. It was a contract that was renewable after three years.

“Mo Jiangye, yesterday... I...” She pursed her lips. It had been one day. Finally, she could not hold back any further and asked about what happened yesterday.

“Yesterday...” Her face was slightly pale and she dared not continue.

Mo Jiangye was driving the car with one hand and holding onto her little hand with his other hand. He knew what she was worrying about. “You didn’t kill that man. The hospital administered the wrong medication and he could not be saved. He’s dead.”

Even if the hospital had not made a mistake and he had survived, he is also better off dead than alive. He might as well die to be released from the ordeal.

“Really?” She knew that he definitely knew what happened yesterday.

Mo Jiangye turned around and glanced at her. “That hit of yours was not even enough to tickle him.”

Tickle? He was already bleeding...

He grasped her hand tightly. “The hospital that administered the wrong medication had already closed down. Don’t let your thoughts run wild.”

Even if she were to murder someone, he would be around to shoulder everything for her. She did not need to worry at all.

“Did you hear that?” He squeezed her hands hard.

“Psst... That hurts!”

Mo Jiangye took out his cell phone and found news for her to read. It was a news report about the hospital that Wang Qiang was sent to. A new doctor had prescribed his treatment. He had caused a mix-up of the medicine in many wards and as a result, a few lives were lost. The hospital had already closed down.

After thirty minutes, the car gradually came to a halt. Mo Jiangye leaned sideways and unfastened her seatbelt. Come out.”

“This is.... Lin Teng??”

Mo Jiangye opened the car door without uttering a word. The place that he wanted to bring her to was actually his workplace. He wanted to see her for 24 hours a day. However, she would be busy with her own affairs very soon. Most likely, he would not be able to see her all the time even if he were to make her come to his office.

He pulled her hand and brought her into the building. He then said, "I will be working overtime till 12 midnight today."

"A-ah?" So, he brought her here to keep him company while he worked overtime?

"President!"

"President!"

They attracted everyone's gaze along the way.

Very soon, Ye Erruo took the elevator and arrived at Mo Jiangye's office.

A computer, snacks, and beverages were placed in front of her. Mo Jiangye had prepared everything well in advance.

"Wait here for a while. I'll bring you for dinner afterward and then home to sleep."

"...Okay."

After settling down Ye Erruo, Mo Jiangye began to work. His long and slender fingers hit the keyboard swiftly. There were heaps of document folders beside him.

He emanated a noble aura all over and looked super manly when he was at work. Ye Erruo could not help but more glances at him a few more times. He mysteriously curled his thin lips into a smile and his eyes filled with an indulging look.

Ye Erruo lowered her head and began to think about some song lyrics in a serious manner. In an attempt to boost her popularity, Star Glory Company had registered an account on a platform for her. She was supposed to write a song then arrange the music and record another song and hand it to them. They would then broadcast the songs on the platform and she would officially launch her debut via the platform.

This was the largest network platform in the entertainment industry and numerous dancers, singers, and directors used this platform. Many people became famous via this avenue. Some directors also looked for suitable actors and actresses there. It had many chat rooms and each was hosted by someone. The host was often the most formidable character.

On every first day of the month, the music chat room would conduct screenings to discover talents. The first day of every month was also the day when the music chat room gave major recommendations. When the time came, it was the most popular room with the highest number of hits.

Everyone who wanted to enter the room had to meet certain requirements. The first and foremost requirement of every room was to specify a song for the visitors to modify the key, pitch, and everything required for them to sing a reproduced version of the song. There was a pk stage outside the room. The more hits one's song had, the greater the chances of him or her entering the room.

After entering the room, they still had to go through the host's assessment. If they could pass the assessment, the host would find resources for you. Most of the time, the hosts were professional music producers, songwriters, or people working for the record companies. In fact, it was rare for people to pass the first round of assessment by the various hosts.

The first thing that she needed to do now was to modify the tune, rhythm and so on of a song. The melody of the original version of this song was very melancholic and oppressive. She needed to wreck her brains on the music arrangement.

Time passed gradually. Ye Erruo was not sure when she fell asleep on the sofa. Mo Jiangye, who had intended to work overtime, ended his work earlier.

He walked to the sofa and gently patted her face that looked flushed from sleeping...
