Chapter 271 The Brother and Sister's Masterpiece

Now there is only one secretary around August , and that is Lucia ! She suddenly became angry, gritted her teeth and asked, "What happened, tell me exactly what happened !"

She asked her subordinates to bribe the servants of the Adams family 's old house, and any news would naturally be immediately available.

You know, when she heard that August actually brought Lucia home to see the elders first, she was not angry.

The subordinate over there immediately repeated all the details.

Jeanne became more and more angry.

The moment she heard Lucia blocking the whip for August , she raised her hand and directly grabbed the cup on the table in front of her and threw it against the wall.

"Bang!"

With a sound, she gritted her teeth in anger, her chest heaving up and down.

"What qualifications does a secretary of hers have to defend August ! Are you playing tricks! Are you trying to deceive August 's sympathy!"

The man over there paused for a moment and said softly, "Miss, it's actually good, at least August can get two less whips, and you can use this as an excuse to go to the old house, and then you will naturally be able to see the parents."

As soon as these words came out, Jeanne was stunned, and the anger in her heart dissipated a little.

That's right, this is an opportunity, it depends on whether she can seize it ! Moreover, after such a commotion, Lucia was greatly reduced in front of Eliot , just in time for her to swear her sovereignty in the past! Lucia is just August 's secretary, and she is his real girlfriend! "You're right, Mark , keep an eye on me, and report to me as soon as you have any news!"

"Yes, ma'am."

After hanging up the phone, Jeanne was still in a bad mood. She gritted her teeth and hated Lucia even more in her heart.

At this moment, a voice came from outside the door, "Miss, are you okay?"

The sound of the glass breaking just now attracted the servant.

Chapter 272 Be My Girlfriend

"Hush—"

The sharp stones cut through her palms and knees, causing a burning pain. She frowned and couldn't help muttering, "It's unlucky!"

The dog also barked non-stop, and Paula was shaking all over for a while, a little overwhelmed.

Although she usually looks at a flamboyant, proper female man, but she has one embarrassing thing to say, that is, she is afraid of dogs.

Ever since she was chased and bitten by a dog when she was a child, she has developed a fear of dogs.

On weekdays, even pet dogs are afraid to approach, let alone encounter such a ferocious guard dog in the village! Just when her legs were weak and she could barely stand up, there was a sudden sound of hurried footsteps behind her, and then, her back was warm, and her whole body was wrapped in warmth.

It was a coat, draped over her body from the back, with a faint scent of laundry detergent.

She was slightly startled, and before she could react, the person behind her walked up to her, bent down and hugged her directly.

At the same time, a clear and familiar male voice came, "Why are you so careless?"

Paula was startled, looked up, and when she saw Burton, she was stunned, "You...how are you?"

Could she be dreaming? No matter how you look at everyone, they look like Burton ! Seeing her expression, Burton raised the corners of his lips slightly, his eyes swept across her red palms and knees, and his face immediately became a little serious, "You are injured, I will take you back first."

The person in his arms, strides forward.

Paula blinked, as if she didn't believe the mirror image she saw, and stretched out a finger and poked Burton's cheek, "You...why are you here?"

This is the small village of Figo City ,A remote place that can't be more remote, when he appeared here, she could only suspect that he was following her! "You pervert, you even followed me!"

When Burton heard the words, there was a slight fluctuation in his eyes. He didn't admit or deny Paula 's various suspicions. He walked quickly to the door of the farmhouse and walked in with her in his arms.

Chapter 273 Isn't It A Work-related Injury for Me?

This night, some people were showered with love while some people couldn't fall asleep all night.

August and Lucia were placed in the bedroom and guest room respectively.

Due to the wounds on their bodies, they had to lie on their stomach in bed.

After their wounds were treated by the family doctor, they could only maintain this position to spend the hardest night.

In the first half of the night, Lucia could hardly sleep because of the pain in her body, and she endured the pain all the time.

In the second half of the night, she couldn't resist the drowsiness and fell asleep.

Another person who couldn't fall asleep like her was Jeanne. She was so overwhelmed with worry that she couldn't fall asleep after tossing and turning for fear that August would find out, and then she would be screwed.

The next morning, Jeanne woke up early. She immediately got up to wash, ordered her men to prepare a car, and headed to the Adams' old house.

Before arriving at the old house, she deliberately went to the nearby shopping mall to buy some expensive gifts and then rushed over.

After she rang the doorbell, a maid came over soon.

After the maid heard that it was Jeanne, she reported to the master and opened the door.

As soon as Jeanne entered the door, the first person she saw was Christina, who was sitting at the dining table drinking coffee.

The breakfast had just been set on the table, and it seemed that she hadn't touched it.

"Aunt Christina, long time no see!"

Jeanne looked surprised, walked up quickly, and greeted Christina.

When Christina heard her voice, she raised her eyes and glanced at Jeanne.

She stood up and greeted Jeanne with a smile, "Jeanne, long time no see. You've become even more beautiful!"

Jeanne smiled and said, "Aunt Christina, how can I be as beautiful as you? I haven't seen you for a few years, but you look younger and your skin is still so good. How have you taken care of yourself?! I'm so envious!"

Hearing Jeanne's words, Christina couldn't help smiling. She immediately asked Jeanne to sit next to her and ordered the maid to serve coffee.

"I haven't seen you for years, and I miss you very much too. I'm so glad to see you back this time. Oh, how is your father now?"

Lucia somehow felt that his words were a bit ambiguous. She cleared her throat awkwardly and said casually, "We'll see. I'm hanging up first."

With that, she hung up the phone in a panic, and her heart was pounding.

After lying on her stomach all night, she only felt that her chest was aching, and she couldn't help turning over. So she had to lie on her side for a while to relieve the pressure on her chest.

After a short while, someone knocked on the door.

Grandma walked in with a maid and brought breakfast.

Grandma stepped forward and asked earnestly, "Lucia, how are you feeling?"

Lucia forced a smile and said softly, "Grandma, I'm feeling better."

Even if her back hurt badly, she still forced a smile in front of Grandma.

Grandma felt sorry for her. She took the bowl of chicken soup from the maid and said softly, "Lucia, don't move. I'll feed you. The chicken soup is easy to digest..."

When Lucia heard this, her heart warmed. Her eyes went wet when she saw Grandma feeding the soup to her with a spoon. She was not a member of the Adams family now, and she was touched that Grandma treated her so well.

Grandma took a tissue and wiped the corners of her eyes, "Silly girl, why are you crying?"

Lucia sniffed and said softly, "Thank you, Grandma, for never treating me as an outsider."

Grandma smiled and said softly, "You are never an outsider in my heart."

She hesitated.

But on second thought, she was doing much worse than August.

At least he wouldn't be kicked out when he was covered in injuries.

Lucia smiled self-mockingly and quickly walked to the stairs.

Just as she reached the gate, Joey caught up with her and said, "Ms.

Mitchell, Mrs. Adams has arranged a car for you and it will take you directly to the hospital."

Lucia forced a smile and said softly, "No, I'll go back by myself."

With that, she walked out of the gate and left without looking back.

Watching Lucia leave, Joey sighed. She was a stubborn woman, just like August's biological mother Jolene back then.

Once she made a decision, no one could make her change her mind.

At the same time, in another bedroom on the second floor, Bishop was sitting by the window.

When he saw the figure at the door, his eyes darkened.

He hesitated for a moment, and then said, "Bob, take me downstairs."

Bob came, pushed the wheelchair, and went downstairs.

When he reached the door, Lucia had disappeared. Bob asked, "Mr. Adams, do you want to go after her?"

"Yes, drive after her"

Bob nodded.

As soon as he lifted the wheelchair into the car, Christina came out.

When she saw this, her face darkened. She hurriedly stepped forward and asked, "Bishop, what are you doing?"

Eliot raised her eyebrows, and his eyes darkened, "There is a family doctor. Why are you going to the hospital? Your injury is not healed yet. Go back and lie down!"

Hearing his words, August stopped abruptly. He raised his head, looked at his father with black eyes, and said with a trace of mockery, "So you know that my injury is not yet healed. But why did you drive her away?"

Eliot's face turned blue, and he became a little stern, "What do you mean? Are you blaming me?"

Seeing this, Christina quickly stepped forward to comfort him, "Eliot, don't be angry. August didn't mean that."

With that, she looked at August and persuaded softly, "August, don't be angry. Ms. Mitchell left herself and it has nothing to do with your father."

"Really?"

August's sharp eyes turned cold and he said, "Didn't she leave because you said something to her?"

Eliot's face was blue with anger, and he was trembling with anger, "I think you've lost your mind because of a woman! Go back!"

August fell silent. He put on his shoes, stood up straight, and walked out.

Eliot raised his voice, "August, if you dare to leave today, don't recognize me as your father anymore!"

Hearing his threat, August paused, turned around and his eyes were cold and deep, "Dad, I did something wrong and I have no complaints when I was punished. But can't you be more lenient with a woman?"

With that, he turned around and walked out quickly.

Eliot stood there, angry and speechless.

Christina on the side quickly raised her hand and stroked his back to help him relax, but her eyes flashed with joy.

Go ahead and fight! The more fiercely the father and son fought with each other, the better! Although she thought so in her heart, she still looked kind and understanding, "Eliot, don't get angry. August just lost his head. When he calms down, he will understand..."

Eliot glanced at the starting car and turned around angrily, "I've raised an ungrateful son! Now the company is in a mess, and he puts all his attention on a woman! I'm so disappointed!"

Hearing this, August blinked, and frowned slightly in dissatisfaction, "What do you think?" She left the Adams family with injuries on her body.

Could he not worry about her? When Lucia met his eyes, she quickly looked away and looked at his broad shoulders. She hesitated, "The wounds on your body...ch..."

Before she finished her sentence, she trembled in pain and frowned tightly.

At this moment, the nurse said softly, "I'll continue to apply for the medicine. It will hurt a little. Please bear with it"

Lucia nodded softly and clenched her fists slowly.

August raised his eyes and looked over.

Lucia's shirt was lifted by the nurse, and it revealed her back.

The wound looked like a black and red snake crawling on her fair skin, and it looked a little scary. It must be very painful.

August frowned.

Without saying a word, he pulled a chair, sat down beside the bed, and held Lucia's hand.

At this time, the nurse had already started to apply for the medicine.

Lucia frowned in pain and closed her eyes. She couldn't care less and subconsciously held his big warm hand.

"Oh!"

The nurse slowly lifted the sheet covering her back, and two long scars were fully revealed.

The scars were especially conspicuous and dazzling on Lucia's smooth back.

August frowned and swallowed. He couldn't help asking, "Will such a wound leave a scar?"

The nurse said softly, "It might. But if you take good care of it and pay more attention, the scar will be lighter."

Hearing this, August frowned more tightly.

Lucia paused and turned to look at him.

August slightly raised his eyebrows, glanced at the table, and cleared his throat lightly, "Since you're here, let's eat together."

Lucia also looked over and saw the large piles of lunch boxes on the table, exuding bursts of aroma.Her stomach growled uncontrollably.She blushed and didn't know whether to agree or not.

When she looked up and saw August's black eyes, she had to bite the bullet and agree.

Joshua was leaning against the wall and looking at them with interest.He coughed lightly, and joked with a smile, "August, you are cold-faced but warm-hearted.You specifically asked me to buy more food.Didn't you want to..."

Before he could finish his sentence, August glanced at him coldly. He immediately shut up and winked at him meaningfully.

August frowned and said, "You go out."

"August, you are ruthless..." Joshua said with a smile.

Although he was unhappy, he still walked out.

When the door of the ward closed, the room was quiet for a moment.

Seeing August put a clean fork aside, Lucia took a deep breath, walked to his side, sat down, and started eating.

Perhaps because of what Joshua had said just now, Lucia somehow felt a little embarrassed. She lowered her head to eat and didn't look up for a long time.

August took a few bites and realized that something was wrong with Lucia. He frowned, looked up at her, and smiled unconsciously. He had never seen such a silly girl, who only focused on one dish. Her face blushed. It seemed she was embarrassed or shy.

"Lucia," August raised his eyebrows, "Why don't you eat other dishes?"

Hearing his words, Lucia raised her head and said, "...I'm eating."

Then she symbolically picked up a piece of green vegetable and put it into her mouth.

August chuckled softly, and the coldness on his face suddenly dissipated a lot.

Lucia was confused, "What are you laughing at? What's wrong with me?"

She didn't know what was going on.

Chapter 279 Our Engagement May Not Happen

When Jeanne arrived at the Adams' old house, she saw Christina sitting on the sofa as soon as she walked in.

Seeing Jeanne, Christina smiled and stood up to say hello, "Jeanne, hello!"

Jeanne immediately stepped forward with a smile on her face and said, "Aunt Christina, I made tonic soup, especially for August at home today."

Christina's face changed when she heard it and said, "August..."

Jeanne's heart tightened, and she quickly asked, "What happened to him?"

Christina sighed softly and said, "He left. He's not at home."

"What?"

Jeanne's eyes widened, "Isn't he still injured?"

"Well, Eliot asked that girl Lucia to leave our family and go to the hospital to recuperate. He was doing it for her good, but somehow the news got to August, and he thought we were mean to her. He got angry and left home."

She glanced at Jeanne's pale face, and continued, "He probably went to find that secretary girl. Anyway, he didn't answer the phone, and there was no news of him. I'm so worried!"

Jeanne's lips moved, and she forcibly maintained her calmness. She gritted her teeth and forced a smile, "August didn't answer my call. Is he mad at me too?"

Christina pretended to be surprised, "How come? You are his girlfriend. Why wouldn't he contact you at this time?"

Suddenly, Jeanne's face became even gloomier.

After a moment, her eyes turned red and she sounded a bit aggrieved, "Aunt Christina, do you think August doesn't want me anymore? He has been very close to that secretary recently. I know their previous relationship. But since they broke up, why are they still attached?"

As she spoke, her tears kept falling.

Christina didn't know what to say when she saw her crying.

Suddenly, seeing the figure appearing at the entrance of the stairs, she raised her voice slightly, "Well, I think August is fascinated by the secretary girl. You've known him for so long. He definitely wouldn't choose that girl over you!"

Jeanne kept crying, "August said that he was getting engaged to me, but now he's seeing another woman. I feel so sad..."

At this moment, there came a cold voice, "Who is he seeing?"

Hearing his words, Lucia was stunned for a moment and stared at him with wide eyes in astonishment. His words were so ambiguous! But he looked natural and lay down beside her smoothly, facing her.

Lucia instantly felt that her heart skipped a beat.

But after calming herself down for a few seconds, she suddenly thought of something, and her face suddenly turned cold, "It's inappropriate for us to be like this, right?"

He was about to be engaged to Jeanne, and now he was sharing the same bed with her.

If the word spread out, it probably wouldn't be good for both of them.

Seeing the hesitation in Lucia's eyes, August blinked lightly.

After a few seconds, he sat up.

After a moment of pause, he stood up and said lightly, "Okay, then I'll go."

Seeing that she didn't respond, he raised his hand to turn off the light by the bedside and turned to leave.

As soon as the lights in the ward were turned off, the atmosphere immediately became eerie.

The combination of thunder, wind, and rain was frightening.

Lucia couldn't help shaking.

She reached out her hand subconsciously, and grabbed the corner of August's shirt, "Don't...go!"

To be honest, she was very afraid.

August felt his clothes tugged at.

When he turned around, he saw her so scared, with her head down and her eyes closed.

Seeing her reaction like this, he unconsciously smiled, turned back, walked to the bed, and held her shoulder with his warm hand.

After a while, her tense body slowly relaxed.

"Don't be nervous. It will affect the wound."
