Chapter 321 A motorcycle accident

At 9:03, Lucia ran out of the subway station hurriedly and walked towards Lion Group quickly.

Normally, she wouldn't be in such a hurry even if she knew she would reach the company a few minutes late.

But today their department had a regular meeting.

As the assistant to the director, it would cause a bad influence if she was late.

Lucia took a deep breath.

Just as she was about to cross the street, a voice suddenly came from behind her.

"Lucia!"

Hearing that, Lucia turned around and saw Jeanne walking quickly toward her.

And Jeanne was still carrying a lot of things.

Jeanne took a few more steps, and she was so exhausted that she ended up stopping and putting the stuff in her hands on the ground before she reached Lucia.

Jeanne waved at Lucia and asked for help.

"Lucia, can you help me?"

Lucia hesitated for a moment.

Although she had to reach the company soon, she walked toward Jeanne and helped her carry half of her stuff after thinking for a moment.

Seeing this, Jeanne sighed and was relieved.

"Luckily I met you, otherwise, I really don't know what to do!"

Lucia asked, "What are these?"

"We will have a meeting today, and I bought coffee for everyone. I didn't expect the take-out cart at the cafe to be broken, so I had to bring them over."

Hearing that, Lucia glanced at the watch on her wrist and said, "Let's go now, we're going to be late."

After saying that, Lucia carried the stuff in both hands and prepared to cross the street.

The silence lasted for a moment.

The doctor hesitated, he looked at Lucia, and then at August, and said, "It's up to her."

Hearing that, August blinked.

After a few seconds, his face was gloomy again.

He repeated.

"The priority now is to save the patient."

Lucia took a deep breath and felt miserable inside. She got her hand free from the man's hand and looked at the doctor.

"Doctor, I am willing to do that."

The doctor looked at Lucia deeply and shook his head, no longer persuading Lucia. He asked the nurse to do it.

The nurse came to Lucia and said, "Please come with me."

Lucia nodded, without turning her head to look at the man beside her, and followed the nurse away.

Lucia knew that in August's mind, it was not a matter of saving a life, but only because the patient was Jeanne.

If the patient was somebody else, he might not care about that person's death. He was so nervous and anxious and his attitude was so strong, all because the person lying in the bed was Jeanne.

Lucia should have known that August would finally choose to let the doctor draw her blood, but it came true, she still felt miserable in her heart.

Following the nurse to the blood draw room, Lucia closed her eyes and had very mixed emotions.

For her, the tingling and numbness at her wrist were no match for the heartache.

The 200cc of blood from Lucia had just been sent to the emergency room.

But just in a minute, a nurse ran out of the emergency room and came to Lucia, asking nervously, "We need 200cc of blood more, can you donate another 200CC of blood? The patient's situation is very dangerous now!"

Hearing that, Lucia looked up and found August standing in the doorway and looking at her coldly.

Her heart trembled and she gritted her teeth.

"Okay."

Donating 400cc of blood within a short time was too much for Lucia who was so thin and weak.

But the situation was urgent, there was no other option for her.

What's more, if she refused to do that, August might force her to do it.

Seeing that, Paul was so worried about Lucia.

He went to Lucia and held her in his arms.

The woman didn't refuse, sobbing in his arms.

Tears wet his shirt, but he kept holding her tightly.

Seeing Lucia crying, Paul felt also very sad.

This was the first time he found that Lucia was so vulnerable.

Lucia always pretended to be strong and never showed weakness in front of him before.

But now, it was heartbreaking for Paul to see Lucia so sad.

Paul patted Lucia's back and comforted her softly.

"It's okay, I'm here with you."

After a long time, Lucia stopped sobbing slowly.

She straightened up and moved to the side slowly, bowing her head and speaking in a deep voice.

"I'm sorry ..."

"You don't have to apologize to me, you didn't do anything mean to me."

Paul took a deep breath and touched the hair around Lucia's ear gently.

Lucia bit her lip.

"Actually, you didn't guess wrong.

I still like August."

After sitting by the Greenset River all afternoon, Lucia figured out a lot of things.

Although she was still fond of August, it would make her feel very tired if she continues to stay by his side.

Hearing that, Paul felt a little disappointed.

But soon, he showed a normal expression and forced himself to smile.

"Sure enough, I didn't guess wrong."

Lucia mocked herself.

Then she looked at Paul and said slowly, "But I'm so tired of it, and I want to leave him."

Lucia wanted to leave August and started a new life that was in her way.

Paul looked at Lucia seriously and said, "If

Chapter 324 The meeting gift But August didn't expect Ethan Denko to show up again, and Ethan was now in Austos City.

Obviously, Ethan was provoking August.

August frowned and said coldly, "Since Ethan appeared, it means that something will definitely happen recently.

From now on, you must be alert to anything!"

Bond nodded his head.

"Got it."

Charlotte who was sitting in the dim corner nodded and didn't speak anything.

August sat on the couch and closed his eyes, thinking about all the things that had happened recently.

At the very beginning, there was nothing important happened in Austos City.

Only something that was not important happened at the bottom.

But now, Ethan appeared suddenly, indicating that everything that happened before was in preparation for what was going to happen.

Suddenly, Bond shouted.

"Boss, I got some."

August opened his eyes and went to Bond immediately.

"Report."

Bond turned the laptop screen toward August.

"I intercepted an encrypted email from them that told them to meet at an abandoned factory in K-lax at 3:00 a.m.

They were also told to bring the stuff with them."

August read the contents of the e-mail quickly, and his expression turned cold.

Ethan had just arrived in Austos City by day, and now they were ready to act.

What a bunch of impatient monkeys.

"Do we need to prepare now?"

August frowned.

He looked at the clock and immediately said with a cold voice, "Call Joshua, start preparing and act now."

"Yes, sir."

Bond and Charlotte responded together.

People dispersed instantly and went to do their own work.

Time flies, it was 0:00 in the morning now.

August had already changed his clothes and got in the car quickly.

Joshua was forced to get up by others just now.

He yawned and rubbed his eyes.

Chapter 325 Being blackmailed by the paparazzi Perhaps because he was injured, August felt very tired after he arrived at the bedroom.

He lay down on the bed and fell asleep soon.

As he slept, August suffered pain from the wound on his left arm.

The next day he woke up late.

After washing up, August went downstairs.

Joshua and Bond were having breakfast.

Seeing August coming down, Joshua asked, "How's your wound?"

"It's fine."

This wasn't the first time August has been wounded like that.

August walked to the table expressionlessly and drank coffee.

Charlotte came in and said in a deep voice, "Burton's here."

As soon as Charlotte finished speaking, Burton got into the room, carrying a paper bag.

Burton put the paper bag on the table.

"President Adams, here are the clothes you asked for.

I've pushed today's morning meeting to tomorrow."

As he was speaking, Burton glanced at August's bandaged arm and frowned.

"President Adams, you ..."

August replied faintly.

"It's fine."

Then August put down his coffee cup and looked at Burton, saying, "Just eat some if you haven't eaten yet."

Burton replied softly, "I've already eaten.

President Adams, there is something that I don't know if I should say ..."

Seeing that Burton was a little bit hesitant, August understood instantly, leading Burton towards the balcony.

Burton closed the balcony door and said, "I got a message this morning."

As he was saying, Burton took out his phone and showed the message to August.

August didn't pick up the phone.

He glanced at it and saw a few photos that were all about Lucia and Jonathan in the message, on the crew, and also at the racing club.

They looked intimate.

Seeing August's grim face, Burton explained.

Chapter 326 Resignation At this moment, there was a loud noise outside the door, and then, the door of the ward was pushed open, and Lucia and Jeanne looked at the direction from which the sound came.

August was standing at the door, face dark.

When he caught sight of Lucia, his face got colder.

He strode over and looked down at Lucia.

He asked in a cold voice, "What are you doing here?"

Lucia took a deep breath and wanted to explain when Jeanne said, "Lucia came to visit me, August.
Why did you come all of a sudden?"

"IL come to visit you."

Saying, August walked to the head of the bed and adjusted the position of the pillow leaned against by
Jeanne to make her more comfortable.

His movement seemed so natural and fluent.

"Are you feeling better today?"

When talking to Jeanne, he sounded apparently gentler.

Sitting beside them, Lucia felt awkward and uncomfortable.

She felt that she should leave them alone now.

August's behaviors showed that he really loved Jeanne.

She produced a mocking smile and stood up.

She looked at Jeanne and said, "Jean, if there is nothing that needs me, I'll leave you two alone."

Hearing this, Jeanne smiled.

"Okay.

Pay me another visit someday."

Lucia forced a smile at Jeanne and then walked towards the door.

After getting out of the elevator, she took the elevator to the ground floor of the hospital.

She walked forward at a loss and with great bitterness.

She should have been prepared for that and be aware of her position.

For August, she was nothing compared with Jeanne.

She walked through the small garden of the inpatient department.

Just as she was to walk towards the hospital gate, unexpectedly, her phone rang.

She took a deep breath and had a look at her phone.

"August"

was shown on her screen.

Her heart skipped a beat, and she hesitated over whether she should answer the call.

Three seconds later, she bit her lips and rejected the call.

Chapter 327 Recovered Human being's joys and sorrows are never the same.

This night, in a bustling nightclub of Austos City, men and women were dancing carefreely in the dancing pool.

The music was loud enough to wake the dead, and the neon lights seemed to be able to light the night.

On the right side of the second floor, there was a room with one-way glass.

From inside of the room, one could see everything on the first floor clearly.

However, people outside couldn't see a thing inside.

An inner door of the room was opened.

It was a door leading to an inner room.

Heavy footsteps could be heard.

Someone was walking out.

A faint cry of a woman could be heard.

Hearing the cry, Bishop looked up and smiled at the man who walked out.

He said, "Mr.Denko, I've been waiting for so long."

The man was short but stout.

He was at his forties, and he had sharp bloodshot eye.

He was Ethan Denko Ethan wiped the blood from the corner of his lips and sat down on the sofa.

He said smilingly, "This woman is disobedient, so it took me sometime to tame her.

Sorry that I kept you waiting."

As he was saying, he cast a glance at the inner room.

Seeing this, Ethan's men hurriedly went into the room and dragged out a crying and disheveled woman.

She had several bruises on her body, face pale, eyes unfocused, lips bleeding.

On her bare shoulders had several tooth prints that was oozing blood, which was somewhat terrifying.

She was mourning.

When she saw Ethan sitting on the couch, she showed extreme fright in her eyes.

Then, she was dragged out of the room.

Bishop's eyes darkened shortly, but he remained expressionless.

It seemed that he had been given to such things.

"I didn't expect Mr.Denko like this kind of play.

Unique."

Ethan smiled.

After the door was closed, he then said unhurriedly, "Okay.

Time for business."

"No hurry."

Bishop picked up the wine glass on the table and said, "Let me give you a toast, Mr.Denko.

Chapter 328 A Mission Lucia had only three days.

According to August's order, she needed to persuade Jonathan into becoming redeur's spokesman and signing the contract in three days.

Also, she would have to plan on how to leave Austos City.

Judging from August's attitude towards her, she had guessed that he wouldn't tolerate the existence of the fetus in her womb.

Therefore, she would have to leave the city with her baby, and find a place that August would never be able to find her.

However, three days weren't enough for such a grand plan.

More than that, her father was in hospital.

All these things along with other trifles really brought her headache.

The most urgent task now was to seal the deal with Jonathan about endorsement.

She could consider other things later.

In the second morning, she rushed to redeur's office building.

She went directly the general manager and obtained the contract drafted by the law department of the company under the name of August.

Before she left, she confirmed again with the general manager.

"Manager, I need to reconfirm it.

As long as Jonathan signs it, it is valid.

Am I right?"

The manager nodded and said as it was a matter of course.

"Yes.

It is valid as long as he signs."

"But..."

He hesitated and then asked, "Why don't you ask Jonathan and his agent come directly here so that they could know better about our company? It would also be more convenient for all of us to sign the contract too."

Lucia smiled and explained, "You don't know the details.

Mr.Black has a full schedule.

When he is free and can come and sign the contract, I don't think he can catch up with the shooting of our commercial for new releases in the next quarter.

So, I can only be the middleman and run for the errand and settle things down."

Hearing this, the manager nodded without doubting.

He smiled at Lucia and said, "Thank you for the toil."

"You're welcome.

I'm leaving."

The manager nodded smilingly.

Lucia then left with the contract.

She would have to wait until next week before Jonathan would commit his promise.

By then, the three-day promise would be broken.

Therefore, she had to strike first and get the issue of endorsement settled down as soon as possible! Thinking of which, Lucia unwittingly fastened her pace.

However, after a few steps, she was struck by a sudden strong dizziness.

Chapter 329 At Odds When she lived in the same neighborhood with Mandy, she was in good terms with Mandy.

They kept no secret from each other at that time.

However, now, she really couldn't tell Mandy the truth.

Mandy naturally had seen through Lucia's reluctance.

She hesitated for a while and took Lucia to a place with fewer people.

Her expression became more serious.

"Lucia, what on earth happened? You can tell me whatever you don't want to reveal.

Besides, I've been a nurse for so many years.

I know something about everything concerning medicine.

You might as well tell me."

She was expressing her innermost thoughts.

Though they hadn't been together for years, their friendship would be worn out so easily by time.

Lucia lowered her head, fingers twisted together, and felt more embarrassed.

She felt it hard to speak out her premarital pregnancy.

Mandy also sensed her nervousness.

"What on earth happened?"

Lucia took a deep breath and said, "I'm pregnant..."

Hearing this, Mandy was stunned.

Apparently, it was beyond her expectation.

Though Bishop had already mentioned the possibility of Lucia's pregnancy, she eliminated the possibility immediately.

However, the possibility should be reality.

Looking at Mandy's shocked expression, Lucia produced a bitter smile.

She rubbed hands uneasily and said, "I drew 400cc blood days ago.

And I felt dizzy today.

I am worried so I came for an exam."

Mandy calmed herself from shock, and, after taking a deep breath, she said softly, "That's too much.

It might be the cause of your dizziness.

Besides, lots of pregnant woman suffers anemia.

You must replenish blood.

Chapter 330 I'm The Owner Jonathan Black gave a snort with a sullen face.

"No, we didn't."

Finishing that, he began to play games on his mobile phone.

Lucia was helpless and got irked by his attitude but she could only heave a deep sigh to smother her anger.

Actually, she could guess something from his expression.

Though Lucia didn't know how she hit his nerve, she was quite clear that signing the contract was beyond the realms of possibility.

Enough of waiting, Lucia was fully conscious that Jonathan Black showed the slightest inclination to discuss the matter further with her, then she flatly left with a graceful smile.

She went to Central Hospital directly to visit her parents after leaving the shooting site.

"Dad and mom, do you have ever thought about living in other cities?"

When they were having dinner, Lucia asked her parents after some hesitation.

Mrs.Mitchell paused for a moment when she heard Lucia's question.

Stopping sharing the interesting stories of others, she asked solicitously, "Is there anything wrong? Why would you like to live elsewhere?"

"No...

"Just asking,"

Lucia managed to stutter a reply.

Mr.Mitchell produced a smile at her reply.

"Austos City is good for living in my opinion.

Life moves slowly here and the community service and urban public facilities are pretty good.

To be honest, we have spent most of our lives here and we are going to spend the rest of our lives here."

Lucia nodded thoughtfully.

She could not but hold peace given her father's words.

Suddenly, her hand was taken by a warm hand.

It was her father.

"Lucia, I am a contented man now with such a happy family.

The only thing I want is to be discharged from the hospital as soon as possible.

So, what you have mentioned is not on my bucket list."

Said Mr.Mitchell gently.

"Hey, you can't say that!"

Mrs.Mitchell cut in.

"Our mission is not accomplished until our sweet honey gets married!"

"Well, I don't think so.
