Chapter 361 Keep Child's Innocence "Mom, I want to play."

Timothy pulled Lucia's hand.

His eyes were full of expectation.

Lucia turned to Janet.

"Janet, how about you?"

Janet nodded seriously, "Me too."

Lucia really didn't know what to do.

The staff aside sensed her hesitation.

She asked, "Are you in? It's gonna start."

Lucia still couldn't make up her mind.

Though such facilities had seat belts and complete safety precautions, she was still afraid.

If she could only take care one of her kids, she would rather not play it.

The staff urged, "Are you in? One minute left."

Timothy and Janet looked at her pitifully, "Mom, let's go..."

Lucia heaved a sigh and said to the staff, "Thanks, we will wait for the next round."

By then, they could pick seats in the middle so that she could sit between the kids and take care of both of them.

Their safety had always been her priority.

The staff confirmed, "You sure? I'll put on the latch then."

Then, she was to shut the fence gate.

Suddenly, a sonorous and powerful male voice sounded.

"Wait."

Lucia was stunned.

She turned towards where the voice came and was so surprised that she lost her tongue when she saw August.

"You..."

Janet's eyes brightened.

She shouted in her childish voice, "Uncle Charming."

August smiled at Janet, and then scooped Janet up in his arms.

He said to the staff, "Please wait for a while.

We're playing."

The staff was so attracted by August's handsomeness.

She hurriedly nodded.

"Okay, okay."

August held Janet in his arms and went in.

He turned to Timothy and raised his chin at the boy.

She looked up at August and widened her eyes.

How will this work? The teacher asked for a family photo.

But August...

Lucia couldn't make a decision.

Paul was not here, and the kids needed to send the photos to the teacher in time.

Timothy looked at the time.

"Mom, before it's too late!"

Lucia took a deep breath.

She looked at August, and, after encouraging herself, said, "Well...

let's take a picture."

August was smiling brightly.

He asked, "What photo?"

Lucia hurriedly said, "It's nothing..."

Timothy cut in anxiously, "Our teacher asked us to take a picture of our family when we go out and play.

It's homework."

Hearing this, August repeated the kid's words, "Family?"

He didn't dislike the word.

Lucia flushed and said, "It's not what you think."

Hearing her words, August silently smiled.

He stood up and let the kids stand before him and Lucia.

He then reached out his long arm to take her phone.

After setting into selfie mode, he clicked the shutter button.

In the photo, the kids were smiling brightly.

August also showed a rare gentle expression.

Only Lucia seemed to be at a loss, looking dumbfounded but lovely.

August looked at the photo and beamed with satisfaction.

He then sent the photo to his phone and handed the phone back to the kids.

"It's done."

"Yeah.

We can hand in homework now!"

Happily, Timothy sent the photo to their teacher.

She hurriedly held his arm and said, "Paul, come with me.

Then, she pulled Paul's arm and led him to the other side.

"Paul, I failed to contact you today, so I brought Janet and Timothy here first.

And we ran into August in the park.

You know that August brought Janet back when she got lost last time.

And Janet said that she wanted to play with him.

So, I..."

Paul showed depress in his eyes.

But he soon regained his composure.

He smiled at Lucia and said softly, "It's okay.

I thought he was forcing you..."

Lucia shook her head and said, "He didn't."

Paul said smilingly, "Let's go.

The kids are waiting."

Then, he put his arm around Lucia's shoulder and they walked towards the dining table together.

"Dad, what took you so long?"

As soon as Paul approached the kids, Timothy looked up at him and asked.

Paul was still a little depressed.

But he hid his feelings and kept smiling.

He stroked the boy's little head and explained in a relaxing tone, "Dad was tied up by business.

I apologize to you for failing to arrive in time."

Timothy giggled.

"It's okay.

We had great fun today."

Paul smiled and sat opposite August.

He didn't look straight at August until now.

He said, "President Adams, I owe you my gratitude for looking after my wife and kids today.

I wish I could treat you to a meal next time.

Please do accept."

August looked up.

His eyes had shown hostility.

Chapter 364 Not Another Chance For a whole night, Lucia tossed and turned.

She didn't sleep well.

She had woken up before her alarm clock rang.

She checked her itinerary for the day on her phone, and got up to clean herself up.

She had made appointment with the studio that she would bring Timothy and Janet there to get familiar with the field so that the shooting might go smoothly.

Her biggest wish now was to finish the work in this place and leave with her kids.

She packed up things needed, and had breakfast with the kids.

She then hailed a taxi to bring them to the shooting spot, Austos Wildlife Park.

The theme of the film was wildlife protection, which was why the kids needed to get familiar with animals.

After that, they could study out a detailed shooting plan.

When they arrived at the park, Lucia found that the Wildlife Park was near Pleasant Valley they went to the other day.

They were all beside Vollmond Lake.

The kids was excited when they saw Pleasant Valley in the distance.

Their car drove along lakeside road and arrived at the gate of the wildlife park.

The kids even danced with joy.

"Yeah! Little animals!"

Lucia felt much happier when she saw how the kids trotting around carefreely.

She greeted Elijah.

"Hey, Elijah."

Elijah looked as if he was going on a vacation beside beach in his white T-shirt and white shorts.

He came towards her and, with open arms, wanted to give Lucia a big hug.

"Lucia, I miss you so much!"

Lucia took a subconscious step back.

As he was approaching her, a little figure bounced in.

"Freeze!"

Lucia looked down and found Timothy stood between them like a little knight.

Chapter 365 I Am Your Boss Before Timothy and Janet knew it, they had played for the entire afternoon.

They all absorbed themselves into the fun of the wildlife park.

They played with monkeys, touched elephants' skins, and even stroked a python.

The animals were at first scared of the kids, but, after the afternoon, they got along better.

Kids were so innocent that they could easily accept other beings.

Lucia could feel their changes and felt gratified from the bottom of her heart.

She was right about the shooting job.

At least, in this way, she could teach the kids to love and respect wildlife.

It was a precious lesson from nature.

Before the end of the day's work, the director asked the kids how they felt and communicated with them about the shooting plan for the next day.

Lucia sat aside and took a rare relaxation from taking care of both the kids.

At this moment, a black car drove over slowly and stopped right outside the shooting site.

Then, the door opened and a tall figure came out of it.

Lucia didn't notice the car as she kept her eyes on her children all the time.

She didn't turn to the car until the director abruptly stood up and walked outside.

When she saw the man standing in front of the car, she was stunned and dumbfounded.

Am I hallucinating? How come August is here? She gave a gasp and hurriedly sat straight.

She rubbed her eyes and again shot her gaze in the same direction.

As if by telepathic reaction, August also turned to look at her at the same time.

When their eyes met, it was as if a spark had been ignited.

Lucia was so shocked that she even held her breath.

She hurriedly flinched away from him, and unwittingly clenched her hands.

What on earth is going on? After she returned Austos City, she could run into August so frequently.

If their meeting the day before could be called a coincidence, it would be too weird that she should meet him again at work! Suddenly, the director turned to her and called her.

"Lucia, come over please."

Lucia took a deep breath and suppressed the anxiety and doubts in her heart.

She stood up and walked towards them with pretended composure.

Lucia gnashed her teeth and retreated to draw back distance from him.

However, August changed his stern face from the past and winked mischievously at her! "Look good after the two little limps, I gotta go now."

Lucia was in a daze since hearing his words.

Therefore, she didn't notice that August had gotten into his car and driven away.

Standing still, Lucia was wondering why August had changed completely within five years.

Before she could figure it out, the sound of footsteps interrupted her train of thought.

It was Janet and Timothy threw their arms around her legs respectively.

"Mom! What are you doing?"

Lucia looked down at their rosy cheeks, feeling a strong feeling of affection sweeping her over.

She then reached out her hand to pet their heads and asked tenderly, "How is it going with your discussion with the director over there?"

"He is nice to us! And he told us that we can go to the zoo for a video shoot!"

"Yeah, we all understand what he has told us!"

Their naive words amused Lucia.

"You two are great! Now that you're ready for the shoot tomorrow, let's go home now!"

She smiled sincerely.

"Great! Let's go home!"

Lucia took them by the hands to lead them to take leave of the camera crew.

After they had packed their stuff, they left.

Lucia used the online car-hailing app to hail a taxi when they got to the gate of the Wildlife Park.

However, they didn't get a car after waiting for a long time.

Actually, Paul had offered a ride for them after shooting but Lucia didn't mean to bother him after he had confessed his affection to her yesterday.

It would be embarrassing for them.

A long time had passed but they still hailed no taxi.

"Yes, I do.

My lady"

Mark nodded, and when he did that, the long red scar on his forehead looked even more horrible, just like a twisted centipede.

Jeanne couldn't bear such a scar anymore and took a step back subconsciously.

"Mark, maybe you have to change your haircut to hide the scar on your forehead.

It looks too scary for me..."

She said in disgust.

Something gloomy came and went in Mark's eyes when he heard what Jeanne had said.

"I'll do it as the lady says."

Jeanne was satisfied with his obedience.

"This is where you live after being released?"

She gave a glance around the shabby room and said.

"Yeah, but I'll be at your service if you want me"

Mark answered stoutly.

"Not yet, the only thing you have to do now is to hide your identity."

Jeanne held that an arrow shot from hiding is difficult to guard against.

That's why she pulled out all the stops to free Mark! Then, she took a bank card out of her bag and put it on the table.

"There are one hundred thousand dollars in it and the password is my birthday number.

It is for you.

Ask me for more if you run out of it."

"Mark seemed to be not happy with that money.

"My lady, there is no need..."

"Just take it as I say."

She seemed to run out of her patience.

Money is necessary if he wanted to run errands for her smooth and she is always generous to her right-hand man.

Noticing Mark's frowned brows, Jeanne raised her hand and tapped him on his shoulder, saying softly, "Mark, you are the only person I put trust in now, I hope you can lead a comfortable life after you have suffered so much in prison, that's why I give you money.

when she had left Austos City for a few months, exactly before she was about to give birth, Paula went to Amecan to see her.

At that time, she had perceived that she was not well.

She wouldn't know that Paula had broken up with Burton but for her probing.

Nevertheless, Paula just kept the reason why they had broken up the secret from everyone, and every time she fished for the cause of it Paula just closed up.

At last, Lucia gave up.

A few years had passed after they had broken up.

In recent years, Paula didn't date anyone at all, which almost drove Paul Thomas crazy for he was afraid that her sister would die alone if she went on like this.

But he couldn't force a marriage on his sister.

Suddenly, it dawned on Lucia why Paula didn't go out with anyone over the past few years.

That was because she had given her heart to that man! Lucia signed slightly and motioned the two imps to stop talking about that.

"Paula, which restaurant shall we eat at today?"

Lucia caught her with quick and light steps.

Lucia's voice jolted Paula out of her contemplation.

She hastened to signal to Lucia where they are going to dine tonight.

"On the second floor, there was a restaurant serving delicious beef steak and a special area for kids to enjoy themselves."

All too soon, they reached the restaurant.

No sooner had they entered the restaurant Janet and Timothy went to play in the play area.

The beers were served soon, Lucia handed Paula a bottle of beer and asked mildly, "Paula, Is there any possibility between you and Burton...?"

Then, she looked at her with a tentative look.

Paula's face changed slightly for a while, and she opened a bottle of beer sipping slowly.

"You know, I have split with him for a long time."

Her voice was full of studied nonchalance.

"Yes, I know you are split with him.

But I can tell from his eyes that he was still in love with you."

Paula clenched the bottle slowly until her knuckles were white.

"Whatever."

She gave a gasp while she said.

Seeing the pretence of indifference that Paula kept up, Lucia felt a strong feeling of frustration.

As her intimate for so many years, how could she didn't know that Paula was unable get Burton out of her mind? Lucia panted heavily and gulped down the whole bottle of beer in her hand.

"Pop!"

She put down the bottle on the table with an abrupt halt.

Lucia took a deep breath and said, "Why do I feel that things won't go so smoothly."

As soon as she said that, a member of staff walked over from the side.

"Lucia, Elijah, the director wants you over."

After hearing that, Lucia's heart skipped a beat.

She looked at Elijah and Elijah looked at her as well.

Only then did Lucia nod at the member of staff.

"Alright, we'll head over right away."

As soon as they walked over to where the director was, Lucia saw that the director was scrolling his phone screen.

He was looking at the samples of the pictures of Timothy and Janet had just taken.

The director raised his head and looked at Lucia and Elijah.

"Please, take a seat."

Seeing that Lucia and Elijah had sat down, the director paused and said, "It's nothing big, it's just that the set of pictures that I've sent to President Adams to have a look at didn't meet his expectations.

Therefore, we'll have to retake the pictures."

When Lucia heard those words, she subconsciously furrowed her brows.

As expected, there was a reason why she had a bad feeling.

Elijah's face turned serious and asked, "Is there a problem?"

"President Adams said that the pictures doesn't feel right."

Elijah's face darkened.

"Doesn't feel right? What does that mean?"

The shoot that lasted for two days wasn't an easy job.

Sometimes Timothy and Janet had to stand under the blazing sun.

They would also need cooperation from the wild animals as well.

The pictures at the moment were the results of everyone's hard work.

Hearing that the pictures didn't feel right to the higher ups made everyone feel frustrated.

The director smiled and said, "It's stated in our contract that if the first party has any requirements or dissatisfaction, the second party would need to cooperate with them."

Elijah frowned.

Chapter 370 You're Not Married August was originally a little suspicious.

If he knew that she and Paul weren't married, she was afraid that the matter about the children could no longer be kept a secret.

She gritted her teeth, gathered her courage, raised her eyes to meet the man's probing gaze, and said stiffly, "How I sleep with Paul has nothing to do with you."

The moment the words came out of her mouth, August's face darkened.

The moment he thought of her with another man, anger arose in his heart.

He raised his eyes and swept a glance at Timothy and Janet who were looking curiously at them from a small car not far away, his heart tightened and he stretched out his hand and clutched Lucia's wrist without hesitation, opened the car door and pulled her in directly.

With a loud bang, the car door was closed.

The front row of Burton was a bit surprised when he raised his eyes and happened to meet with August's gaze in the rearview mirror.

The man's face was slightly sunken and he didn't hesitate to give orders.

"Get out of the car and go watch Timothy and Janet."

When Burton heard the order, he didn't hesitate to get off the car.

The moment the door closed, the inside of the car and the outside world were instantly isolated.

Lucia instantly felt nervous.

She raised her head and looked at August.

She wanted to pull her hand back.

"What are you doing?"

The man's palm was like a lock, tightly clasping her wrist, and was refusing to let go.

His dark, bottomless eyes stared at her, his face serious, his eyes were serious as well.

"Lucia, do you really intend to keep lying to me?"

That day at the amusement park, he took the time to talk with Janet, and asked how Lucia and Paul's relationship was, and only then did he learn that they were sleeping in separate rooms.
