Chapter 381 It Was Mark Page! Pollard's words reminded everyone.

After a few seconds of silence, Kara suddenly tapped her head.

"Director Brook asked for bloopers and I've been filming on the set today.

I remember filming the temps!"

She took a phone out of her pocket and went through the videos.

Lucia subconsciously tensed up.

All her hopes were pinned on those videos.

After a while, Kara shouted excitedly, "Pollard, look, is this Ewan?"

Pollard immediately stepped forward, glanced at the screen, and quickly nodded.

"It's him!"

Lucia quickly walked over.

In the video, Kara was spinning around with her phone, and a man in dark blue overalls and a hat flashed by behind her.

He was walking past the cage! Intuition told Lucia that it must be this man who had tampered with the cage! She took the phone from Kara and felt that the man looked familiar.

She thought that she had seen him before.

She gritted her teeth and stared at the man for a long time, but she couldn't remember.

Just as she was about to give up, an image popped into her head.

The man who had ordered the motorcyclist to hit her five years ago had the same figure and manner of walking as the man in the video...

Mark Page! This name came to Lucia.

She took a deep breath and froze in place.

Chapter 382 She Was Diagnosed with Stress Disorder After leaving the safari park, Lucia sat in the passenger seat and never spoke on the way to the hospital.

Everything that had happened recently flashed through her mind like a movie.

She suddenly thought of what Jeanne had said to her that day when she came to see her.

At that time, Jeanne had warned her.

Now that something had happened to Janet and the suspect was a man who looked like Mark, which was suspicious.

"Lucia..."

Paul's soft and gentle voice came from the side, and Lucia slowly came to her sense. She took a deep breath and turned to look at Paul.

Paul felt sorry for her.

He persuaded softly while driving, "Don't worry. Janet will be fine."

Lucia's face didn't change. She knew well that he was just trying to comfort her and these comforting words had no substantial effect.

Just when she didn't know how to answer, the car's Bluetooth suddenly rang, and Paula called.

Paul didn't hesitate, and immediately pressed the answer button, "Hello? How's Janet?"

Paula's worried voice came from the other end of the phone, "Janet is awake, but not in a good condition."

When Lucia heard this, her face suddenly changed.

She straightened up quickly and asked, "What...what's wrong with her?"

Paula hesitated for a moment, and then said softly, "I can't tell. Anyway, come back and have a look as soon as possible."

Lucia's heart tightened a lot after she heard Paula's words. She clenched her fists tightly and felt anxious and helpless.

Paul stepped on the accelerator and drove faster.

Soon, the car arrived at the door of the hospital.

Before he could stop the car, Lucia had already pushed the door open and run into the hospital. She ran to the door of the ward panting.

Seeing that Lucia didn't speak for a long time, a trace of disappointment flashed across Janet's face, and she said in a low voice, "Mom, if you don't want to, then forget it..."

Janet's disappointment made Lucia's heart tighten and she couldn't bear it.

She took a deep breath and lowered her head to ask, "Do you want to see him?"

Janet nodded seriously and said, "I want to see Handsome Uncle."

Hearing this, Lucia gritted her teeth, calmed down, and nodded, "Okay, I'll call him."

She stood up, put Janet on the hospital bed, covered her with the quilt, and said softly, "I'm going to call him. You lie here, you know?"

Janet nodded obediently.

Lucia smiled, stroked her little head, and then walked out of the ward.

When the door closed, the smile on her face disappeared, replaced by a look of worry. She clenched her phone tightly and didn't mean to make a phone call at all. She and August had a bit of a fight that day.

Now if she called him to ask him for help, wouldn't it be a bit abrupt? If he refused to come, how should she explain it to Janet? Lucia thought about it and became more hesitant.

Ten minutes passed quickly and she was still in a dilemma. She dared neither call him nor go back to the ward to face Janet's big innocent eyes.

After thinking about it, she finally gritted her teeth, flipped through his phone address book, and found August's contact information.

Thinking of Janet, she made up her mind and pressed the call button.

The beeping sound from the other end of the phone, like a spell, made her nervous involuntarily.

At the same time, August was sitting in a bright studio.

The lights above and in front of him were very bright. He was sitting on one end of the round sofa, and at the other end was a host in a suit.

"As we all know, President Adams, you're one of the youngest and most successful entrepreneurs in our Austos City. Of course, apart from your career, many netizens are very concerned about your personal life. It's said that you have a beautiful wife at home. Can you share with us your..."

Before the host finished her sentence, August heard the vibrating sound of his phone. He lowered his eyes slightly and glanced at the front-facing phone screen on the side. His eyes suddenly dimmed a little.

Chapter 384 You'd Better Make up Your Mind After hesitating for a moment, Lucia gritted her teeth and followed August out of the ward.

Closing the door, she looked at August's broad back and stopped him, "August, wait a minute."

August paused, turned his head, and looked at her.

Lucia took a deep breath, stepped forward, and said, "Thank you for coming today."

August blinked.

He paused, glanced at Lucia's face, and said, "Sincerely?"

Lucia was slightly startled.

She looked up at him, and said softly after a few seconds, "Yes, sincerely."

He had made Janet happy and she was very grateful to him for that alone.

They fell silent.

Suddenly, August thought of something.

He walked towards her, looked down at her, and said coldly, "If you're good to Janet, you'd better make up your mind."

Lucia frowned slightly.

Before she could speak, August continued, "At least, don't mess around."

His words hit Lucia hard in the face.

She was puzzled at first.

But two seconds later, she suddenly realized what he meant.

The last time he had met her and Jonathan was in the teahouse.

A few days later, outside the surveillance room of the safari park, Paul had come over and taken her away.

It turned out that August thought she was seeing them both! Lucia somehow felt annoyed.

She looked up and saw him turn to leave.

She got angry and ran after him.

"August!"

She was already blushing when she caught up, "Don't worry.

Paul and I have a very good relationship, and no man can get between us.

Timothy and Janet will also grow up in a complete family.

None of this is something you need to worry about."

Looking at the tears on her pink cheeks, Lucia had mixed feelings.

Soon her mixed feelings and guilt for Janet turned into courage, making her eager to catch the murderer and avenge Janet immediately.

Lucia gritted her teeth and suddenly thought of something.

She tucked Janet in and turned around with a determined look on her face.

Staring at Paul standing at the door, she took a deep breath and said, "Paul, I'm going to Old Mrs.Adams' birthday party."

Surprised by her sudden change, Paul froze and asked worriedly, "Lucia, are you serious?"

Since it was Old Mrs.Adams' birthday party, everyone in the Adams family would be there and Lucia would inevitably run into August and Jeanne.

He was worried about her.

Lucia knew what Paul wanted to say.

She smiled at him and said in a soft voice, "Don't worry.

I know what to do."

She wanted to attend the birthday party for two reasons.

First, she wanted to see Old Mrs.Adams, and second, she wanted to test whether Jeanne had anything to do with this matter.

If she did, she would never let Jeanne go! A few days before the birthday party, Lucia received a call from Jennifer and was asked to the studio to see the latest dresses.

Lucia was free and agreed.

In the studio, Lucia was amazed by Jennifer's latest dresses.

They were much more stunning than any of the dresses she had seen before.

They were well-cut and designed to be really catchy.

Lucia said as she walked, "These dresses are totally different from 'Green'."

Jennifer nodded and said in a soft voice, "Yes, 'Green' is mainly for the general public.

These are uniquely designed to be catchy but not over the top."

Lucia nodded and looked expectantly at the dresses.

Chapter 386 Old Mrs.Adams' Birthday Party Lucia asked Elisa with a frown, "August Adams?"

Elisa nodded and said with a smile, "Yes, I didn't expect him to care so much about Janet."

I Lucia's heart jolted.

Elisa and Bill had always thought that Janet and Timothy were Lucia and Paul's children and had no idea how dangerous August was.

Lucia walked up to her worriedly and asked, "Why did he come here?"

Janet mumbled while eating a large orange in bed, "Mr.Adams said he missed me..."

Lucia frowned and glanced uneasily at the pile of gift boxes.

August must be up to something.

Last time she had clearly warned him to stay away from her and her children, but he had sent so many things without telling her this time.

How could she accept them? Lucia bit her lip, turned to look at Elisa, and asked, "Mom, when did he leave?"

"Twenty minutes ago.

He said he came for a checkup and stopped by to see Janet."

Lucia took a deep breath and walked quickly out of the ward.

She called August as she walked down the hallway through the inpatient center to the examining room.

Finally, August answered the call and said in a low voice, "Hello?"

Lucia took a deep breath.

"Why did you send those things?"

On the other end of the line, August said casually after a moment of silence, "I never visit people empty-handed."

Speechless and angry, Lucia could only grit her teeth.

Just then, August added, "If you have a problem with me, you can tell me in person.

Turn around."

Confused, Lucia turned around, only to see August standing not far behind her with a smile.

threatened and subconsciously tightened her grip on August's arm.

August felt it and turned his head slightly to look at Jeanne.

Following her eyes, he saw Lucia and Paul walking up the steps together.

Lucia was wearing a light green cheongsam.

With each step, her fair and long legs were revealed.

In an instant, August frowned and looked her up and down.

Suddenly, he felt a rush.

'She's here anyway.

What an ungrateful woman! He was angry and stared at Lucia's and Paul's held hands with a gloomy face.

"Mr.Adams?"

the man who was talking to August called him awkwardly several times before August came to his senses.

August glanced at him and said indifferently, "You go first."

The man nodded awkwardly and walked into the hall with his female companion.

At that moment, Lucia and Paul had come up.

They looked up and met the eyes of August and Jeanne who were standing there.

It was a little awkward.

Paul said politely, "Mr.Adams, we're here for Old Mrs.Adams."

August glanced at Lucia and replied indifferently, "Please come in."

Lucia remained silent.

She was just about to go in with Paul when Jeanne asked, "Ms.

Mitchell, your cheongsam is so pretty.

May I ask where you ordered it?"

Chapter 388 Time for Her to Have A Showdown with Jeanne The man in the wheelchair looked like a graceful gentleman with a kind and gentle smile.

But looking at him, Lucia somehow felt a chill down her spine.

She smiled at him and said softly, "Mr.Adams, long time no see."

Hearing how she addressed him, Bishop frowned slightly, but the expression on his face didn't change much.

He smiled, changed the way he addressed her naturally, and praised, "I haven't seen you in five years.

Ms.

Mitchell, you look really beautiful.

"Thanks, Mr.Adams, you look in good spirits."

When they met again after five years, Bishop was no longer pale and weak as he used to be in Lucia's impression.

Although he was still sitting in a wheelchair, his skin was tanned and his weakness had faded, and he had become more masculine.

The two of them flattered each other for a while.

Lucia glanced down at the time on the phone, looked at Bishop, and said softly, "Mr.Adams, I have something else to do.

I'm afraid I have to go."

Bishop smiled and said, "Go ahead."

After they nodded to each other, Bishop turned the wheelchair to leave.

Lucia glanced at him inadvertently.

When she saw his legs move slightly under the blanket, she suddenly froze in place.

Weren't Bishop's legs completely paralyzed? Why did he move just now? Lucia raised her eyes and looked over again, only to see him driving the wheelchair away, and there was nothing unusual.

Lucia frowned, and her heart was full of doubts.

She saw Bishop's legs move just now, and she was not dazzled! Could it be...

"Lucia!"

There suddenly came a voice from behind and Lucia came to her sense.

She turned her head to look over and saw Paul walking towards her.

Paul stretched out his hand and hugged her shoulder naturally, "How was your talk with Mrs.Adams?"

"Very good.

Let's go over there."

She had not expected that Lucia would ask her so directly.

Before she could answer, Lucia stepped forward and walked towards her.

With a decent smile on her face, Lucia said softly, "Ms.

Kelly, maybe you can tell, I'm no longer the Lucia I used to be."

Her tone was very light, and she didn't sound tough at all, but it sent a chill down Jeanne's spine.

Jeanne frowned and asked in a cold voice, "What do you want to say?"

Lucia smiled, calmly turned her head to look at the distant scenery, and said softly, "I know, you must be very afraid.

You're afraid that I will take away your current position and destroy your family.

You're even more afraid that I will take August's heart, aren't you?"

Jeanne's face instantly darkened.

She couldn't maintain her sanity, and said, "What nonsense are you talking about?!"

"You know if I'm talking nonsense."

Lucia tucked her long hair around her ear and said, "To be honest, I can do all of this.

I haven't done it because I don't want to."

She met Jeanne's gaze and her voice suddenly became cold, "Do you think I don't know what you've done behind my back?"

Hearing Lucia's words, Jeanne froze.

She suddenly had difficulty breathing and broke out in a cold sweat.

Given what Lucia said, did Lucia already know what she had done? At this moment, Lucia suddenly took a step forward, approached her, and said in a low voice, "Or do you think you can still plot against me like before and I don't know how to resist?"

Jeanne shivered violently, and the toughness she had just now dissipated a lot in an instant.

She gritted her teeth, glared at Lucia, and said, "Lucia, what are you...

After a pause of two seconds, he said slowly, "I heard everything."

When Paula heard his words, her face changed in fright, "You mean..."

Burton took a deep breath and said, "Timothy and Janet are August's flesh and blood."

Hearing Burton's words, Paula froze in place for a long time.

She hadn't thought that Burton knew everything! When Burton knew it, it meant that August was about to know it too! Thinking of this, Paula panicked! She knew well how Lucia had survived the past five years.

If this secret that they had kept for five years was suddenly revealed, something bad would happen! She gritted her teeth, suddenly thought of something, and raised her head quickly.

When she saw Burton, a dim light suddenly flashed in her eyes.

She immediately stepped forward, reached out, and grabbed Burton's arm.

She gritted her teeth and was ready to fight against him to the end, "Don't go! You're not going today!"

Seeing that Paula's face suddenly changed, and she held his arm and refused to let go, Burton couldn't help smiling.

He felt amused and asked, "Why?"

Paula grabbed his arm tightly and said hysterically, "You know why! Burton, you are so despicable! You were hiding in the corner and eavesdropping on people! You're not a gentleman at all."

"If you dare to tell others, I won't go easy on you!"

"Did you hear me?! You're going to keep it to yourself, and you can't tell anyone!"

Hearing her threat, Burton smiled even more.

Why did he think it was interesting? "Burton! I'm talking to you!"

Seeing that Burton didn't respond for a long time, Paula suddenly became angry.

But Burton was born with a poker face and he always looked so cold.

Paula thought that he was inhumane and he couldn't accept what she had said just now! Thinking of this, Paula suddenly wanted to cry.

But for Lucia's future happiness as well as for Timothy and Janet, she must find a way to stop this! Paula gritted her teeth and made up her mind.

Her expression softened a bit when she looked at Burton again, and her voice was a bit more polite, "Burton, name your price."

At this time, money didn't matter.

If she could pay Burton to keep quiet, this was what she should do the most.
