

Submit 457

Chapter 457 Have you ever protected her?

All the clues were slowly fitted into each other then. Paul felt the blood in his body boil. Suddenly, he remembered something, and his eyes were sunken.

Lucia took a deep breath and calmed herself. She rubbed her hands together, feeling a little uneasy as she suppressed her fury

After listening to Timothy talk about this matter in the ward earlier, she already had a vague answer in her heart. But now, after speaking with Paul, it became clear to her.

Apart from Jeanne, she couldn't think of another person who hated her and her children so much. Not to mention that Jeanne knew about Timothy and Janet's true identity.

Seemingly, seeing that Lucia's mood dropped, Paul raised his hand and placed his broad palm on her shoulder before he spoke in a deep voice, "Lucia, leave this matter to me."

Lucia took a deep breath. All the hatred towards Jeanne, sorrow, and sense of indebtedness to Paula all got mixed up in her heart.

Things from the past flooded in like a tide in her mind. All the things that Jeanne did for her, Timothy, and Janet came rushing on her as if something blew up in her.

She clenched her teeth unconsciously as she tasted rustiness in her mouth, coming from the blood that dripped from her bitten lips

Finally, hot tears fell from her eyes, and she said in a hoarse voice. "Paul, I can't take it anymore

She couldn't bear the fact that Jeanne attacked her and the people she cared for over and over again
She couldn't bear the fact that she was indirectly implicating the people around her

Paul's heart tightened suddenly Subconsciously, he stretched out his hand and pulled her into his arms
His heart felt sour as he raised his hand and patted her on the back. Finally, he comforted her with words "Don't worry, leave this matter to me"

Even if there was a monstrous anger building in his heart. This time, he needed to man up and take the responsibility of giving justice. He wouldn't forget this matter that easily

After Lucia calmed down, Paul came out of the ward and his face instantly turned cold He turned and instructed his men

start investigating from Jeanne Contact the police real culprit, and no matter what, he would never fast, two days had already passed

West Bridge They also sent bodyguards with them and asked Lucia's parents to take care was still lying on the bed in the intensive care unit, looking still anymore. She showed up at the door of the attending doctor's office numerously, waiting for a result a good sign. Even if the injury was serious, Paula my friend

she had asked the doctor this same question The doctor was already having a headache because vital signs are normal. I have sent someone gasp and nodded, but her heart was still watch.

the other doctor there to take out Paula's results in advance. Afterward, Lucia to see "See this part? It is the cause of the car accident. It's bleeding Because her head was traumatized in the accident, her brain cells were damaged. The patient will be in a coma for a while But if it's not serious, the patient will

She gasped and asked, extensively damaged If it gets severe the that electrocuted her. She felt inexplicably uneasy After a while, she she will wake up For now, we can only words that remained in her at Paula who was lying on the bed. She couldn't help but with her chattering But now, she just wanted to tears kept

long after, she was about to leave when she heard hurrying footsteps behind her and saw the tall man's face She was last time they saw each other Now that Paula had an accident, it's only

She was about to scold him but when she raised her eyes, she saw Burton's eyes that were full of