

Submit 516

Chapter 516 They Had a Common Enemy

Il Wâ$ in the Adams Group. Pauls car was parked at the door When he opened the door and got off the car, he had already put on a crisp suit. He vwalked directly through the door, walked to the íront desk, and said, "Please contact your president. and my surname 15 Thomas."

The receptionist was a little hesitant, but seemg the man in íront of her with extraordinary bearmg. she didnt dare lo retuse directly, so she agreed and called the Presidents Office to handle It Soon, the secrelary picked It up, and when he heard thai someone wanted to visit Bishop, he said directly, *Sorry for that, our president is in a meeting now, so please ask Mr.

Thomas to make an appointment next time.'

The secretary on the other end said it seriously. Through the receiver, Paul stood aside and heard them all He frowned slightly, and happened to face a troubled expression on the receptionist. He said coldly, 'Give me the phone and let me talk to her The receptionist hesitated íor a while, and íinally handed over the phone.

Paul held the receiver and said seriously on the phone, Tm Paul from Cloud Technology I came to your president today because I have urgent matters and I donì have lime to make an Dppointment. Please help me pass the original words to your president, and I vvill wait here for ten minutes. Íf your president reíuses to see me, I will leave directly áíteHen minutes Íf you delay the matter because you did not convey it properly, you will be responsible for the consequences *

Aíter he said these, the secretary on the other end of the phone was a little coníused Aíter a few seconds of silence, the secretary said gently from the other side, 'Please wait a moment, and I will convey It to our president * And then she hung up the phone.

Paul stood aside, frowning slighlly, with a bil of impatience in the corners of his eyes. Íf Bishop knew that Paul was the one who came to him, he would deímitely agree to see Paul. Sure enough, vvilhin two minutes, the phone at the íront desk rang. Immediately áítervvards, áíter the receptionlst answered the phóne, she hung up the phone and looked at him. "Mr. Thomas, it has been conveyed to our resident and yotr can visit him novv."

Paul thanked her politely. and walked directly towards the elevator entrance. Soon, he arrived at the íirst íloor where Presidents Oííice was located. As soonas theelevator door opened, he saw the secretary standingoutsideto greet him. The secretary led him to Bishop's oííice. <sup>1</sup>

Pocket. He picked It up

the vibration of the mobile phon

others didnt go to Evergreen

our people

mountam'

abandoned, bul I didnt expect people stayed outside. To be honest, I think this monastery them at all. He clicked on the photos, and sure enough, he saw that the photos taken by Archie were very comprehensive. From Lucia and the others just getting off the car and climbing up the mountain, to the scene

Temple. If they wanted to find August's whereabouts, but they should bypass Evergreen Temple, directly climbed up the mountain, and even went to a monastery in the mountain. That meant August may be hidden there! Paul's heart moved, and he became more speechless. Bishop had already looked up at him with a smile, and immediately ordered the secretary to prepare tea.

I have something important to tell you. So, I'll leave after I finish.' Seeing this, the smile on

Paul directly closed the door. At the moment, there were only the two of them in the huge office. One was standing, and the other was sitting. They looked at each other and their auras mingled. Paul was the first to break the silence, and asked

then snorted coldly, "Mr Thomas came to me

didn't take it seriously. and said coldly, dilated for a moment, and then he pretended to be calm, and said sarcastically. *It was Mrs. Thomas a few days ago, and now you came here in person. You couple are