

Submit 517

Chapter 517 The Rain Would Always stop

Li was in a monastery in Evergreen Mountain. The abbot received the three of Lucia, and not long after they entered, the sky outside became more and more gloomy, thunder rumbled, and the clouds became lower. After a while, it rained heavily.

Holding hot tea in her hand, Lucia walked to the door and took a look outside, and she said worriedly, "Wonder if the rain will stop." The three of them discovered it was a monastery when they arrived near the building seen in the middle of the mountain just now. There was a plaque hanging at the gate, which was pretty old, but it was not difficult to see the four words on it, "Evergreen Meditation Yard".

The three of them lingered at the door for a while, and when they were hesitating whether to go in directly, a young monk suddenly walked out of the door. He was about five or six years old, cute and lovely. He was just a bit timid and defensive when he looked at them. They wanted to stop the little monk to ask a few words, but the little monk closed the door, turned around and ran away.

After a while, the door opened again, and a calm and benevolent old man in a gray blue robe came out. He greeted them kindly, and even invited them to come in.

Lucia had originally wanted to go in and take a look, now she had such an opportunity, she naturally did not refuse. She had said with Kylan and Zane that they pretend to be climbers who came to them by accident, and walked in with the abbot naturally. As soon as they entered, the abbot introduced himself to them, and then ordered people to bring tea to entertain them. After chatting for a few minutes, there was a muffled thunder outside.

Lucia stood at the door, pretending to watch the rain, but kept looking around to search for something. She never imagined that there would be an Evergreen Meditation Yard in the mountain. If August was really thrown into the mountain, would the people in the yard have seen him? Thinking of this, Lucia was inexplicably excited.

At this moment, Mr. Makoto came over and glanced at the heavy rain outside, as if he was afraid that Lucia would be worried, so he explained softly, "The rain in the mountain is like this. It comes and goes quickly, so don't worry. You can wait here for a while. It's not late to go when the rain stops."

The words, Evergreen Meditation Yard, written on the plaque outside the door, and there is an Evergreen Temple outside the mountain.

abbot of Evergreen Temple, but later, Evergreen Temple was in decline. There were no worshippers, and the of the old man, Lucia's heart sank. Although it was only the first time they met, she could see the old man's wisdom, calmness.

soon as she walked in, she saw the flowers and plants on both sides, and some vegetables grown by themselves. A few young monks were chasing and laughing around.

and romantic. When people looked at it, their hearts would calm down unknowingly. She never imagined that there was such a paradise hidden in such a mountain, which was came in. They were good at fighting, but they couldn't figure out the way stop." These words came out of his mouth was a little Zen-style. Lucia's heart was much calmer than when she first came in. Now listening to what he said, at Mr. Makoto standing on the other side and ask, "Abbot, I summon a young monk. and said softly,

Janet. He had big eyes, wearing gray black clothes. very cute Lucia was delighted, and smiled at him. She turned Zane and Kylan to wait here. It would be inappropriate for three of them to wander around in the yard. so It was enough saying that they were wanted to look around and find the clues she nodded seriously, and