

Submit 552

Chapter 552 True Love

Lucia had basically recovered from her burns on her back. Paul would still bring the kids to her every day, which made her hospitalized days less boring.

However, August hadn't come and didn't even appear in her life for the past week since his departure that night.

However, it seemed that August was getting busy. In the past week, he gradually became more active on TVs and in front of the public. He engaged in various social engagements and was under wide discussion.

Three days ago, he returned to Lion as its president, which arouse a great stir. Even Lion's employees were astonished.

The outsiders could only make baseless conjectures.

Everyone knew that Bishop led the entire group alone in August's two-month absence. He led shareholders to reform the group's rules and regulations and undertook projects in a conspicuous and resolute way. He indeed had regarded himself as the new leadership of the group.

No one had expected that August would return with shares that could give him absolute predominance in the company and, more importantly, with a lofty quality that he was born with.

There had been rumors of the Adams brothers' power struggles against each other. August's "death" and "resurrection" had proved the rumor.

Their dispute had become indisputable facts. On the day August returned to Lion, Bishop put on a great show of welcoming his brother. He greatly flattered August in front of the public.

However, out of everyone's expectation, August should have become a cripple! Though disabled, he looked no less august. than before and even showed more resolution and decisiveness in his eyes.

The Adams brothers seemed to have changed their position. But they both kept their stance. August's return made the public exclaim how fast things change.

Lucia read all these news about August from various news media, and, for lots of times, she wanted to call him but restrained herself at last.

She looked up and saw Paul coming in with a bunch.

asked, "What do you think of them? You like them?" Paul had been with her everyday recently, showing meticulous and thoughtful care. He would even buy

Lucia could require of a perfect

Paul's forehead. She couldn't help chucking and wiped his sweat with a tissue. "Is it hot held her hand smilingly. "It's sunny today.

his invitation when an abrupt ringtone interrupted her. Paul took out his phone furrowed his brows and answered is it?"

from the receiver but she couldn't hear it clearly. She could only tell that it was a man calling Paul.

cast a glance at allow him to approach Paula. Keep a close watch."

words, Lucia had guessed been with August for a long time. Judging from the period of time, he should have been

by Paul

to continue giving instruction when turned to her, anger simmering unconfident, but she took a deep breath and got off the bed. He walked close showed coldness in his eyes. "How do you know?"

bit her lips and said after a short struggle in her heart, "In fact, it was me who asked him to away his phone and stared at Lucia. "Why did you do that?" Lucia should know how much he disliked Burton! She

"That was my intention in the first place. My sister could do anything she wants except keep being stuck with Burton to see Burton

all. Frowning still, he answered with a cold

How could you be so sure that he tries to get close to Paul