

Submit 563

Chapter 563 Stay Here Tonight

Thousands of possibilities flashed through Lucia's mind, but she couldn't pick a suitable solution. She felt sad to see these homeless children heading to another unknown place.

Finally, she made up her mind, looked up at Zane, and said in a firm voice, "I'll go talk to August again."

Coming out of Sunshine Plant, she went to the car. Then she knocked on the backseat window. Soon the window rolled down from the inside. August looked at her indifferently without expression, waiting for her to speak first.

Lucia clenched her fist slightly and said, "Can you think of a way to help those children?"

At that, August narrowed his eyes. Soon, he asked, "Tell me, how can I help them?"

Lucia said in a serious manner, "First try to find their parents. If they are orphans, it's not too late to consider sending them to a welfare house."

August tightened his lips and asked, "How many children are there now?"

Lucia bit her lips and said, "More than twenty. "

August asked calmly, "Have you ever thought about how much it would cost to help these twenty children?" His simple sentence made in a calm voice, "I'm not a charity. I can only save them from those dry but she couldn't make a sound. She had nothing to say, withdrew his gaze, swept the phone screen, pressed the answer, and said,

Lucia unable to say a word.

"Hello."

"Okay, bring him back." Saying that, he hung up the phone.

a sigh of relief and nodded

the worst result. But She frowned. Thinking of the more than twenty children inside Sunshine Plant, she didn't know what to do. She turned her head towards the other side and happened to see a few children hiding in the doorway, a moment. She was even more determined to help them. Then she slowly clenched her fist and suddenly looked at Zane, saying softly, "Zane, there is something I need your help, please tonight..." After instructing everything, she went

He raised his eyebrows slightly her bag and said without looking up, "Have you ever heard of it? Help people and insist on helping them." After saying this, she was reluctant to say anything more. August naturally understood what she meant. He frowned, and then did spirits, probably because of the planned what to do next. The first priority was to find him a place where he could spend his days in peace. The rest could be arranged later. There was no sign of Jeff or the other little monks. But it was good news that Garnett had been found. Currently August was still living in with him, she could feel that the little guy had slowly relaxed and had more trust in her. In fact, Lucia knew him very well. Although at first Garnett was bitten

little guy leaning drowsily beside her. She felt relieved. Reaching out her hand,

In a few moments, he fell asleep next to her. August, who was sitting on the other side, watched her calmly. After a few moments, his expression slowly became much softer. Noticing the eyes staring caught in the moment. He smiled replied, "You laughed softly. "Really?"

restless. She raised her eyes and glanced at him, then pursed her lips and didn't want to head to look at