Chapter 569 Bill's Lottery Won

Feeling that everyone's eyes were on her, Lucia suddenly became nervous. She opened her mouth, "Well.. just let Garnett rest for a while, and he is still on guard."

August responded, "Well, I have arranged professional nurses to closely observe his condition."

Lucia pulled her lips a little stiffly, and said in an unfamiliar manner, "Okay, then thank you for him." August couldn't help frowning when he heard her unfamiliar tone. Before he had time to speak, he saw Lucia hold her bag and was about to leave.

Darnell, who was sitting on the single sofa closest to the door, saw Lucia get up, so he stood up naturally, walked to her side and said,

"I'll take you back."

A simple sentence seemed to weigh heavily on August's heart. He frowned, raised his eyes and looked in the direction where they left.

Looking at their backs, August's brows unconsciously furrowed. Seeing that they were about to get out of the ward, August suddenly blurted out, "Wait."

Hearing August's voice, Lucia was stunned, and turned to look at him, "Is there anything else?"

"Yes." August said affirmatively, "There are some things I want to tell you alone."

Lucia hesitated for a moment, then turned to look at Darnell beside him, "Thank you for sending me here just now, and you don't have to send me later. I can go back by myself."

Darnell raised his eyebrows slightly, his eyes stayed on her face for a moment, then he glanced at August over there lightly, and then hooked the corners of his lips with a half-smile, "Okay, I listen to you." He didn't insist on sending her, and just said this sentence wisely, and then walked out.

"Ahem!" Joshua coughed twice, and then winked at Kylan, "Kylan, I'm a little sleepy. Go out with me to buy a cup of coffee." Then, he stretched out his arms to embrace Kylan by the shoulder, and he forced Kylan to leave the ward.
