

Submit 578

Chapter 578 Planning to Get Married.

Lucia told the story from the beginning, and until Elisa had dinner all ready, she had just finished.

After listening to that long full of turns and twists, Paula put on a confused face, She took a long breath and sighed, "I didn't expect that so many things had happened during this time..."

Lucia sighed softly, "Well, it's just like making a movie. I can't imagine what the next plot will be."

Paula took her hand and comforted her, saying, "Well, you can't be blamed for this matter. In the final analysis, it's all August's fault." Lucia smiled bitterly, then shook her head and said, "It's my fault, and I don't want to put it on others." As she said, she turned her head to look at Paula, and smoothly changed the topic, "Okay, it's time to talk about you. Tell me, when you woke up and first saw the person in front of you was Burton, what did you feel?"

Paula's cheeks flushed, and she said embarrassedly, "What else can I feel!"

Lucia chuckled and deliberately bumped Paula lightly with her shoulder, "Come on! Tell me, how have you two been getting along these past few days?"

Paula said casually, "Well, just like that..." But unknowingly, her cheeks went red. She raised her eyes and quickly glanced at Burton, who was sitting on the other side and talking with Bill. Her face was like a red apple, with redness and hotness.

Aware of her such action and expression, Lucia smiled. She lowered her voice deliberately and ridiculed, "Paula, why haven't I seen you look like a little woman before? Look at your blushing face when speaking of Burton. Is there something you are not telling me?" "No! How?" Paula hastened to deny it, raising her hand and gently patting Lucia, "I've just returned, and you're teasing me like this.

Lucia you're too unkind!"

came out of the kitchen with a bowl of soup, "Okay, all six dishes and one soup are ready! Come and also stood up and headed for the table. The table had just settled down when a male voice with a smile came from the direction of the door, "Did you guys start early, or did a faint smile. Bill was rarely so happy and he laughed, "Paul, it's you being late! Come and have

Paul walked quickly, poured a glass of red wine, raised his glass to the crowd, and said softly, "I'm late, so I'll punish myself with the wine. Please forgive me." With that, he directly drank the wine in the glass in one go. The crowd applauded, and only then did Paul put down his glass. His gaze swept over Lucia and Paula, and finally swept over Burton, and when he saw him, his expression visibly the time, and finally ended well. After the meal was over, Elisa went to prepare fruits, while suddenly took Lucia's hands and came close to her ear and whispered, "Actually Lucia, there's something I didn't get to tell smile on her face, "Could she finished, Paula had already reached her right hand that was in her pocket. She unfolded her fingers and gently waved it in front of Lucia, and immediately, Lucia's eyes widened. In Paula's right ring finger, there was a shiny wide in disbelief to look at

to her to finish her sentence, Paula already sweetly nodded her head, like a little delicate woman. Lucia couldn't help but smile and stretch out her finger to poke Paula's waist, "Good for you!

her grievances, and then said mysteriously, "But you can not tell others. I did not even tell my brother about and winked at her, "Got it! Don't worry!"

at each other when suddenly, the sound of men arguing came from the direction of the balcony. With the sudden rise of the volume of a query, just so happened that Elisa came over with a fruit plate and heard the voice and immediately put on an astonished face, "Is it