

Submit 581

Chapter 581 The Thumb Drive Is Empty.

Sheriff Holland and Recorder Newman both were stunned when hearing Paula. Lucia added after a moment of hesitation, "Well, we suspected this was not an ordinary car accident when Paula was in a coma, and we also did some investigation. But we didn't get any clues as if they had been deliberately hidden by someone." Burton nodded in agreement. "As for that car, we've checked all the surveillance cameras along the way."

Hearing their words, Sheriff Holland knitted his eyebrows and felt that the situation was more complicated than he had imagined.

Casting a look at Paula, he said in a serious tone, "Since you came to us at this moment, you must have got some evidence. Right?" Paula nodded seriously, "Yes." She took out a thumb drive from her purse and put it on the desk as she answered. "There's a video on this thumb drive that shows how the perpetrator hit the car on purpose. We got the video clip from an automobile data recorder of a car parked nearby. Please take a look at it. We'd like to know whether it can be used as evidence."

Lowering his head, Sheriff Holland took a glance at the THUMB DRIVE, and his expression immediately became much more serious,

"Well, we'll let you know after checking the video." Paula said sure as she nodded. All of them went to another room with the thumb drive and used a computer to read the disk. They would check the video together. Among all of them, only Lucia had watched the video once before and she still could remember how cruel and vicious the scene was.

waiting, Lucia looked at Paula with a worried face, got this thumb drive, so I thought I'd better check it in the police office." Lucia nodded and then wonderingly. "How come there's no video clip on the thumb drive?" All of a sudden, they all turned to look at the screen to check it in person, ending up to find the same. The thumb drive was empty. Knitting her eyebrows, Lucia tone. However, the same result greatly shocked Paula. "How could it be?" August gave her the thumb drive in person, so how come there would be nothing see it and she thought of something during the process. Pursing her lips, as nothing. was on it. Sheriff Holland turned to give an apologetic look at Paula after confirming the fact, and ask her in a to him, "You were with me when August his arms and started to comfort her in a soft voice, "Don't be so worried. I'll call August right this second to check whether there's something wrong Seeing this, Lucia took a deep breath and said in a low voice, "Burton, take good care of Paula, and I'll go call August." Lucia walked out of the room after finishing her words and made a call to August at once. The call was soon connected after two rings. August seemed to be a bit surprised at getting the drive. It's empty." No one said anything on the phone after Lucia finished her words. After a while, August said, "How come it's empty?" "You're supposed to tell me why, aren't you?" Lucia was so angry that she raised her voice unknowingly, "Paula asked me to go to the police office with her right after she got the thumb drive. We opened the drive on the computer