

Submit 588

Chapter 588 Too Much Bias Against Him

If she allowed Timothy and Janet to be the page boy and flower girl at her wedding, her sense of guilt would constantly gnaw at her. She would feel guilty toward Paul, Timothy, and Janet. It was as though she would betray all of them at once. "Lucia..."

When she heard Paul calling out to her, Lucia finally came back to her senses. She took a deep breath, trying to get her vision back to normal as she looked at Paul blankly.

"Is everything alright with you? Why do you look sick? Are you feeling unwell?"

Paul asked in a very concerned manner as he reached out to check for Lucia's body temperature with the back of his hand. "It doesn't feel too hot. Why are you sweating so much?"

Lucia took a deep breath and pushed his hand away. "Perhaps I'm too hungry," she said softly.

"Why didn't you say so earlier if you're hungry? Hurry up and eat. The food is ready. I'll call the children over now," Mrs. Mitchell said as she led Lucia to the dining table.

Lucia slowly came back to her senses and nodded. She then glanced at Paul and said softly, "Let's go eat first."

"Lucia, are you unhappy because I told Mom about the wedding?" Paul asked.

"No, you are overthinking things." Lucia shook her head immediately.

Although she denied it, her voice sounded more distant. Paul still had something to say as his mouth hung open, but he kept quiet in the end.

"By the way, Paul, Paula will go to Central Hospital tomorrow for a check-up and massage therapy. I want to go see her. Do you want to come along with me?"

Paul hesitated for a moment, then shook his head and said, "I'll be going home tomorrow night. I won't be going in the morning since I still have something to do at the office."

"Okay." Lucia nodded.

seemed to have suddenly cooled down. Things had returned to square one; it was mixed with an inexplicable sense of awkwardness and alienation, making it difficult for them to look at each other.

went back to her room to take a shower, she glanced but she did not seem to have accepted Paul completely. After thinking about it, it had been like this every single time for the past five years. Whenever she and Paul were about to make any which, these were her own problems and had nothing to

to run away anymore, nor did she want to feel would

about it, her heart was a mess. She turned on the shower and stood underneath it,

West Bridge and went

Paula had already told Lucia that she would be going to the hospital. She made it clear that she wanted Lucia heavy traffic? By the time she arrived at the hospital, she was nearly to the ward where Paula was supposed to be receiving massage therapy. When she reached the door, she heard a doctor? It seemed that the treatment was not over yet.

to push the door of the ward. Unexpectedly, the door swung open from the inside. There was another there in his wheelchair the bed. Then, her gaze turned toward August as nerve to visit Paula! She hadn't even gotten even with him and looked at him warily as she asked, "August Adams, what are you doing here?"

to

you know yourself whether the incident is related to six years. Regardless of the situation, August would protect Jeanne Kelly as long as she was involved. Lucia also knew that Jeanne Kelly was not in his Mitchell, you should at least wait until you have evidence before accusing me." August stared at left. Lucia was already irritated at the sight of him, so after being mocked by him, she could feel the anger in dare leave before you can explain in. I have something to talk to you about." Just