Chapter 631 Getting a Divorce

Noticing her hesitation, August curled his lips and said, "I'm glad you came."

He looked away and faltered after a moment of silence, "Paul and you...."

As soon as the words were out of his mouth, her face changed. She took a deep breath and said, "I'm going to divorce him"

The room fell silent. A flicker of astonishment flashed across his eyes. He asked, "Not on the spur of the moment?"

From their poor condition and the children's words last night, he could tell that something had happened between Lucia and Paul.

"No." On her sides, her fists clenched. "He.. betrayed me, Bishop was able to find me in the Evergreen Meditation Yard because he stalked me and revealed my whereabouts. The abbot"

She felt a lump in her throat August's brows furrowed in an instant, and his face clouded over. On the armrests, his fists slowly clenched. So, it was him. In fact, August had figured out that Paul was not a simple character. That man was not as considerate and kind as he demonstrated in front of Lucia. August just hadn't expected that Paul was part of the incident and that he worked with Bishop.

Soon, he came to his senses and said coldly, "It looks like he was targeting me. He wanted to find and get rid of me through Bishop. I'm an obstacle in his way."

Lucia's heart sank to the bottom. That was what it was. She was furious when she found out the truth yesterday. She hadn't thought about Paul's motives. Now she realized

Chapter 632 Where Did They Go?

Out of the hotel, Lucia checked the time and pushed everything to the back of her mind. She hailed a taxi and told the driver her destination. Her priority was to go back, take care of everything, and file for divorce. She had made up her mind and realized the reason why she hadn't accepted Paul over the years. That was because he hadn't been seen as her future. Some couples were not meant for each other. They might be together for some time but would eventually separate. She bit her lips and came back to reality. She held up her phone and texted Paul

"I'm going back to West Bridge. Let's meet and talk."

The dust had settled, and she couldn't be more determined. Before long, she arrived at the villa. At the gate, the maid saw her and came up in surprise.

"Madam, you're back!"

"Starting today, I'll no longer be the hostess of this house. Just call me Lucia." Lucia smiled at the maid who immediately turned ashen. Her lips parted, but she couldn't find any proper words to persuade Lucia.

Lucia looked back and asked, "Is Paul at home?"

"No, he isn't," the maid replied honestly.

Lucia nodded and went upstairs to her room. It distressed her to see the familiar surroundings. She collected herself and started to sort out her belongings. Timothy's and Janet's clothes were also packed up. She arranged the suitcase till she felt a shiver down her spine. In reflex, she turned around and shivered at the sight of the man standing in the doorway. Paul was leaning against the door, his eyes fixed on her. The expression on her face was a bit unnatural.

She glanced at him, quickly looked away, and said, "Let's go through the divorce procedures."

The cleaner said matter of tactly, "Since I was told the clean the room, they should have checked out."

Lucia felt cold all over and got overcome with fear. Did August find out about his relations with Timothy and Janet? Did he take the chance to hide them away? She was eaten away by Nightmares came one after another. Licia screamed in horror, and her forehead was covered with sweat. The woman on the bed showed a painful expression on her face. It made August frown. Lucia was having a fever. It was sudden and without warning. Upon hearing her scream, he rushed over and found the two children had been woken up. Lucia was lying prone on the bed, whimpering.

He touched her forehead and found it scolding. Only then did he realize that she was burning. After soothing the children, he carried her onto the bed and called the doctor. Then Locia was found trapped in nightmares. From time to time, she called out to Timothy and Janet. Her delicious and painful look was heart-rending. He was agitated to see her like that Zane walked in and reported, "The doctor said that he couldn't come over soon because of an emergency. He provided several solutions to reduce her fever"

August wrinkled his brows and looked up at him. "What are the methods?"

Zane replied honestly, "First, give the patient some antipyretics. It's the capsule left by the doctor. Two capsules will be enough. Second, soothe the patient till she calms down. Third, August's eyes darkened. He put his hands on the armrests and propped himself up. Zane was startled.

August grabbed her flailing hand and soothed her in a low voice, "It's okay. They're both here. Don't worry, I'll protect them."

His gentle voice had a calming power. He repeated his words several times till Lucia quieted down. Her hand then slowly dropped. August grabbed the tissue, wiped the sweat off her forehead, and tucked her in. His movement was natural. He suddenly felt a gaze, looked over, and met Timothy's glittering eyes. Sitting on his lap, the boy looked fixedly at him. Like a cute doll, he was well-behaved and filled with curiosity.

August arched his brow and asked, "Is the 'seat comfortable?"

Timothy blushed, flailed his legs, and tried to get off. August smiled, lifted him, and went outside. Timothy and Janet were struck dumb.

The girl caught up with him and said, "Uncle Charming, I thought you couldn't walk."

August put Timothy down and winked at her. "It takes a little magic for me to walk."

Janet's eyes were filled with surprise and admiration,

Hearing this name, Lucia trembled And it sent shivers down her spine and instantly spread them to her limbs. After she gasped in shock, she pretended to be calm, looked at August, and said, "Does that have anything to do with me?"

August said calmly, "He and Bishop are on the same boat now, and Paul and Bishop have a cooperative relationship. Bishop did not hurt you before because you're Paul's wife. Now that you are divorced, what do you think he will do?

His words were realistic and cruel, and she couldn't help feeling scared. Now, she was taking care of two children alone. If Bishop retaliated against her, the consequences would be disastrous

"Do you mean it's safer for me to stay with you? August, you are their deadly enemy. They are coveting your money and power. It will be safer for me if I stay away from you"

August looked at her firmly and said word by word, "You are wrong. You can't expect how or who they will attack. What's more, if anything happens to you, I won't watch you suffer

And they also know this. So, you must stay with me."

August's tone was serious, but Lucia keenly caught a point in his words. She took a deep breath and said softly, "You can just leave me alone."

August replied bluntly, "I can't do it."

Then, his eyes darkened, showing a complicated and meaningful look.

Lucia's heart skipped a beat, but she pretended composed and asked, "Why?"

August narrowed his eyes, and his expression was complex and abnormal. He looked at her deeply and said word by word, "Don't you know why?"

Chapter 637A Homely Feeling

Hearing his words, August almost choked on the iced water. When he turned his head aside, he happened to meet Lucia's suspicious eyes, but he didn't know how to explain it.

Seeing his reaction, Lucia turned to look at Janet and asked dubiously, "Is it true?"

Janet smiled shyly. "You were having a nightmare at that time. And August was by your side. Maybe you're so beautiful that he could not control himself "

Hearing this, August almost spit out a mouthful of blood. How could they tell Lucia about this matter? They were pushing him into trouble!

Seeing the cold look in Lucia's eyes, he tried to explain and said, "There is a misunderstanding. "

Unexpectedly, Lucia immediately turned her head away without listening to him at all. Then, she looked at the two kids and said softly, "You must not do such a thing as he did! This is sexual harassment!"

Hearing this, Janet burst out laughing, while Timothy glanced at him with a gloating look, watching the fun.

August felt numb in his scalp. At the very beginning, she had labeled him as a sexual harasser in front of the kids! His authority had been completely ruined!

Seeing her happily leaving with the children, August was both amused and angry, so he shook his head helplessly. When he turned around, he found Zane looking at him with a meaningful smile. Zane had a painted face and braided hair, so he looked weird. So, when he stared at August with such an expression, the latter's hair suddenly stood on end. Then, he asked seriously, "What are you laughing at?"

More than an hour later, August's subordinates delivered a professional astronomical telescope over. After the engineers installed it, they began to teach him how to use it. The usage of precision instruments was complicated, but August had a superb memory and strong learning ability. So, it took only an hour for him to master the general usage. After his subordinates and the engineers left, he had lunch with Timothy and Janet. Then, he walked to the balcony seemingly casually and lifted the black cloth covering the astronomical telescope.

The black instrument on the balcony was quite conspicuous. Through the glass, the people in the living room could see it. Timothy and Janet were watching TV on the sofa. As long as they glanced at the balcony, they would see it. Soon, Timothy noticed August fiddling with this "new friend". He immediately jumped off the sofa, trotted over, and looked at the instrument with sparkling surprise in his eyes.

He then stepped forward curiously and asked, "Is this an astronomical telescope?"

August didn't turn his head to look at him but wiped the tube of the telescope with a cloth, nodding slightly in response.

"Can you see stars with it? Do you know how to use it?"

Timothy instantly became more talkative and kept asking questions about the astronomical telescope. August did not show much enthusiasm. Instead, he answered his questions professionally with a cold attitude.

But this made Timothy happy. Soon, he walked up to August, raised his head, and asked obediently, "August, can we watch the stars together at night?"

Listening to his tone full of respect and anticipation, August felt happy. But he replied calmly and coldly, "It is OK if I have time."

Timothy was so happy to hear it that he jumped with joy on the spot.

Because of the mysteriously wonderful effect of the astronomical telescope, Timothy had taken the initiative to chat with August the entire afternoon and become much more obedient

When Lucia returned and opened the door, she saw the three of them people watching TV on the sofa together. August sat in the middle, while Timothy and Janet leaned against him intimately on both sides. Lucia was shocked to see this. They had been bickering yesterday, so she had not expected them to start cuddling each other so soon, suspecting August

Lucia's heart was thumping While taking a deep breath, she hesitated about whether to let go of her hands around his waist. But suddenly, rumbling thunder pierced the sky, and lightning illuminated the room. She instantly shrank herself and hugged him even tighter instead of loosening her arms,

August couldn't help smiling, looked down at her, raised his eyebrows, and said, "It's going to rain all night. What about accompanying you."

Before he could finish speaking, she immediately let go, distanced herself from him, looked at him nervously, and said, "No need."

August looked at her and raised his eyebrows slightly, asking, "Really?"

Lucia wrapped the quilt tightly around her body and nodded with a lingering tear. She was indeed scared. In the temperature-controlled bedroom, she was sweating from fright. And the nervous look in her eyes made her look like a frightened puppy.

Seeing her so stubborn, August could only nod, "Okay, I'm leaving "

Lucia nodded in a daze but did not speak.

August stood in situ for a few seconds. Seeing her response, he nodded slightly, turned around, and walked toward the door.

The thunder from the sky kept rumbling like a starving monster was howling. When August walked to the door, he felt his legs were so heavy that he could no longer walk

She took a deep breath and tried her best to calm herself down. And then, she looked at the kids and said with a serious tone, "Come here."

Timothy and Janet exchanged glances, hesitated for a moment, and then slowly walked toward her.

Looking at them in her front, Lucia asked, "What do you mean by accepting him?"

Timothy blinked and couldn't help laughing, "We mean we can accept it if you want to date him."

Lucia was so angry that she was at a loss for words, What the hell? She did not want to date August at all!

"Mom, don't worry! Janet and I can understand you. Since Dad abandoned you, we don't want him anymore either. He made you so angry that you fell ill, but he has never come to see you. It is August that stayed by your side to take care of you. Hearing his words, she got so furious that she felt all her blood rushing to her head. And her head went blank as if she were dreaming. She had never expected that her son would persuade her to date August! She could date anybody but him!

Lucia took a deep breath and quickly calmed down. She looked at the kids and said solemnly, "You are overthinking. August and are just friends!"

After finishing speaking, she stretched out to deliberately mess up Timothy's hair and raised her eyebrows when seeing him pouting with a resentful expression. Soon, she looked up at August and said, "Come with me."

Then, she turned around and walked toward the balcony. She wanted to have a good talk with him about this matter because Timothy and Janet wouldn't have acted like that if he had not fueled the flames behind the scenes. He must have told them something!

Lucia was annoyed. When August came over, she looked at him seriously and asked, "August, what do you want?"

August smiled, played the fool, and asked, "What do you mean?"

"You don't know?" Lucia flew into a rage and said, "You told them Paul abandoned me and asked them to support us in dating, right?"
