Chapter 771 Face-to-face with death.

"I'm sorry. I sincerely apologize..."

Emma's tears rustled like beads that were falling off a broken thread. At this point, all she could manage to say was, "I'm sorry." Lucia felt constricted in her heart when she saw Emma like this. A searing ache tore through her chest. She asked in a low voice, unable to conceal the disappointment in her eyes, "Why did you betray me? Did Paul ask you to do it?"

"No, please don't push me. I really can't say it." Emma continued to sniffle, her body slowly slipped down the wall. Her face was filled with pain as she clutched her head in her arms.

Emma plotted against Lucia with someone in Cloud Technology. Paul was the only person she suspected. How crazy was this man that he would make use of the most important person in her life to send her to hell!!

Lucia cast a downward glance at Emma's hurt expression. Unconsciously, Lucia tightened her fingers. "You could leave now," Lucia finally murmured, choking, after a long time.

Emma gave a loud cry. She looked up with red eyes and looked at her in disbelief.

"It's up to you whether you go to Cloud Technology or other companies. I won't reveal this matter. You can be at ease and change your job smoothly." There was a strong sense of powerlessness in Lucia's voice.

"Lucia..." Hearing this, Emma hurriedly grabbed Lucia's hem and begged in a low voice, "I'm not leaving. Please don't drive me away. I will never do such a thing again. Please give me one more chance. The company project hasn't been finished yet. I ..." "Project?" Lucia gave a bitter smile. "You may relax knowing that. Your name will appear on the projects; this won't have an impact on your performance or reputation. I'll look out for your best interests. Are you delighted this time around?"

"It's not like that." Emma coughed a few times and muttered, "I want to help you settle the follow-up issues."

"I don't need it!" A loud roar sounded and echoed in the fire passageway for a long while.

Lucia adjusted her mood, pushed her hand away indifferently, took a deep breath, and said in a cold voice, "From now on, you live your life, and I'll live mine! We're not going to meddle in each other's business!"

Chapter 772 The confrontation.

Just when the grass sprouted, Jamie and Skylar's wedding was held as scheduled.

August appeared at the wedding in a pure black suit, and Lucia was tidying up his necktie.

Skylar, who was about to enter the ceremony hall, looked at the appearance of two people, rolled her eyes, and blurted out, "Today is my wedding day. You two are sure lovey-dovey. A gorgeous woman and an attractive man. Other than us, you two appear to be a married couple"

Lucia tidied up August's tie and urged him to perform his own business. Then she turned around and replied, "If you still don't go in now, maybe Jamie can't stand the loneliness anymore and hook up with the beautiful sister at the wedding scene."

"How dare he!" Skylar frowned at the words.

The wedding song slowly sounded. The pure white gold-encrusted gate was slowly pushed open. Skylar immediately straightened her back and made a slow approach to the carpet. Jamie reached out and clasped her hand in his. The two then took coordinated steps to the center of the stage.

While Lucia was quietly looking at this scene, a smile landed on her face. Unconsciously, the scene when she was marrying August came to her mind.

She couldn't help but cast sidelong glances at August in the distance. A familiar voice full of surprises suddenly rang in her ear as she was going to stroll over to August.

"Lucia? It's really you!" Edmund walked over to her with a red wine glass and elegant pace, his eyes were filled with unmistakable joy. Lucia was slightly dazed. Her face also showed an incredible expression,

"Why are you here?"

"There is work contact between Mr. Nordhaus and me. Naturally, I should come and give him a hand when he finds a lover." Edmund explained in a soft voice.

"Work contact?" Lucia kept a nice smile on her face and asked, "By the way, may I ask where you work?"

"You should have a positive attitude toward the world and be virtuous. Please ask yourself whether you deserve it or not." August raised his eyebrows and brushed past Edmund with a shoulder rub as he was talking. He walked to the center of the stage and stood there, grabbing Lucia's slender waist.

Lucia's eyes were shining brightly. She stood on tiptoe and kissed August on the cheek. Thunderous applause immediately broke out from the audience.

Edmund put this scene into his eyes with a sullen face, pinching the goblet with his fingertips. A touch of viciousness flashed through his eyes.

After the wedding, Lucia immediately took down the crystal necklace and put it in the jewelry box. She never turned it out again. Seeing her empty neck, August never mentioned it again.

Before Timothy and Janet started school, the shooting plan for the costume commercial was restarted. Lucia rushed to the studio with her two little babies and began her busy life again.

When the phone rang, Lucia looked at the name on the caller ID, raised a smile on her face, connected the phone, and quipped,

"Honeymoon back? "How did it go?"

Skylar's voice sounded very nervous and serious, "Lucia, something has happened to Jamie's company, and Lion group is likely to be involved. You and Mr. Adams should be psychologically prepared."

Hearing this, Lucia's face immediately changed. She asked anxiously, "Do you know what went wrong? How much progress have we made in finding a solution?"

"Jamie and I have taken the earliest flight back to our country after receiving the news. He has rushed to the company now and specially asked me to tell you that transnational projects may have to be put on hold for the time being. It is said that it is a matter of mediation at home and abroad."

"Since it is only a matter of mediation, the whole thing is not final. There must be a certain amount of leeway. It's just an audit investigation, and it is not directly rejected. There must be a way to solve it." Lucia's fear was palpable in her tone. She tried to remain as cool as possible and spoke softly to Skylar to console her.

Lucia quickly looked up as she heard footsteps and saw Edmund standing behind her. Her eyes exhibited a hint of bewilderment, "Why do you return? Didn't you say you were going to have a meeting?"

"The meeting was canceled." Edmund appeared unaffected when his soft gaze landed on her, and he asked, "Did Phillip cause any trouble?"

Hearing this, Lucia quickly shook her head, touching Phillip's head, and responded, "Phillip is the most lovely child I have ever seen.

Taking care of him is a worry-free thing, so you don't have to worry too much."

Edmund lowered his eyes with her voice, and his eyes rested on her white elegant neck. Then his eyes darkened slightly, "Don't you like what Phillip gave you?"

Unconsciously, she caressed her empty neck following his eyes and pulled out a smile full of apologies, "I'm not in the habit of wearing these cumbersome things, and I have my own husband and children, so it is not always proper to wear gifts from others."

Husband and children....

Why did she keep mentioning another man....

He would never allow these obstacles between them!

Edmund's eyes darkened and his voice cooled down a lot. "I thought you were really kind to Phillip, but I didn't think he was just a dispensable outsider to you."

Upon hearing this, Lucia was dazed and uneasy for some reason.

Her relationship with Edmund was not even that of a friend, but he seemed to regard her as an integral part of Phillip's life, which made her very uncomfortable.

"Phillip is a friend of Timothy and Janet. I will be kind to him naturally, but nothing else."

"It is not a spy on you. I'm your father." Andrew smirked unpleasantly and responded with a cold voice, "What if I spy on you? It is a matter of course."

"Shame on you..." Paul glared at him with clenched teeth.

Andrew's face instantly darkened. He appeared to remember something just before raising his hand to slam it in Paul's face, and then gradually lowered his raised hand.

"This good-for-nothing is the only daughter of Howe Real Estate, anyway. I would attempt to avoid upsetting her. I asked her to come over just to make a deal with you." He looked at Paul coldly.

Paul kept as calm as he could. He held Daryl tightly in his arms, and looked at Andrew warily, "I despise your heinous methods, and I will not assist you, let alone allow you to harm Daryl."

When Daryl heard this, her eyes flashed with consternation. Her fingertips tightened subconsciously and grasped Paul's arm. Andrew quickly waved his hand at the words, "I don't need your help. On the contrary, I really hope Daryl can be my daughter-in-law..." With a sinister expression on his face, Andrew said in a low voice, "I just need you to manage the company, so long as you keep your nose out of what Currer and I are up to."

"Paul..." Daryl's weak voice slowly sounded, reminding him softly, "Don't promise him. He doesn't dare to do anything to me. We can't let him hurt Lucia..."

Paul's eyes flashed with a hint of hesitation as if he was stuck for a decision.

Although Daryl spoke in a very low voice, her words reached Andrew's ears. Andrew's face suddenly darkened and the butler beside him immediately got it and motioned for the bodyguard to drag Daryl aside.

The bodyguard dragged Daryl, who was frail all over, to Andrew's side in a forceful manner, "If I truly do something to Howe Real Estate, then you won't be of any value to the Thomas family," Andrew sternly threatened as he suddenly pinched Daryl's chin.

Daryl glared at him with scorching eyes, "You dare!"

"Don't challenge my bottom line. Think about whether your elderly father can still withstand the blow of bankruptcy." Andrew laughed scornfully. The strength of his fingertips increased, severely pinching her jaw.

The vice-assistant rushed up with a panicked expression and hurriedly replied, "I did not go backstage; I stayed with Sister Lucia." "It's not you, but a new woman with a staff member's badge around her neck." The staff gesticulated while saying, panic-stricken and incoherent.

What was worse, these two little masters were August's children. If anything happened to them, it would be too much for everyone. Immediately, Lucia felt her feet grow sluggish and limp, taking several unconscious steps back, "You go to the surveillance equipment right away and see if you can find anything," she said, tightly grasping Elijah's sleeve.

Then she said to the staff, "Please look up the vice-assistant taking Timothy and Janet. I want to know her history."

What August once said immediately came to Lucia's mind that there was always a hidden danger around her, a person with extremely high anti-reconnaissance ability. But she had no idea the hidden danger would target two children.

"August, Timothy, and Janet are gone," she hurriedly said as she phoned August, her voice trembling.

Elijah and the staff came back soon, and their faces were extremely panic-stricken.

"Lucia, this is no ordinary thing about losing or abducting a child. The other individual took a blind angle of surveillance and was highly familiar with the studio's layout. The last scene of the surveillance video is the scene when Timothy and Janet leave alone."

"Ms. Mitchell, we looked up the staff who arrived today. There is no such so-called vice-assistant. Her identification is a forgery.

Timothy and Janet..."

Before the staff finished speaking, Lucia rushed toward the backstage area.

In the bright and clean hut, Timothy and Janet were cutely leaning close to each other. The two little guys were whispering. "Timothy, why did we come here with the strange aunt? If mother knew that we had slipped away, she would be on thorns."

After the two children left the room, the smile on Jerrod's face gradually solidified, and finally cooled down completely. Jerrod took out her mobile phone and dialed Currer's phone, "Ms. Sullen, those two pups fled."

"You idiot!" Currer jumped up from her chair in shock, "Get back here at once and make a previous work schedule. Find a way to clear my correspondence with Andrew!"

When Jerrod's identity was exposed, she could no longer hide in the dark either.

August would definitely find out about her. She must be prepared in advance and erase all previous records to try to minimize her suspicion of her. She should even take the initiative when necessary.

When Timothy and Janet walked out of the hotel, August found out about it. Barely before the Maybach stopped, Lucia had rushed out of the front passenger seat. Her eyes immediately turned red the moment she saw her two babies.

Timothy and Janet snuggled up in Lucia's arms affectionately and said softly, "Mom, my sister and I have taken good care of ourselves. Don't worry."

More and more distress and guilt accumulated in Lucia's heart, "It's my fault," Lucia kept muttering as her heart grew heavier with worry and guilt, "I haven't done a good job of keeping you safe."

Janet clutched Lucia's sleeve tightly, caressed her cheek with her little hand, and gently comforted her, "My brother and I will protect mom in the future. Don't cry, mom."

August's eyes rested on the door of the hotel, and then slowly turned to Timothy. When the father and son fixed their gazes on one other, there was a trace of coldness in each other's eyes.

August took several steps to pat Lucia on the back, motioning her to calm down first. Then he took them back to their residence.

Timothy squeezed her sister's little hand secretly, and Janet immediately caught on. Janet pretended to cry out in fear and asked Lucia to accompany her upstairs to rest.

Chapter 778 Set up a wonderful show

Inside the coffee shop, August stared at Currer indifferently.

August's face was devoid of the slightest emotion, while Currer appeared rather stirred and bowed her head, flushing.

Although there was a little friction between her and August, it was all caused by Lucia, which didn't affect her fancy toward August at all.

She had genuine feelings for August, ever since she was a child. Even when she first saw him, she decided that she must be with August.

After leaving Griffith Organization, she experienced many blows. She was much less sharp and vigorous but developed more coquetry and tenderness of a little woman.

Seeing the man who had appeared countless times in her dream again, Currer's heart was about to fly out of her throat. She struggled to remind herself that she must be reserved.

This was the first meeting between the two after Currer left Griffith Organization. She tried her best to make a good impression in August. She chose a skirt with gentle color today and wanted to give August a brand-new self.

"August, when I was in Griffith Organization before, we didn't have many opportunities to meet each other. Now I have returned to my normal life, and we can meet frequently afterward." She glanced stealthily at August, and her cheeks flushed more and more visibly.

August's eyes swept across her coldly, leaving nothing but alienation in his voice. "No need. We don't know each other well. All that you should do is to stay away from Lucia."

August's words poured down like a pot of cold water, which suddenly extinguished all her shyness and enthusiasm.

She was seized with surprise and looked at August in disbelief. A bitter smile gradually crept on her face, "If I say that I didn't do anything to Lucia, will you still not believe me?"

"I only believe in my own eyes." He responded with an awe-inspiring face.

At this moment, everything seemed to have an answer.

Why did they meet in the coffee shop downstairs of Cloud Technology? Why was Emma bribed by Cloud Technology?

Timothy and Janet got lost. Something was wrong with the studio. She was attacked maliciously on the Internet again and again.

The one who had been hiding behind the scenes and had anti-reconnaissance ability was Currer!!!

Lucia's eyes were awe-inspiring. Lucia glared at Currer, simmering with anger and asking, "You've been on the same line with Cloud Technology for a long time. You did all these."

"Ms. Mitchell, these are just your guesses. It's best not to talk nonsense about things without evidence." Currer spoke in a smug manner while putting on an unpleasant sinister smile. In every other way, Currer had admitted the fact; the only way she hadn't was by admitting it directly.

Lucia contracted her fingertips. She compulsively clenched her fist and spaced out her phrases for emphasis while gritting her teeth, "Currer, I can put up with anything, but I absolutely won't allow anyone to hurt my children."

Currer nodded, looked at Lucia provocatively, and asked, "If I have to do something to those two little bastards, what can you do with me?"

With these words falling, Lucia immediately raised her coffee cup and splashed the coffee directly on Currer's face. The wet brown liquid immediately soaked Currer's clothes.

There was no doubt that Currer could dodge it. Why didn't she dodge...

Lucia bit her lower lip tightly and couldn't figure out what Currer really meant for a moment.

Currer didn't even wipe the coffee stains on her body, allowing the sticky coffee to drip down her hair. She just looked at Lucia quietly. Instead of lessening, her tone became more provocative.

Seeing that August ignored her, Currer could not help but take the lead in opening her mouth and greeting August in coquetry.

The office was so quiet that even a needle dropping to the ground could be clearly heard.

Finally, Currer failed to retain her composure. She walked over to August slowly and put a tablet PC on which a video was playing on his desk.

August lifted his eyes and landed them on the video.

It was the scene when Lucia and Currer were in the coffee shop the other day.

In the video, Lucia didn't have the usual tenderness in the video but was wearing a very unkind look. She was constantly bullying Currer. Currer appeared angry, but she didn't mean to fight back.

After August watched it, he drew his eyes back to the unfinished documents again.

Currer's mind went blank seeing August like this. She slowly opened her mouth and said, "Lucia always plays the weak in front of you. In fact, this is her true face. Don't be fooled by her."

"Why are you so nosy?" August's indifferent voice slowly sounded.

Currer looked at him stupefied when she heard this. She seemed puzzle about why August reacted like this.

A normal person would feel fooled when he saw this video. Why could he be so calm, as if he already knew all of it?
