Chapter 12

Chris's deep voice sounded on the other side of the line. "Go to the Rivery and help me fetch a document. Also, bring the purple tie in the wardrobe to me."

"Okay," Katty replied respectfully, pressing the elevator button to the nearest floor.

As she hung up the phone, the elevator door happened to open. She said to Tally, "Give me your car key. I need to go to the Rivery."

"Mr. Albert asks you to the Rivery so often. Can't he just arrange a car for you?"

While complaining, Tally groped in her bag for the car key and handed it to Katty.

the car fare that the company reimburses me later."

"The oil cost and the car fare are completely different, okay? The former is much more Katty took the key and said, "He just instructed me to fetch a document for him. I'll give you expensive," Tally muttered.

She had been dissatisfied with the company's reimbursement rules for a long time. In her opinion, Chris was purely a mean person.

Katty smiled, "I'll pay you. How about it?"

"You have to spend nearly 20 thousand dollars on housing loans. Do you still have extra money?"

Katty said, "Then don't mention it."

"Can't I even talk about it? Hmph!" Tally complained.

Katty didn't know what else she could say.

She thought, "Tally was born into a wealthy family. Since joining the Albert Group, she has never stopped complaining that Mr. Albert is mean.

"However, she is also quibbling over a small amount of money."

The elevator stopped on the next floor. Katty walked out and took another elevator to the underground parking lot.

The Rivery was a residence where Chris often stayed. So, Katty often went there to fetch things for him.

The grey-black decorations of the house looked neat and attractive. Coupled with proper furniture, it didn't look dull at all.

Katty first went to the study room to get the document. Then, she walked into the cloakroom and skillfully opened the drawer filled with ties.

As soon as she opened the wardrobe, something fell to the ground and made a crisp sound.

Katty squatted down and picked it up, holding it in her hand and looking at it curiously.

After a glance, she felt shocked, as if a bomb had exploded in her head. It was an unopened pack of condoms!

Katty was lost for words.

The memory from that night, which she had tried to forget, suddenly reappeared in her mind instantly.

Katty felt flustered and hurried to put the pack of condoms back into the wardrobe as if it were a real bomb.

She thought, "Did something happen to Mr. Albert?

"He usually looks high and mighty and celibate. How can he buy such a thing?"

Katty didn't dare to comment on Chris' private life and left the Rivery hastily with the document and tie.

It took her an hour to go back and forth between the Rivery and the company.

Katty knocked on the door of Chris' office, but no one responded to her. So, she pushed open the door gently as usual.

Chris wasn't in the office, so Katty put the document on the desk and brought the tie to the break room.

She had always done this whenever Chris wasn't in the office.

However, the moment Katty pushed open the door of the break room this time and saw the scene inside, her eyes widened in great shock.

Luckily, she reacted quickly, and with a loud bang, she slammed the door shut.

Katty's face turned both flushed and pale, and her heart began to beat wildly.

She never thought that Chris would take a shower in the daytime!

Katty explained hurriedly and threw the tie onto the desk before running out of the office.

"Mr. Albert, I'm here to give you the tie."

She ran too fast to notice the person coming in. The next second, she bumped into someone.

Katty was already rattled enough. Now, she couldn't control her wild heartbeat at all.

Trembling slightly in fear, she raised her head, only to meet Markus' gloomy eyes and see the displeasure on his face.

stop being rash?"

Markus helped Katty stand steady and reprimanded her seriously, "Miss Minj, when can you

Markus was resigned to her rashness at any time and in any place.

But he was surprised that Chris could tolerate her and rarely blamed her.

"I... I'm sorry. I didn't mean that," Katty apologized.