

Chapter 1620 Press Conference

Johanna's sudden question took Brandon aback, and he paused his tasks at hand. He recalled Janet's abnormal physical data and hesitated before asking, "Johanna, why are you asking this out of the blue?"

Johanna had promised Janet to keep the truth from Brandon. As such, she simply smiled and replied, "Janet's father and I have always been worried about her physical condition. Besides, you mentioned having a professional team that will look after her, right? I just want to know more about her situation. If it's serious, I'll dispatch several more doctors to find a solution."

"Oh, I see," Brandon said with a sigh. He closed his file and rubbed his eyebrows wearily. He didn't want to tell anyone about Janet's situation in case of an accident. As such, he answered calmly, "Johanna, don't worry. Janet's fine. There's nothing wrong with her health. There's nothing to worry about."

Johanna trusted Brandon and felt relieved. She didn't pester Brandon about Janet's condition. Instead, she said kindly, "That's good. Thank you for taking care of her these days. You should also take care of yourself."

"Okay, you too," Brandon smiled and replied.

"Okay, you too," Brandon smiled and replied.

Johanna then offered him some advice for tomorrow's press conference before hanging up the phone.

Johanna breathed a sigh of relief when she heard that Janet was fine. She had long wanted to have a grandchild. Since Janet's condition was stable now, Johanna immediately called an obstetrician and made an appointment with him for a consultation in two days.

On the day of the press conference, early in the morning, Brandon's mobile phone was already flooded with messages from the main media outlets. Obviously, the reporters had been waiting impatiently for this day's arrival. Every reporter wanted an exclusive scoop before the press conference started.

However, Brandon was not frantic about the conference. He got out of bed and washed up as per usual before slowly briefing Sean on some dos and don'ts. He then set his phone to flight mode, ensuring that no one could disturb him. Janet was sleeping soundly. When she heard Brandon moving around in the room, she opened her sleepy eyes and saw Brandon already dressed in a suit. "Where are you going? Are you going to the company? When will you come back?" she asked in a daze.

Looking at Janet's innocent face peeking out from the quilt, a surge of warmth filled Brandon's heart. He couldn't help but poke her cheek and smiled. "Have you forgotten? Today is the day of the press conference. I'm going to clarify those rumors," he said.

"Press conference?" Janet echoed in disbelief. Her eyes were now wide open. She grabbed his sleeve and asked anxiously, "You're going to the press conference?"

Brandon kissed Janet's forehead warmly and chuckled. "Yes, but you can have a good rest at home. I will come back to accompany you after the press conference," he said with a gentle smile while gazing at her lovingly at the bedside.

Janet moved her body and rested her head on Brandon's lap. "I want to go with you. I can protect you when you're in danger!" she said firmly.

Brandon was amused by Janet's remark. He caressed her face and asked, "You'll protect me?"

Janet nodded eagerly and replied, "Of course. I'm strong, you know?"

"Okay, okay, I believe you," Brandon replied while chuckling helplessly. He hugged Janet and rested his chin on her head. "You just need to have a good rest at home. I will have bodyguards around to protect me. Don't worry. I will come back safe and sound," he reassured her.

Janet blushed as she felt Brandon's breath and voice above her head. However, she grabbed his hand, refusing to let him go. "You have to take me with you today," she insisted.

Brandon was stunned. He thought Janet had been joking and didn't expect her to be adamant about coming along. "But the scene will be in a mess. It's not safe for you to go there," he said.

Holding Brandon in her arms, Janet replied firmly, "No matter what happens later, I am your wife. I will face it with you. Besides, we are a couple, and couples face everything together."

Brandon's heart softened. He couldn't help smiling while asking, "Do you really want to come with me?"

"Yes!" Janet answered while nodding firmly.
