Chapter 1759 Drama Involving Familiar People

Janet monitored the unfolding events of this commotion in real-time on the Internet.

The reason she could catch up with this intriguing gossip was attributed to her seizing a moment of leisure amid her busy day.

In the early morning, she went to the study and dedicated the entire morning to reading professional books on design.

Weary of the monotonous information, Janet felt a bit fatigued, reclining on the sofa, sighing at the dullness of these books.

Consequently, she opted to practice some sketching techniques, but it proved unproductive, and her wrist began to ache.

Recognizing that this approach wasn't yielding results, she took a break and delved into reading gossip news in the design industry.

Unexpectedly, she encountered a trending topic: "W Marks Swaps Guest's Precious Gem." Startled, she sat up, clicked on the trending topic, and delved into reading.

Encountering someone she knew while surfing the Disregarding the negative posts about W Marks, Janet persisted in scrolling until she stumbled upon a video that piqued her interest.

In the video, W Marks found itself surrounded, almost drowning in a sea of people.

Witnessing this situation, she felt anxious. Although she couldn't be there in person, she promptly messaged Brandon, inquiring about the current situation at W Marks.

Janet wasn't well-versed in W Marks' current status. Nonetheless, negative comments online were swiftly suppressed.

Janet found herself puzzled.

Soon, a message appeared on her phone.

It came from Brandon.

"Everything's cool now at W Marks. You can chill."

Reading Brandon's message, Janet let out a sigh of relief and responded, "Awesome! So, when's your homecoming? I've got this sudden craving for the cake from that dessert shop in Northcliffe. Grab one on your way back, alright?"

After a moment of silence, Brandon responded with a simple "Sure."

Following the exchange of messages with Brandon,

She observed that W Marks Studio had posted a new video.

Promptly, she accessed the video to examine its contents.

Upon the commencement of the video, she observed numerous bullet comments from netizens displayed on the screen.

The majority were in defense of W Marks, while a few criticized the woman responsible for the disturbance.

Having watched the video, Janet gained a rough understanding of the entire story. It transpired that the woman deliberately brought a fake Ocean Heart to W Marks with the intention of causing trouble.

Experiencing some serious annoyance, Janet muttered to herself, "Man, this woman is something else! She even got Draco stumbling over his usual coolness."

Simultaneously, Janet spotted Mandy in the video, and her mind was once again consumed by gossip.

Swiftly accessing her contacts, she messaged Mandy and silently commended her in her thoughts.

"Kudos! It's pretty impressive how you jump in to help when you see something unfair going on."
