

Chapter 2065 There Is An Emergency

Johanna showed up because she had heard about the accident at the last fashion show.

"Janet! I just heard about the fashion show. Are you okay? Is everything alright?" Johanna asked as she approached Janet with a concerned look.

"Relax, Mom. I'm totally okay," Janet replied reassuringly.

Hearing this, Johanna let out a sigh of relief and said, "Thank goodness. You have no idea how scared I've been."

After speaking, Johanna noticed a woman standing next to Janet and couldn't help but ask, "Who's this?"

"Her name is Sonia, and she's my personal bodyguard." Janet introduced Sonia to Johanna and then brought up the fashion show. "There was an accident at the fashion show. If Sonia hadn't stepped in, I wouldn't have been able to fix it in time."

The memory of the incident always filled Janet with immense gratitude for Sonia.

Johanna, struck by a strange sense of familiarity upon seeing Sonia, felt compelled to express her thanks.

"Sonia, I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for protecting my daughter and her unborn child. I can't even begin to imagine what might have happened without you."

"You're too kind. I simply did my job as her bodyguard, which is to keep her safe." As Sonia said this, she gazed at Johanna with a thoughtful expression, her mind drifting to the woman she had dreamed about the night before.

It was so strange. Despite barely knowing Johanna, she had dreamed about her twice in a row.

While Sonia was lost in thought, Johanna took her hand and said gratefully, "No matter what, you saved my daughter. If you ever need anything, just let me know, and I'll take care of it."

Sonia lowered her head, feeling flattered, as a blush crept onto her cheeks.

Witnessing this heartfelt exchange warmed Janet's heart. She approached Johanna and offered a brief explanation about Sonia's situation.

"Mom, you should know Sonia lost contact with her parents when she was young and grew up in an orphanage. I was hoping you might be able to find Sonia's biological parents."

A hint of sadness passed through Johanna's eyes. After responding to Janet, she turned to meet Sonia's gaze.

"Sonia, you must never give up looking for your parents. It took me so many years to find Janet. I have a feeling your parents haven't given up on you either," Johanna said encouragingly.

Though, deep down, Sonia harbored little hope of finding her biological parents, Janet and Johanna's words stirred something within her and warmed her heart.

After a moment of quiet contemplation, Sonia looked up at both Janet and Johanna and said, "Alright, I'll try to find them."

Mid-conversation, the door suddenly swung open, revealing Brandon.

Janet's eyes lit up at the sight of Brandon. Beaming, she hurried over and hugged him.

"I didn't want you to be stuck at home alone, so I convinced your mom to stay and keep you company. What do you think?" Brandon asked as he gently rested his hand on Janet's waist, his gaze tender.

"Sounds perfect," Janet replied with a radiant smile.

Observing this, Brandon smiled and then cast a cold glance at Sonia.

Sensing his desire for her to leave, Sonia took the initiative and said to Janet, "Mrs. Larson, I won't interrupt your conversation today. I'll visit you regularly from now on."

Not thinking much about Sonia's words, Janet nodded in agreement and replied, "Alright, you should come and keep me company more often."

"I will."

With that, Sonia turned to leave, but as she passed by Brandon, she suddenly halted.

"Mr. Larson, I have an urgent matter I can't discuss with Janet. Could you step out and speak with me?" Sonia stated firmly.
