

Chapter 2109 Brandon Was Jealous

The fashion show was just about to start.

When Janet walked to the stands and sat down, the seats next to her were already occupied by others.

Janet recognized these individuals; they were colleagues from W Marks.

Draco occupied the seat in the front.

"It's been a while. How have you been lately?"

Draco extended his greetings to Janet with a touch of class and asked about her well-being.

Janet couldn't help but smile. She gently touched her pregnant belly and said, "No worries. The baby is quite calm and hardly kicks around."

"That's wonderful," Draco said, maintaining his smile as he changed the topic to today's design entries.

When it came to design, they had plenty to discuss.

"I just noticed the entry from W Marks on the promotional poster. Elizabeth's design is impressive. I really like it. It makes me want to buy one for my child."

Janet was full of praise for Elizabeth's work.

Draco laughed and replied, "Looks like you and Elizabeth have a real skill for understanding each other."

Janet sensed a deeper meaning in his words and asked Draco, "What do you mean by that?"

"Elizabeth has created several sets of baby clothes, all specially made for your child," Draco said, not hiding the pleasant surprise.

Janet was momentarily taken aback by the news, but as realization dawned, her eyes sparkled with joy.

"Does that make you happy?" Draco was uplifted by her emotions, and his words ended with happiness.

Janet nodded enthusiastically and said, "Absolutely!"

Elizabeth's design skills were consistently impressive, and her style was exactly what Janet admired.

Moreover, knowing that her unborn baby was already receiving so much love and care filled Janet with immense happiness.

Janet was eager to continue discussing this, but Brandon unexpectedly fed her a piece of fruit.

"You should have some fruit to refresh yourself after all that talking," Brandon said to Janet.

Truthfully, Janet wasn't thirsty, but with the fruit already at her lips, she felt too awkward to decline and reluctantly bit into the watermelon.

As Janet ate, Brandon glanced over at Draco.

"Sorry, Janet's in the late stages of pregnancy, and the doctor advised her to take it easy. She's been talking with you a lot, so now she needs to grab a bite to recharge."

Brandon's tone was apologetic as he wrapped an arm around Janet's shoulders, his eyes hinting at something he wanted Draco to see.

Draco clearly understood Brandon's underlying message but chose not to say it. Instead, he returned a courteous smile and turned to greet others nearby.

Noticing Brandon's hint of jealousy, Janet discreetly pinched his arm. "Try to hold back a bit."

"I can't help it. You're my wife. I'm naturally jealous of any man who pays attention to you," Brandon replied, resting against Janet with a grin, openly displaying his protective feelings for her.

Hearing this, Janet could only smile helplessly.

Brandon continued to feed Janet with care, occasionally leaning in to kiss her on the lips.

Seeing this, Sonia felt genuine joy for Janet's happiness, yet a strange emotion stirred within her at the same time.

She suddenly realized there was another approach to life. Just like Janet, marrying someone she loved wasn't all about strategy and protection—she could find happiness too.

