

Chapter 2117 Sonia Apologized To Lexi

Janet's attention was diverted. She wrapped her hands protectively around her belly and asked with fear, "Is that true?"

"Yes, I never lie to you," Sonia affirmed with gravity.

Janet had trust in Sonia, yet she felt a strong need to hear a doctor's opinion.

The doctor and a nurse, present in the ward, approached. The doctor addressed Janet. "From a medical standpoint, it's entirely possible. The risk of fright in pregnant women is greater than you might think."

This earnest statement left Janet feeling intimidated.

Concerned for her unborn child's well-being, she consented to hospitalization for further monitoring.

Brandon exhaled a deep sigh of relief.

He was relieved that Sonia's influence had swayed Janet to undergo the necessary medical checks.

Acknowledging Sonia's crucial role, Brandon looked her way with gratitude.

Sonia, catching his grateful gaze, subtly nodded in acknowledgment.

As the moments passed, Janet began to succumb to drowsiness.

Brandon, desiring to provide her with tranquility, requested that everyone else leave the ward to ensure Janet's peaceful rest.

The smell of disinfectant hung heavily in the now empty corridor.

As Sonia was on her way out after her visit, Lexi reached out and caught her arm.

"What's up?" Sonia inquired, lowering her gaze to meet Lexi's.

Lexi, sitting and looking up, asked with curiosity, "Are you familiar with Mr. Larson?"

"Why do you ask?" Sonia asked.

"I observed the way you both looked at each other," Lexi admitted openly. She then squinted slightly and probed further, "Are you having an affair with Mr. Larson?"

Looking at Lexi with disbelief, Sonia thought the inquiry absurd. "Of course not. I am Mrs. Larson's bodyguard, and Mr. Larson and I have only exchanged a few words."

Sonia frowned, firmly denying any affair.

She could have shared other details, such as her familial connection to Janet, which explained Brandon's courteous behavior towards her.

However, with Janet's pregnancy far along and the doctor's warning about avoiding emotional stress for her, Brandon had concurred with Sonia on keeping her true identity a secret for now.

Therefore, revealing too much was not an option for Sonia.

Lexi reasoned that Janet was far more admirable than Sonia, and Brandon's affection for Janet was evident. There seemed no plausible reason for him to be unfaithful.

Having reassured herself, Lexi's grip remained firm, but her gaze intensified.

Sonia, feeling the weight of that stare, grew uneasy. She frowned and pressed further. "What else do you want to discuss?"

Sonia wondered silently why Lexi maintained her intense focus. It felt as though she had wronged her somehow.

Lexi's response came with a sneer. "At the last fashion show, you were the one who sabotaged Draco's dress!"

Lexi was clearly looking to confront past grievances.

Caught off guard, Sonia responded coolly, "Do you have any proof?"

"Absolutely!" Lexi quickly turned her phone towards Sonia, displaying a video that the mysterious man had sent her. "What do you have to say now?"

Sonia was taken aback, not expecting Lexi to possess actual evidence. She stood frozen, her expression one of mortification.

"I'm sorry. I didn't mean any harm. I've been facing some tough situations. I hope you can understand," Sonia said, her voice tinged with regret as she lowered her head. "If there's any way I can make amends, I'm willing to compensate as best I can."
