

The substitute wife: my poor husband is a billionaire

Chapter 678: Taking Care Of Her

□ □ □

Janet spent the next few days recovering in the hospital. Every day, the nurses came and They came to change the dressing on his wounds. Janet to She was often distracted these days, wondering how to deal with Charis.

A cunning woman like Charis was much more dangerous than those fierce movie villains.

Because she did these things in secret, without mention the fact that she came from a prominent family, it was extremely difficult deal with her...

“What do you have in mind? Eat breakfast first.”

Brandon was holding a takeout bag of food for breakfast in front of her.

Now that they had made things clear, they could get along. The relationship between the two actually seemed harmonious. However, Janet felt that there was an insurmountable gap between them that he had been there before.

After all, Brandon had lost all his memories of her. She didn't know how face it now.

“Oh I see. Thank you”.

Not knowing what to say, Janet accepted the food and started eating. The awkward silence was deafening. After what seemed like a eternity, Brandon tried to break the ice.

“Does your back still hurt? I heard you whining last night.”

Janet wiped her lips carefully to hide his shame. When you turned over in bed last night, he accidentally hit the wounds on his back. It was so painful that her face he contracted, but did not know that he had moaned out loud high.

“He’s much better, thanks for asking. Nope you are going to work today?” Usually it would already be in your second meeting of the day. Janet really wanted spend some time away from Brandon. I could only imagine how messy it looked in this moment. Days have passed since the last time he washed his face, and even needed help to go to the bathroom. I didn’t want Brandon to see what embarrassed she was.

Brandon no longer had a good impression of her previously. Now, he was afraid that Brandon I was even less interested in her. After all, women always cared about how they looked in front of their lovers.

“Don’t worry. I have already asked permission. watch over you it’s more important” Brandon explained casually. while cleaning the table.

Maybe it was because he knew he used to be affectionate with Janet, or maybe it was because he appreciated this woman for risking her life to save him. Brandon doesn’t thought too much about it and actually wanted take care of her

Janet chuckled. He wrapped himself in the quilt and leaned against the headboard calmly “Dad He said he found you a good doctor. treatment working?”

Brandon paused for a few seconds.

Then he threw the garbage in the bin and took two pieces of paper to clean the table.

Later answered lightly: "I have received psychotherapy two times. It's not that bad."

To tell the truth, his situation did not look very good.

Every time the doctor asked Brandon to try to remember the past, immediately I had a terrible headache.

It was almost as if an invisible hand was pulling on the nerves of your brain. Janet looked at Brandon with

His eyes narrowed and he noticed the dark circles under his eyes. his eyes. He looked much more gaunt than the day previous. Worried, she pursed her lips asked: Does the therapy include some kind of medicine? You look a bit listless."

” I’m fine. I was up late last night dealing with a job.” Brandon didn’t want Janet cared about him, so he hid the fact that I had a severe headache every time I was trying to remember the past.

He sighed wearily and changed the subject: “Did you know that? Nobody died in the fire.” Janet nodded and turned on the TV with the remote without Do nothing. “However, I heard that Charis It burned badly.”

“That’s right?”

“Firefighters said he ran out of the big fire. Fortunately, he is safe now.”

Even Janet couldn’t help but admire Charis. This woman had guts.

Brandon was visibly confused. “Charis He didn’t go into the haunted house with us. How could it have been burned? Truth be told, Janet already knew the answer. The only possible reason why Charis had risky in the haunted house was that Brandon he had come back to save Janet.

then ran inside to save Brandon. but i never know met Brandon.
Instead, he met Janet.

Thinking I could catch Janet in the burning establishment, tried to lock up Janet in a room. small. Their ploy would end in close experience to death on their own.

Janet had no evidence to prove That's what happened, it wasn't the time suitable for telling Brandon what he thought of the situation. So he just shook his head. head.
Brandon also dropped the subject.

At noon, Brandon went out to buy the lunch, Janet took the opportunity to call the men of the White family.

“How’s it going?” she asked.

The man reported: “We caught the man who the fire started.”

Smiling coldly, Janet ordered, “Get him out of here. the truth”.

The Novel will be updated daily. Come back and continue reading tomorrow, everyone!

□ □ □