Chapter 697 Alienation

From the other end of the line, Vera seemed calm and unflappable.

Laney realized that her mother-in-law did not despise her, but I was taking care

"Oh, I see, mom." Laney answered Respectfully.

Vera was very perceptive and realized that Laney was a little hesitant.

"Laney, is something wrong? why don't you want live with us? Now we are a family.You can be frank with me."

"No nothing happens.I just don't want bother you or dad.But since you have requested, I will do as you say."

Despite saying so, Laney still felt uncomfortable.I wasn't interested in any of the courses that Vera had listed, but she knew that Vera was doing this for her own good.

Would Beneficial if I learned the customs of the class high.

The next day, Vera sent some servants to help Laney pack her things.

After loading your luggage into the car, Laney officially moved into the family home Harding.

The Harding family had luxurious mansions in both Seacisco and Barnes.

Vera and Leo didn't want to wear Laney down too much and decided to meet her halfway, so they temporarily moved to Barnes.

Not long after Laney moved in, her courses began and Vera began to teach him all kind of things.

One day, at six in the morning, Laney was woken up by a servant.

When rubbed sleepy eyes and went downstairs, found Vera sitting at the table, drinking coffee with elegance. She was already dressed for the day, with a delicate makeup and perfume.

Vera always looked perfect and flawless and never kept telling Laney to watch her appearance and manners.

"Good morning, Laney. Did you sleep well last night?"

Vera looked her up and down and jokingly added: "You look sleepy."

Laney suppressed a yawn and tried to regain her composure sobriety.

"No, no, I usually get up at this hour".

"Good girl. Today, few young people like to get up early."

Vera nodded with a satisfied smile. He looked at Laney's clothes and added.

"Usually we get dressed before breakfast. garrett must forgot to tell you. oh well you can have breakfast first and then go upstairs to change."

Laney looked down at her pajamas and blushed with embarrassment.

In an effort to hide how nervous she was, quickly sat down at the table to eat.

After taking only two bites, Vera reminded himself, "You'd better stop eating when you are half full. If you eat too much of one time, you will feel tired and lazy for the rest of the day."

After saying that, Vera paused and then he managed a smile: "But now you're pregnant. It should be fine for you to eat a little more than it's."

Laney nodded obediently and quickly. He ate two more spoonfuls of food.

Then he wiped his mouth, stood up and was about to go upstairs to get dressed.

However, as he had gotten up too fast and almost tripped with the table leg. He reacted quickly, or he would have fallen flat on his face.

Vera was so scared now that she patted her chest and sighed.

"Don't be so cheeky next time. You can't afford to be clumsy anymore, Laney. You have to think about the baby you carry in the belly."

"I'm sorry, Mom." Laney apologized hurriedly.

Then he grabbed the railing from the stairs and climbed the stairs slowly, alone to err on the side of caution.

After changing, he started his class label.

It was a very long day for Laney.

When He went back to his room, it was already nine o'clock night.

He sank into bed, wanting to crumble.He had to restrain himself and take care of his manners at all times.It was exhausting.

The East kind of life made her feel suffocated.

The courses of etiquette were very difficult for Laney.

In fact, they were so hard Laney found them a hundred times more challenging than martial arts.

I had only been in bed for a few seconds when her phone began to ring. It was Garrett calling.

"How have you been now? do you live with my parents? Garrett asked in a voice smooth. Laney massaged her sore shoulder and murmured, 'Mom and dad are very nice to me. Am happy to be here.'"

Garrett knew his parents weren't people bad guys that were hard to get along with, so he didn't doubt Laney's words "That's great!" said cheerfully "Since you are happy there, you can live with them for a while longer." Laney laughed dryly and didn't say anything else. don't you he liked the awkward silence, so he changed his mind. theme.

"How is your job going?" Garrett yawned quietly.

"I told Brandon that I was leaving the Larson Group. The he didn't say anything. After all, I am the heir to the Harding family. I knew it wouldn't work Larson forever. It was only a matter of time before I went to work to make myself charge of the family business. The problem is that the Grupo Larson is really chaotic in this moment. Charis is on leave because she is in therapy. Now, I am resigning. Larson Group will have even fewer staff"

Laney didn't know what to say. Suddenly felt extremely upset and depressed.

Garrett had no idea that she was nothing happy there, but she couldn't complain to him. the dreaded gap between them reared its ugly head.

"It's getting late. I'm sleepy."

Laney hurriedly searched for a way to end the call. I was not lying.

After all, had to get up at six o'clock next morning, so I had to appreciate what little time she had to herself.

Garrett didn't realize that something was wrong. He was too busy finishing his work in the Larson

Group. He blew kisses into the earpiece and said, "Okay, okay. right. Goodnight Sweetheart."

Laney rolled her eyes blank, hung up the phone and pulled up the duvet up to the forehead.
