Chapter 160

Those fruits could not be grown this season, and they could not be grown in the Holmes family, but it was not a problem for Richard at all.

He earned so much money to make things happen.

Richard directly called his subordinates and asked them to immediately choose a location in Strate City to build a greenhouse orchard.

When the place was chosen, he went there and looked at it, which was a little more suburban.

That place was originally a greenhouse for cultivating fruits. When each round of fruits was ripe, tourists could pay to go in and pick them freely.

However, the fruits the people grew were not delicious. The orchard soon went bankrupt, whether or not it was due to the water and soil or something else.

The place could not be sold and had been sitting idle there.

The boss of the orchard signed a contract to sell the land without hesitation when Richard’s subordinates found him.

When the boss learned they also wanted to start an orchard, he kindly offered his entrepreneurial experience to persuade them to be cautious.

The soil and water there were indeed poor. It was also possible there was a problem with his cultivation method. The ripe fruits were not sweet at all

The subordinate who negotiated the contract thanked him calmly.

The farming experience told by the boss did have some truth, but Richard bought it and only planned to plant three trees. They were a vine, a banana tree, and an orange tree.

Richard planted them to eat their fruits himself, which was already losing money.

After buying it, they started looking for someone to make project drawings according to Richard’s requirements. Then, they started construction.

Richard was not short of money and was in a hurry, so he found many people.

As a result, many projects in the capital that needed to start construction could not find workers at the same time.

Such a big movement naturally attracted the attention of many people.

Outsiders didn’t know what Richard was going to do. Seeing the emergency construction over there, they thought they had gotten some news from the government and bought the nearby land.

For a time, the price of land nearby skyrocketed.

However, as a family, the branches of the Adler family were much clearer.

Richard bought such large land, hired so many workers, and now had a batch of top-notch equipment shipped back from abroad.

It didn’t seem to cost much, but if one calculated carefully, it was the total expenditure of everyone in the family for a month

Chapter 160

Not including the married daughter, the others of two branches rarely united front, standing together to complain about Richard’s eccentricity,

They thought, ‘Richard did all this only to plant three trees. Is it necessary?’”

Knowing it is a loss-making business, Richard still has to do it. Taking care of this orchard will also be a considerable amount.

However, with such fanfare, we had nothing to say for the sake of the Adler family.

‘But Richard did such a big movement, and it turned out to be for the child of the Holmes family.

‘Come on, that’s the Holmes family. How rich the Holmes family is!

Since the girl has been found and brought back, why not spend the Holmes family’s money but Richard’s?

Usually, the branches often fight among themselves. However, once they stepped outside the Adler family, they would subconsciously unite and present a united front.

It was useless, no matter how dissatisfied they were now, because Richard bought the three trees and was going to send them to the orchard.

The members from the two branches discussed for a long time and decided to persuade Richard.

Richard didn’t even come back to the Adler residence now. He had been staying with the Holmes family or at the new house.

If things continued like that, it would not be impossible if Richard suddenly lost his head and said he would leave all his property to the little girl.

The members of the Adler family went there on Saturday morning. They went to the new house bought by Richard and asked the bodyguards, and learned from them Richard had come to visit

The group of people stood in front of the door of the Holmes family, and their attitude was much more cautious.

The bodyguard stepped aside and asked with his cell phone. After a while, he came back and took those people in.

They had not been to the Holmes family’s place for at least seven or eight years and didn’t remember what it looked like at all. They only knew it was quite big, as big as the Adler residence.

However, the lively and relaxed atmosphere inside surprised them after stepping in.

Seeing all kinds of colorful birds falling on the branches, they knew why Richard liked to come here so much.

So many birds were enough for him to photograph all day.

The person leading the way said Richard was in the backyard and then led them to it.

However, the further they went, the more shocked they ey were by the scene in front of them.

Who has been spreading rumors outside that the Holmes family is lifeless? If the scene here is lifeless, what about our house, hell they thought,
