Chapter 172

With the comfort of her two friends, Yvonne was not at all worried.

Her cute little face finally revealed a bright smile.

The three little girls continued chatting and laughing.

This scene was all caught in the eyes of the people outside the classroom.

Kevin didn't go to the teacher. He just stood outside the window and watched.

In fact, he didn't go for the complaint in the first place. He just wanted to say this to attract Yvonne's attention.

Of course, he also wanted to see Yvonne's scared expression.

He had already thought that if Yvonne begged him, he would not tell the teacher.

He was a little scared when he saw Yvonne's expression just now, but it was that pesky Anna again.

She always stood in front of Yvonne and blocked his plans!

He hated Anna!

'Anna's so fierce. She is not girly at all and always sticks her nose where it doesn't belong. When I get back, I have to tell my father to find the principal to transfer Anna away! I won't let her be with Yvonne anymore, he thought to himself.

In the classroom, Rachel felt like she wanted to go to the toilet, so she stood up. "You talk first. I'm going to the toilet."

"We will accompany you."

The habit of girls going to the restroom in pairs started in childhood.

Rachel was super happy. She walked over to Yvonne and took her hand. The three of them went out like this.

After they left, Kevin, who was outside, returned to the classroom.

He walked up to Anna's seat and took the furry backpack out of her drawer.

The bulging backpack hung heavy, no need to peek to know it was stuffed with oranges

There was some pleasure in Kevin' aggrieved heart.

When he was outside just now, he saw that the teachers were chatting by the small flower bed in front of the classroom, and seven or eight teachers were gathered together.

He wanted to bring these oranges from Anna over there, and then made trouble and asked the teacher to punish Anna, or ask her to apologize to him.

Kevin pursed his lips and was very excited.

He directly pulled the strap and pulled out the entire schoolbag.

Just as he was about to carry it away, the girl in the front row turned around and spoke in surprise, "Kevin, what are you doing? That belongs to Anna?

Kevin snorted coldly and said in a rushing tone, I want to take it

The girl frowned and got up from her seat to stop him.

"You can't take it. It's her stuff!"

"I'm taking these! She secretly brought food to school, and I'm telling on her!"

The argument between the two gradually attracted many people in the classroom.

After hearing the reason for their quarrel, many people sided with the girls.

"Even if she brings food, you can't take her things."

"That's right, my mother said that taking people's things without their consent is stealing."

"Kevin stole from Anna

The voices that stopped him grew louder and louder, and Kevin looked at them in disbelief.

He felt that none of these people in the class were reasonable.

"It was clearly Anna who violated the school rules. I just took her things to find the teacher. Why do you say I stole things?"

He thought did nothing wrong and was on the side of justice.

The ones who did it wrong were Anna and Yvonne, who didn't follow the rules.

They were the ones who broke the rules first.

However, his words did not win the support of the people around him, and the voices of opposition grew louder.

"You can go to the teacher, but you can't steal Anna's bag when she's not around."

This panda bag belongs to Yvonne, and I see her carrying it all the time."

"Yes, you put down her schoolbag and go to the teacher to complain. Or you can wait for Anna to come back and get her bag.

Kevin's expression stiffened.

If he waited for Anna to come back, he wouldn't even be able to touch this schoolbag.

He insisted that he had done nothing wrong, holding his schoolbag and trying to force his way out.

But the kids had formed a solid wall around him, blocking his way out. Some were even glaring at him with undisguised. disgust

"Kevin, if you are like this, we will not play with you in the future."

This sentence was quickly echoed by many children.

Looking at the hateful eyes of his former partner, Kevin felt as if he had suffered a major setback, unable to return to his senses for a long time

Back then, his words carried weight in class, but now they're giving him the cold shoulder just for trying to take Anna's backpack.

Kevin's confidence began to waver.

His father would be very angry if he knew that all the children in the class did not play with him.

But now that so many people were watching, if he put down his schoolbag in dismay, he would have no dignity in the class in the future.

How embarrassing!

His current situation was a dilemma.

Just then, the three little girls who went to the toilet came back.

Anna had a bad feeling when she saw so many people in front of her seat at the gate of the class.

She let go of Yvonne's hand and ran over, squeezed through the crowd, and looked inside, her eyes red with anger.

"Who told you to take the Yvonne bag?"

She rushed in, grabbed the schoolbag directly, and gave Kevin a shove.

Kevin was pushed, staggered, lost his footing, and squatted.

In front of so many people, after he got up from the ground, his face turned red with anger.

He stretched out his hand and pulled the long tail sewn on the schoolbag without letting go, with great strength.

I'm going to find the teacher with the little oranges you brought Let go!"

Anna also hugged tightly, but she was afraid to crush the little orange in her schoolbag, so she loosened up a little.

Yvonne came in, saw them grabbing schoolbags, and without saying a word, walked over to Anna and helped her pull it together.

Rachel was stunned for a moment. Seeing that Anna and Yvonne were at a disadvantage, she turned around and went outside to find the teacher.

Seeing Yvonne run to the opposite side, Kevin felt even more annoyed and felt even stronger in his hands.

was fat and strong, but suddenly pulled hard, but he didn't pull the schoolbag over, and the long tail on his hand was broken.

The brown and yellow panda's tail was pulled off.

Kevin didn't stand still and took a few steps back. After standing still, he looked at the long tail in his hand and threw it to the ground without much concern.

And here, Yvonne saw this, and she was completely stunned.

Her small mouth trembled, and she stared at the tail on the ground for two seconds, and her big watery eyes became misty in an instant.

Kevin, who looked indifferent, raised his head and froze in place when he met her teary eyes.

Yvonne flattened her mouth, and her tears fell like a shower, and there was a thick crying voice in her breastfeeding voice.

"This is the panda my brother gave me!"

Heri

lips trembled, and finally she roared out a super imposing sentence, Tll tell my brother. I hate you!"
