Anna ran over and picked up the panda’s tail from the ground.

She lowered her eyes, pinched the little tail tightly, and said guiltily. I’m sorry, Yvonne. Can I ask my nanny to sew it up for you?”

Yvonne wiped the tears from her face and stopped crying

She unzipped it with Anna, put the panda’s tail in, and said yes in a muffled voice.

Kevin, who was watching from the opposite side, opened his mouth and wanted to ask why Yvonne wasn’t dragged her, but Yvonne had to tell her parents if he dragged her.

when Anna

He didn’t ask this sentence because Rachel, who ran out to find the teacher just now, came back.

Two teachers who had heard about the situation rushed over.

On the way here, Rachel told everything she knew.

Entering the classroom and seeing so many children gathered together, the teacher felt a lot of pressure.

These kids were usually so well-behaved. She’d just been chatting with other teachers by the doorway, never expecting things to take such a turn.

No matter what, it was their dereliction of duty that this happened. If they didn’t handle it well, it would be even worse.

After coming in, the children who were watching the fun complained to her.

The teacher listened to it, and everyone said the same thing as Rachel.

It was Kevin who wanted to steal Anna’s schoolbag, but just as Anna came back, the two of them grabbed it.

Now the bag was torn, and Yvonne was crying

Kevin was still unconvinced.

The teacher brought them all into the office.

A few teachers first called up the monitoring and looked at the whole process before starting to deal with this matter.

The incident started because of Yvonne, and the teacher talked to her first.

Yvonne was wronged, and her eyes were still red, which made the already gentle teacher soften her voice even more.

“Yvonne, you can’t bring so much food to school. There are also many small oranges in our school. If you want to eat them, you can come to me to get them.”

Yvonne lowered her head, her big, clear eyes dimmed. She pinched her little chubby hand and apologized to the teacher in a sweet voice, Tm sorry

Hearing Yvonne’s apology, Anna couldn’t stand any longer. She puffed up her cheeks and stood up with great responsibility

“She brought it because I insisted on eating the oranges from Yvonne’s house. If you’re looking for a parent, go find mys parent. Just call my grandfather

Her grandfather retired and had nothing to do to raise flowers and fish at home every day, but Yvonne’s parents had to work, so she couldn’t delay Yvonne’s parents from earning money to raise Yvonne.

Chapter 173

In the surprised eyes of all the teachers, Yvonne grabbed her arm with a moved face and looked at her with tears in her eyes.

“Anna, you are so kind.”

Spotting the two little girls glued together, the teachers exchanged glances. The tension instantly melted away, replaced by smiles. Oh my, they are absolutely ship-worthy!”

From Blorenc City to Strate City, they’d shipped these two girls nonstop.

After the smile on her face, the teacher told Anna gently. “This matter is not that serious, but you two really need to ask your family to take back the little oranges”

“Okay”

Anna handed the teacher the small backpack in her hand, then pulled Yvonne to the side.

One of the teachers went to the side to call Anna’s grandfather, but she didn’t go over.

Her eyes fell on Kevin, and seeing his unconvinced look, she hated him even more.

The two looked at each other, and Kevin was the first to look away.

His expression was a little dissatisfied, extremely unhappy.

Kevin said, “Teacher, you haven’t punished the two of them yet!”

Hearing this, Anna became even angrier and glared at him fiercely.

“We will tell the parents of the two of them about this, and we will not take punitive measures,” the teacher explained officially

It wasn’t that they were shielding the two little girls, but the school’s rules were like this.

They have no right to punish these children.

If children got into arguments, caused trouble, and refused the teacher’s mediation, the teacher should first calm them. down, then call both children’s parents and let the adults handle it, like now.

“Kevin, it’s wrong for you to take Anna’s schoolbag without her consent. And you tore Yvonne’s schoolbag during the scramble. You need to apologize to both of them.”

Kevin looked up at her in disbelief.

“I apologize to them?” he asked in shock. “You can’t possibly be this blatantly biased!”

Anna was happy. She raised her chin and snorted.

She said, “Apologize, and you have to promise not to disturb us in the future, then Yvonne and I will forgive you.”

Kevin looked away, even more unconvinced.

Even if the previous one was indeed his fault, what about the latter reason?

He wasn’t the only one who pulled the schoolbag, it was Anna who pulled it with him.

Why did Anna get a free pass while he had to apologize?

Thinking of this, Kevin asked the teacher angrily. I didn’t break that bag alone. Why am I the only one who apologizes?”

Chapter 173

“Because Anna has apologized to Yvonne after the backpack was torn.”

The teacher’s expression was unusually honest.

It was really not that they were biased. They saw it clearly on surveillance just now.

Besides, those two girls were close. What about Kevin?

Anna said. “Yes, yes, I apologized, and Yvonne forgave me, right, Yvonne?”

Yvonne, who was asked. nodded, and her voice was sweet. “Right, right.”

Kevin was dumbfounded. He even suspected that they had joined forces to deceive e him.

But after the teacher pulled him to watch the surveillance video of the classroom, he was completely speechless.

The monitoring of the classroom was all-round, the image quality was particularly clear, and the radio was also very good.

So he could clearly see that after the backpack was torn, Anna ran over to pick it up and said sorry to Yvonne as she walked back to Yvonne.

After reviewing the surveillance footage, Kevin’s face flushed crimson.

The teacher’s attitude toward him was still the same. She gently and patiently persuaded him, “Kevin, Yvonne and Anna said that as long as you apologize to them and promise not to disturb them in the future, they will let it go.

This was a good choice.

If Kevin swallowed his pride, they wouldn’t have to call his parents.

This was the best solution for both children and the school.

But Kevin just couldn’t speak, his face blushed, and he didn’t say a word.

He didn’t want to apologize to Anna because he hated Anna and felt that apologizing to her would be laughed at..

He didn’t want to apologize to Yvonne either. He didn’t know why, but he didn’t want to swallow his pride in front of Yvonne for some reason.

So he delayed for several minutes.

The teacher had gone hoarse from all the talking.

She had no choice but to find out the contact information of Kevin’s parents.

She asked him one last time before the call, “Kevin, if you really choose not to apologize, I will tell your father about it.”

This was like saying the most hurtful words in the softest tone.

Kevin could imagine that if his father came, he would make him apologize to Yvonne and Anna.

And he was afraid that his father would spank him in front of many people, like last time.

Thinking of this, Kevin’s little face turned much paler.

He looked up at Anna reluctantly and finally said he was sorry.

He was holding his anger in his voice, and when it was his turn to apologize to Yvonne, he couldn’t litt his head.

Chapter 173

“I’m sorry. I won’t bother you anymore.”

He could imagine Anna mocking him, but surprisingly, Anna didn’t kick him while he was down as anticipated.

She took Yvonne’s hand and snorted proudly. “You’d better remember what you said today.”

She disdained to taunt others. If that annoying Kevin would just stop pestering her and Yvonne, it’d be a godsend.
