

The Super-Rich System: Behind The Multi-Billionaire

Chapter 11 - Is This Hotel For Sale?

Chapter 11: Is This Hotel For Sale?

Dominic was eating the most luxurious food in the world in the private room. It was so enjoyable to be rich ... Before, he never would have dreamt of eating any of these foods. Now, he could eat and feast according to his desire.

As Dominic was eating, the door of the private room was pushed open.

Dominic assumed it was Sharon, and said, "Sharon, come and have some food."

Upon turning his head, he saw a man in his 30s walking in. Sharon was walking behind him. There was also another man in front of her, who was in his 40s or 50s. Except for Sharon, he didn't know the other two.

However, seeing that Sharon had on an awful expression and that her eyes were a little red, Dominic could somewhat guess what had happened.

"Mr. Lewis, nice to meet you. I am the boss here and my name is Hugo Yates. Mr. Lewis, are you satisfied with the food and service here? If you have any requests, feel free to ask. We will definitely satisfy you." Hugo approached Dominic and spoke politely.

He was very interested in Dominic. If he was able to take out a hundred million dollars to eat, drink, and have fun at this young age, he must have inherited his fortune from a rich family. It would be to his benefit to become friends with Dominic.

Hugo was a businessman and having more friends in his network would definitely bring wealth. The Golden Leaf Hotel was only one of his businesses. At the same time, he also ran a lot of other companies. Perhaps, he could even cooperate with Dominic or his family in the future.

"Hello, Mr. Yates. I'm quite satisfied with this place."

"I'm happy that you're satisfied! I've heard that you are an outstanding student at Jackinion University? How wonderful at such a young age." Hugo paid Dominic some compliments.

"Yes! That's excessive, though. I'm only about average."

"Mr. Lewis, you are too modest. Jackinon University is one of the top five universities in the country. Those who can enter it will definitely be elites in various industries in the future. This is my business card. If you need anything, you can call me."

Hugo handed over a shiny, golden business card to Dominic.

"Mr. Yates, I want to ask you something!" Dominic took the business card and said.

"Mr. Lewis, please go ahead."

"Do you have any intention to sell this hotel?"

"Ah?" Hugo was taken aback by the question.

Apart from Hugo, the two standing behind him, Sam and Sharon, were also dumbfounded.

"Mr. Lewis, you must be joking!" Hugo said with a smile.

"Do I look like I'm joking? If you are looking to sell this hotel, I'll buy it. What's there to joke about?" Dominic said seriously.

"Mr. Lewis, do you know that this hotel costs more than 10 billion dollars right now, not including the price of the land? Are you sure you want to buy it?"

"Of course! If you want to sell it, just tell me the price. If you don't want to sell it, then forget it!"

Hugo stared at Dominic for a while. He felt that he couldn't see through this boy who was more than 10 years younger than him.

It was okay for him to blow 100 million on food and entertainment, but buying over the entire hotel was a different story!

There were many people who could take out hundreds of millions in cash, but there were not many people who could take out tens of billions. Even if the family behind Dominic had billions in assets, most would not let their children play around like this.

'Could he be an heir of some hidden great family? I'm afraid only those people would dare to do such a thing,' Hugo thought to himself.

"Mr. Lewis, if you really want to buy it, it's not impossible. But I need to discuss it with several other directors. After all, I don't own this hotel alone. But let me remind you first, Mr. Lewis, that what we want is cash."

"Sure, go ahead to discuss it with them. After that, do give me an answer as soon as possible," Dominic said indifferently.

"Alright then. Mr. Lewis, please enjoy your meal first. I'll give you an answer later."

Hugo turned and left the private room after he had finished speaking

Sam turned and walked away as well. Sharon was about to leave, but she was stopped by Dominic.

"Sharon, wait a minute. I have something to tell you."

Sharon thought for a while and decided to stay. She could risk her job anytime, but she could not risk losing this good relationship with Dominic.

1

Just now, when Dominic had said that he wanted to buy this hotel, she had been really shocked. This hotel was worth tens of billions, and payment was to be done in cash. If Dominic really bought it, based on their relationship in the past two days, they would definitely not fire her. She might even have a chance to get promoted.

She really hoped that the boss would sell the hotel to Dominic, and that Dominic really had the ability to buy it. She had already gotten in trouble with the boss. If the ownership of the hotel did not change, it was hard to say whether she could keep her job or not.

Hugo returned to his office and took out his phone. He sent a message to a small group of only four people.

"Guys, someone is interested in buying the Golden Leaf Hotel in Jtown. Are you interested in selling it?"

Soon, there was a response from someone called Donald Clark.

Donald: "Who is it? He must be rich!"

Hugo: "A college student named Dominic who goes to college in Jtown."

James Levin: "A college student? Mr. Yates, you must be mistaken! How could a college student afford to buy from us?"

Donald: "I have that same impression too!"

Hugo: "Do I look like someone who's so easily fooled?"

Boris Lawson: "Yes!"

Hugo: "I'm not joking around. At the end of the day, are you all willing to sell the hotel or not? He is waiting for my reply!"

Donald: "It depends on you. You are the biggest shareholder"

Hugo: "The group of you combined have more shares than me! Even if I were to say that I wanted to sell it, if you joined hands and say that you don't, then I wouldn't be able to do so either."

James: "Does he really want to buy it? Where is he from? Are you sure he has the ability to buy it?"

Hugo: "It can't be wrong. He just topped up his membership card at the hotel with 100 million bucks yesterday to eat and drink."

1

James: "In that case, he can't be joking.

Who do you think he is? After all, he can take out so much cash at such a young age!"

Donald: "it may be an heir of those hidden families. Boris, tell me, haven't you been in touch with these heirs?"

Boris: "If he could really take out tens of billions of cash to buy the Golden Leaf Hotel, we can basically be sure that he is one of those people. They were all released to experience reality first. When the time comes, they will take over part of the family's business."

Hugo: "Why don't we investigate this matter?"

Boris: "Don't do that! If they discover that you've been probing, you will suffer extreme consequences."

Hugo: "Are they really that formidable? It's the year 2022 and we're living in a civilized society. Aren't you making a mountain out of a molehill?"

Boris: "There are some things that you have never experienced, so you don't know how complicated these families are. They hold a lot of power! If there ever is a chance, I'll show you."

James: "I've long wanted to see how awesome these so-called hidden people are."

Donald: "Me too!"

Hugo: "Alright then! Well, do you still want to sell the Golden Leaf Hotel?"

Boris: "What's his price?"

Hugo: "He asked me to name it."

Boris: "What about the remaining two of you? I don't really care. It's up to you to decide. It's not as if you need this money. If the transaction succeeds, I want to get to know this person."

James: "I think it can be sold at 18 billion. When the hotel was first built, it was only worth about 12 billion. In recent years, it has brought returns of several billion and can now be sold for 18 billion to almost double our profit. I have a good project that I'm keen to start, and we can invest our money in it."

Hugo: "What project?"

James: "It's in the planning stage as of now. When the details are confirmed, let's find a time to get together and talk face to face."

Donald: "I think that's fine. Hugo, you can directly quote him a price of 20 billion. If he negotiates with you, you can lower the price to 18 billion, but mention that you will not go below that."

Hugo: "Alright then, I'll directly quote him 20 billion to see what he'll say. I'll meet him first and share any updates later."

After the discussion, Hugo made preparations to head downstairs and discuss the sale of the hotel with Dominic.