

The Super-Rich System: Behind The Multi-Billionaire

Chapter 3 - Sharon Chambers

Chapter 3: Sharon Chambers

Sharon Chambers had been the lobby manager of this eight-star hotel for more than three years. She had seen a lot of rich people who were worth tens or hundreds of billions of dollars. After all, those who could come here were all people with high statuses.

Although the membership cards here could be refunded, and there were many large corporations that spent millions of dollars on their customers here all year round, it was definitely the first time that they had seen someone purchase a membership card of 15 million dollars in one go. This person had to have an asset value of more than one billion dollars, otherwise, he would not dare to be so reckless.

Although the top-ranked celebrities in Forbes were worth hundreds of billions, once she got closer to this circle, Sharon realized that there were so many unknown rich people. Those listed on Forbes probably didn't even account for one percent of them.

Most of the rich people kept a low profile.

The man in front of them was obviously one of the richest.

He was so young, definitely the super-rich second-generation child of an unknown family

In fact, when she had seen Dominic just now, Sharon had looked down on him. She estimated that the clothes on him were worth less than 30 dollars in total.

When she heard that he was going to buy a membership card worth 15 million dollars, she had secretly thought that he was here to make a joke.

However, due to her professionalism, she had still asked Dominic dutifully and arranged the payment for him. She had been waiting to see how he would react if the payment was unsuccessful. She had been ready to call the security guards but not expected that the payment would go through. She really shouldn't judge a book by its cover.

Sharon, who had known this upper class, was very eager to reach that level. She even dreamed of stepping into that circle.

Although many rich people had dropped hints to her, Sharon actually did not want those guys. Most of them just wanted to get her body. And according to what she knew, none of them were really rich.

She wanted the real nobles. These people were basically very low-key. The young man in front of her was obviously one. He spent 15 million dollars to get a membership card for his meal.

This person met her requirements. He was young, rich, and low-key. She decided to rely on him, and this was the best opportunity she had to change her fate. She could not miss it. She had absolute confidence in herself.

The receptionist, who had just called the manager over, was very regretful.

If she had directly handled it for Dominic, then this business deal would be hers. But after calling the manager, she could only watch from the sidelines.

Sharon came to her senses and said to Dominic, "Sir, please show me your ID card. I'll register the membership card for you."

He handed his card to her.

In fact, he had already seen through the other party's perfunctory attitude.

They hadn't even asked for his ID card just now; how could he get a membership card?

They had only requested it after the transfer was successful. Obviously, they hadn't believed that he really wanted to transfer 15 million dollars.

However, Dominic didn't care. He had suffered a lot of contempt over the past 20 years, and the other party was actually being quite polite. If it had been somewhere else, he would have been thrown out by the security guards.

"I am a student of Jackinon University nearby. From now on, I will eat three meals a day here. Please make sure that you use the best ingredients for my breakfast, lunch, and dinner. If I don't turn up, just throw them away and continue to prepare the next meal."

As soon as he finished speaking, everyone present was shocked again. If they used the best ingredients for three meals a day, it would cost hundreds of thousands of dollars.

If he didn't come, just throw the food away directly? This was too much! "Rich" could not describe this. This was simply a super rich man!

Moreover, he was still a student at Jackinon University. He was so young and yet so rich. This must be the top rich and handsome man of legend.

Everyone looked at Dominic with admiration. They all wanted to get to know him better. It didn't matter even if they had to sacrifice a little.

They didn't dare to hope to marry such a top-class man, but as long as they could get closer to him, they would benefit a lot.

If he dropped a hint, these people would probably line up to get into his bed.

"Okay, Mr. Lewis, we will do as you ask."

After getting the membership card, Dominic was led to a luxurious private room.

"Mr. Lewis, this is the best private room in our hotel. We will serve the dishes later. This is my business card. If there is anything you need, you can call me. I will provide you with the best service."

Sharon handed Dominic a private business card. It was not from the hotel, but had been printed by herself, and was given to people who met her standards.

Dominic took her business card.

Sharon's fair and slender hands lightly grazed the back of his hand. Her act, either deliberate or unintentional, made him feel a tingle.

'What a delicate hand! This woman is so good at bewitching people. She is really a seductress,' Dominic thought.

Soon, the table was full of dishes.

There were all kinds of world-class ingredients, such as lobster, abalone, Emperor Crab, sharks' fins, bird's nest, Tomahawk steak, foie gras, ham, and caviar. Every dish looked exceptionally good, and it whetted his appetite.

There was also a bottle of 1983 Lafite.

The dishes were estimated to cost more than 150 thousand dollars. Dominic couldn't possibly finish them all, but he didn't care.

Now he really had nothing but money. If he couldn't finish it, then dump it.

Dominic took a bite of each of them.

It was worthy of being an eight-star hotel. The dishes were aromatic, tasty, and full of color.

"Mr. Lewis, how do they taste?" Sharon leaned behind him and asked.

Because they were so close to each other, Dominic could feel her hot breath hitting the back of his neck, which was amazingly comfortable.

"Not bad, not bad! No wonder it's a high-end hotel. All the dishes are pleasing to the eye and palate. I'm very satisfied!"

"It's good that you're satisfied. Please enjoy your meal. You can call me if you need anything! I won't disturb you further." Sharon felt that it was time to leave.

"Ms. Chambers, I can't finish so many dishes by myself. What's more, it feels like I'm missing something without a beautiful woman joining me. Would you like to have dinner with me?" Dominic asked.

He really thought that Sharon was not too bad a catch. Whether it was her figure or her face, she was top-notch. In addition, her outfit accentuated her advantages. Her fragrance could arouse a man. Her casual movement would make his heart flutter.

He'd be more than willing to dine with such a beauty.

"This... Mr. Lewis, this is not appropriate! And I am working now," Sharon said hesitantly.

In fact, she wanted this. Although she was the lobby manager there, she had never eaten many of the best ingredients on the table.

However, she knew that the best way to seduce a man was to maintain some distance.

The temptation of a naked woman was never as strong as that of one who wore a translucent dress.

Working hours? It was just an excuse. If she really had to accompany a VIP for a meal, even if the boss knew, he would only praise her.

Moreover, she didn't outright reject him. She just said that it wasn't appropriate. This answer could trigger Dominic's competitiveness.

Sure enough, he spoke.

"What's inappropriate about it? If you get into hot water with your boss, just tell me. I'll go and find him. If worse comes to worst, I'll buy the hotel directly. I'll let you be the boss," he said boldly.

"Then I'll respectfully obey."

She sat down and began to serve wine to Dominic. If she continued to find an excuse, she would probably make him angry. Her timing was perfect.

As for Dominic's passing remark that he would buy the hotel and let her be the boss, she just laughed it off.

It was a joke. This hotel would cost at least two billion dollars. Although she thought highly of him, she didn't think that he had such capability.

Of course, she just felt that he didn't have this capability, not his family.

At present, many people were worth several billion or even hundreds of billions of dollars, but most of their wealth was tied up in virtual assets like stocks. Very few people had billions of dollars in cash. These people were the real nobles.

If Dominic really bought this Golden Leaf Hotel and let her be the boss, she would absolutely follow him wholeheartedly and be willing to die for him.

Dominic didn't know what Sharon was thinking at that moment. Otherwise, he really would have bought the hotel straight away, no big deal.

The two of them talked and laughed through the meal.
