

MY SLAYER SYSTEM: RISE TO SUPREMACY

Chapter 191 Robbers

The small team had left the Fang hunters Guild to head over to Raven's city to try and talk things out with the leader of the Iron Fist Guild to just leave their Guild alone.

Hopefully without a fight. Alex, Peter and Jake hopped into the Aeroglide so they could head over to their destination. On the way there, they passed through the town Jake usually came to.

Then they went through the forest where Jake had almost died again by the hands of a werewolf before he gained his system. Going through the forest, Jake had a strange feeling of dread as a long projectile was sent flying their vehicle's way causing them to perform an emergency landing.

That was when standing in front of them were strange men on vehicles that almost looked like the Aeroglide but it had wheels. In total, they were around six men in total all with different weapons.

That turned out to be members of the Iron Fist Guild. And all of them were C class adventurers. The other two were thinking of how to deal with them when Jake stepped forward.

"What did you all plan on doing after stopping us?" Jake asked.

"Rob you rich arrogant brats of course." One of the men responded.

"And?" Jake asked with a raised brow.

"What else, and kill you afterwards so there won't be witnesses." Another member replied with a smirk on his face.

Jake then sighed and shook his head before he turned back to look at Alex and Peter.

"Do you guys mind if I take this one?" Jake asked.

"Sure go ahead and knock yourself out." Peter said heading back to find somewhere to sit.

"This will be easy job." The leader smirked.

"Oh, bad train of thoughts!" Peter shouted out loud.

"Attack that brat!" The leader shouted and immediately, the five members charged forward towards Jake with their weapons drawn.

One of the men swung his chain towards Jake who quickly pivoted sharply on one foot therefore avoiding the chain.

Then Jake grabbed it with one hand and quickly dodged a thrust made towards his stomach before unleashing a heavy kick on the attacker's hand causing him to drop his spear.

Then Jake yanked the chain that was in his hand hard causing the wielder to go flying towards Jake.

Jake swirled his Qi to his feet quickly and pushed off from the ground strongly before he planted a heavy kick the chain user's stomach causing all the air to be totally knocked out of the chain wielder's mouth and he fell from the air unconsciously.

Hearing a sharp sound, Jake quickly ducked in time avoiding a sword strike that had been heading for his head then Jake quickly turned around and kicked the attacker on their leg causing him to stumble forward.

That was three down, two more to go minus the leader.

Another one of them rushed forward towards Jake.

But Jake just activated {Stun strike} making the attacker to suddenly halt his steps as he looked at Jake with fearful eyes.

Jake just calmly walked towards the stunned attacker and then he stood in front of him and activated {Inventory} pulling his sword from his system.

That was when the Iron Fist Guild members that were still unconscious realized that the kid hadn't been using a weapon since and seeing him with a sword, they knew that they were doomed.

"You were the one who said that you would have killed us if you were done robbing us." Jake said as his sword was now shaking with power as he was infusing it with Qi.

"If you weren't willing to spare the lives of three young people, then that definitely means I can't let you go." Jake said as he swiftly stabbed the man through his chest before he drew his sword out letting the man fall down dead.

'Killing humans used to weigh on my mind before but considering the kind of humans I'm encountering, I don't think I can take it easy on them.' Jake thought as he lifted his head to look at the rest.

Unknown to Jake, the leader had silently ran away after seeing all what Jake did while the last member was literally crapping his pants when he saw Jake walk towards him.

"Just because you all thought we were weak, you decided to attack us and rob us of our things. I hate those that prey on the weak!" Jake shouted as he darted towards the last member who was rooted in fear in his spot.

Then Jake moved his hands quickly and back before he started walking towards his friends.

His friends were confused as they could see the man still standing, he was even touching his body all over wondering whether Jake spared him or not.

That was when a line appeared on the man's neck, and then with a thud, the man's head fell apart from his body.

Jake had cleanly cut the man's head off making him not feel any pain and now, just because of a few credits, the man was now dead on the floor with his head sliced off from his body.

"Yo dude, that was an impressive show of power." Peter exclaimed as he looked at Jake walk towards them.

"It feels like you are getting stronger every moment." Alex commented.

Alex wasn't wrong because Jake was really getting stronger. Although, he couldn't level up to the next level, he was still growing his strength and he was close to getting to the next level after slaying the king tier beast that attacked Aurora.

Jake knew he had nothing to worry about when the men had stopped them because he hadn't received any system message from his system that was what made him feel at ease.

"Let's go." Jake said as he de-equipped his sword and walked towards the Aeroglide.

The rest followed behind and soon after, the Aeroglide lifted into the air and took off quickly towards Raven's city.

Chapter 192 Raven city

After sorting out the issue with the Iron Fist Guild members, the friends were now on their way gliding smoothly above the ground heading to their destination.

"Wouldn't it be wise to contact your friend Helen before we get there?" Zee asked.

"Now that you mentioned this, I think you're right." Jake quietly said before he turned to Alex.

"How far are we away from the city?" Jake asked.

"Two days away." Alex replied.

"Right, it was yesterday we dealt with those filthy members." Peter said, clicking his hand.

"Don't you think leaving that leader on the loose would be dangerous for us?" Peter asked.

"How so?" Alex asked.

"He might inform his leader of us." Peter said.

"And you think that his leader would believe that one kid beat up five C class adventurers?" Jake asked.

"You have a point there. The story would sound so crazy to the ear." Peter said.

With that, they continued on their journey while Jake was meditating trying to increase his Qi reserve. He kept meditating for so long that he lost track of time and that was when Peter's loud voice interrupted him.

"Yo Jake, we are here." Peter said..

"Here? Where?" Jake asked, opening his eyes as he stood up feeling refreshed and stronger than ever. He had managed to increase his Qi pool a little bit more.

It was still better than anything currently, even if it's by a little bit, the strength was very much appreciated.

"You had been meditating for two days straight that you didn't realise that we have gotten to Raven's city." Alex said.

"Have I been meditating for two days?" Jake asked, surprised at how long it was.

"Yup, two days straight you haven't moved a muscle." Peter replied.

"So what are we waiting for, let's head out." Jake said as he stood up but he felt pain in his legs possibly because he had been sitting for so long.

'I forgot to message Helen.' Jake thought. 'I will just do that on the way.'

Alex had docked the Aeroglides in a vehicle parking lot of some kind. Jake could see that Alex was right about the more advanced cities having the Aeroglides because he could see dozens of Aeroglide vehicles parked in front of them.

After leaving the parking lot, the three friends were now met with an awesome sight of skyscrapers and some other form of vehicles flying in the air.

Although they were not much, it was still an amazing sight considering how Aurora looked since they didn't have all these.

"Can the Fang Hunters have these things later in the future?" Peter asked.

"Why not, when we have gotten our footings in the world properly, we can have all these technologies. For now let's focus on what we came here for." Jake said cutting their sightseeing short.

"Now where do we head over to now?" Alex asked.

"I have messaged Helen, telling her to come get us here and then we will plan our next move." Jake said.

That was when they could all see five men dressed in tight fitting armour escorting some people in tattered clothing towards some place else.

They were chained and looked miserable while the men escorting them kept whipping them with a whip while some whipped them with the flat butt of their swords.

"What's going on here?" Peter asked, seeing the mistreatment going on.

Jake seeing this was tensing his body in anger watching all these and he felt like lunging at the men and ripping their heads off.

Alex, seeing this, quickly held Jake back.

"This is not our town, nor is it the Fang Hunters territory, just keep yourself under control. Don't act rashly" Alex said, still holding onto Jake's hand.

"Listen to your friend, he has a good point." Zee quickly said.

That was when Jake relaxed his body.

"C'mon let's head somewhere else." Jake said heading in a random direction.

"But what about Helen?" Peter asked, chasing after Jake.

Jake just walked into a random direction trying to clear his head off after what he saw.

'What the hell is happening in this city? The citizens are just seeing this as a normal occurrence but I feel there's more than what meets the eyes.' Jake thought.

Walking off, Jake's feet took him to a stall that sold some beautiful things like necklaces and earrings.

Seeing it, Jake calmed down as he looked down at a beautiful necklace that was adorned with some beast crystals making it glistened in the sun.

'It almost looked like a diamond necklace from those days.' Jake thought as he looked at it.

Then an image of Kate appeared in his mind again. Thinking of how it will really suit her, Jake decided he would get it for her.

That was when Peter and Alex finally caught up to Jake. And they finally saw Jake looking at a beautiful necklace.

"You thinking of buying that for Kate right?" Peter asked with a smirk on his face.

Hearing Peter's question, Jake's cheeks heated up slightly red.

"I think it will really suit her well. Her beauty would compliment the necklace well." Peter smiled then Jake quickly turned around to glare at Peter.

"Not like I would dare to eye up the boss' girl." Peter quickly got on the defensive.

"My girl? Kate is not my girl, she's just my good friend." Jake said, turning back to the necklace with a red cheek.

"You gonna buy something or what?" The stall owner asked angrily.

"Yes, we are going to buy something so stop being rude." Alex retorted.

"I don't need some kids coming here and telling me what to do." The stall owner said.

"Look, I just want to buy this necklace." Jake pointed to the necklace.

"It cost 2000 credits." The stall owner said looking at them knowing that they wouldn't be able to afford it.

"Pack it."

'Wait, I didn't say that.' Jake thought already fearing for the worst because the last time someone said this, the necklace was taken right from him.

Chapter 193 Golden Raven Inn and bar

Jake and his friends had finally gotten to the Raven's city and they could see the advancement here was better than Aurora city and Jake was thinking of making Aurora advanced like this if it had any chance of competing with the top guilds.

Jake had decided he would talk to Humfree or Kate about slowly introducing this much advancement into the guild if they stood any chance of getting to the top.

That was when they had seen the mistreatment from the soldiers to some people the escorted in tattered clothing and being covered in shackles as if they were prisoners.

Jake seeing this was angry and wanted to lash out but Alex and Zee's voice or reason stopped him. Since he didn't know what to do, Jake just walked around until his feet brought him to a stall that sold beautiful things.

That was when Jake's eyes laid on a beautiful necklace and he decided to get it for Kate but before he could pay for it, a voice was heard asking the stall owner to pack it up.

Turning around, Jake's eyes laid on a person who was covered in a purple robe with the hood covering their face while a large man was seen standing beside the person also wearing a black robe.

Looking at them, Jake raised an eyebrow. "I want to buy this necklace."

"And so do I." The purple robe figure said.

"Can't you just get something else?" Peter asked.

"No, I want this one." The figure pointed to the necklace again. "But I'm willing to let it go on one condition."

"What's that?" Alex asked.

"I want a hug from you." The purple robe figure said.

"A hug?" Jake asked. "I don't even know you."

"Well you do know me." The figure said as she pulled down their hood slightly for Jake to see it.

"Helen!" Jake said surprised then she quickly placed her finger on her lips.

"Shuush!" She placed her finger on her lips. "Get what you want to get and let's get out of here."

Jake quickly paid for the necklace and it was packed for him as he left with his friends and Helen led the way to someplace else.

Jake and his friends were walking behind Helen as they quietly made their way to somewhere they could talk in peace without any interruptions.

After a few minutes of quiet walking, they reached an establishment. It was a medium sized building that had a glass door entrance unlike the wooden or Iron double doors Jake was used to at Aurora.

Looking above the door, a sign was placed on it stating the name of the establishment.

"Golden Raven inn and bar"

Opening the doors, Helen walked in and so did Jake and his friends. Entering in, they could see rows of chairs and tables with people on it drinking and chatting away with a soft melodious sound playing in the background.

Making the place lively and entertaining.

'Music?' Jake thought as he listened to the sound in the background. 'It has been a long time since I listened to music and its melodious sound. I almost forgot it even existed.'

Then Helen led them to an empty table that wasn't occupied by anybody and Helen sat down while ordering some drinks, beverages and food for their table.

"I'm sure you are all not of age to drink alcoholic drinks so I have ordered beverages for you all." Helen smiled.

"Do you have enough money to pay for what you ordered?" Jake asked.

"Of course why not? You do know who my dad is... was. I don't even know his state." Helen almost broke down but quickly regained her composure as someone brought her orders to the table.

And after he left, Jake and his friends quickly dug in hungrily devouring the food on the table.

"We haven't eaten for three days now so I hope you can understand." Alex quickly smiled as he went back to eating.

"Knock yourselves out." Helen smiled as she took a swig of her drink slowly while looking at Jake eating casually.

'I can't believe this kid has such an immense amount of strength. If I hadn't witnessed his strength earlier and just heard rumours, I wouldn't have believed it.' Helen thought as she kept drinking while looking at Jake.

'I just hope his strength is enough to get my dad back and possibly save my city. But who am I kidding, my dad was an AA class adventurer and he still got bested by that monster.'

After a few minutes of eating quietly, Jake and his friends were done and they took a swig of their own drinks before the person that had delivered their food came to take the plates away.

Then he returned again to receive the money for the orders.

"How much was all of that?" Helen asked.

"1500 credits ma'am." The man smiled.

"One thousand what?" Jake almost shouted but he toned down his voice.

"It's okay, I can pay for it." Helen said as she did the transfer from her watch to the man's before he left.

"That was quite expensive." Peter commented.

"It's okay." Helen said.

"So i'm guessing that's berg beside you right." Jake said.

"Yes." Berg replied as he pulled down his hood slightly before he covered it back up like Helen.

"Why are you all covering your faces?" Peter asked.

"We are trying to conceal our identities from everyone." Berg replied.

"Why?" Alex asked.

"Because there's a manhunt for Helen and me. And the reward is a total of a hundred thousand credits." Berg replied.

"Hundred what?" Now it was Alex's turn to almost shout.

"Who will be crazy enough to put that much amount of money on your heads?" Alex asked.

"The leader of the Iron Fist Guild." Jake replied, tensing his fist in anger.

"But why will he do that? Why lose that amount of money just for the two of you?" Peter asked with a raised brow.

"Because I know his little secret." Helen said.

Chapter 194 A Haven

Jake and his friends were in a bar with Helen and Berg who always followed Helen everywhere right from when she was little as her personal body guard of some sort.

They both had hoods over their head trying to conceal their identities for one reason or another.

That was when Jake asked why they had a hood on trying to conceal their identities and that's when Berg told him that there was a manhunt going on for Helen and his head.

Jake and his friends were now confused why a manhunt would be on their head so he decided to ask.

"Because I know his little secret." Helen said.

"What secret?" Jake asked.

"It's more like I was about to find out. My dad found out about their secret and dealings and he was about to expose the leader of the Iron fist Guild but before he could, he went missing." Helen explained.

"Then why is there a manhunt for you?" Alex asked.

"Because before he went missing, my dad left me a letter explaining what happened but before I could get to it, someone beat me to it and now, there's a manhunt on my head because they thought I knew their secrets." Helen explained.

"Now this is a tricky situation." Alex said as he relaxed back in his chair.

"What are you all doing here anyways?" Berg asked.

"After we took over the reins of Aurora Academy, the Iron Fist Guild made life difficult for us because they didn't want us to grow strong enough to challenge them. So we are here to try and talk things out with them." Jake explained.

"Haha, you wish." Berg laughed.

"What does that mean?" Peter asked.

"The leader of that guild is a notorious trouble maker and he doesn't care about anything or anyone apart from himself. He does anything he wants to do without any consequences. The only people he is cautious of are the big three and the strongest independent Guild."

"The rest, he doesn't care as he does whatever he wants. Is that the person you plan on talking to? He is unreasonable and he doesn't care whatever happens as long as he gets what he wants." Helen explained.

Listening in, Jake and his friends were in deep thought as they didn't know what to do again.

"So what now?" Peter asked.

"We still try to talk, if they don't want to listen, and it's a fight they want, then that's what they will get." Jake replied. "I will not back down from a fight."

Helen and Berg were looking at Jake as if he were a lunatic and didn't know what he's saying.

"Did you even hear what we said? We said it's impossible to fight him. Even my master was an equal rank and strength to him but he still managed to best my master one way or the other." Berg said.

"If it's about the impossible, then there's only one person that can do that." Peter smiled.

"Can we get somewhere to stay?" Jake asked.

"Well you are in luck because this place doubles as an inn; a place where people can stay for as long as they want. As long as they pay the fee that is." Helen said.

"Great, let's go then." Jake said standing up.

Helen led them to a counter where they could see a beautiful girl standing behind the counter with a radiant smile on her face.

"How may I help you?" The girl asked politely and Peter couldn't stop staring at her.

"Go on a date with me." Peter didn't know when he blurted out as he kept staring at the girl who just smiled while Jake and the rest looked at Peter strangely.

"I'm sorry for my friend's words." Jake apologised.

"No it's okay, I found it cute." The girl said as she smiled at Peter again who felt like he could die at this moment.

"We would like a room to stay for a week for the three of us." Alex quickly said.

"Sure that will be 2500 credits." The girl said. "But because of that pretty boy with you, I will give you a discount and give you the room for 2000 credits."

"I think Peter has just found his perfect match." Jake mumbled as he looked at the girl.

Jake didn't complain as a discount was a discount and he was going to take it. Then he did the transfer leaving them with a total of twenty-eight thousand credits.

The girl rang a bell on her desk and a man came over.

"He will show you to your room." The girl smiled. "And oh, pretty boy, I would love to see you again soon."

"The name is Chuck, Peter Chuck." Peter stretched his hand out for a handshake and the girl shook it.

"My name is Amelia." The girl smiled and wanted to pull back her hand but Peter was still holding onto it.

That was when Jake came and started pulling Peter away.

"Ok buddy, time to go." Jake said as he forcefully dragged Peter away like a kid that didn't want to go to school.

"Hey Jake, that's embarrassing. Let me go." Peter demanded and Jake let him go before they followed the man in front of them to their room.

After taking the stairs and walking for a few minutes, they stood in front of a room.

"Wow what a coincidence, our room is just adjacent to yours." Helen said as she and Berg went into the room while the man in front of Jake led them into the room.

Entering the room, they could see it was huge with a huge bed that could possibly fit around 4-5 people on it.

And then there was a chandelier above the room therefore illuminating it. And the room gave off a fresh scent.

"Now this is what I'm talking about." Peter said as he jumped on the bed.

Then the man was about to leave but before he did, Jake gave him a tip and he was grateful before he left the room.

"So what now?" Alex asked.

"We rest, and after that we explore the City. I need to find out what is going on before I make my move." Jake said.

Chapter 195 Gathering Intel

After they had gotten their well deserved rest and sleep, it was finally the next day and Jake woke early but not as early as he usually would and he was surprised to see someone awake before him.

In fact, he had gotten ready and styled his hair more than usual.

"Hey Peter, you're still hung up on that girl? I thought you would have forgotten about her since you have feelings for nurse Hayley." Jake smiled.

"Haha, very funny." Peter said sarcastically. "Amelia is very perfect for me and I'm going to do whatever it takes to have her. I think I love her."

"Haha." Jake laughed as he got out of bed. "Peter is in love. Alright let's see how long this will last. I'm sure when you see another pretty girl, you are going to say the same thing."

"You haven't experienced anything called love yet. The only thing you love is getting stronger and ridding the world of werewolves." Peter said, turning around to look at Jake.

"Have you even thought of a life aside this one? What will you do after you have rid the world of werewolves, gotten stronger and then let's not forget your fantasies of toppling the Big three then what next?" Peter asked.

"I... I don't really know." Jake said as he quickly went to the bathroom and Peter just shook his head.

"Don't you think that was a little bit harsh?" Alex asked as he slowly opened his eyes.

"He needs to know that there is also a life aside from constantly fighting and trying to rule the world. Has he even considered Kate's feelings? She loves him but he doesn't even realise that." Peter said.

"Just give him time, I think love isn't one of the things on his mind right now. He has other things to focus on like getting the Iron Fist Guild off our back. I don't even know how this will go." Alex said.

Peter just sighed and then went back to sit on the bed. And after a few minutes, Jake came out and also started getting ready while Alex went to take his bath.

"Look I'm sorry man if my words had hurt you." Peter said.

"No it's okay, you are right, there is a life after this one but it's not my priority right now." Jake replied with a small smile on his face before he turned around again so Peter wouldn't see his face.

"So what's the plan?" Zee asked.

"I find out what was going on with that slave trade stuff I saw the previous day. Something feels off about it." Jake quietly said.

"How are you supposed to do that?" Zee asked.

"I will find a way." Jake said and then, the door to the bathroom opened and Alex walked out and also got ready.

After a few minutes, they all decided to go get breakfast together.

Coming down, Peter saw Amelia and he gave her a wave which she responded back with a wave and a smile.

Seeing Amelia, Jake couldn't just shrug off a small feeling nagging at the back of his mind.

'I understand Peter falling for her suddenly, but how did the same happen with Amelia? I don't think I have seen girls falling for a guy so suddenly like that without knowing him.' Jake thought as he grabbed a seat.

"Oh please, just turn off your warrior instincts for a while and eat your food in peace. That's what's called love at first sight." Zee chided.

Alex ordered a bunch of food and some other things and that was when Helen and Berg also came down and sat down beside them with a smile.

Then they all dug in quietly eating before Helen looked up at Jake.

"So what's the plan?" Helen asked.

"I don't know." Jake shrugged.

"Helen, where do you think the leader of the Iron Fist Guild will be in this city?" Alex asked.

"My best guess, at my father's base." Helen replied.

"And where is it?" Peter asked.

"At the end of the city." Helen replied.

"Alright then, after gathering some information, we can all head there." Jake said as he slowly stood up and called the person that served them then he paid him.

Jake was now fiddling with his watch then he looked up.

"Alex, I just sent you five thousand credits, use it to get what you want for yourself and Peter but make sure to spend it wisely. I'm putting you in charge of the money and Peter because I don't trust Peter." Jake said.

"Me? Why don't you trust me?" Peter asked.

"Because you might just squander all the money on a girl or unnecessary stuff." Alex replied then he turned to Jake.

"Don't worry, I will handle him."

"What about you? Where are you headed?" Helen asked.

"Sightseeing." Jake said and then he swiftly left the inn to head over to only heavens know where while leaving the others behind.

"So what now?" Berg asked.

"We will do what Jake said, gather Intel so we can formulate a solid plan." Alex shrugged.

"And how do you suppose we do that?" Peter asked.

"Actually I have a way." Helen said with a smug smile on her face as if proud of herself.

"What way?" Alex asked.

"The mistake that bastard made was keeping some of our Guild members with him to serve him and we will use that to our advantage." Helen smiled.

"How so?" Alex asked with a raised brow.

"There are people that are very loyal to us and my dad and they won't be moved even by money that easily. So we just have to meet one of them and get our information." Helen said.

"Are you sure of this?" Berg asked.

"Yes, a hundred percent." Helen smiled.

"Fine, let's do that now." Alex said as he stood up and they headed out to go find this person Helen trusts so much.

Chapter 196 Clash of Egos

After leaving the inn, Helen and the boys were on their way to go find the person Helen trusts so much to try and gather Intel on what was going on In Raven city.

On the way walking, Peter had a question he wanted to ask.

"So Helen, how did you meet Jake?" Peter asked.

"It was when we started bidding on a necklace that we met back at Aurora city. And ever since then, we became quite close." Helen replied with a heat up cheek which didn't go unnoticed by the others.

"How does he keep attracting pretty girls to himself and they always fall for him but that fool doesn't even realises it." Peter mumbled.

They kept on walking past different shops and places while Peter kept looking into all the shops through the glass door in the way and that was when he drew Alex making him stop and so did the others.

"What is it?" Alex asked.

"Look." Peter said pointing to one of the shops. "Why don't we get ourselves some armour, it will really help us if we were to go up against the leader of the Iron Fist Guild and the guild in total."

"I think he is right, although it might not boost your strength on a huge margin, it will still help you even by a little bit so go for it." Helen said.

"But your Intel." Alex said.

"It can wait, we would do that later, for now, go get yourself something." Helen said.

"Fine." Alex said as Peter dragged him into the shop while Helen and Berg followed suit.

Upon entering the shop, they could see it was filled with all sorts of weapons and armour ranging from the intermediate tier to the advanced tier based on their looks.

Peter quickly got to work while going from table to table looking for the armour that would suit him while Alex stood off by the side.

"Aren't you going to get yourself something?" Helen asked Alex.

"I don't need an armour because my body is strong enough to take any hit and I have an advanced sword of my own so I don't need anything." Alex replied with his arms folded.

That was when the owner of the shop came out of the back and could see the kids in the shop while one of them was surveying the shop looking for something.

"Can I help you young one?" The shop owner asked Peter.

"Yeah, I was looking for an armour that is strong and can take a strong hit." Peter smiled.

"Sure, we have that." The shop owner said as he led Peter to a section that had an armour locked in a cabinet while the armour was shining.

It was a silver coloured chest piece with a golden shoulder guard which had feathery quills on it.

"This armour, just came in very recently, it is an advanced tier armour that could increase the user's defense by 4 percent and it also has the potential of receiving a hit from even a low king tier beast." The shop owner boasted.

"Wow that is really cool!" Peter exclaimed.

All the beasts diversified in strength, even some advanced tier beasts are stronger than others and regardless whether a king tier beast was of a low tier, it is still a king tier beast regardless so with an armour taking a hit like that, it was all worth it.

"I will take it." Peter quickly said.

"That will be three thousand credits." The man said.

'Yikes, that is a lot, it is a hit on the money Jake left us with. I'm sure after I purchase it, Jake would be happy right and he wouldn't think about the cost right?' Jake thought.

Peter quickly called for Alex to pay.

"What the cost?" Alex asked.

"Three thousand credits." Peter said.

"Three thousand what?" Alex asked.

"I know it's a lot but it's all worth it, I promise." Peter quickly said.

"I will take it off your hands for four thousand credits." A voice was heard saying while walking into the shop.

"What?!?" Peter shouted as he turned around to see who wanted to take his precious armour away from him.

He could see a young man walking in with a bodyguard by his side. The young man or more like the teenage guy had a slick black hair while he had blue eyes that complimented his beauty.

"Right away." The shop owner quickly said.

"Wait!" Peter called out. "How about four thousand, three hundred credits."

The man stopped immediately and looked at Peter and so did Alex.

"Four thousand, five hundred credits." The young man said again.

"Four thousand, eight hundred credits." Peter said.

"Peter, stop now, we can get another armour again." Alex whispered.

"Five thousand, six hundred credits. Final offer." The young man said.

Seeing that the kids in front of him didn't say anything, meant that he didn't have the amount of money to pay so Peter just walked off in anger.

"I wish I could punch his arrogant smile off his face." Peter said out loud as he walked away.

"What did you say?" The bodyguard that had been mostly silent asked. "You want to punch my master in the face? I dare you to try it."

"Oh I would have loved to do it but I don't like violence and there's nothing in it for me." Peter replied while walking off.

"How about we place this armour down as a bet." The teenage guy said. "If you can manage to land a hit on me, then you can have the armour."

"Ha, it is on." Peter said as he readied himself but Alex placed his hands on his shoulder.

"Are you sure you want to do this? You might accidentally kill him." Alex shouted the last part out loud so the other party can hear it.

"This is the best way for me to get the armour without paying a dime, so I will go for it. And don't worry, I will make sure I hold back my strength." Peter said.

"I'm not an easy fish for you, if you plan on holding back, I would advice not to!" The teenage guy said as he exploded from his position strongly that the floorboard below his feet earlier exploded behind him.

Chapter 197 A Plan Unfolds

After leaving the inn, Jake was now out on the city looking at all the buildings and shops.

"Now where do I head to for my investigation?" Jake asked himself as he looked around.

'I think I know where to start from.' Jake thought as he looked around and started asking passers-by for directions.

After a few minutes of asking and directing, Jake finally found where he was looking for as he stood in front of a huge building, bigger than the building that was in the town of Aurora city.

It was Raven's city Guildhall and Jake could see that there was a lot of work put in the building compared to the one owned by the Government at Aurora city.

The building had purple colour to it and it also had those glass doors he saw at Raven bar. Walking in, the door opened up automatically for Jake which totally surprised him.

'This place has more advanced technology than Aurora. When we have gotten our footing, I will need to look for someone that can help us bring these into The Fang hunters.' Jake thought as he walked into the building.

The inside was huge enough to fit all the adventurers that were in the place. As Jake could see dozens and rows of chairs and tables arranged perfectly with people on it having a sip of their drinks while chatting happily and their weapon kept on their side.

Jake could see a counter off to the side where a female was seen sitting down with a type of writing material in front of her.

Then off to the side, Jake could see a huge bulletin like board which Jake suspected would be the guild quests.

Walking to a table, Jake sat down and ordered for a drink but not a strong one. Then he slowly sipped it as he listened on the conversations being said around him.

That was when he heard a conversation that interested him.

"I can't believe that the Iron Fist Guild took over our city with ease like that." A man was heard speaking to one of the three men sitted in front of him.

"Yeah, it still is confusing, even though they have strong members, the Rave lord also has equal strength to the Iron Fist Guild leader so how did this happen?" Another man asked.

"Rumours has it that he had help and that was how he managed to best our leader in a fight." Another man said.

"But what type of help did he have that could have helped him best our leader?" The last man asked.

"My best guess, he has a secret weapon or technology that he made use of." The first man said.

"But what do you think he's using all those slaves we always see once a while passing through the streets for?"

This perked Jake's ears as he listened in closely maybe he might have found some clue. Bases on their conversations, Jake had managed to get somethings from them.

Firstly, it turns out that the fight between the Iron Fist Guild leader and the Raven leader wasn't made publicly that was why they didn't know what was used to make the Raven leader lose.

Secondly, they are not happy with whatever was going on and Jake might be able to use this to his advantage.

And thirdly, he managed to find out the name of the Raven leader was Rave lord.

"I'm not really sure but I feel like it's something sinister." Someone else replied.

"Well we don't know but the Iron Fist Guild members will surely know about what is going on."

'Their members?' Jake thought as he looked around. 'How am I going to find them now? I think I have an idea.'

Jake stood up and approached the men sitted and were having the conversation that he was eavesdropping earlier.

"Good day gentlemen." Jake greeted politely with a smile on his face.

"What do you want kid?" One of them responded annoyed.

"I wanted to know if you are all members of the Iron Fist Guild." Jake said with a smile.

"Why would we be members of that fil..." A man wanted to say but he quickly bit his tongue as he looked around to see if anybody heard his mistake.

"No we are not. And why are you asking?"

"I just wanted to go on a hunt with them because I heard their members are always strong so I wanted to go on a hunt with them, maybe I might just be able to rank up and get to the next rank." Jake smiled.

"So you mean that we the original members of this city are not strong?" One of them asked furiously already grabbing his weapon.

"No." Jake quickly shook his hands. "Don't misunderstand me, I didn't say you weren't strong at all, I just said I heard that the members of the Iron Fist Guild were strong and I wanted to see it for myself if they really are strong."

One of the men just scoffed. "Get lost kid and go find them yourself." The man waves Jake off.

Jake was just clenching his fist in anger at the way the men were being rude and he just felt like lashing out at them but he quickly held himself back.

"You can easily find them because they wear an orange material be it head gear or something and it always has a symbol of a Fist planted firmly on it. While the higher ranked members symbol is of that of an Iron Fist." One of them quickly explained.

Jake on hearing this, quickly smiled as he looked at the man that answered his question.

"Thank you so much, I really appreciate it." Jake said as he swiftly left their presence looking for the members of the Iron Fist Guild.

"Do you have a plan in mind? Hope you are not just going to go beat them up until they give you what you want." Zee said.

"I'm not so foolish, I have my ways and I know how to get the job done." Jake smiled as he finally saw a member of the Iron Fist Guild.

Chapter 198 Blip's Son

Peter along with Alex, Helen and Berg were out heading to get the person Helen trusted so much so they could gather Intel on whatever was going on and what the Iron Fist Guild were planning.

But before they could get far enough, Peter pulled them all into a shop that sold weapons and armour. Peter begged Alex to release the funds given to them by Jake so he could get an armour.

After much persuasion, Alex agreed and Peter was shown an impressive armour which he fell in love with immediately and wanted to buy it but before he could, an arrogant young guy came in and tried to buy the armour.

Peter didn't back down and then a bidding war ensued between him and the arrogant young and finally Peter lost the war but before he left, a bet was made because of Peter's words.

"I wish I could punch his arrogant smile off his face." Peter said out loud as he walked away.

"What did you say?" The bodyguard that had been mostly silent asked. "You want to punch my master in the face? I dare you to try it."

"Oh I would have loved to do it but I don't like violence and there's nothing in it for me." Peter replied while walking off.

"How about we place this armour down as a bet." The teenage guy said. "If you can manage to land a hit on me, then you can have the armour."

"Ha, it is on." Peter said as he readied himself but Alex placed his hands on his shoulder.

"Are you sure you want to do this? You might accidentally kill him." Alex shouted the last part out loud so the other party can hear it.

"This is the best way for me to get the armour without paying a dime, so I will go for it. And don't worry, I will make sure I hold back my strength." Peter said.

"I'm not an easy fish for you, if you plan on holding back, I would advice not to!" The teenage guy said as he exploded from his position strongly that the floorboard below his feet earlier exploded behind him.

In less than a second, the guy was in front of Peter as he threw a punch towards Peter's head but Peter was quick to act as he ducked therefore avoiding it.

Then Peter sharply pivoted to the side and regained his footing as he looked at young guy that had a smile on his face.

"Impressive! I haven't seen anyone fast enough to dodge my quick hit like that except for some few people." He said.

"Cut me the crap!" Peter shouted as he exploded from his position strongly with the use of Qi making him fast enough to get in front of the guy as he threw a fast kick but he had easily avoided it.

"Phew, that was a close one." The guy said.

"Andrew, how is he?" The bodyguard asked.

"Quite impressive." Andrew smiled as he looked at Peter who was standing eyeing Andrew up.

"Was Peter always this strong?" Helen asked. "I never really paid any attention to him when the werewolves struck."

"He's strong alright." Alex said. "But I haven't seen him fight this hard unless something was on the line like that armour. Which means he must truly want it."

"Please y'all, you are destroying my shop, go fight somewhere else." The shop owner said.

It was like they didn't hear the man as Andrew dashed towards Peter again while swirling his Qi to his fist and so did Peter.

Then the two of them met in the center with their fist out and hit each other knuckle for knuckle while the waves of them hitting each other spread outwardly and falling some things on the shelves down.

"Arghh! My precious shop." The man said as he fell on his knees.

Peter quickly jumped back and came back in throwing a roundhouse kick quickly towards Andrew's head but he had quickly ducked avoiding it.

Then Andrew threw a strong hook to Peter's stomach that made him skid a few inches in pain.

"That guy sure do pack a punch." Alex commented.

"What happened? Is that all you got? You haven't even landed a successful hit on me since and you planned on hitting my face. Ha" Andrew laughed.

"Oh well, I guess I should stop holding back then." Peter smiled as he swirled his Qi to his feet, hands and body making him stronger and faster.

And in one smooth movement, Peter had pushed off from his position totally breaking the floorboard he stood on and got to Andrew's front and threw a solid uppercut towards Andrew that made Andrew go flying.

And he crashed into his bodyguard off to the side strongly making him skid an inch.

"You don't know what I have been through to get to this stage." Peter said as he calmly and casually walked to the counter and took the packaged armour.

"According to the bet everybody witnessed, if I were to land a successful hit on you, the armour is mine." Peter said as he walked off.

Andrew slowly stood up and smiled towards Peter.

"So you have been holding back, anyway as per the bet, the armour is yours fair and square." Andrew smiled and then Peter and his friends left the shop quickly.

"Wait! Who will pay for all these damage?" The shop owner shouted.

"Don't worry, I will pay." Andrew said as he transferred some credits to the shop owner and then Andrew and his bodyguard exited the shop.

"So what now?" Andrew's bodyguard asked.

"Now, we find out who those people are and what they are looking for here." Andrew smiled.

"But what if they are important people, your father won't be happy with you messing with them."

"Relax, my father is practically the owner of this city and the Iron Fist Guild, and nobody even knows what I look like, so it's okay." Andrew said.

Chapter 199 Among Enemies

Jake after leaving the Raven inn and bar, walked towards the Raven's city Guildhall to find out what was going on with the maltreatment of slaves he saw on the first day he came and possibly find out who the leader of the Iron Fist Guild was and how he could find him.

He got to the Guildhall and could see the advancement of technology here compared to Aurora and he made a note at the back of his head to inform Kate and Head General Humfree about implementing all these in the Fang hunters.

His search for information led him towards a table where he sat down and eavesdropped on the conversations going on around him to hear of any thing that might help him.

That was when he did hear an interesting conversation going on between some adventurers about their distaste for the Iron Fist Guild taking over their city while defeating their leader quite easily.

After some minutes, Jake walked up towards them to inquire how he could find the Iron Fist Guild members.

"You can easily find them because they wear an orange material be it head gear or something and it always has a symbol of a Fist planted firmly on it. While the higher ranked members symbol is of that of an Iron Fist." One of them quickly explained.

Jake on hearing this, quickly smiled as he looked at the man that answered his question.

"Thank you so much, I really appreciate it." Jake said as he swiftly left their presence looking for the members of the Iron Fist Guild.

"Do you have a plan in mind? Hope you are not just going to go beat them up until they give you what you want." Zee said.

"I'm not so foolish, I have my ways and I know how to get the job done." Jake smiled as he finally saw a member of the Iron Fist Guild.

With that, Jake was now in front of a member of the Iron Fist Guild and in fact, he could see that they were around four and they stood in front of the huge bulletin like board and were discussing something.

Jake decided to listen in on their conversation.

"The quest says we need at least five people to participate as it involves an advanced tier beast." One of the members said.

"Yeah, how are we going to do that? Everyone here practically hates us after our leader took over their precious city." Another one of them said.

"Does it even matter? If our leader took over then it means he is better than their weak leader."

"Let's forget about that and focus on the current issue in front of us." A young man who looked to be around his early twenties with blue hair said and immediately, the others kept quiet.

'That could be the leader.' Jake thought as he inched closer after listening on their conversation.

"So where are we going to find a fifth member since this quest is quite important to us?" The leader asked again.

"I can help, I want to join you all." They heard a voice say and they turned around to look for the source.

And they could see a young teenage guy that looked to be eighteen at most with black curly hair and hazel blue eyes in front of them with a friendly smile.

"What did you say?" One of the members asked.

"I said, I would love to join you all on this hunt." Jake smiled again.

'Gosh, seeing them is just making my blood boil. I feel like slicing their heads off but I know that it's their leader who is at fault so I have to be calm since I'm practically in their territory.' Jake thought as he still maintained his fake smile.

"Why do you want to join us?" The leader asked.

"Because I was told that the Iron Fist Guild members were all strong and I want to witness that strength by myself while at the same time racking up points to rank up." Jake smiled.

"What's your rank?" The leader asked.

"F." Jake replied.

And they all started laughing at Jake.

"Look kid, we appreciate your will of joining us, but we don't want someone that will drag us down and slow us down." A member said.

"Exactly, F class is the lowest among we adventurers and we all here are D class adventurers while Alfred here is a C class adventurer." Someone said while pointing to their leader.

'So his name is Alfred, he is even a C class adventurer, so pathetic. I could just snap his head off smoothly in a blink of an eye, but I have to be patient If I want to gather the information I want.' Jake thought.

"I know I'm weak, but I promise I won't drag or slow you all down." Jake said. "I just want to hunt with you all and earn enough money to pay for my mother's bill." Jake said pulling all the sad face he could pull.

Your adventure continues at empire

They were now looking at him thinking of what they should do. At the end of the day, they couldn't decide anything since they weren't the leader so they looked up to Alfred to give his decision.

Alfred just sighed. "Alright you can come along but you have to stay close to us so that you won't get into trouble."

"Thank you so much." Jake smiled looking at Alfred.

'How did I do Zee?' Jake asked.

"Impressive acting. I would have been convinced myself." Zee replied and Jake smiled.

The team now went to register their members and they were given a portable telepoter button that had the coordinates of their hunting spot inputted on it.

Before they activated and stepped through, Jake decided to send a message to his friends through his system.

{I might be back late, so try and gather information and I will do the same on my end. When we get back, we would share whatever we found and try to formulate a plan. One more thing, please stay out of trouble.}

After sending the message, the portal opened and one by one, the members of the Iron Fist Guild stepped forward into it and soon after, Jake did the same and they were teleported into a new world.

Chapter 200 Crystal Ice Golems

Stepping through the portal to another world, was Jake along with the four members from the Iron Fist Guild. And they had appeared in a cold world.

Immediately Jake stepped through, he could feel how cold the place was. And looking around, he could see snow falling down and his feet submerged in snow.

'What type of beast are we hunting here?' Jake thought as he looked around cautiously then he summoned his old intermediate tier gauntlets on his arm waiting for anything to pop out.

'I can't summon my sword or else, they would be suspicious of me, of how I got an advanced tier sword.' Jake thought as he followed Alfred and his group quietly.

'Not seeing any beast yet is creeping me out.' Jake thought as he activated his system. 'This should help.'

He quickly activated his skill.

{Qi sense: a skill that revealed the location of hidden threat within 10m of the user has it only lasted for a minute.}

Immediately Jake activated it, he was now in tune with his surroundings as he casually walked around and that was when they reached a part of the planet that had huge ice crystals protruding out of the ground.

"This is weird." Jake quietly mumbled as he kept twisting his head around.

"My sense is tripping me off that there are beasts around here but I can't see anything."

"Was the quest board wrong?" One of his temporary teammate asked. "This place looks devoid of beasts."

Jake kept feeling something was off as he looked around and then his Qi sense got de-activated.

'Why did I sense that there were beasts around here?' Jake thought as he looked at Ice crystals strangely.

He could count around four of them and the way they protruded was quite weird so just to be safe, Jake activated his trusted skill that might shed more light on the matter.

{Inspect}

{Crystal Ice golems}

{Race: Advanced tier beasts}

{Abilities: Ice}

{Description: These Crystal ice golems are tall beasts that could shoot ice out at their enemies. They are practically found in cold environments while they burrow themselves in the ground. They won't react or come out of their underground haven unless when touched on their crystal that always shows above.}

Reading through everything, Jake was now worried as he counted that there were four of the strange crystals that turned out to be part of an advanced tier beast around them.

That was when Jake saw the rude member of the Iron Fist Guild head over towards one of the crystals.

"No wait!" Jake shouted but it was too late as he had touched the crystal and immediately, a rumbling noise was heard below them.

The rumbling noise created a chain reaction around them as the crystals that they could see were now going up and revealing something beneath.

Slowly, they could now see what they had awakened. It was huge beasts that looked as tall as a yeti of the earlier days.

They had crystals on their backs and also they had claws that were crystalized and shaped like a Crab's pincher. And they had one eye on their huge head which stared right at those that awakened them.

Seeing them, Jake gulped hard. 'This is bad.' Jake thought.

One of the beasts shot out an ice that was as long as a spear from its mouth towards Jake who had been in front of the group as he was investigating.

Immediately, Jake acted fast by activating {Shield of will} around him while coating it with Qi.

The spear was now in front of Jake but it froze mid-air as it couldn't go further because of the shield of will which was an invisible shield.

Everybody were confused about this and Jake quickly took the opportunity to side step therefore causing the ice spear to go crashing down on where he stood earlier.

Alfred seeing the beasts, was sure of one thing now.

"Guys! They are advanced tier beasts." Alfred shouted and the members were now panicking because they only wanted to hunt a single advanced tier beast before they moved to another.

Their plan was to hunt together to kill an advanced tier beast before they moved to hunt another. And now, four advanced tier beasts stood in front of them all ready to tear them apart.

Jake had slowly and quickly moved back without anybody noticing not even the beasts as he had used one of his skills to do so. {Stealth}

Now he was behind the Iron Fist Guild members and he had already equipped his sword as he looked at them all.

'Let's see how you can all handle this. When you are all struggling and it looks like you are going to die, I will come in and save you all. That is the start of my plan.'
Jake thought with a smile on his face as he got ready for anything to happen.

Alfred quickly regained his composure as he dashed towards one of the beasts and he pulled his sword out and swung it at the beast's head but it quickly blocked with its ice pincher like hand and then it flung Alfred away sending him flying.

Seeing their leader flying like that, shocked the rest of them as they knew how strong he was this further cemented the fear that they felt.

The beasts all at once started rapidly shooting out ice after ice at them making dozens of ice to go shooting towards them.

Not wasting time, they had all activated their Qi Unleashing it around their body and they started shooting out Qi projectiles to combat the ice that was being shot their way.

'Impressive, their use of Qi and quick thinking is impressive. But they won't be able to do this for long.' Jake thought as he kept on observing them.

That was when a huge visible Qi spear was shot out towards one of the beast's head who quickly used its claws to block it but the spear managed to lunge in deep causing a deep injury in the claw and blood was drawn.
