

MY SLAYER SYSTEM: RISE TO SUPREMACY

Chapter 261 Gaming Rankings

<Congratulations! Wolf hunter has reached the Platinum rank!>

The gaming system interface appeared in front of him.

"Now maybe I will stop getting weak opponents again." Jake said as he clicked the search button again.

And then slowly, an avatar was materializing in front of him.

"Long time no see wolf hunter, how about a rematch again?"

"Red dragon!" Jake said with a genuine expression on his face.

"I'm here to redeem myself and give you a tough fight." Red dragon said.

"Haha! You wish." Jake said with a chuckle and then the countdown timer appeared.

Immediately it hit o, Raze didn't waste time as he pushed off towards Jake strongly and fast as he was seen speeding towards him with immense speed.

And he swung his sword from the side towards Jake but he quickly sidestepped sharply avoiding it but then the red dragon spun around and threw one of his daggers towards Jake that was spinning quickly heading for his head.

But Jake just jumped up strongly and swung his sword at the tip of the dagger sending it flying towards the red dragon at tremendous speed that he was only barely able to lift his sword when the dagger crashed into him and threw him off to the side.

"Woah!" Sam shouted. "Is it me or has this wolf hunter gotten stronger?"

Everybody in the stands that had been watching Jake's match from the start of his journey in the VR world were currently thinking the same thing as they saw what Jake just did.

"He... he... he is a monster in his own respects." Dan said looking at the wolf hunter with wide eyes.

"Kuh!" The red dragon coughed as he slowly rose up from where he was sent by Jake and he could see his dagger on the floor with his sword slightly indented.

"I really have to admit, you have gotten stronger and I don't know how you are doing it. Are you sure you don't want to jo..." Raze stuttered as he could suddenly see the wolf hunter in front of him with his hand approaching his face.

"I told you already, I don't wanna join a weakling like you!" Jake said as he smashed the red dragon into the VR canvas below their feet.

Jake quickly lifted his foot up and was about to stomp on Raze when he suddenly saw him roll over and then used his leg to kick Jake's leg that was raised sending him skidding.

And before he could regain his footing, the red dragon was already in front of him already in a mid swing.

"You shouldn't conclude your decisions so quickly!" He said as he performed an awkward downward slash that caught Jake unaware.

Which made him to go flying upward but with a flip, he managed to land smoothly on the ground and touching his face, he could see that blood was currently dripping.

"I gotta give it to the one who created this VR game, they made it too realistic as I can currently feel a sting from that slash." Jake said and then he lifted his head up to glare at the red dragon.

"You are lucky this is a game, otherwise if it was in the real world, I would have beheaded you for daring to spill my blood!" Jake threatened as he clenched his hand tightly.

"Oh really! If we were in the real world, you do know that, that my slash would have severely injured you." Raze smiled.

"Hmph! You really don't know me. So how about I show you who I really am!" Jake shouted as he took a step and in the blink of an eye, he was in front of the red dragon who didn't expect that the wolf hunter could move this fast.

"If this really was reality, you would have died twice now!" Jake whispered as he pulled back his hand and delivered a strong, powerful hit to the red dragon's gut that totally made his avatar dissipate and Jake was declared the winner of the fight.

"Pathetic! I can't believe he is still weak after so long." Jake said as he looked at the gaming system interface that appeared in front of him.

"Weak! Did he just call the red dragon weak?" Nate shouted as he looked at the wolf hunter in shock. "With those set of moves, and his quick reflex, the red dragon would have easily defeated some players."

"That is why I would like to talk to this great person now." Sam said as he stood up and exited the spectating stands.

"I guess I will just be meeting weak players until I rank up to diamond. Maybe I can meet those top ten players." Jake mumbled as he stared at the gaming system interface that suddenly brought up something called rankings in front of him.

He could see lists of players on the rankings and he saw that the rank went from 1 to 100 with rank 100 being the lowest rank while 1 was the highest top rank.

After his win, Jake was now pushed up the rankings from 100 to 98.

"I can even decide to send a fight invite to any of these rankers except the top 50. Maybe it's coz of my low rank. Hmm, interesting." Jake said as he kept on surfing and messing with the interface when a screen popped up in front of him.

"Huh? A message request? Is it that red dragon again? What does he want with me again?" He mumbled and then when he clicked the sender's profile, he could see that he was wrong.

'Oh! Maybe it's a fan or something.' he thought and then he shrugged before accepting the message request.

Then he was teleported from the fighting room he was in to the familiar white room but he wasn't alone, as he could see a young teenage guy in front of him.

"Hi wolf hunter! Nice to finally meet you. I'm Sam and I need your help."

Chapter 262 Common enemy

"Huh? A message request? Is it that red dragon again? What does he want with me again?" He mumbled and then when he clicked the sender's profile, he could see that he was wrong.

'Oh! Maybe it's a fan or something.' he thought and then he shrugged before accepting the message request.

Then he was teleported from the fighting room he was in to the familiar white room but he wasn't alone, as he could see a young teenage guy in front of him.

"Hi wolf hunter! Nice to finally meet you. I'm Sam and I need your help."

"Help? Sam, what do you mean? I don't even know you and you are requesting for my help?" Jake said surprised.

"Yeah right, my bad." Sam smiled as he looked at Jake then he sighed.

"My name is Sam and I need to see the werewolf slayer."

"What!!?!!" Jake said in surprise. "The werewolf slayer? How do you want me to get you to see a powerful figure like that?"

"I know you are at Aurora Academy right now." Sam said.

'How does he know that? Who is this Sam personnel?' Jake thought.

"I know you are surprised about how I know. Well you see, I'm quite the curious type so when you started gaming and showing skills that was beyond my understanding winning match after match with a few losses, I decided to look into you more." Sam said.

'Look into me? Did he find out any vital information about me? Darn! I think I made the wrong choice by showing off in the game.' Jake thought.

"So I managed to find out you are at Aurora Academy tracking your gaming ID and finding out where the pod you used is at. And I know that the werewolf slayer took over Aurora Academy and I doubt you would have left there." Sam said.

"Hmm! So what do you want to see the werewolf slayer for? Not like I can arrange a meeting with him as he is a busy figure but I need to know maybe there's a way I can help."

Sam sighed and looked at Jake with teary eyes. "You see my town was taken over by a strong guild and they took my dad as hostage."

Jake just slapped his forehead loudly in frustration. 'Why is it that all the people I meet always ask for my help regarding their town being taken over?'

"But why did they take your dad?" He asked.

"Because he was the leader of the town, my dad was a prominent figure in the town as he was the one who created it from scratch and became the ruler. Think of something along the lines of a mayor of the old." Sam explained.

"Oh I see!" Jake said stroking his chin. "But how sure are you he is still alive?"

Sam just clenched his hands tightly while gritting his teeth before he decided to reply.

"I don't know, I'm just trying to have hope."

"Then there's no need to get the werewolf slayer involved since you aren't even sure if your dad is alive." Jake sighed and was about to log off.

"Wait! Please just help me! My people are in bondage and are in trouble. Every first day in a new month, at least a dozen people are taken away to only heavens knows where." Sam said.

"And how are you able to play the game so comfortably?" Jake asked.

"It would have been destroyed if I didn't act fast enough to hide it in a secret hideout I created for myself when my dad was still here. I'm using the game to see if I can recruit people that can help me in this fight." Sam explained.

Jake sighed and looked at Sam with sorry eyes. "Look! There's no way the werewolf slayer will want to concern himself with this matter right now as he is totally occupied."

"I know!" Sam said clenching his fist in determination. "I know he is occupied and funny enough, we both have a common enemy."

"Huh?" Jake raised an eyebrow in confusion. "What do you mean?"

"I heard that the Iron Fist Guild were trying to obstruct the Fang hunters' and the werewolf slayer struck a meeting with them but it resulted in the death of the vice leader of the Iron Fist Guild and now the guild are restless." Sam said.

"How do you know all these?" Jake asked with a raised brow because he knew that the news wasn't really public and only a select few knew about it.

"Remember when I said we have a common enemy? Well I was talking about the Iron Fist Guild as they are the ones who took over my town and took my dad as a hostage." Sam said.

'What?! What is going on? What are the Iron Fist Guild planning? Why are they taking over town after town?' Jake thought.

With a sigh, Jake replied. "There's nothing I can do about that I'm sorry. It's not like I'm a high ranking adventurer in the guild, I'm just a normal student so there's nothing I can do."

The truth was that Jake wanted to help but he couldn't just take the fight to them, he has his own guild members to think about. Unless the iron fist guild brought the fight to them, there was nothing Jake could do.

"What about you? I have been seeing your match from the start of your VR journey and I saw how strong you always got anytime you came back to the game. That is not ordinary, you must have your way, not like I want to know. But you can still help Remember I said I was recruiting people, you could just join me and we could probably do this together." Sam said.

"Remember I also said I was still a student at the academy? I can't just leave on the whim! Besides, I'm not sure that we can take them on so this is basically a suicide mission. I'm sorry, I hope you manage to rescue your dad and town." Jake said and immediately, he logged out of the game.

"Darnnn it!!!!" Sam shouted into the air in the VR room.

Chapter 263 Flammery Fanged beast

A week had finally passed in a blink of an eye. It was the previous week Jake had arrived at the Fang hunters' base where had fought with the red dragon again in the VR world and won then he was approached by someone with a somewhat ridiculous plea.

Anyway, Jake shut the incident out of his mind as he wasn't ready to go to war with the Iron Fist Guild for something that didn't involve him. Through to his word, Dame got Jake's and Alex's weapon ready in a week.

Jake had received his equipment and he was all smiles as the crystal Ice golems' core was turned into an armour, the toxic wolf crystal was turned into a sword for him and finally, Dame made his Famous werewolf slayer mask for him.

Even Alex got a sword made for himself but it wasn't giant like his former sword. And now after a few days, they stood in front of the portal room about to head off into the red portal planet.

And their friends also were there about to bid them goodbye. After a few hugs, sobs and wishes, Jake and Alex finally stepped into the portal in front of them and they were teleported to another world leaving the Fang hunters' guild in the hands of the others.

Immediately Jake and Alex stepped through the planet, they could feel how hot the place was as the hot atmosphere hit them immediately their feet stepped on the planet.

Looking up in the distance, fire could be seen all around the buildings that didn't look like it will be extinguished soon and above them, was a bright sun that was burning their skin slightly.

There were destroyed buildings left and right all around the place with fire that were as tall as the buildings surrounding them and also burning all over them.

"This place is weird." Jake said.

"Good thing I don't like putting on clothes, I would have been sweating buckets by now." Alex chuckled as he flexed his biceps.

"Shall we begin hunting now?" Jake asked.

"We shall." Alex replied as he took the lead walking off.

"Hey don't leave me behind!" Jake shouted.

"What. Are you scared? Is the great werewolf slayer scared?" Alex asked with a chuckle as they were slowly and steadily approaching one of the burning buildings.

"Scared? I'm telling you to slow down so you don't get devoured quickly by beasts." Jake replied as he was cautiously looking around.

"I doubt we would even encounter beasts so quick." Alex said and right on cue, they felt rumblings beneath their feet.

"Of course you had to go run your big mouth!" Jake said as he opened up his inventory and a small space appeared beside him in the air which only him could see.

Then thinking of his sword, it appeared in his hand and an armour appeared on his body resting on his body comfortably.

"To the side!" Jake shouted and immediately, Alex unsheathed his sword and swerved to the side narrowly avoiding something that crashed into where he was standing earlier.

"Phew! That was close!" Alex said moving backwards to look at what almost crashed into him.

They could both see a head rising from where Alex stood and looking closely, it was connected to a long neck and then looking more, they could see how long the thing was.

{Ding! Host has encountered a flamery Fang beast! Defeat the beast for an increase in stats!}

"Flamery what?!" Jake said as he could see that the beast in front of them was a long reptile of some kind with its length spanning over 25 feet with a huge head on its body and on the head, were two large fangs on it.

"Inspect skill!" Jake called out.

{Name: Flammery Fang beast}

{Description: The Flammery Fang beast is a long reptile that is known for its long length which when a target has been caught, it will wrap it's whole body length around it trying to squeeze the life out of it and beware of its fangs as it has a paralysis effect}

{Tier: King tier}

{HP: 100/100}

"Be careful of it's Fangs Alex!" Jake shouted out a warning but he could see him already running towards the beast. "So reckless."

Alex got to the beast's front and swung his sword outwardly letting a wave of Qi hit it only shifting it's head an inch. And then the beast's head was seen heading towards Alex tremendously with fast speed and was about to crash into him.

Seeing this, he had quickly pivoted sideways very fast that he had even been thrown off his feet after the beast's head crashed into the ground.

"Darn! It's fast!" Alex said as he quickly rolled over just in time avoiding the head again.

"You shouldn't be careless when you nothing about an enemy!" Jake was heard saying and then he was seen running at top speed towards the beast that was just lifting its head.

And then without slowing his speed down, he leapt from where he was with the use of Qi as he was seen propelling towards the beast with tremendous speed and then he made a slashing motion towards the beast's neck but his sword only left a little scratch on it due to the reptile's hardened black scales.

"Darn it!" Jake managed to say before he was whacked by the beast's tail sending him flying.

But before he crashed down, he flipped multiple times in the air slowing him down before he landed smoothly on the ground unhurt.

"Now I know why it is a king tier beast." Jake said.

"Look at the person who was chiding me that I shouldn't charge in recklessly." Alex said coming over.

"Well I thought I could kill it off with a single strike but I guess I was wrong." Jake clicked his tongue as he could see the beast moving its head slowly while twisting its body weirdly in a weird angle.

"Of course you can't kill it with a single strike, it's a king tier beast not an intermediate one." Alex said.

"Whate..." Jake stumbled on his words. "Shit!" He shouted as the beast stretched its head towards where they were and then it was seen moving so quickly towards them and in less than a second, it crossed a distance of three metres and its maw was seen opening up widely about to chomp down on Jake and Alex.

Chapter 264 We are being attacked!

Immediately they had bid Jake and Alex goodbye, the core members of the Fang hunters were seen in a meeting trying to discuss the way forward for the guild.

"Will they be okay?" Peter asked as he was seen twirling his finger casually while deep in thought.

"Do you think that the combined strength of both Alex and Jake won't be enough to take care of any sort of problem?" Paul asked.

"Not that, we are all talking about a King tier beasts here. The same tier General Paul and Kron struggled against that day." Peter said.

"And may I remind you that we weren't at full strength on that day." Paul replied back.

"General Paul has a point right there you know." Jack said.

"Peter, I understand what you are saying. And I know how you feel right now as even I'm worried for them both but what they are doing is for the betterment of the guild's future." Kate said.

"Fine! Whatever you all say." Peter said as he relaxed back on his chair.

"So what shall we do in the meantime?" Sophia asked.

"That is the correct question we should be asking." Emily said as she looked at the silent Head General Humfree.

"I suggest we grow beyond our territory." Humfree said with his face squinted.

"Beyond our territory?" General Wilfred asked.

"Yes! Think of this, if we stick to our territory here at Aurora, we will be limited in our resources and land. With more conquered towns under our belt, we would have more territory in our control and we can expand outwardly." Humfree said.

"But wouldn't it cause trouble with the other guilds?" Kate asked.

"Trouble? Do you think they will care? As long as we don't touch their territories, we are safe. What do you think the Iron Fist Guild were trying to do when they obstructed the border of the Fang hunters'?" Humfree asked.

"They were trying to take over us." Simyon replied.

"Correct! Besides you all are missing one detail." Humfree said.

"And what's that?" Geo asked with a raised brow.

"The Iron Fist are not part of the top 3 independent Guild just for their strength, but for the amount of men they control. The way they expand beyond their territory rapidly is what made them most feared as they control at least 500 hundred thousand guild members and that is why they are called the largest guild." Humfree said.

"Five hundred thousand members?!" All the young ones at the table shouted out at once in shock.

"Please remind me again how many men we have." Peter gulped.

"Because of the faith people have in the werewolf slayer, we were able to increase our might and numbers from two thousand to twenty thousand men." Humfree said.

"What!?! Then why the hell are we threading roughly with them when we could be wiped out in the blink of an eye?" Geo asked.

"Could be! But not yet wiped out. And that is because they are still somewhat afraid of the strength of the werewolf slayer. Especially after what Jake did to the vice leader of the guild, they would be extremely cautious since they don't even know our full might yet." Humfree said.

"And should I point out to you all from what Head General Humfree said, most of their members aren't from the guild from the start, they must have come from the other towns or small time guilds they took over." Paul said.

"Which is why I said we should also try to expand outwards and grow our strength and numbers too." Humfree said.

"Alright! We understand that but where do we start from? How do we start?" Kate asked. Stay tuned to My Virtual Library Empire

"Simple! We send out a little out of our men with one or two of the core members here at the table to a specific small time guild and wage war against them taking over them." Humfree replied.

"War? I don't know about this, I don't think Jake would have agreed to this. Hurting those that did nothing bad to us." Kate said.

"You need to stop being sentimental all the time otherwise you wouldn't grow beyond this point." Humfree said.

"Did you think if any other guilds had the amount of power we had, they wouldn't try to take over us by now? Heck! The Iron Fist are doing the same thing already."

"He has a point there though." Peter said.

"Fine!" Kate sighed as she looked down on her table in thought.

"So where do we start from? For you to suggest this, means you must have been planning all these for some time and which means you must also have a town in mind." Emily said.

"Indeed young lady!" Humfree smiled. "We would attack the town in the following week with at least five thousand men and one of the core members to lead the attack."

"Alright, what town are we going to?" Sophia asked nonchalantly.

"The town is..." Humfree was about to say when he got interrupted by a loud knock on the double doors.

"Who the hell is interrupting our meeting?" General Paul shouted out loud angrily.

"I'm sorry sir but the matter is very urgent!" A voice was heard from the other side.

"Then that means it can wait, we are currently busy." General Wilfred shouted out too.

Everybody could hear the person gulp loudly before saying his next words.

"I'm sorry sir but it can't wait at all as this man is very urgent and important." The man said.

Paul looked towards Humfree who nodded at him and all the young ones at the table quickly pulled out different masks and they put it on their faces. When they were done, a loud click was heard then the door opened up.

Immediately it did, a man was seen running into the middle of the room and he quickly fell on his knees in a bowing position.

"What is it? What is so important that it can't wait?" General Humfree asked.

"I'm sorry all respected members of the Fang hunters' for interrupting your meeting but this matter was of utmost importance." The man said.

"Well what is it?" Peter asked impatiently.

The man on his knees gulped loudly before he said his next set of words.

"We... we... the Fang hunters' is about to be attacked." The man said.

"Attacked? Well take a few men and deal with whoever is foolish enough to attack us and stop disturbing us already." Jack shouted.

"I'm afraid we can't handle this on our own without the help of the core members of the guild." The man said.

"Who are those attacking?" Humfree asked as he stroke his beard causally.

"Head General... we are being attacked by the Iron Fist Guild and... and...." The man said.

"And what?" Peter asked impatiently after hearing that the Iron Fist Guild were attacking.

The man gulped loudly again loudly before he continued. "They brought with them a total of a hundred thousand men."

"What!!!?!!!" Everybody shouted out loud at once.

Chapter 265 Going to be tricky

"Of course you can't kill it with a single strike, it's a king tier beast not an intermediate one." Alex said.

"Whate..." Jake stumbled on his words. "Shit!" He shouted as the beast stretched its head towards where they were and then it was seen moving so quickly towards them and in less than a second, it crossed a distance of three metres and its maw was seen opening up widely about to chomp down on Jake and Alex.

Jake quickly opened up his system in a flash and activated {Strength Surge} and poured all his Qi into his hands giving him a tremendous burst of strength and he grabbed the reptile's maws hard but he was being pushed back as the beast was putting on pressure while the ground beneath Jake's feet was being cracked and broken.

The beast was trying to close its maws but Jake was holding on tight with all the strength he could muster.

'If I hadn't used my system skills and along with all my Qi, I wouldn't have been able to hold the beast like this. Darn! I'm losing me grip.' he thought and then he shouted out loud towards Alex.

"Hurry the f*ck up will you! I'm losing my grip!"

"Almost done!" Alex shouted as he was pouring all his Qi into his sword leaving him with almost nothing.

"Done!" He shouted and then he exploded from where he stood towards the beast and then in a flash, he made a swing towards the open maw and he went all the way to the tail of the beast slicing it into two.

And right on cue, Jake fell down in exhaustion as his hand felt like it was on fire from holding onto the maw for so long.

"What took you so long?" Jake asked as he was still sitting on the floor in pains.

"I'm sorry, I needed to move the Qi evenly around my body and the sword to achieve the necessary effect." Alex said as he was also gently heaving and panting.

'Since it was Alex that delivered the finishing blow, I won't be able to receive the rewards the system promised me.' Jake thought and then he tiredly walked towards the beast and began extracting the crystal.

'One down! Twenty-four more crystals to go! If it wasn't because of Alex, I'm sure I would have struggled a lot. I'm glad I made the choice to bring him along otherwise I would have struggled greatly.' He thought as he finished getting the crystal and he kept it safely in his inventory.

"Where should we go next?" Alex asked as he was cleaning his sword from the beast's blood.

"What do you mean by where we are going next?! Don't you get tired? Well, I don't know for you but I need my rest." Jake replied.

"Ha! Are you tired? Jake the great is tired from defeating one beast? Now the whole school gats to hear this." Alex chuckled.

"You're annoying, you do know that." Jake said as he swung his sword around and then looked at their surroundings.

"I do get that a lot, especially from Peter." Alex replied with a chuckle.

"Let's head there." Jake pointed towards a particular direction that led to the general direction of the burning buildings.

"You are the boss." Alex shrugged as he sheathed his sword back and began walking side by side with Jake who was carefully walking.

"I wonder why there are not a lot of beasts around here like the other planets." Jake said, looking around cautiously.

"That is because this is a red portal planet, it is filled with dangerous king tier beasts, they don't roll in groups. And they are pretty scarce." Alex replied.

"Have you gone to a red portal planet before?" Jake asked.

"Am I crazy? When it's not like I have a death wish or something. Only those of high adventurer rank like double A can go there. Not even an A rank adventurer can survive on a red portal planet." Alex replied.

"Well, we are about to change history then." Jake smiled.

They kept on walking cautiously for a few minutes before they stood in the middle of the burning street as they were surrounded by broken down buildings left and right that were currently on fire.

"What the hell is that?" Alex asked as his eyes opened wide and was currently staring straight ahead.

Jake also looked up and he could see what surprised Alex as straight ahead away from the burning buildings, was a huge castle that looked like it was divided in the middle by a long stream of fire and then went around the building surrounding it again.

"I wonder what's in the castle." Jake said, looking at it.

"Let's go take a look then." Alex said and then he took off running with top speed leaving Jake behind.

"This guy is so reckless." Jake said and then he also started running quickly trying to catch up with Alex.

Slowly, he was catching up with Alex and the far away castle was getting closer.

'Something feels weird, why haven't we encountered another beast since? This feels suspicious.' Jake thought and then he was slowly catching up with Alex who was just two metres away from him when he saw him stop dead in his tracks.

Worriedly, Jake pushed himself to the limit and quickly got behind Alex.

"What's wrong?" He asked and then Alex moved aside un-obstructing his view and Jake could finally see why Alex stopped dead in his tracks.

"This is going to be tricky." Jake said as he could see about a dozen beasts in front of them standing guard a few metres away from the castle and without doubt, they were all king tier beasts.

Chapter 266 Attack them!

"Head General... we are being attacked by the Iron Fist Guild and... and...." The man said.

"And what?" Peter asked impatiently after hearing that the Iron Fist Guild were attacking.

The man gulped loudly again loudly before he continued. "They brought with them a total of a hundred thousand men."

"What!!!?!!!" Everybody shouted out loud at once.

"This is bad." Jack said as he stood up.

"Where are they now?" Humfree asked.

"The army of about hundred thousand men have just reached the small town that's bordering the Fang hunters' border." The man replied.

"We need to get there now before they get here." Peter said.

"But how are we supposed to deal with a hundred thousand men? We just have twenty thousand men protecting the guild." Kate asked.

"Leave five thousand men here in the guild to guard it then all of you here, take the remaining fifteen thousand men and go stop those invaders now!" Humfree barked out loud anxiously.

And immediately, the core members all stood up at once and hurried out of the room including Kate while leaving only Head General Humfree alone in the room.

"I wonder if the guild can handle this battle." Humfree thought out loud worriedly.

Immediately they had left the room, the core members including the General and Sergeant Sunny ran towards the small town along with the fifteen thousand men they were asked to take along.

The students seeing the large number of members moving, including all the core members, they knew that something was wrong and they were all panicking. For this mission, General Paul was taking the lead as they were all running at full speed using Qi.

They all ran for ten minutes before they got to the town and they could see the residents of the town all cooped up in their houses while the hundred thousand men were seen destroying the town.

Immediately the men saw the Fang hunters', they stopped what they were doing. And a man with a scarf covering his face stepped forward.

"We thought you weren't going to show up." The man spoke up with a chuckle. "I guess the Fang hunters' do have a spine."

"What do you all want?" Paul asked.

"Isn't it obvious? We want to take over your guild and the whole territory." The man replied with a smile then he looked around at all the men standing in front of him.

'I don't see the one known as the werewolf slayer, no one matches his description nor the mask he always wore. That means this will be an easy task.' the man thought.

"I assure you that taking over this place won't be as easy as you think." Peter said as he unsheathed his axes.

After they had gotten back from the Raven wing's city, Peter had gone straight to Dame to get new axes and now he was ready to show them off.

"We will see about that then." The man said then he turned to his men.

'This town is quite small, it won't be wise if we fought here otherwise it will spill into the homes of the innocent residents. So we have to try our best to contain it as much as possible.' Paul thought as he examined the place.

Then he looked up at the roofs of all the different homes that had some members of the Fang hunters on it especially Kate as they were the rang fighters. They all had their bows, cross bows and whatever range equipment they used ready.

"Attack them!" The scarfed man shouted and immediately, all the thousands of men charged forward.

Immediately they all took a step, rains and showers of arrows fell upon them impaling their heads or eyes either killing them or injuring them.

But it wasn't enough as some of the men managed to avoid them and were heading towards the Fang hunters' standing around.

"Attack!" Paul shouted and right on cue, Peter and Geo could be seen charging forward with their axes in hand.

Before the men from the Iron Fist Guild could move more, Peter, Geo and about a thousand men were seen descending upon them as a huge battle erupted in the streets causing waves of energy and shockwaves to spread out.

This was war and it was devastating as men were seen falling left and right from both sides. Immediately they clashed with one another, Peter had already started dominating the battlefield with his strength.

One of the enemy came at him from the front and swung his sword but Peter easily deflected it then he knocked him back with a palm strike just in time to avoid a swing towards his back.

And with a swing of his axe, a mini wave of Qi came out and hit his attacker away sending him flying and crashing into others behind him.

"I will make you all pay for thinking you could take over our guild!" Peter said and then he exploded from his position using Qi and he went flying towards another enemy.

Meanwhile, General Paul and Wilfred's teamwork was also commendable on the battlefield. Immediately Paul kicked one of the attackers sending him flying towards Wilfred, the man's head was seen rolling on the floor.

Then infusing his sword with Qi, Wilfred swung it out and a mini Qi slash came out and killed about a dozen men. Then Paul was seen floating in the air but he wasn't actually floating as he was running on the air using his Qi platforms beneath his feet.

And then surrounding his whole body along with his sword in Qi, he pushed off from his platform with immense force that it looked like a flying rocket was about to crash into the battlefield.

And like a flying turret, Paul was seen crashing into the army in the battlefield causing destructions and shockwaves to spread as he hit the floor.

And without wasting time, he went from one enemy to another slashing and killing them up. Experience tales at My Virtual Library Empire

Chapter 267 Leave you all with a gift

"Keep firing out arrows at them! Don't stop!" Kate shouted and the range fighters kept releasing arrow after arrow towards the enemy with Kate shooting out two arrows at once from her piercing two of the enemy men in the head.

'I just hope the others can handle themselves.' She thought.

Another damage dealer was Sophia as she was showing the might of the big three in the battlefield with her beautiful swordmanship skills.

Using her sword to block a strike, she carefully parried it down then she released a swift roundhouse kick on the enemy's head causing him to go skidding and dropping his sword.

Kicking the guard, the sword the enemy dropped down lifted up and then she grabbed it and then swiftly raised behind her back just in time to block a strike to her head.

"My senses are sharper than yours." She said and then she quickly turned around and used her second sword to slice the man's head off.

Before she dashed off towards the other men as she was beautifully dancing around the battlefield with her two swords while causing damage everywhere she went to.

No one would believe that a beautiful girl like her would become so vicious on the battlefield not like anybody could see her face actually.

In front of everybody, about five men were chunked so far back that they crashed into so many others and looking at who caused them to go flying, they could see a middle aged man with his hands slightly glowing and vibrating.

This was Kron and he was currently displaying his skills and why he was called a Qi specialist. Lifting his hands up, he pointed it at two men that was coming right him.

He shaped his fingers like that of a pistol or something and closing one of his eyes, he mumbled loudly. "Die!" And immediately, from both of his hands that were shaped as pistols, a sharp sound was heard.

And then in a moment, the two men were seen falling down with a thud as a small bullet hole was seen in their heads.

"Ha! This Qi bullet of a thing is fun!" Kron exclaimed and then he pointed his hands sideways with one on each side.

Qi bullet was another skill made from Qi as it allowed the user to condense down their Qi so small making it into a bullet of some sorts. And when shot out, the result was what Kron was producing as the men were seen falling down like dead flies with a bullet wound in their heads.

"Fire away!" He shouted and rapid loud bangs were heard as the enemy men were seen falling down one by one like flies.

"You always like to show off don't you?" A voice was heard and then jumping from the ground and walking on air was Paul.

"Not my fault that you don't have a large Qi reserve." Kron chuckled as he kept on shooting out Qi bullets.

And then from the air, Paul jumped down in the middle of a dozen men while swinging his sword skillfully. Avoiding a thrust to his abdomen narrowly, he was about to kick the man away, when a sharp sound was heard coming from behind him.

Turning around, a sword strike was about to hit him in the neck, swiftly pivoting sideways, the swing missed his neck and hit his cheeks going all the way down drawing blood.

And in retaliation, General Paul quickly drove his sword into the attacker's neck killing him on the spot. But before he could move, something wrapped around his legs and then his hands was next.

"What the?!" Paul said as he looked down and could see that he tied down with chains.

And then a dozen arrows were seen flying towards Paul.

"Oh shit! Of course they got archers!" Paul said as he tried to free himself from the bindings of the chains as he could see that the arrows were now close.

"Don't worry General, I got your back!" A feminine voice was heard and then Paul could see a shadow cast over him.

He could see a silver haired female that stood in front of him and then something was raised above them blocking the arrows. Paul recognized it as a shield.

"Cindy?" Paul said.

"Yes, and I'm not alone." Cindy smiled and then Paul could see a black haired boy run towards him and quickly slashed the chains with his daggers.

"Nice work Simyon." Paul smiled. "Thank you, you can go help those that need your help now, I got some scores to settle."

They didn't wait for General Paul to say it twice as they quickly manoeuvred around the battlefield helping those that needed help.

"We can't continue this for long, we are losing out currently." Paul mumbled as he could see their side were losing men while it didn't look like the other side were losing any men.

As the amount of kills they were dealing to the other side looked like a drop in the ocean as they still had so many men on their side.

"Are we going to lose?" Paul wondered and then his thoughts was interrupted as an arrow was sent his way.

He quickly slashed it before he exploded from his position moving almost like a blur in the battlefield decimating the enemy alive.

But no matter how strong they attacked, they were still being overwhelmed as the enemy were pushing back and making the Fang hunters' recede.

The leader of the army couldn't help but chuckle at the sight of the Fang hunters' moving back from being overwhelmed.

"Is this the strength of the Fang hunters'? Is this what you are all capable of?" The man asked.

"Darn! We are being pushed back!" Peter shouted as he was still in front of the men ravaging and destroying the enemy albeit slowly and weakly.

Looking up, Paul shouted. "Range fighters! Retreat and set up back at the base!"

They didn't waste time as they jumped from roof to roof heading towards Aurora with full speed. After jumping on about three roofs, Kate turned around and then picked two arrows at once.

"I'm going to leave you all with a gift!" She mumbled as she started infusing the arrow with Qi making the tip glow slightly.

Then she pulled the string of her bow back and aimed it carefully while her hand was shaking from holding the string for far too long and her arrows were also vibrating slightly.

"Go!" She shouted while letting the arrows go leading to a loud bang in the air as if a gun had been shot through the air.

"Go!" She shouted while letting the arrows go leading to a loud bang in the air as if a gun had been shot through the air.

The arrows flew with tremendous speed while gathering a mini tornado at the bottom which further sped the arrow up as it banged into the enemy killing them in an instant.

The arrows didn't stop there as they killed about a dozen men each before they lost momentum.

"That's it! I'm burned out!" Kate said as she looked at hand fingers that were peeled roughly from pulling arrows after arrows non stop.

"Good luck guys!" She mumbled before she turned around and began leaving the battlefield back to the academy.

Back at the battlefield, when the arrows were released, one of the person saved by it was Jack as he was in the middle of being sliced alive when the arrow slammed into his attacker giving him enough chance to kill the other one off.

"Phew! That was a close one." He said and then avoided a strike to his shoulder but it grazed his arm drawing blood but he didn't drop his sword as he moved forward but then quickly leaned backwards.

As he could see a dagger heading for his head then a thrust to his stomach by a spear made him quickly hit the attacker's hand causing him to drop the spear before he was hit in the face sending him flying.

Looking around, Jack quickly jumped up and used one of the enemy's head as a foothill then he pushed off strongly causing his head to cave in and he quickly landed by a person's side.

The person wasn't wearing a mask and he was currently deflecting four attackers on his own as he was being riddled with injuries all over.

Swiftly, Jack came to his rescue as he shot out a visible Qi shard into one of the attackers head killing him on the spot.

Then he quickly held his sword in front of him with the blade angled downwards at 20 degrees then swirling the Qi around his feet, then he blast off towards two of the men and promptly sliced their heads off before they could block.

"Are you okay general Paul?" Jack asked as he could see him huffing and panting hard.

"Yeah, I'm going to be okay." Paul answered as he held his sword firmly.

"Do you think it was the right call to let the range fighters head back? Without their support, we are being overwhelmed." Jack said and then he unleashed a swift roundhouse kick towards a man that was heading their way causing him to crash into the ground strongly.

"I know that was not a good idea but I have a plan." Paul said.

"Well, I hope you execute it quickly cause we are losing men on our side." Jack said and then his eyes widened in shock.

Quickly lifting his sword, he held it like a javelin of some sort and then poured all the Qi he had in his reserve into the sword not caring of what he was going to use later.

And then he pulled back his hand before he let the sword go flying through the battlefield killing anybody or thing that stood in its way without putting much of any resistance.

The sword was seen heading towards a blonde haired female that was currently wielding two swords at once while weaving around in the battlefield beautifully.

But it wasn't heading towards her as a loud bang resounded behind her and turning around, she could see a man lifting his sword above his head about to strike but he was standing still not moving.

Looking down, she could see a sword stuck in his chest from his back. And then he slowly fell down with a thud right in front of her and a young man with an athletic build was seen heading towards her.

Next he pulled his sword out of the dead man's body and smiled towards Sophia.

"Thank you Jack."

"Anytime." He replied before his eyes widened again as another attacker was about to make a sneak attack when all of a sudden, his head was rolling on the floor.

"You should really watch your backs you careless kids!" Peter shouted angrily as he swung his axe down causing the blood to fall off it in disgust.

"That was a close one." Jack heaved a sigh of relief.

"Uhm, is it just me or are we standing so incredibly close rather than scattered?" Sophia asked as she looked around and Peter lifted his head.

And they could all see that out of the fifteen thousand men they had brought with them, they were only five thousand left while out of the hundred thousand men brought by the iron fist guild, only about eighty thousand were left.

"Are we going to lose this fight?" Jack wondered aloud.

"No we won't!" Peter shouted and then he ran forward blowing a gust of wind into Jack's face.

Next, he was seen blocking a strike from hitting one of their men then with his palm outwardly, he blasted the man across the battlefield.

"Everybody, get behind me!" He shouted at Fang hunters' and those that were nearby quickly gathered around him.

'What I'm going to do will deplete my core of all my Qi, but I'm sure it is worth it.' Peter thought and then only him ran into the midst of around twenty men that were in front of him.

Swinging his axes around, he was hitting and blocking their strikes all at once while moving around gracefully and calculatively which was unlike Peter.

That was when he could see about fifty more men heading his way quickly.

"This should work." He smiled and then he waited for the men to get incredibly close before he clicked his fingers.

"Now!" And then a huge explosion erupted around him while blowing shockwaves around the field.

"Peter!" Sophia shouted after seeing what he had just done.

Chapter 269 How have we lost so many men?

"This should work." He smiled and then he waited for the men to get incredibly close before he clicked his fingers.

"Now!" And then a huge explosion erupted around him while blowing shockwaves around the field.

"Peter!" Sophia shouted after seeing what he had just done as a huge amount of dust erupted and blocked everyone's view.

"I'm okay!" A voice said and then from the smoke, Peter could be seen walking out with his body riddled with small injuries and then his mask was also broken.

When the dust finally settled, the men that had surrounded Peter were seen on the floor with bullet like injuries on all their body part while some had slash marks on their bodies.

"These people are dangerously strong, I thought it was only their leader we had to worry about." The leader of the platoon said aloud worriedly.

"Everybody!" Paul shouted aloud at the remaining five thousand men that were still alive from their army. "Stay strong, we can do this!"

"Ha! Delusional as ever!" The leader shouted out loud with a small laugh. "Look around, we are still standing strong with at least seventy thousand men."

"Well, we ain't weak either!" Sophia shouted as she was suddenly in front of the leader.

Then she swung one of her sword towards his neck but a loud ringing clang was heard and in front of her was someone else with a shield blocking the strike.

Then with a flick of the wrist, pushed Sophia back causing her to skid a few inches.

"I admit you are fast, but did you think you could get the jump on me?!" The leader chuckled. "Bring me her head!"

Immediately the shield user pushed forward at incredible speed with his shield thrust. Then he lifted it and swung it sideways towards Sophia who immediately lifted her sword blocking it but she was still pushed a few inches more with her hand feeling numb.

The shield user didn't relent as he began spinning his shield from different place towards her and she was managing to parry it away with her two swords but her hand was just feeling numb and numb from the constant block and parry as the strength behind the swing was beyond her.

And finally, there was a slip up from her and the man took advantage of it by lifting his sword and throwing it at her causing her to lift her sword to try and block but she didn't expect for the shield to cause her to go flying.

"Curses!" She said as she found herself bouncing around on the hard ground.

Standing up, she could see her mask was broken so was her wrist and she had lost one of her sword on the way here.

"Kuh! Kuh! Kuh!" Sophia coughed out a mouthful of blood. "That hurts!"

"Well, prepare for more pain!" She heard a voice saying from above her and she could see the shield user with his shield raised about to ram it on her when she heard a loud ringing clang from above her and someone was seen casting a shadow over her as his hand was lifted in with two axes in his hands blocking the hit.

"Darn! This guy is sure strong!" Peter said and then he grit his teeth and managed to push the man off before he fell on one knee.

'I'm losing myself to exhaustion at this rate. Not only has my Qi been totally depleted, the injuries are taking a toll on me.' He thought as he looked up to see the shield user running towards them which made him slowly rise and then grip his axes tighter.

"You don't learn huh?! Then I just have to teach you a lesson!" Peter shouted as he ran out to meet the shield user and they collided skillfully.

As the shield user swung his shield from the side, Peter narrowly avoided it then he swung his leg out towards the man's rib but all it met was a clang and then Peter was pushed back.

The opponent came in again with a roundhouse kick but it was blocked weakly by Peter with one of his axe.

"I don't know why you keep fighting, if you knew my adventurer rank, you would have backed off already!" The Shield user said and then he swung his shield from below towards Peter who was slow to react.

And then it smashed into his jaw causing his head to move back and his whole body was about to fall down when the shield crashed into his body causing him to hit the ground strongly.

"Your leader shouldn't have messed with us!" The shield user said as she lifted his shield while coating the edge in Qi and was about to slam it on Peter.

"And your leader shouldn't have ordered an attack on our guild!" A voice was heard saying from behind the man and when he turned around, he could only see red in his field of vision.

And then he dropped to his knees while clutching his neck in pain as blood was oozing out like a fountain of water and a beautiful blonde haired female who had injuries on her face was seen standing in front of him with a wicked smile on her face.

And then, the man fell down limply as the life had now been totally snuffed from him.

"Peter!" Sophia shouted as she went towards where Peter was and she could see him struggling to stand so she lent her hand to him and managed to make him stand properly when a loud voice rang out in the whole battlefield.

"All members of the Fang hunters'! Retreat back to the academy, we will make our last stand there!" Paul shouted and those that were still fighting wondered why he made that kind of order.

Even though they were overwhelmed, they were still standing strong with around five thousand men with them. When they looked up, it finally hit them that they might have just lost any hope of winning the war.

"How have we lost so many men?" Peter wondered in pain.

Chapter 270 The Power of a double A ranked adventurer!

"All members of the Fang hunters'! Retreat back to the academy, we will make our last stand there!" Paul shouted and those that were still fighting wondered why he made that kind of order.

Even though they were overwhelmed, they were still standing strong with around five thousand men with them. When they looked up, it finally hit them that they might have just lost any hope of winning the war.

"How have we lost so many men?" Peter wondered in pain as all around the battlefield, there were only around a thousand men left on the Fang hunters' side while the Iron Fist Guild still had about sixty thousand men alive.

Unknown to them all that when the core members were busy taking on more than three enemy at once making them dominate the battle, the leader of the platoon from the Iron Fist Guild was moving around the battlefield stealthily killing the men from the Fang hunters.

He was so stealthy that nobody had even noticed as he used the destruction as a cover making him kill the men easily and quickly then he moved to the next enemy killing them as easily.

That was how he managed to reduce the numbers on the Fang hunters' side drastically and when Paul had seen him, he knew that this was dangerous for them so he ordered for a retreat.

"Go now!" General Paul shouted and immediately, everybody began running back at the academy with full speed while General Paul, Wilfred, Kron, Sunny, Jack and Peter stood rooted trying to stop anybody from giving chase to the retreating army.

"Don't move! Let them head back!" The leader of the platoon raised his hand stopping his men from chasing the retreating army.

Paul seeing that no one would give chase, they began retreating slowly without turning their back at the enemy and still seeing them rooted in their spot boosted the confidence to finally turn their back at the enemy while running.

"Leader, why didn't you allow us give chase?" One of the men asked.

"So that we will crush them at their base." The leader smiled devilishly. "I doubt that the werewolf slayer is around, so this will be fun and easy for us."

After retreating, the army were seen running back to Aurora at full speed and in less than ten minutes, they were finally there as the gates of the academy was in view.

The remaining army that were left at the academy that numbered around five thousand, were now on guard especially seeing the panicked look on the face of men.

"Hurry! Open the gates!" Kate shouted as she had been on top of the high position along with the range fighters and immediately, the gates were opened for those that were coming in.

Immediately, the thousand army from the front lines were let in and they quickly took their positions inside the academy while trying to recover as much as possible.

The remaining five thousand soldiers were seen standing in front while delivering emergency med kit to those that were injured and they were also trying to recover their Qi.

That was when the gates opened up again and General Paul, Kron, Wilfred, Peter, Sunny and Jack were seen running through and they stood in front of the remaining army that were inside the academy.

Immediately they walked in, Peter fell on his knees panting hard in pain while Sophia quickly rushed towards him with the med kit in hand trying to patch him up.

When the gates were opened and everybody were making noise, the students in the academy came out and they could see the injured soldiers and guild members on the floor receiving treatment.

"What happened? Are we under attack?" Harry asked as he came over towards Jack who had his hands on his knees panting hard.

"Yes, and it couldn't have been more on a wrong time as Jake isn't around to help us." Jack replied.

"Where is our leader? Why isn't he here to help us?" A soldier who was part of the earlier attack force asked.

"Relax people, the werewolf slayer is out on an important business so he isn't around n..." Paul stuttered as off in the distance, they could hear loud footsteps heading their way.

"They are here." Wilfred said gripping his sword tightly.

"Open the gates!" Kron shouted and the gates were slowly being opened.

"Archers! Take your positions!" Kate commanded.

"Attack force! Let's go meet them outside!" Paul ordered.

"Stop!" A loud booming voice shouted causing the attack force to halt their steps and a man with grey hair and beard walked out.

"Let me handle this." Humfree said as he looked different from how he used to look like.

Currently, he wasn't wearing his normal loose robes, he was putting on a complete set of silver coloured armour. A chest piece, a pair of boots, shoulder pads, and a silver coloured sword in his hand.

Without waiting for anybody's response, he causally walked past everybody and went out in the open where he could see the thousand of men heading their way in the distance.

They were at least ten metres away from the academy gates and seeing a lone old man walk out, they suddenly stopped their movements as they looked on.

"Be ready guys, when the time is right, we will go out there and back Head General Humfree up!" Peter commanded as he slowly rose up and held his axes tighter.

"Peter, you are not in the right shape to fight, you need to rest." Sophia said.

"How do you expect me to rest while my best friend's guild is being attacked? Forget it, I will protect this place with my life." Peter replied.

"I will give you all one last chance to head back or else I won't be responsible for what will happen to you all today!" Humfree shouted out loud.

And the leader laughed out loud in amusement. "Or what?"

"Or you will be responsible for the death of all these men today." Humfree said.

"What a senile old man."

"Alright then, have it your way." Humfree said and immediately the whole place felt heavy with energy to the extent it felt slightly suffocating to the men that were at least 10 metres away.

'such strong killing intent! His killing intent is so strong to the extent I can feel it all the way here! Who is this? Is this the werewolf slayer? No! I was told the werewolf slayer always wore a ridiculous mask.' The leader thought while breaking out in a slight sweat.

Raising his right hand in the air, Humfree stared out towards the members of the Iron Fist Guild and his eyes then narrowed down looking like a slit.

"Let me show you all the power of a head general and the power of a double A ranked adventurer!" Humfree shouted out loud and everybody heard a loud noise from above that sounded like the rumbling of thunder.

But when they looked up, everybody including the members of the Fang hunters' froze in fear as all above the battlefield above the Iron Fist Guild, they could all see a lot of swords in the air about two hundred or so.

"Die!" Humfree shouted with a wicked smile on his face as he swung his hand down and the hundreds swords followed down raining on the battlefield.
