

MY SLAYER SYSTEM: RISE TO SUPREMACY

Chapter 321 Get that big four position!

After sending Jade a contract invitation, he packed up his stall and they left the place to the mansion Jake always stayed at. Jake introduced Jade to everybody and informed them what he planned which impressed General Paul as he thought about all the possibility Jade would bring to the table.

After a few meetings, they all left the iron fist city to head back to Aurora in order to prepare for the beast planet raid. In three days, they were back in Aurora city leaving Andrew in charge of iron fist city.

Settling down, everybody began preparing for the beast planet raid as they were totally left behind because the phoenix guild had begun their conquest and they were in the lead by already conquering a beast planet.

Jade after getting to the Fang hunters base, he was placed in a private room in the main guild base that was so spacious that it could fit two huge trucks together effortlessly. In the room, he was provided with all the equipment he needed to build whatever gadgets he wanted to build while Jake and the rest were still busy preparing for the beast raid the following day.

Jade who was in his spacious room with so many equipment thrown around surrounding him was seated on a chair in the room that could swirl around while a table was in front of him and he had his hands on his chin.

"Hmm! I need to do something for the werewolf slayer for this opportunity given to me... but what? What can I make for him that would aid him tomorrow?" Jade thought as he picked a circular object stared at it, then threw it away again causing it to make a clanging sound.

Walking around, and thinking of different scenarios, something finally came to his mind as he picked so many objects in the room and went to another wide table that had a chair behind it in the room and began building with a smile on his face.

"This... this should help him tomorrow. He wouldn't have to be cautious and worried at all." Jade smiled as he continued happily building. "This will take me all night to build but it should be worth it."

The next day, it was finally the day for the beast planet raid and Jake along with the people he chose were in front of the guild base while a mask was all on their faces even though the world already knew who the werewolf slayer was, Jake still felt comfortable with the mask on.

Beside him were Alex, General Paul, Sunny, Emily and Sophia. While two hundred men were behind them checking their equipment.

"Are you sure about the amount of men you are bringing with you?" General Paul asked as he looked behind him to see the two hundred men chatting amongst themselves happily.

"Yeah! We are going to be okay." Jake replied.

"Why didn't you take Peter along?" Alex asked. Continue reading at My Virtual Library Empire

"He is needed here more, when next we want to conquer a planet, I will take him along. For now he needs his rest." Jake replied and then two huge aeroglides were parked in front of them with them having the symbol of the Fang hunters on it and dyed it black with tintd of red and gold.

"Let's go!" Jake ordered as he prepared to step forward when he heard a loud shout stopping him.

"Wait! Werewolf slayer!" Jake turned around to see who was calling him when he saw Jade running towards him almost losing his breath as he was panting hard.

Getting in front of Jake, Jade had his hands on his legs panting hard while a small chest was in his hand and his body was riddled with sweat while there were bags under his eyes.

"Jade? Why do you have bags under your eyes? Did you sleep at all?" Jake asked as he saw Jade standing up with a bright smile on his face.

"I couldn't sleep as I needed to get you this before you leave." Jade smiled and then stretched his hand that had the chest in it.

"What's that?" Alex asked as he was suddenly intrigued.

"Nothing... just a little gift of appreciation towards the werewolf slayer that would aid him in this battle." Jade smiled.

"Although I'm curious, I will just have to take the gift and check it out when we are on our way. Till then, thank you for the gift." Jake smiled under the mask as he collected the chest and walked towards the Aeroglides that were parked in front of him along with the core members while the two hundred men took the other Aeroglides that could fit them in perfectly.

Without wasting time, the Aeroglides lifted above the ground gently and then like a bolt of lightning, they shot off forward at tremendous speed that a gust of wind hit Jade in his face.

"I hope you enjoy my gift werewolf slayer." He smiled and then walked back to the building where his workshop was placed and he began building other things.

'I noticed that this place isn't really developed compared to the other cities like the iron fist city. Although I can't build those high tech like the big three do, I can at least try something small that would help better the lives of this guild. I'm sure by the time the werewolf slayer would be back, he would be pleasantly surprised by how much the Fang hunters would have changed.' Jade smiled as he got to work.

Meanwhile, after speeding off from the Fang hunters base, the Aeroglides were already seen approaching the Earth's atmosphere as they were about to hit outer space.

"Is it me or is this Aeroglide faster than the ones we usually use?" Jake asked as the speed with which the Aeroglide was speeding was faster than he had ever experienced.

"That is because this Aeroglide was specifically built for this same purpose. Of getting to outer space faster and hence why we would get there in an hour." General Paul replied.

"That's good then. At least I don't have to wait for a week to battle some beasts." Alex smiled.

"We would soon get there." Sunny said.

"Good! We need to get ahead of the Phoenix guild and get that big four position." Jake said with a smile.

Chapter 322 Let's begin our conquest!

The team that were going to conquer the beast planet were finally approaching outer space where the beast planets were said to be and during the journey, Jake decided to check out the chest given to him by Jade while the Aeroglide was rapidly passing through the Earth's atmosphere.

"Now let's see what you have for me." Jake mumbled as he opened the chest up to see two things in it.

A drone of some kind and a remote control with a screen on it that was not displaying anything. The screen was currently blank which caused Jake to be slightly confused about why it was so.

He decided to use his inspect skill to see what the equipment was for.

{Inspect}

{A scouting drone and its remote control}

{Description: the drone scouts out threats from a very high altitude while the remote controls the drone and the screen displays the level of threat using colour symbols. With green being a weak energy signal and red being a high one.}

"Woah! This is amazing. He made this overnight?" Jake mumbled excitedly as he looked the drone over from top to bottom. "I was right to invite him over. He is really a talent in the making that could possibly rival the josh family."

'Now who shall I give this to handle this?' he thought as he looked around the room to see Alex swinging his sword around while Sunny was doing a set of push ups and Paul was meditating.

"I just have to look for someone who is weak and I will let them handle it." He mumbled and then a loud shout came from the driver's seat pulling him out of his thoughts.

"We are here!"

"Finally!" Alex said as he quickly bolted towards the door and waited for it to open up.

Casually walking towards the door were Jake, Paul, Emily and Sophia and then the door slowly opened to reveal the new world they were to step into and conquer.

The planet's terrain stretched out before them like an eternal canvas of brown and beige hues. Soft, powdery dust coated the ground, swirling around their boots as they stepped out of the Aeroglide. The air was heavy, thick with an otherworldly scent that was both familiar and strange.

Despite the dense atmosphere, the sky above was a brilliant, crystal-clear blue, unblemished by even a single cloud. The sun beat down upon them, its warm rays a stark contrast to the eerie, unsettling feeling that seemed to permeate every molecule of this alien world.

Tall, twisted rock formations rose from the ground, their jagged silhouettes like the bony fingers of some ancient, long-dead giant. The ground itself was dry, cracked, and barren, with nary a blade of grass or a hint of green to be seen.

As the team stepped out of their Aeroglide, the only sounds were the soft crunch of boots on dusty ground and the distant, unsettling rumble of... something. It was a low, primal growl that seemed to emanate from the very heart of the planet itself.

"This... this feels more like Earth," Alex breathed, his eyes scanning the horizon as if searching for something familiar.

Sophia snorted, her gaze fixed on the terrain ahead. "Who cares, as long as they are beasts, we are good to go."

With that, the team began to fan out, their footsteps echoing across the stillness as they moved cautiously towards the Aeroglide used by the two hundred men. The air was thick with tension, the only sound the soft rustle of equipment and the distant, ominous rumble of the planet itself.

Walking towards them were the werewolf slayer and the core members and seeing them heading their way, the men all stood straight and orderly as if they were in the military.

"I'm glad that you all trusted me and agreed to come along for this." Jake began speaking and everybody paid rapt attention even though he was younger than them. "And for that, I appreciate it as we are about to take a step to become one of the world leaders.

We're not just a team, we're a family. And together, we're unstoppable. I believe in each and every one of you, and I know that together, we can achieve greatness.

We've trained for this, we've prepared for this. We're ready to take on whatever comes next. Imagine us, standing alongside the world leaders, respected and admired by all.

I know we're taking a risk by doing this, but I believe it's a risk worth taking. We're in this together. So let's do this! Let's show the world what we're capable of! Are you with me? Let's make history together." Immediately Jake finished speaking, a huge cheer erupted among the whole men as they were suddenly fired up and ready to fight.

"Are we sure that we saw the right thing on the screen? This person doesn't feel like the young one I saw on my screen a few weeks ago." A soldier said.

"That is the effect of being a leader from a young age, you are forced to mature up rapidly." Another soldier said.

"Whatever it is... I'm happy to be in this guild." Another soldier cheered and Jake smiled beneath his mask while pulling out the scouting drone from his back and turned it on using the remote control that came with it and the drone made a whirring sound before it got lifted in the air.

"What is that?" General Paul asked.

"Just a little gift given to me by Jade." Jake replied with a smile and the drone took off higher into the sky and began roaming around while his concentration was on the screen in front of him.

"What is the werewolf slayer doing?" Someone among the crowd mumbled as they just saw Jake and the core members standing around while the werewolf slayer was focused on something in his hand.

"No idea, but it must be something important." Someone else said.

"Well, what are we waiting for?" Sophia asked.

"Will you calm down?" Jake replied as he began noting some things down.

"Hundreds of green energies, a few dozens of yellow energies." He mumbled.

"Okay! We are safe now. The others could possibly handle this yellow energy. I need to conserve my energy right now." He mumbled, then he looked up.

"It's time. Let's head south and begin our conquest." Jake shouted and everybody cheered. Enjoy exclusive adventures from My Virtual Library Empire

"Okay! We are safe now. The others could possibly handle this yellow energy. I need to conserve my energy right now." He mumbled, then he looked up.

"It's time. Let's head south and begin our conquest." Jake shouted and everybody cheered and they began running south with tremendous speed that the ground was slightly shaking and if they were humans on the planet, they would have heard the army coming from miles away.

They were running with Jake and the core members in front of them all while the others pulled out their weapons but Jake didn't as he was running side by side with them while constantly glancing at the screen in his hands.

'This is strange, why are the all gathered in one place? I hardly notice beasts huddle together except that one time I went to that planet were I encountered a legendary tier beast.' Jake thought as he was staring at the remote in front of him.

'But the others can handle these right? Based on the energy signal I'm seeing, this shouldn't be too hard to handle.'

"General Paul!" Jake called out while they were still running.

"Yes!" Paul replied.

"You said to conquer the planets, we need to defeat the strongest beast on the planet right and secure the planet under our grip right?" Jake asked.

"Yes, why asking again?" Paul asked.

"Good! I leave them up to you." Jake said and then he accelerated forward at immense speed that he became a blur to the others as they could hardly see him again.

"Where the hell is he rushing to?" Alex asked worried for Jake.

"I think he is going to be fine." Emily said.

"I wonder why he suddenly rushed off." Paul mumbled meanwhile after rushing off, Jake was still seen running.

"When I was scanning the planet, I saw a weird energy. Why would I see a redish yellow colour. That's more than strange." Jake thought and then he sped up even further.

In less than a split minute, he finally got in front of a huge cave that had a big opening in it that would probably fit an elephant of the old in comfortably. Glancing at the screen in front of him, he could see that the redish yellow colour was coming from the cave.

'On my way coming, I wasn't able to spot any beast, which means that the others would encounter them right about now. Why I take care of this. A planet contains only one specific beast race scattered all around the planet but there would be a concentrated amount in a specific place. That's where they are heading to.' Jake thought as he took a step into the cave opening and immediately, an ominous feeling washed over him but with a smile, he walked forward while placing his hand above the ground in front of him with his palms facing downwards.

"Inventory! Sword!" He called out and a katana appeared in his hand. 'I managed to turn that legendary tier crystal into a sword for myself after increasing my adventurer rank to the high A along with the Fang hunters to an A rank guild.

From now on, whatever crystals we find, will go towards the guild so they can craft more weapons. And besides, this sword is technically the best and the craftsmanship that Dame put into it is splendid.' he thought as he stared the sword's features.

The Katana blade, made from the crystal core of the legendary tier beast he had battled against, shimmered with an ethereal light. Its curved silhouette radiated potent energy, with a glowing hamon and delicate, swirling hada patterns. The blade's aura surged forth like a tempest, rippling the air and speaking directly to the soul.

"Now let's go see what owned that weird aura I saw." He said as he quickened his pace.

Meanwhile, while their leader ran off somewhere they had no idea of, the conquest team were seen running around the place going south as Jake had commanded and then in a few minutes, they were met with beasts walking around.

The beasts were of the same species so they walked together like as if a group of humans were walking on the streets going about their work.

The beasts were a hulking, four legged creature with scaly, brown skin and razor-sharp claws. Their eyes glowing like embers and their powerful jaws looking like they could swallow a man whole.

Immediately they felt the humans presence, the beasts suddenly paused and they looked at the humans in front of them. With their glowing red eyes then suddenly, all at once, they opened their mouths revealing rows of sharp teeth arranged properly.

"These beasts, I don't feel much threat from them." Alex mumbled as he extended his Qi outwardly. "At most, just advanced tier beasts. But their numbers would surely give us a little bit of trouble."

As they could see in front of them that the beasts had all huddled up and were beginning to growl slightly at the humans. So standing in front of the humans, were around a hundred advanced tier beasts.

"This is going to be troublesome." Sunny sighed as he punched his gauntlets hand together producing a loud ring all around and then he took a stance.

"Will someone give the order for an attack already?" Sophia asked as she unsheathed her sword that was silver in colour and was bright like water.

"Right! Let's go!" Paul ordered as all the men took a stance and the beasts were ready to attack. "Attack!"

Chapter 324 Going to be fun

"Inventory! Sword!" He called out and a katana appeared in his hand. 'I managed to turn that legendary tier crystal into a sword for myself after increasing my adventurer rank to the high A along with the Fang hunters to an A rank guild.

From now on, whatever crystals we find, will go towards the guild so they can craft more weapons. And besides, this sword is technically the best and the craftsmanship that Dame put into it is splendid.' he thought as he stared the sword's features.

The Katana blade, made from the crystal core of the legendary tier beast he had battled against, shimmered with an ethereal light. Its curved silhouette radiated potent energy, with a glowing hamon and delicate, swirling hada patterns. The blade's aura surged forth like a tempest, rippling the air and speaking directly to the soul.

"Now let's go see what owned that weird aura I saw." He said as he quickened his pace towards the dark cave. He passed more ragged features of the cave and some bones on the floor with even weird shaped skulls laying around partly broken.

Without slowing down, he suddenly came into an opening with three different paths in front of him. One in front of him, two on either side of him.

"Now that I'm inside, the signal from the drone is broken so how on Earth should I choose where to go?" Jake wondered as he looked around when an idea suddenly struck him.

"System! Activate Qi sense!" He called out and immediately, his perception increased as it felt like he had another sense added to him as everything suddenly became clearer.

"Bingo!" He mumbled and then picked the entrance to his right. Running in, his feet were constantly hitting some liquids that felt like water but he wasn't able to discern because of how dark the cave was.

Jake kept relying on Qi sense to lead him while he kept running ahead and finally, he could see a bright light in front of him and jumping through, he suddenly came to a halt by skidding on the floor and he was met with a view of a huge open cave with crystals embedded in the walls giving off a lit up area.

While in front of him were about two dozens of beasts standing in front of a circle which had a bigger beast in it.

"Oh? They were more of them. I guess the drone wasn't able to really pick up on them since it is not that good." Jake said as all the beasts turned to growl at him.

"Inspect!"

{Inspect: Gronk: A hulking, four legged creature with scaly, brown skin and razor-sharp claws. Its eyes glow like embers and it can swallow a man whole}

{Abilities: Speed and powerful jaw with throat that could swallow a man whole}

{Tier: Advanced tier}

"So these dozens of beasts are advanced tier beasts. Then what about the other one, why are they protecting it?" He wondered and then he activated inspect skill on the beast in a circle.

{Inspect: Gronk}

{Tier: Advanced tier (on the cusp of evolving into a king tier)}

"Oh?! So that's what was giving off that aura and that's why... it is on the cusp of evolving. Which means I need to finish it quickly before it has the chance to." He mumbled and then dozens of beasts were about to make their charge.

"Void!" He called out and a black shadow rippled out beneath his feet and then about 20 beasts were all raised up growling at the other beasts. Enjoy new stories from My Virtual Library Empire

"Take care of them." Jake said causally and the 20 beasts all dashed towards the two dozen beasts and a huge battle erupted.

'Let's see what two different species of advanced tier beasts can do... this is going to be fun.' he thought as the advanced tier beasts he had summoned were being agile.

They were a wolf specie so they were naturally fast as they dashed in fast and swiped their paw at the Kronk and would move back fast but the Kronks were equally fast as for each Kronk that died, two wolves fell.

Immediately a wolf fell, a Kronk dashed forward and grabbed the wolf by the legs before it could escape and chomped down hard before swallowing it quickly and digesting it.

'Hmm. Those Kronks are exceptionally fast.' Jake thought in amusement as a wolf swiped its paw at the jaws of a Kronk sending it skidding before a wolf appeared behind it and used its powerful jaws to rip through its legs and then killed it afterwards.

Before jumping back but unexpectedly landing in a Kronks mouth and then getting swallowed afterwards. The battle continued like this tensely and then not wanting to waste time, Jake lifted his sword up.

"This should be able to contain it without damaging it." He mumbled then he looked out at the 5 remaining beasts from his side while at least a dozen more Kronks.

"Void!" He called out and a shadow rippled beneath the feet of his beasts that were fighting and then they sunk in.

Immediately they sunk in, the Kronks were now confused as they began looking around in confusion when an energy descended on the beast causing them to shiver while Jake's sword was glowing brightly.

"Qi Slash!" He called out and a huge crescent yellow slash came out and crashed into the beasts killing them at once.

{XP granted}

{200 XP granted}

"Tch! So they only worth a few XP. Useless!" He said when he suddenly felt a heavy pressure on him as the crystals on the wall began flickering in and out and then a loud growl was heard coming from in front of him.

"Shit! I forgot." He mumbled as he could see the advanced tier Kronk that was on the cusp of evolution standing up with its eyes glowing bright red.

{Inspect}

{Specie: Kronks}

{Tier: King tier}

"This is going to be fun." He smirked and then the Kronks dashed towards him quickly.

Chapter 325 Never be weak and helpless again!

"These beasts, I don't feel much threat from them." Alex mumbled as he extended his Qi outwardly. "At most, just advanced tier beasts. But their numbers would surely give us a little bit of trouble."

As they could see in front of them that the beasts had all huddled up and were beginning to growl slightly at the humans. So standing in front of the humans, were around a hundred advanced tier beasts.

"This is going to be troublesome." Sunny sighed as he punched his gauntlets hand together producing a loud ring all around and then he took a stance.

"Will someone give the order for an attack already?" Sophia asked as she unsheathed her sword that was silver in colour and was bright like water.

"Right! Let's go!" Paul ordered as all the men took a stance and the beasts were ready to attack. "Attack!"

In a split second, the planet turned into a battlefield as the two hundred men quickly dashed fearlessly into the midst of the Kronks swinging their different weapons swiftly and skillfully killing the beasts before moving onto the next.

The men Jake brought with him consisted of D rank and C rank adventurers with the D rank adventurers being more than the C rank adventurers and they were falling down like flies.

For one Kronk that fell, about four to five adventurers fell by their powerful claws and Jaws.

"This is looking bleak." Alex said and then his whole body erupted into a fiery yellow Qi energy that swirled to his sword.

Taking a stance, with the sword placed horizontally, he swung it forward without even going towards the beasts. The yellow Qi that surrounded the sword detached itself from the sword and crashed into half a dozen of the beasts burning and killing them all.

Before he swirled his Qi around his feet and dashed forward towards more of the Kronks. Meanwhile, Sophia and Emily were working together to take down the Kronks.

Jumping back in time to avoid its jaws, Sophia came hammering down with her foot on to its head but it wasn't enough to kill the Kronk as they had tough scales.

So it pushed its head backward almost throwing Sophia off but she flipped backwards and then landed smoothly on the ground before pushing forward again with about three small needles in between her fingers.

Swinging them forward, they were seen heading for Emily who was confused by what Sophia was doing.

"Hit them now towards the beast!" Sophia shouted.

Still unsure by what the needles could do, Emily still complied and hit the needle towards the beast that was about to jump away but Sophia had jumped up again and hammered her foot into its head causing it to crash into the ground hard but it was still not able to kill it.

But that was where Emily came in as she hit the needles with her sword precisely making it hit the Kronk's eyes and going in deep. Still on the beast's head, Sophia pushed off by putting pressure on her feet causing her to go forward towards Emily and landed beside her while the Kronk they were dealing with was frozen stiff unable to move for one reason or the other.

Then slowly, ice began encasing it from its eyes were Emily had sent the needles in and then rapidly swirling all around its body freezing it and turning it into a block of ice. Then shooting a Qi shard towards the block of ice, it broke into a dozen pieces.

Emily who was watching all these, was shocked beyond belief as she stared at what Sophia had done and even remembered what had caused the beast to turn into a block of ice.

'Who knew that needles as small as those could cause that much damage. Sophia has just proven that her family are as dangerous as the other big three which makes their position rightfully earned.' Emily thought with a shudder as they moved on to the next beast.

Meanwhile, General Paul was just standing around looking at what was occurring all around the battlefield as everybody except the core members were struggling immensely against the beasts while he was evaluating what was going on.

Your journey continues at My Virtual Library Empire

'These beasts are just at the advanced tier and the adventurers are still struggling? For one Kronk that fell, four adventurers also go down. How are they going to help in the upcoming war that is brewing in the horizon?

A runt is as strong as an intermediate beast, an Omega is on the level of an advanced tier so if they can't handle these beasts, then it definitely means they can't handle an Omega werewolf. If only there was a way to improve their strengths so they could be of use in the war.' Paul thought then his mind flashed back to the fight against Blip.

'Says the person that was useless in withstanding the aura of a Beta werewolf talk more of fighting against it. And that's why I have been training, I have been pushing myself to the limit while training with Head General Humfree so I won't be useless again.' he thought as he looked at the Kronks that were still high in numbers at least at the 70s.

"I will never be weak and helpless again!" Paul shouted and raised his hand above his head and immediately, a dozen swords appeared right above him made from yellow energy that everybody were familiar with as Qi.

The amount of condensed Qi energy made everyone look up from their fights and they could see the dozen Qi swords hanging over General Paul's head making them remember what Head General Humfree had done that day.

"I won't allow my comrades fall to these filthy beasts!" Paul shouted.

'Each of the Qi swords has the energy to take down at least 2 beasts before dissipating. So with these amount of swords, it should be able to take care of 24 beasts no problem while they handle the rest.' General Paul thought.

"So how about I change the tides?!" Paul smiled and then swung his hands down unleashing the dozen swords onto the battlefield killing and destroying the beasts on the field.

"It is fast." He commented and then activated {Step Shift} to quickly get away from the beast then from a distance, he shot out dozens of Qi shards towards the beast but all of the shards were just making a clanging sound and bouncing off the beast before it dashed forward again.

"You just don't want to stay down huh!" Jake said then putting pressure on his feet and activating {Adrenaline rush} he was suddenly tremendously faster as he dashed towards the oncoming beast.

And like a blur, he crashed into the beast and he was about to stab the beast but surprisingly, it managed to swerve around avoiding his attack and then used its paw to hit Jake causing him to go skidding almost hitting the cave wall.

But he quickly regained his footing and glared towards the beast that was getting ready to charge in again.

"It avoided that? And so fast? I thought it was just evolving into a king tier, then how is it adapting so quickly?" Jake wondered in surprise when he saw the beast heading his way and was about to hit him when he activated {Step shift} to avoid it.

Then shooting a Qi fist towards the beast, it crashed into it lifting the beast up and slamming it into the wall cracking it slightly and before it could recover, Jake was suddenly in front of it swinging his sword quickly but hitting its hands into the wall, it got propelled towards Jake and hit him away from it causing Jake to fall to the ground hard.

"What is with this stupid beast's strength?!" He shouted in anger as he stood up and glared at the beast. "How were the Phoenix guild able to conquer their planet so quickly and I'm here struggling against a darn newly evolved king tier beast. This isn't fun anymore, it is becoming annoying."

Before he could do anything, he could hear the beast charging towards him like a speeding bullet and was about to crash into him but he narrowly avoided the beast by the skin of his teeth as he was quick to activate {Step shift} again.

"Shit! My stamina is slowly taking a hit as this fight is dragging on longer." He mumbled. "Okay, if my Qi can't do it, my sword should be able to. After all it is a tier above this beast. I guess I just have to cut it down then."

He took a stance while baiting his time waiting for the beast to come at him as usual and it worked as the beast dashed towards Jake again.

"Steady, steady, steady. Now! Stun Strike!" He shouted.

{Stun Strike successful!}

Immediately, the beast suddenly came to a halt abruptly unable to move even a bit and then Jake calmly walked towards it with a smirk on his face that was hidden beneath his mask.

"You are pretty strong for a newly evolved king tier beast... imagine how strong you would get if you were allowed to live longer. But unfortunately for you, we need this planet for our agenda so you have to go." He smiled and then lifted his sword about to slice the beast open when he suddenly heard a loud shout in his head.

"You stupid host, hold on!" Zee shouted and then Jake froze.

"What do you want you annoying AI?" He asked annoyed as he could see the beast twitching which meant stun strike would soon be over.

"You just said that if the beast was allowed a few more months, it could grow stronger considering how it is right now in a newly evolved state. So why not bring it under you? To conquer the planets doesn't necessarily means that you would kill all the beasts, some could be useful." Zee said.

"But if we don't kill them and I keep bringing them under my command, how are my guild members supposed to acquire strong equipment to aid them in the fight?" Jake asked.

"Did I say you should get all of them under your command? I mean just take those that are strong enough you doofus!" Zee shouted.

"Why can't you make sense without insulting me darn it?" Jake retorted back.

"You better hurry up before it gets loose again." Zee added.

"Yeah yeah, I hear you." Jake said and then turned towards the beast. "Control!" Immediately, his eyes glowed bright blue so did the beast's eyes as it changed from red to blue which meant it was successful.

"Void!" Instantly, the beast sunk into a Shadow beneath it and was successfully added into Jake's beast army.

"Now that is a job Weldone and I need to hurry back quickly to help the others. The amount of yellow energy I saw was immense, they might need my help now." Jake said. "If I were to run there, it will take time before I get there so I will just have to take the fastest route."

{Blink} immediately, Jake's body was disappearing as if he was stepping through a portal.

Chapter 327 Conquest successful

"I will never be weak and helpless again!" Paul shouted and raised his hand above his head and immediately, a dozen swords appeared right above him made from yellow energy that everybody were familiar with as Qi.

The amount of condensed Qi energy made everyone look up from their fights and they could see the dozen Qi swords hanging over General Paul's head making them remember what Head General Humfree had done that day.

"So how about I change the tides?!" Paul smiled and then swung his hands down unleashing the dozen swords onto the battlefield killing and destroying the beasts on the field.

Just as he calculated, the Qi swords killed about 24 beasts leaving around 46 beast left that the others were about to take care of.

"I can't believe you are growing stronger while I'm still here." Sunny said and then he punched his hands together creating a reverberating sound everywhere and then dashing forward like a blur, he was in front of a beast and delivering a strong punch to its head before it had the chance of opening up its mouth, it was flying and bouncing on the ground hard.

"I was always stronger than you, remember I'm a head general... just cause we are now technically of equal ranking doesn't mean we are of the same strength." Paul said as he suddenly appeared beside Sunny with his sword in his hand and then he dashed off again towards a beast.

'I'm still able move after using that skill unlike Head General Humfree who couldn't and that was because of the scale on which he used his compared to mine... actually that is the amount of power I can produce based on my capacity.' Paul thought.

And he suddenly got in front of a Kronk without wasting time and in the twinkle of an eye, he slammed his sword into the beast totally severing it before moving to the next one. One of the adventurers was about to be killed by a Kronk and not wasting time, Paul appeared beside him and thrust his sword towards the beast but it jumped back in time avoiding it.

"Head back and get yourself treated, I will take care of this." Paul ordered.

"No sir! I can't abandon my comrades here while I go and get treatment, I will fight till my last breath." The adventurer said and without waiting for Paul to say any other thing, he dashed towards another beast that was about to kill another adventurer.

"These guys, they have been brought together by one person and that is the werewolf slayer. But only heaven knows where the hell he ran off to!" Paul said in frustration as he prepared to dash towards the beast that had escaped from his thrust when a swirling white portal began opening up in front of him.

"Did someone miss me?" Jake asked as he stepped out of the portal with a smile on his face while looking at Paul who had a frown on his face.

"Where the hell did you run off to?" Paul asked angrily.

"To go take care of something that would have given us a little more trouble." Jake replied when he heard a growl behind him and the Kronk Paul had hit away came charging back quickly and without turning around, Jake swung his sword quickly and it hit the beast right in the head killing it. Continue reading at My Virtual Library Empire

"Too slow! You are not as fast as that other one I encountered." He mumbled before using {Attract} to draw the sword back into his hand.

"Other one? What are you talking about?" Paul asked as Jake turned around to look at the battlefield as the two hundred men they had brought had been reduced to about 80 while the beast were still standing strong with about ten in their side.

'I guess some of them are still not strong enough to take care of an advanced tier beast.' he sighed in his mind.

"Void!" He called out and then a huge Kronk was seen rising out of the shadow beneath Jake's feet while its eyes were glowing blue.

"That... why does that look like the beast we are dealing with here but a little stronger?" Paul asked as he stared at the Kronk in front of them.

"And this was the trouble I went to deal with." Jake replied then he cupped his hands across his mouth and looked out at the battlefield. "Everybody! Retreat now!"

Immediately they had heard the werewolf slayer's voice and orders, they didn't think twice before running back while the beasts gave chase but they still kept on running.

"Cloning!" He mumbled and then puffs of smoke appeared all around him while the king tier beast was still standing around waiting for the order.

"Go!" He ordered and all the clones including the king tier beast all dashed towards the advanced tier beast coming towards the retreating men.

All the core members plus the eighty remaining adventurers finally got to Jake's position and they could see his standing with his hands across his chest.

Immediately the clones got to the beasts position, they quickly split into different groups. Two clones went towards one of the beast while two also went towards one and the king tier beast and the remaining clone headed towards one leaving seven more beasts heading Jake's way.

"Stand back!" He ordered and then his Qi began running wild as he lifted his sword above his head while causing it to spread into the sword causing it to glow bright yellow.

'Using this twice, will take a huge toll on my Qi but it is all worth it.' he thought.

"Qi Slash!" He shouted and immediately, a huge yellow crescent shaped slash was seen heading towards the beasts heading towards Jake's way and it eradicated them all at once while the clones along with the king tier beast had just finished dealing with the others.

And in thirty minutes, the conquest of the planet had just been completed and successful as all the adventurers erupted in cheers.

"One down, many more to go." Jake mumbled.

Chapter 328 Bubble's news channel

After the conquest on the planet that looked like Earth, the Fang hunters went on forward conquering more planets after leaving a token of men on each planet they took over. The world didn't know who was in the lead of getting that big four position but they were anticipating who would win.

The Phoenix guild since they already began before any other guilds, they were in the lead with four planets conquered under their belts while the Thunderbolt guild had also conquered four planets then there was an unknown guild that stayed in hiding for so long not trying to gain any recognition, they managed to conquer three planets.

The people next on the list were the viper's nest guild with two planets conquered under their belt and the Fang hunters conquering four planets all together. Leaving three planets left to be conquered.

While all these was going on, the people were attacking Bubble's news channel for not giving them the view of what was going on. They demanded to be shown how the planets were been conquered as they can't just stay and bait their time.

The complaints became consistent and now, Bubble was at a lost on what to do as he was seen in his office in a huge skyscraper building with a pole on its roof and a big blue ball of some kind.

The building had different offices, rooms and halls for different purposes. Bubble had different workers working under him that worked together in order to produce exclusive content for the people.

He had those that run out into the field to get the stories first hand and report on them live. He also had a team of people that edited videos as they came in so that things that are not to be aired are cut away before they are aired.

He also has people that maintain the online forum from crashing as it was a community for people to comment on whatever they were watching and declare their thoughts. All these different people were under Bubble and they are the ones that keep Bubble's news channel running effectively.

And lastly, he also had people in different parts of the world that gave him information that wouldn't be easily available to others and that was how he found out that a war was going to take place between the Fang hunters and the iron fist guild.

He would have deployed reporters but the information reached him during the last minute that was why he deployed drones instead letting the people catch the action live. His influence ran deep almost as deep as the big three but his was a more influential hold as Bubble was ranked number four on the world's richest people after the big three.

Currently, in his own private luxurious office, Bubble, a middle aged man with a clean shaved face and a huge pot belly along with a fat body and black hair on his head, was seated behind a desk that had a screen in front of him that was currently running with words on it and he was reading them.

The room was big enough to fit fifty people in it as it was decorated with beautiful gold and silver colours which was the colour of the cloth bubble wore with luxurious looking rings on each of his fingers.

"Darn it! How do they want me to gather where the guilds are attacking and also get there in time to provide the action?" Bubble said angrily as he looked at the comments pouring in from his screen.

"I don't even know which planets the guild are attacking, I only know about who are in the lead and I'm pretty surprised that the top three independent guilds are neck to neck which makes it hard to predict who would win this competition."

"Besides even if I managed to gather their locations, how am I supposed to know the guild that deserved the screen time without facing backlash from the people? I wouldn't want to show them a guild they aren't interested in." He mumbled as he tapped his chin with a finger while deep in thought.

With a sigh, Bubble tapped the side of his desk. "I can't decide this alone, so how about I get someone that also have an influence in this business."

Within five minutes, Bubble heard a knock on his door. "Come in!" He said and the door was swung open with a stunning female that was dressed in tight fitting black skirt that highlighted her curves and also a white shirt and a black jacket of some kind on it which was also tight fitting bringing out her melons out.

She had glasses on her beautiful oval face with her black hair neatly swept back and falling over her shoulder and with a beautiful smile that could sweep most men away, she walked forward elegantly.

"You called for me sir Bubble?" She asked as she stood in front of Bubble who had his hands on the table and his face on it.

"Please sit Erin." Bubble said as he pointed towards a seat opposite to his with a straight look on his face.

Erin, the best news reporter Bubble has. She was an influential figure in the news world and that was because she was majorly the one who pulled majority of Bubble's audience to his news channel because of her beautiful face and big melons that got some men staring at them all day long.

And she was also a good reporter as her reports were always topnotch and she knows her way around people which made her well known.

"Any problem?" Erin asked. Stay tuned for updates on My Virtual Library Empire

"Not really, but I have an issue." Bubble replied.

"Which is?" Erin asked.

"You see, the people want to know how the guilds are conquering the beast planets so they requested we show it to them." Bubble said.

"And it's an issue how?" Erin asked and Bubble sighed.

"I'm unable to decide who we should give the screen time to. I can't show the people what they aren't interested in can I?" Bubble asked and he heard Erin chuckle.

"This is actually simple, there's no need to make a pick, as we should make an effort to air them all but not at once." She replied.

"Meaning?" Bubble asked.

"Who are the people most interested in? Which guild is on everybody's mind and mouth?" Erin asked.

"The Fang hunters." Bubble replied.

"Exactly! All we have to do, is to find out where they will hit next, go there cover it, air it, and then move onto the next guild. With this, the people would see the guilds in action and you wouldn't have to worry about the people saying we are playing favouritism." She replied with a smile.

"Wow! Brilliant! Simply amazing! And this is why you are my favorite reporter." Bubble said with a smile. "Anyway, I already know where the Fang hunters are going to hit next and when. So I want you and your camera man to go cover it for me if you don't mind."

"Mind?" Erin asked as she stood up with a smile. "No I don't mind, I also wanted to see them in action."

"Perfect then! You move out tomorrow, but first I will contact the guild and inform them about this so they won't feel uncomfortable." Bubble said.

"It's okay by me, let me go and get my things ready." Erin said and then she swiftly exited the room letting Bubble handle the rest.

I'm sorry for the late upload guys! I have been busy with my first semester exams and I was just done with my paper for the day... I would have gone to rest but I had to quickly write this chapter since I have known left in stockpile. really sorry guys, please enjoy 😊

Chapter 329 A Monster in the making

The Fang hunters received a message from Bubble's news channel informing them of their plans and since their leader wasn't around, they forward the message to him using the system. When Jake got the message, he didn't really care about what the people had to do and he accepted.

But he informed the Fang hunters to inform them that he would be moving on to the next planet in two days and if they weren't there on time, they would begin without them.

Immediately Bubble received the news, he was ecstatic and then he called for Erin who in turn got ready as they took one of the Aeroglides there along with her cameraman and they were off to the planet Jake was to conquer next.

During all these time, the Phoenix guild hadn't conquered the next planet yet same with the others as they were following Bubble's news and when they all got the message that Erin was heading for the Fang hunters, they all paused waiting to see how they were conquering planets after planets so easily even though they were the last ones to begin the competition.

Within three hours, Erin had already landed on the planet successfully with her camera man. Letting the ramp down, they were seen coming down. Firstly was Erin then followed by her camera man who went by the name of Druig.

He had curly brown hair with most of them falling onto his eyes while having bags under his eyes from countless work. While standing around 6ft tall with broad shoulders.

Their feet stepped on a planet filled with snow and looking above them, they could see it was snowing rapidly almost like a blizzard but it was still a normal weather. The both of them had been informed about the type of planet they were heading for so they were fully prepared wearing thick coats around them.

Looking around, they were unable to spot any Aeroglide from the Fang hunters and it caused them to raise an eyebrow.

"Aren't they here yet? What is with the hold up?" Erin asked aloud and Druig also looked around.

"Probably they left without us." He replied and then he stared hard at Erin before his cheeks heat up red and he quickly turned around.

'Even with the thick coat, she still looks stunning and her curves are still showing through the coat.' he thought with a blush before whirring noises pulled him out of his thoughts and they looked up to see two big Aeroglides that could fit a whole army in it descending onto the snowy ground.

And then the ramp was let down with a wolf masked individual walking out of the Aeroglide then followed by some people who had masks on their face except one of them who the world were pretty familiar with.

And the person was General Paul as he had a smile on his face and one thing Erin noticed about all the people was that they weren't putting on heavy clothing to shield them from the cold and they didn't even look like they were cold.

When she saw the Aeroglides, she had already signalled for Druig to begin rolling so the people that were tuned in began watching the Fang hunters arrive first with the werewolf slayer in front with his mask on his face.

And then the second Aeroglide opened to reveal about a hundred men coming out of it all chatting away happily and looking un-bothered as if they weren't here to conquer a planet teeming with beasts but one thing noticeable about them was that they were covered with heavy clothing.

Immediately she saw the famous werewolf slayer mask, she ran forward with Druig still recording live behind her and she got up in Jake's face.

"Werewolf slayer! Mind taking a few minutes of your time to talk to me?" Erin asked and Jake turned to look at her and then the camera remembering that they came from Bubble's news.

"Sure, what is it?" Jake asked bluntly which took Erin aback for a second but she continued speaking.

"Firstly, the whole world already knows what you look like, so why are you still putting on a mask?" Erin asked.

"Because I feel comfortable in it, any problem?" Jake asked and then the online forum went crazy.

"Why is he answering her rudely like that?"

"He should at least be excited that a beauty like her is asking him questions."

"Probably because he has something else he wants to do and she is delaying him."

"But he should still answer her properly."

"Let's just see where this is headed."

Druig was currently monitoring the online forum and he was already worried for the werewolf slayer's reputation.

"Can you kindly tell us your name?" Erin asked.

"I thought you were here to show the world how we worked and not interview me?" Jake asked and then he turned around to see one of his men running towards him with the remote made by Jade.

"Sir Jake, there is a red energy here." The man said and then Jake swiftly snatched the remote from his hand and looked at it with a furrowed brow.

"Jake huh? Mind telling us what that remote is for?" Erin asked and Jake was about to reply rudely when he remembered his deal with Jade.

"This was made by one of our men name Jade. This remote allows me to control a scouting drone which in turn monitors the planet we are on to see if there are any beasts that would give us trouble." Jake replied.

"Wow! That is impressive. Who knew that the Fang hunters had such a talent on their team." Erin commented. "Is that why you have a frown on your face? Is there going to be trouble?"

"It's not something I can't handle." Jake replied then he turned towards the core members with him. "Let's go!" He called out and they all huddled over together while the hundred men were seen relaxing and watching the Aeroglides while discussing which didn't go unnoticed by Erin.

"Best of luck all of you!" One of the hundred men shouted and soon everyone were wishing Jake and the core members luck.

Without any warning, the core members along with Jake all dashed forward leaving the hundred men behind while Druig swiftly sent two drones following them from above while displaying whatever they would do to the world live.

The feeling of curiosity got the better of Erin so she signalled towards Druig and they rushed towards one of the hundred men and decided to interview him.

"Quick one, why are you all here and not with your leader conquering the planet?" She asked.

"Is there a need to?" The man replied.

"Exactly!" Another man chipped in. "Ever since the first raid where half of us got killed, ever since then the werewolf slayer and the core members were the only ones taking down the beasts and conquering the planets while we are tasked with taking care of our ride."

"Wh... what... what are you saying?" Erin quivered as she listened to what was being said along with those watching. "You mean the planets you all have been conquering so far was due to the werewolf slayer and core members?"

"Yup! I don't think I'm imagining it though, but with every battle and takeover, the next one always gets easier and faster. It's like as if the werewolf slayer is getting stronger." One of them commented and everybody's mind were blown.

'Getting stronger? Is he still getting stronger than when he fought against Blip? What type of a monster will he tun into?' Erin wondered and then the view switched up to the core members along with Jake that were finally getting close to their destination. 'I guess we will see how strong he is becoming.'

Chapter 330 My Turn!

"It's not something I can't handle." Jake replied then he turned towards the core members with him. "Let's go!" He called out and they all huddled over together while the hundred men were seen relaxing and watching the Aeroglides while discussing which didn't go unnoticed by Erin.

"Best of luck all of you!" One of the hundred men shouted and soon everyone were wishing Jake and the core members luck.

Without any warning, the core members along with Jake all dashed forward leaving the hundred men behind while Druig swiftly sent two drones following them from above while displaying whatever they would do to the world live.

In a span of five minutes, they were now in the parts where the snow got stronger all of a sudden and they were surrounded by caves all around them. The caves were big enough to fit a giant and wide enough to contain an elephant.

"What's it with getting to a planet filled with caves?" Jake mumbled aloud as they counted about two dozen caves surrounding them and then a little far behind, a metre away, was a much bigger cave. It was two times the normal cave that surrounded them.

'The aura I'm feeling, I think I have felt it before.' Jake thought and then stomping noises were heard and bursting through the cave, were gigantic beasts.

They were huge beasts that looked as tall as a yeti of the earlier days.

They had crystals on their backs and also they had claws that were crystalized and shaped like a Crab's pincher. And they had one eye on their huge head which stared right at those that awakened them.

"I have seen these beasts before, they are..." Jake stuttered.

"Crystal ice golems." Paul finished up Jake's words.

"Inspect!" He called out.

{Name: Crystal Ice golems}

{Tier: King tier}

{Abilities: Ice}

{Description: These Crystal ice golems are tall beasts that could shoot ice out at their enemies. They are practically found in cold environments while they burrow themselves in the ground. They won't react or come out of their underground haven unless when touched on their crystal that always shows above.}

'I thought they were usually buried below the ground, they don't come out from caves... probably the cave's is their hideout and were they burrow themselves in... wait! King tier beasts!' he screamed in his head as he stared at the 24 crystal ice golems and then he stared back at the remote in his hand.

"Shit! I missed this detail... there are several weak red energy symbols and a strong red energy." He mumbled and then he suddenly saw huge pillars of ice around the beasts.

"Guys! Careful, they are king tier beasts!" He shouted a warning and then the pillars were shot towards them.

Jumping in front, were Sunny, Alex and Paul as they held their hands together and stomping their feet on the ground, a visible Qi wall was raised in front of them and in a split second, the pillars crashed into the wall causing a deafening sound to be heard but the wall held as the ice dissipated.

And then the trio were about to fall on their knees but quickly held themselves back as they took a stance and watched the beasts get ready.

'If they are king tier beasts, that means their leader will be a...' he thought and then he sighed.

"This will be truly troublesome." Jake said and then he looked up to see the drones still monitoring their every moves so he placed his hand over the mask on his face and it disappeared revealing his blue hazel eyes and curly black hair.

"Fall back!" He ordered and the trio quickly jumped back and stayed beside him while he had his hands in front of him sparkling and crackling and then a bright light was beginning to show before anybody could say anything, several balls of lightning appeared all around him while in front of him was a huge bolt of lightning.

'I acquired this skill after defeating a particular beast on the last planet we conquered, and I'm pretty impressed by its use and strength.' he thought with a smile on his face.

Those watching felt a slight tingle on their backs as they looked at the beasts especially after hearing Jake's warning about them being king tier beasts.
Experience tales at My Virtual Library Empire

"Continuous lightning bolts barrage!" Jake shouted out and all the dozen lightnings left his side and before the beasts could react, they all slammed into them burning, electrocuting and paralysing them on the spot.

The lightning in front of Jake, he aimed it towards the beasts that were still stunned but they were twitching to move. Then he shot it out causing it to land in the snow in the middle of the twenty four beasts causing sparks of lightning to get shot out at the beasts stunning them more.

"Now!" Jake said.

"I'm with you!" Paul said as he lifted his hands up towards the sky and the drones began shaking because of the disruption to the sky so Druig controlled them away and then pointed them to the sky to reveal fifteen swords made out of Qi.

'Thanks to us conquering these planets and me fighting more on the front lines, my Qi pool has increased beyond normal and now instead of the dozen swords I could create, I can now create fifteen.' Paul smiled.

"Unleash!" He shouted and the swords fell on about fifteen beasts killing them at once either hitting them in their eyes, or slashing at their necks or even hitting their heads causing the beasts to die before the swords dissipated leaving about nine king tier beasts to go.

"My turn!" Alex smiled as he got in front with his sword above his head and his visual Qi blazed all around his body brightly before crawling towards his sword causing it to glow brightly while he continued infusing his sword with more Qi.

"Qi Slash!" He called out and a huge crescent yellow slash of Qi came out and slammed into about five of the beasts severing their limbs, heads and body cleanly.

'Thank you Jake, because of following you, I have gotten stronger than I thought possible.' Alex thought with a smile while those watching including Erin felt goosebumps running up their skins watching the core members of the Fang hunters in action.

And what was on everybody's mind was that. This wasn't even all the core members, nor was it all the guild and the werewolf slayer was still there with his hands folded.

"Don't forget about me!" Sunny shouted as he saw one of the beasts beginning to move so he swirled his Qi to his feet and fist covered with gauntlets evenly and he exploded towards the head of one of the ice golems.

Throwing a punch that broke the sound barrier, Sunny was seen coming out of the other end of the beast's head while its body swayed before falling down.

"Tch! Too weak." He commented and then he could see the two beauties of the team running forward with their swords in hand and in less than a minute, the remaining beasts fell to their blades without putting more of a fight.

"Good job guys, I'm proud." Jake smiled then they all felt the cave a metre away shaking along with the ground while they could feel the ground beneath their feet rumbling loudly.

"Move back now!" Jake ordered and everybody along with him jumped back just in time for they could see a huge ice golems bursting out of the ground with its one eye glowing bright red.

{Inspect}

{Name: Crystal Ice golem}

{Tier: Legendary tier}

"You have all done your best, now it's my turn." Jake smiled without looking back.

"Void! Cloning!" He called out and everybody felt an immense aura envelop Jake while his eyes began shining bright blue.
