

MY SLAYER SYSTEM: RISE TO SUPREMACY

Chapter 361: The new world table!

"Without using the holographic display, we already know who the last match of the day is between." Bane smiled and the whole audience and world baited their breath. "Will Team A from the Fang hunters and Team A from the thunderbolt guild please step forward to have the last match of the day that would determine who would become apart of the world leader's table?!"

Immediately it was announced, the two teams filed onto the platform with Jake having his hands in his pockets nonchalantly.

"I hope you won't throw us off the platform again." Peter said.

"Nah I won't." Jake said as he stepped forward and so did Kai as the countdown clock appeared again.

"I'm guessing that you can't use that Qi cloak of yours anytime you want right?" Kai chuckled.

'He is right, my core is only half the normal capacity so I can't use that again. And even if it was full, I can only use it twice in a day before a kind of strain will befall my body and I won't be able to move.' Jake thought when he saw Kai smile and the countdown clock hit 0.

"In that case, you lose!" Kai said as in a flash, his whole body began electrifying and he dashed towards Jake at full speed getting to his position in a split second while swinging his sword to his face.

But to Kai's surprise, he heard a clang as a sword suddenly appeared in Jake's hand blocking Kai's own.

"Hmm! Since your sword isn't broken yet means it is of a high tier." Jake said and then he activated {Step Shift} causing him to appear behind Kai as he swung his sword but when the sword got within the yellow lightning range, Kai swiftly jumped back avoiding it.

'So that lightning shooting out of him is also a barrier of some kind. It detects any threat heading his way.' Jake thought when he saw Kai lift his hand a pure yellow bolt of Qi lightning was shot at Jake heading towards him at lightning speed.

But lifting his hand, Jake created a Qi sword and sent it flying towards the bolt of lightning crashing into it and cancelling each other out.

"Impressive!" Kai said as he suddenly appeared in front of Jake and swung his sword from the front towards Jake who quickly lifted his sword to block but was still pushed slightly from his position.

Zippering around the platform, Kai appeared from the side again and delivered a strong kick sending Jake skidding a metre before he zipped again coming hot from the back and landed a powerful kick on his head sending Jake crashing into the platform hard while a slight scratch was seen on his cheek.

'Darn it! With his lightning Qi, it is proving hard to spot him. Thank heavens that my Endurance stat had been raised making the damage I sustained a minor scratch.' Jake thought as he stood up to see bolt of lightning shooting and zipping around the platform looking for a way to attack.

'Only one skill can help now.'

{Qi sense}

He activated and then his perception got sharper and he took a stance when he felt the lightning zip again and Kai could be seen coming from above fast and hot with his sword raised above his head and he was about to slam it into Jake when he lifted his sword and Kai's slammed into Jake's causing a wave of Qi to spread out hitting the others that were fighting almost throwing them off their feet.

"Now you can dodge while in the air." Jake said as a dozen Qi sword appeared directly above Kai who was still suspended in the air from he and Jake's clash.

And without wasting time, the swords were sent flying towards him. Infusing his legs with his visual lightning Qi, he swung them out and a wave of his visual Qi hit the swords breaking them apart while he was seen landing on the ground smoothly but before he could move, he could see Jake in front of him.

"Time to test my new strength stat!" Jake shouted as he clenched his hand tighter causing his muscle to bulge out. "Let's see what 102 points in strength and 107 points in agility can do!" He said as he pushed off hard towards Kai who was unable to react in time as Jake slammed his fist into his gut.

Causing all the spit to shoot out of his mouth and then jumping up, Jake unleashed the crescent kick to his head sending him skidding towards the edge of the platform.

Flexing his legs and bending them slightly while infusing all his Qi to his feet, Jake totally cracked the hard surface that was said to be as hard as a diamond as he exploded forward towards Kai while a gust of wind hit those fighting behind and he got to Kai who was trying to reposition himself in a second.

Pushing off from his position, he slammed his feet into Kai's face throwing him off the platform and hitting the ground hard to the extent some of his teeth were seen flying away while his nose got broken and was bleeding.

Everybody watching had their mouths agape as they could see how Jake's totally overpowered Kai to the extent he couldn't even put much of a fight.

"Woah! It feels like the werewolf slayer is on another level after the fight with Gray."

"Yeah! I guess it is decided huh." Another person replied as Harry and Sebastian that were facing off against Kate and Peter suddenly stopped after Kai had been thrown off the platform then they saw Jake walking towards them with steady steps making Harry's heart skip a beat while Sebastian felt like he was going to soil his pants.

"We... we give up! We forfeit from the fight not like we even stood a chance against monsters like you." Harry said with his hands raised up.

"Are you sure about this?" Bane asked.

"Yeah sure! I don't want to get injured for nothing when it's obvious we lost." Harry replied.

"Well it is decided then. The winners of this duel and match is the Fang hunters and the werewolf slayer will be invited to the world leader's table! Congratulations Jake Lucas, the new big four!" Bane announced.

Chapter 362: The new world leader!

"Well it is decided then. The winners of this duel and match is the Fang hunters and the werewolf slayer will be invited to the world leader's table! Congratulations Jake Lucas, the new big four!" Bane announced.

Hearing Bane's announcement, the Fang hunters wherever they were, in the Aeroglide, in the coliseum, back at Aurora, the Raven wing city, the iron fist city and even on the five planets conquered by the Fang hunters, all the members on hearing Bane speak cheered at the top of their lungs as the image been displayed on the screen was of Jake standing nonchalantly with his hands in his pants' pockets.

The whole Fang hunters couldn't stop shouting and chanting Jake's name especially those on the planets.

While the usual commenters took to their keyboards to express their surprise.

"From the start of this duel, I didn't expect that the Fang hunters would win."

"Same here! They had the least amount of votes and support from the masses."

"I can't believe that the most favorite to win lost so spectacularly! Jake Lucas is the best."

"That is our leader! He has the charisma and strength to fulfill his ambitions."

"The Fang hunters would now be recognized as part of the world table!"

Erin who was standing around watching the fight without commenting finally found her voice as she turned to the camera to scream down into it. "Jake Lucas the leader of the Fang hunters and also the one known as the werewolf slayer is now officially part of the big four!"

The online forum on hearing Erin's words and excitement began commenting again.

"What's her deal?! Why is she suddenly so happy?"

"Probably because she also wanted the Fang hunters to win."

"Guys trust me on this, I think she has a thing for Jake."

"I thought I was the only one who noticed. I could see the way she looked at him, and whenever she mentioned his name, her face always gets flushed up."

"No! I won't allow my one and only be taken by that filthy werewolf slayer!"

"Who the hell is this?! Which one is your one and only?"

"I can believe this forum allows weirdos to get in."

"A doofus indeed."

The forum suddenly got quiet as they could see the big three descend from the viewing booth along with their sons as they walked with much charisma and aura as if they owned the land even though they owned the world.

"Congratulations Jake Lucas!" Bane said as they finally got to Jake's position while the rest of the the Fang hunters in the stands descended and stayed beside Jake and so did Gray which surprised his members.

"Welcome to the world table!" Rex said albeit with a slight frown as he looked at Alex.

"Told you right?" Jake said as he looked at Rivoock who glared right back at him.
"We were going to be equals and here we are." He smiled.

"How dare you talk to my dad like that you insect?! I guess your new position is starting to get to your head so I have to put you in your place." He said as he stepped forward with his teeth grit as he was about to attack Jake when all the Fang hunters including Gray unleashed their Qi at once while Jake had a smirk on his face.

"What are you doing Greig? Are you planning on attacking a new world leader?" Jack asked with a raised brow.

"Shut up you weakling! Who gave you the right to talk to your older brother like that?! And what the hell are you doing in the Fang hunters anyway? You should be here but your weak arse is scared because I will overshadow you." Greig smirked.

"Greig!" Jack said with his hands clenched.

"What?! You pissed?! If you are then come forward and hit me you weakling!" Greig said.

"You can't talk to one of my members like that in my presence and most especially my friends!" Jake said as he stepped forward slightly with his hands clenched tightly around his sword.

"What do you plan on doing? Remember we still have a score to settle." Raze said as he stepped forward with a smile.

"You confident on taking the two of us on?" Greig asked.

"You want to find out?" Jake asked as he fully unleashed all his Qi making the ground beneath their feet tremble while Rex had a wide smile on his face.

'This kid doesn't back down at all and he is confident. I like him as he has the qualities of joining us.'

'This kid, he doesn't let anyone walk down on his members or friends. No wonder he has so much support from his guild members.' Bane thought.

"The both of you should relax! This is supposed to be a happy occasion and you all want to fight? If the werewolves were to attack now, is this how you all are supposed to fight against them? With this disunity?" Jay Josh the son of the Josh family and Sophia's elder brother said.

"Shut up you nerd!" Raze and Greig said at once as they turned to glare at him.

"So werewolf slayer, how about we give the public an after show?" Raze smiled as he pushed his coat aside and drew out his sword while Greig punched his right fist into his left palm.

"Ready when you weaklings are." Jake said and then his eyes began shining blue.

"This has gone on for far too long!" Rex said as his words produced so much energy that their hairs were ruffled slightly. "And Raze and Greig, if you don't hold your tongues, then I'm going to cut it off soon. Rivock warn your son!"

"You..." Greig said as he stepped forward glaring at Rex when he felt a hand on his shoulder.

"Greig don't." Rivock said and then Greig stepped back while Raze sheathed his sword again.

"Now that the duel is over and we have our winner, the remaining guilds can return back." Bane said when Gray walked forward.

"Werewo... No! Jake Lucas, remember I said I wanted to join you?" Gray said.

"What are you saying Gray?" Grodd shouted.

"Exactly! What do you mean by that?" Jim asked.

"I want to become part of the Fang hunters and give up control of the Phoenix guild to Jake." Gray replied.

"Why would you do that?" Greg this Sai user asked.

"Because after that fight, I realized that I'm no longer strong enough to protect our guild. You won't understand but I have been weakened." Gray said as he clenched his fist in and out.

"Weakened?! How?" Jim asked.

"You won't understand." Gray replied and then turned towards Jake. "Is the deal still on?"

"Sure!" Jake said and then he sent Gray the contract while a piece of paper appeared floating into his hands causing everybody to be surprised.

But without hesitation, Gray signed it and then the symbol on his arm changed from a phoenix to that of a wolf head with long fangs on it with chains wrapping around it and a sword placed across its head.

"Congratulations! You are now an official member of the Fang hunters." Jake said and the five core members from the phoenix guild came over towards Gray.

"We will serve you till the end so if this is your final decision, we will support you and also take part in your decision." Lucy said.

"So we would also like to join the Fang hunters." Grodd said.

"Great!" Jake said and then he sent the contract invitation to them and they accepted.

"So now, everything the phoenix guild owns including their conquered planets will belong to the Fang hunters." Gray said.

"No! You grew the guild yourself, and you know it better so you will be the best person to continue leading it. The guild will function as it used to with you overseeing it but it will still be under the banner of the Fang hunters." Jake announced.

And then Gray smiled widely. "Thank you." He said with a smile while the big three patiently waited until they were done.

"You done yet? We still have more important things to take care of." Rivock said angrily.

"Why the temper? I'm just trying to grow my strength after all." Jake smiled as he walked forward and he could see Greig biting his tongue trying to hold it back while Rivock had a vein sticking out his head.

"Now that that is taken care of, let's go ahead and talk about the main reason for picking this planet to host the duel and also the main reason we decided to change the world table a bit." Bane said and Jake raised an eyebrow in confusion.

Chapter 363: We need to hunt!

"Now that that is taken care of, let's go ahead and talk about the main reason for picking this planet to host the duel and also the main reason we decided to change the world table a bit." Bane said and Jake raised an eyebrow in confusion.

After dismissing the guilds that came to participate, Erin and Druig decided to linger longer around the place while the new big four were seen heading towards the private viewing booth that the big three were watching the match from.

Getting inside, Jake could see that there was a sofa like chair in the corner of the room with a huge screen in front where the big three were watching from while in the centre of the room was a huge round table with a four chairs surrounding it.

The chairs were of equal size, length, height but different colours. One was coloured crimson, another was coloured brown, the next one was coloured silver and the last chair was coloured pure black.

Rex was seen heading towards the crimson chair, the brown chair was taken by Rivoock while Bane took the silver chair leaving the black chair for Jake to take and which he did as he sat down nonchalantly despite the pressure being emitted in the room.

'This kid isn't afraid despite the fact that he is in the presence of great and powerful people. What is he?' Bane wondered.

"So you were saying that there was another reason for this duel and the new world table creation?" Jake asked.

"Yes! I won't beat around the bush, I will just go straight to the point." Bane said.

"Hold on a sec, why are you the only one always doing the talking everytime?" Jake asked.

"Unless you want us to snap at people like you asking silly questions, then I will gladly explain." Rivock answered and Jake just scoffed.

"Guys please! At this point and time, we need to be united more. I'm sure the werewolves are watching and seeing us dunitied will give them more chance to attack us so please act mature." Bane said sternly and Jake just slumped back in his chair silently.

"Thank you! Now the reason for the duel and the creation of the new world leader table is that we need more strength on our hands. Although we have Qi and all that, it will all be useless without good equipment and weapons." Bane said.

"Yeah right." Rex said. "So for that, we need more stronger weapons to help us in the war against the werewolves."

"Right! And that's why we decided to scout all the planets we could find maybe a stronger beast than the legendary tier would be found. Because at this point, in order for us to stand a chance against the werewolves and not suffer any causalities, we all need to have weapons at the level of a Demi-god tier and above." Bane said.

"Demi-god tier?!" Jake asked.

"Don't tell me you don't know all the tiers of beasts we have." Rivoock said with a glaring look at Jake.

"Wait! We do have something higher than a legendary tier beast?" Jake asked.

"Please guys remind me how the hell this kid even became a world leader?" Rivoock said slapping his forehead loudly.

"Relax Rivock." Bane said and then he turned towards Jake. "We have seven tiers or ranking for the beasts. Which are: Basic tier which is the lowest, intermediate tier, advanced tier, king tier, legendary tier, Demi-god tier and finally S rank which is the highest."

"S rank?! Highest rank huh." Jake said.

"Yes! Although there might be more ranking or some that do not even have rankings possibly because they are too strong. But to our present knowledge, the S rank is the highest tier. You have faced against two legendary tier beasts already so you know how strong they are and how strong they get the higher tier you go." Bane said.

"Yes! Although I nearly died facing against the first legendary tier beast, it got a little easier... because of my system." Jake mumbled the last part beneath his breath.

"Good! But the Demi-god tier is much stronger than that and as you are, if you were to go on your own, you will be killed immediately. So right now, we need a Demi-god tier weapon that would aid us in this war so we can last long." Rex said.

"Wait! A Demi-god tier?! Why just one?" Jake asked.

"You doofus! Do you think it's easy to find them like advanced tier beasts?! They are hard to find and difficult to fight. So we need one for now and maybe when we are stronger, we would hunt more." Rivock replied.

"Then if we make the weapon, how are we supposed to use it? We can't just let one group have it." Jake said.

"Good question, that is where I come in. You know what my powers are, it is my intellect and technology. So I'm going to create a safe of some kind that will be difficult to break in and will be protected by a pass code which only the four of us at this table would know the code. Is that okay?" Bane asked.

"Fine by me." Jake said and the rest shrugged.

"Mind you, we aren't hunting anyhow Demi-god tier beast, since we need a strong weapon, we are hunting a strong beast." Rex said. "That's why we are going to hunt a humanoid Demi-god tier beast."

"Humanoid Demi-god tier beast? What's that? I never heard of it before." Jake said.

"A humanoid beast, any beast that is of the humanoid category are intellectual beasts. Meaning they have intelligence and aren't easily fooled by humans that's what make them dangerous and stronger than their beasy counterpart." Bane explained and he could see Jake gulping.

"So you see why we needed to form another leader table? We need someone with strength and huge amount of following like someone that has strong members. That's why we did the planet conquest but it ended in a draw and then the duel stuff. And now you are here." Rex explained.

"But how are the four of us going to hunt a humanoid Demi-god tier beast on our own? Don't we need more strength?" Jake asked.

"Who said anything about doing things alone? Each of us are going to choose five strong people from our guild along with us so we can go on the hunt. Not too much crowd so too much casualties won't be on our hands and not too little men that will get us killed. So five per each person is okay." Bane explained.

"So each of us has thirty minutes to go and choose our strongest members that will accompany us and if they aren't on this planet, we would give them just a day to get here." Rex said.

"Good! And I already have one person in mind that would be happy to come with us on the hunt." Jake smiled.

Chapter 364: The truth{1}

"So that is what they said. So we need to pick our strongest five." Jake said as he could be seen in the Fang hunters' Aeroglide with those that came with him to participate in the duel even Jade was seen at the meeting table.

And finally, the newest addition known as Gray the ex leader of the phoenix guild was seen there seated and listening to what Jake said as he had also been promoted to a core member of the guild.

While his own core five walking around the Aeroglide trying to get to know the other members more even though they didn't want to.

"Hmm. So they want to hunt a humanoid Demi-god tier?" Head General Humfree's holographic display was seen at the table as a small orb was placed on the table and it displayed Head General Humfree, Paul and Wilfred at the same time.

"Yes! And they said we should pick our strongest five along with us." Jake said.
"And I have already decided on who the first person would be. We all know that after me, you are the next strongest in the whole guild so I want you to be part of the team."

"Jake does make a solid point though." Kate added.

"He does and as he said, I'm the next strongest which means I would be needed at the base more in case of an emergency situation. Kate isn't here to help, so the administrative decisions falls upon me.

So as the next person in charge, I need to be here but I will send Paul to you instead. After all, he is also strong." Humfree said.

"That is a solid point and General Paul's strength is well appreciated and needed. So it's settled then, General Paul would be the first person on the team." Jake said.

"I have a suggestion if I may." Gray said and then Jake nodded towards him. "I know I'm just a new member and all that but I would love to join this expedition team, think of it, this would be my chance to bond with you all more on this trip and I might also grow stronger."

"Even if you didn't volunteer, I was going to pick you anyway." Jake chuckled. "So that leaves three spots open and I have already decided on who will occupy the spots."

"Who did you pick Jake?" Sunny asked.

"I want Alex, Jack and Kate to occupy the three remaining spots." Jake declared.

"Wait! Why me?" Kate asked. "Don't get me wrong, I want to be on the team and all but I have to think rationally at this point, we are talking about a Demi-god tier beast here, I'm not sure I could even stand my ground against a legendary tier beast not to talk of a Demi-god tier."

"I know but our team would be in need of a support right? We can't just attack straight on, we would need support to help us from the back. I wouldn't purposely put you in front of danger if i know that I can't protect you. Besides, Ice would be by your side." Jake replied.

"Ice? Who the hell is Ice?" Kate asked.

"You will meet him on the day of the expedition." Jake replied.

"Okay! We understand Kate's position here but why me? I'm happy you chose me, but I don't think I would be of much help. Wouldn't someone like Peter be a much better choice?" Jack asked.

"Exactly! You know this is the second time you are going on an expedition and you aren't taking me along." Peter replied.

"I know why I chose you. I know that that annoying brother of yours would be part of your father's team, and I saw how he always called you a weakling and all, don't you want to prove him wrong and shut his mouth once and for all by fighting alongside me?" Jake smiled.

And Jack smiled back. "Fine! If you insist then."

"Well unlike you lot, I'm not going to argue about why I'm on the team as I have the right and strength to be on it." Alex smiled as he slumped back into his chair.

"So arrogant!" Peter said.

"Not my fault that your weak arse wasn't chosen to be on the team." Alex chuckled.

"Weak?! Want to have a go to know who is weak here? What am I even saying, there's no need. I can't be arguing with someone that got his arse handed to him by old man Kai." Peter replied with a smirk and a vein was seen sticking out of Alex's head.

"I think I need to shut you up once and for all." Alex said as he prepared to draw his weapon.

"Oh yeah? Come on!" Peter said and then in an instant, they heard a booming voice.

"Will you both quiet down and stop behaving like kids? Otherwise I will be the one to discipline you both." Jake said and the duo quietened down remembering Jake's immense strength against Gray.

"They actually remind me of you and that particular big three... what was his name again? Oh right! Rivock." Zee commented.

"That reminds me, you still owe me something you know." Jake mumbled.

"Remember you promised to tell me everything about the system and who you are, your connection with Gray and all that."

"Yeah! I didn't forget, instead I wanted you to be done with this expedition so you can calmly listen." Zee replied.

"No! I want to hear it now, because it feels like you are trying to postpone it for some reason." Jake replied.

"Fine! If you insist." Zee said and then Jake looked at the room.

"Alright guys! That's the end of the meeting. General Paul, we would be expecting you soon and the rest of you, rest up, train and let's wait on when they will call upon us. I was told the beast is on this planet so we don't have to move much, and good thing our Aeroglide has rooms and canteens." Jake said with a smile.

"True! And I'm famished." Peter said as he stood up and left and so did everyone else as they left one by one until it was only Gray and Jake left.

Gray was about to leave when he heard Jake telling him to hold on a bit.

"After this expedition shit, remember you also owe me an explanation about these system shit!" Jake said and then Gray smiled.

"Yeah! I remember the deal. Take care." Gray said and he left while Jake slumped back into his chair. "Now Zee, you can begin."

{A/N: PLEASE READ!!!}

I'm so sorry guys that I left you all hanging especially to you Adrian Hardin, I'm so sorry for not updating... I needed to focus on my other book for this month so as to build it up a bit that's why I stopped updating for now... Note! I'm not dropping this book at all as I wish to complete it and I will... Please guys, bear with me till April please 🙏 I will begin updating by April, I promise... Please guys, don't drop the book at all coz I haven't given up on it.

I will pick it back up by April by God's grace. I'm sorry guys, in the meantime, please check out my other book titled Magus Supremacy and I'm sure you would enjoy it a lot pending till when we get to April.

New chapters will be coming in starting from April 1st so please guys, stay with me till then. Get ready for epic twists, fights and betrayals from dear ones 😊 oops! Shouldn't have said that but anyway, stay tuned guys... Till April 🙌👍

Chapter 365: The Truth{2}

"Now Zee, you can begin." Jake said and a long silence ensued as Zee suddenly went silent while Jake looked around and slumped back in his chair waiting for Zee to begin speaking when he heard Zee sighing.

"The truth is, I'm not an AI." Zee finally broke the minute long silence.

"Well, that part is already obvious from your behavior and all. So who are you?" Jake asked.

"I was a human. My name is Jay. I worked with the Josh family before I left there since I didn't like the way some of the people there behaved." Zee said.

"So you dealt with technology from the Josh family?" Jake asked.

"Yes! I was Bane's assistant and right hand man before I felt like I needed to build my own reputation and not be under the shadow of an already established guild. I needed to be my own person." Zee said.

"Did Bane let you go on his own or did you run away?" Jake asked when he heard Zee laughing.

"Let me go willingly? I ran away after stealing an advanced chip from him. Although, I co-fouded the chip, it doesn't change the fact that I stole it and ran away." Zee replied.

"So what happened next?" Jake asked.

"After I ran away, I needed a place to hide since Bane didn't take things lying down. He sent people after me. Powerful Qi users and even his son but I was smart and managed to evade them until I came across Gray." Zee said.

"Gray? That phoenix guild leader?" Jake asked.

"Yes! He took me in, shielded me from the people that came after me, and protected me. No one, not even Bane knew that I was with him as at that time, Gray hadn't gotten to where he is currently." Zee replied.

"I worked with him, made and created awesome technology that aided the guild and eased their missions. But Gray always wanted more. He needed something that would boost his powers tremendously.

He always wanted to get to the top. And to do that, he needed something apart from Qi to aid his ambitions and that was when I came in. And our mission to creating the system began." Zee said.

*Five years ago!*

At the phoenix guild, which was a mini city surrounded by volcano. Hot volcanoes that won't make it easy to be reached. A small city was situated several metres away from the volcano and in the city, a huge towering mansion stood.

This was the guild base, where the phoenix guild operated and where their leader; Gray was operating from.

In the guild base, at the very top of the floor, Gray was seen in a room with a young man who looked to be in his mid twenties wrapped around in a white long, flowing coat and his jet black hair was fluttering in the wind.

The room was surrounded by various technological devices ranging from weird huge tubes, computer screens, e.t.c. This was Jay's work place as he was seen examining something in his hand using a monocle of some kind. When...

"Jay!" Gray called out.

"I told you to stop disturbing me anytime I'm working." Jay replied as he kept examining a small object that looked to be a pin in his hand.

"You are working or purposely avoiding me?" Gray asked and he heard Jay sigh and then swivel around on his rolling chair.

"What do you want?" Jay asked.

"What I have been talking to you about." Gray replied. "I want to get to the top. Become greater than even the big three but I can't do that while being limited right now. I have only Qi to do with and it isn't even enough."

"So what do you want me to do? I'm just an ordinary scientist and I deal with technologies. There's nothing I can do. Not like I can turn you part human, part machine." Jay said swiveling back around to grab the pin he was looking at when his chair suddenly swiveled back around to face Gray who had a beaming smile on his face.

"That's it!" Gray shouted excitedly.

"Huh? You want me to turn you part human, part machine? Are you insane?" Jay asked as he shot up from his seat.

"No, not really that. Although the machine part is important, it's not necessary you replace my body parts with machine because that will be weird." Gray said.

"Then what do you want?" Jay asked.

"There's this new game that came out. I think it was made by one of the big three known as Josh. Reality X or something." Gray said rubbing his chin. "It featured so many elements that was quite intriguing.

I played it and it was fun. Players have this system interface that allows them access stats and boos their strength. They can level up, and the more they level up, the stronger enemies they fought which will show how strong they have become.

I think he created the game with the aim of letting those that couldn't experience what fighting werewolves feels like to experience it now."

"So what are you hinting at? I should create a game for you?" Jay asked.

"No, silly! I mean create a similar system interface for me. Think about this. The more I fight strong opponents, complete quests, the more stronger I will become.

I don't have to only rely on Qi, I can also make use of the system. Also, let the system reward me with skills too. That should do it." Gray said and Jay sighed.

"You are crazy." He said. "But if I managed to pull this off, I can become well known and finally attain that recognition I couldn't receive being under Bane. This would be great and I will be known world wide."

"So you will do it?" Gray asked excitedly.

"Yeah yeah! Now let me be so I can plan how the system will be like. I need an outline and something to work with." Jay said.

"Sure, I will let you be." Gray said with a smile on his face and quickly exited the room.

"Who knew, that my hunt for fame and to create something that will make me recognized world wide will bring a bit of trouble to even me." Zee said.

{A/N}

Alright guys! I know I didn't update throughout the previous month, and I'm really sorry about that. But I'm back now, I needed to allow Magus Supremacy get a lil footing in the world of Webnovels so I decided pause this series.

But I'm back now, so I need you all support please. Adrian_Hardin, I'm back!

Chapter 366 366: The Truth {3}

After getting the request from Gray, Jay didn't waste time in getting to work as he hopped onto the capsule known as Reality X and began playing it for a while to see how the system worked.

He did this for a week as after every gaming session, he always recorded down what he noticed from the game, how the system screen works, the level up process and so many other things.

When he felt like he had gathered enough information, he got to work as he began making the system. Anytime he was working, Gray always dropped by asking about the progress therefore ruining his concentration.

So he had to put a small laser on his door handle. Anytime Gray was about to open the door, it electrocuted him and so he always went away letting Jay work in peace.

Throughout his time working on the system, he hadn't seen the outside as the pure excitement to create something extraordinary always kept him locked in for two whole weeks.

And during these two weeks, he had so many failed experiments that he was starting to lose hope and today was just like another day as he was seen tossing a chip aside and it landed in a small mound of several chips.

"Day 15 of another failure." He spoke into a small tape recorder. "Reason for day 15 failure, chip was unable to handle the amount of information being processed into it." Immediately after he was done, he dropped the tape recorder and swiveled on his chair in deep thought as he picked a cup of coffee and began sipping on it.

"What is going on? 15 freaking days and I'm not even getting closer to success! Darn it!" He shouted as he almost chucked the coffee cup away but he held back and continued to take a sip.

"Should I just give up? I mean the project is not heading anywhere, no actual results except a small mound of failed chips." He said glancing at the chips when he heard a soft knock on his door.

"Jay! You busy?" Gray called out from outside.

"Please go away. I don't feel like talking." Jay replied.

"C'mon man. For the past two weeks, you haven't come out of there. I'm sure your room is starting to stink now." Gray said and Jay turned around looking at the room and at a small mirror off to the side with his reflection in it.

In his reflection, he could see a heavy dark bag under his eyes as he hadn't slept a wink for two weeks. Only occasionally resting his head and eyes and then waking back up in thirty minutes to begin working.

"I think I need a breath of fresh air." Jay mumbled.

"Are you coming? Or should I break the door open and drag you out." Gray asked as he hit the door a little harder.

"Chill, I'm coming." Jay said standing up when he felt his feet being wobbly as he almost fell down but he held his desk and stood up straight as he took a gentle step one at a time towards the door.

Opening it up, he could see Gray dressed causally but he still had a small robe on his body that was fluttering in the wind.

"Why do you like this robe of a thing?" Jay asked.

"I don't know. It feels just nice." Gray replied with a small smile.

"So where are we headed?" Jay asked.

"Just going to take a small stroll so let's go." Gray said and Jay shut the door behind him as they left the guild base and were walking out on the streets looking at the people walking in harmony.

Some of the guild members were seen with the phoenix symbol on different parts of their bodies with different weapons in hand.

"Have you even went on a hunt in these past two weeks of anticipating the system?" Jay asked.

"Not really. I didn't feel like. It would have been a problem if I hadn't created this group known as the core members and man, they are awesome." Gray said.

"Yeah, I bet. I'm still confused about something though." Jay said.

"What is it?" Gray asked.

"Why did you take me in? Weren't you afraid of what a big three would do to you? I mean, you took in an escapee who was apart of them." Jay said.

"Do you think I'm afraid of those old geezers? They are nothing to be afraid of and for your question about me taking you in, I don't know. Something just attracted me to you and your personality was quite likeable.

Besides, I never did really get a best friend so I think I pictured you in that light." Gray smiled.

Seeing the smile on Gray's face, Jay's face also lit up with tears streaming down his face.

"Thank you. I have also been busy with work back at the Josh's and I never did really make friends. So thank you for letting me experience this new relationship." Jay said and Gray walked over and hugged him before disengaging and giving a small pat on Jay's head.

"Dry up those tears dude. You are behaving like a kid." Gray chuckled and so did Jay who wiped his tears. "Besides, if it weren't for you, I wouldn't have been able to achieve this height of success.

I'm just a little under the new faction formed under the big three known as the big independent guilds. In just a year of you joining us, our strengths have been boosted a lot.

Without you, there's no phoenix guild. You are the link that makes us do well as your technology is very helpful."

"Awwn!" Jay smiled and completely wiped his tears as they were about to continue their stroll when he halted his steps as his eyes widened which made Gray turn around since he didn't hear any footsteps.

"What's wrong? Is it something I said?" Gray asked.

"Link!" Jay shouted.

"Link? What do you mean?" Gray asked.

"I finally found my answers." Jay said and he ran towards Gray giving him a big hug with a wide smile on his face. "Thank you. The small stroll has given me an idea. I can't believe I never thought about this. I need a link!" He said and then ran away from the streets heading back to his workshop.

"What's wrong with him?" Gray asked himself. "He has gone nuts."

Chapter 367 367: Success.

After running off, Jay found himself back in his workshop with renewed energy and excitement about the system as he quickly got down to work with more zeal.

He began working on the a new chip, before adding the commands to it. All these took about four hours to conduct as it was an intricate process.

Especially the command part as he was so invested in it, that he didn't realize the sun had gone down and it was nighttime already. He kept working until the next morning when he was finally done programming the commands and everything.

When he was done, he smiled widely and stood up walking to where his bag was placed. Opening it, he rummaged inside it scattering the contents on the floor when a small clang was heard.

Glancing at it, Jay smiled and took a small chip and turned it over looking at it and then he went to his desk.

"The link? How did I fail to realize this?" Jay wondered as he sat down and looked at the chip in his hands.

This chip was the same advanced chip he stole from Bane Josh. The same chip they used two years to work on which will help Bane in the upcoming second war against the werewolves.

Getting to work, Jay began fusing the two chips together. It wasn't easy as it looked like he was going to fail again as his hands began trembling slightly but he took in a deep breath.

"Calm down Jay. If you fail right now, there's no second chance again as you only have one chip to work with." He said and then quickly took a sip of his coffee to calm down again and then he got back to work as small beads of sweat formed on his face.

He kept working and trying to infuse the two chips together for two hours and after that, he was finally done as a single micro chip was seen in front of him gleaming slightly in all its full glory while Jay was fully drenched in sweat but a wide smile plastered on his face.

"Finally! The system is complete!" Jay shouted in excitement as he began jumping up and down but then he began feeling groggy as the whole room felt blurry with his vision fading in and out.

He was seen swaying around for a while before he fell down unconsciously the next instant.

A few hours passed and his eyes were starting to open as he looked around to see he was on the floor of his workshop and glancing at the window, he could see it was nighttime.

"Woah! I slept like never before. It has been long I slept this long." Jay said as he yawned loudly and slowly stood up when he walked towards his desk and saw the micro chip before he heaved a sigh of relief.

"I would have gone and informed Gray of my success if I hadn't fainted. Oh well! I have to wait for the next morning. And I don't know why, after that sleep, I still feel sleepy. I guess this is what I get for depriving myself of sleep for so many weeks." Jay said as he dragged himself to his chair.

Tapping the side, it expanded and the chair was seen bending backwards before straightening to a bed of some kind with a blanket appearing from beneath the chair and covering Jay.

Clapping his hands loudly, the lights turned off as he went to sleep with a smile plastered on his face and after a few hours, it was finally morning as the sun shine brightly on Jay's face.

Waking up, he quickly stood up still with a smile on his face as he had finally achieved what he was aiming for, for so many weeks and so he tapped a red button on his desk which made a buzzing sound and he waited.

In not less than a minute, Gray was seen bursting through the room.

"What happened? You have never used the buzzer to call me in so long. So what happened?" Gray threw questions at Jay the moment he walked in.

"Ease up with the questions already." Jay smiled as he stood up and walked towards Gray with a wide smile on his face. "Nothing bad happened, infact something good did."

"What do you mean?" Gray asked.

"The project is finally complete and it's a success!" Jay shouted and there was a moment of silence as Gray took a few seconds to process what he heard.

"The... the...the project is complete and a success?" Gray asked in surprise.

"Yes! Wait! Why don't you look happy? Is something wrong?" Jay asked.

"It's just... after so many failures," Gray said pointing at the small mounds of chips. "I kind of gave up that it will be a success but... this is a superb news!" He shouted in excitement and then walked forward.

"Where's it? Where's my baby?" He asked.

"Relax!" Jay said walking to his table and picking a micro chip. "To bind it with you, I would need your blood."

"Tch! That's nothing." Gray said as he unsheathed his sword and cut his hand with blood dripping down.

"I just needed a trickle not a whole pint! You are crazy!" Jay said walking forward with the chip and then turned Gray's hands letting his blood drop onto the chip and immediately, it lit up brightly almost illuminating the whole room.

And after a few seconds, the light dimmed back down and there was nothing in Jay's hands as the chip was now missing.

"The chip? Where did it go?" Jay asked as he looked around in confusion.

"Uhm, I think I found it." Gray said as his eyes widened as he stared at a blue system screen in front of his eyes. "It worked Jay! I can see a system screen in front of me!" He shouted in excitement and so did Jay as they hugged each other.

"We finally did it! The life of the guild is now set and we can grow it's strength to rival the big three. Although, you have to lay low for a while to master it." Jay said.

"Yeah yeah! That shouldn't be a problem. I will let the core members handle any trouble on their own for now." Gray said.

---

"Oh, how I wish I can turn the hands of the clock back as I regretted ever making that." Zee said while Jake was still listening intently to his story.

Chapter 368: The creation of another system!

"After the success of the system, Gray did stay low trying to master it by leaving the guild and hopping into a portal going to hunt beasts while trying to use the system.

He didn't hunt dangerous beasts though, he hunted intermediate beasts while mastering the system and not even using Qi. Sometimes he came back with injuries, and sometimes he doesn't." Zee narrated.

"He was making fast progress and began levelling up. And the more he levelled up, the more powerful he got as the phoenix guild was now making crazy progress in the human world. Although we still stayed at the volcano region, it served more like a base for us.

Just like how Aurora Academy is for the Fang hunters. We had so many branches, and even conquered some guilds. Because of the system, Gray became a one man army at level 10 at that." Zee added.

"I have a question though." Jake said. "When I first saw Gray on the broadcast, when he was trying to conquer a planet and he said the word system. I freaked out but you reassured me that he doesn't have a system and even if he did, you would know about that.

But here, you are narrating how he managed to get a system because of you. Don't you think it's contradictory?"

"Yes it is, if you listened to an unfinished tale you buffoon! Let me be done with my story." Zee retorted back.

"Fine, continue." Jake said.

"Thank you." Zee scoffed. "Now, after conquering small times guilds and growing in strength, Gray thought himself to be a god on earth and wanted to do more so he decided he was going to try and challenge a big three for their position.

I tried persuading him and telling him it was a wrong decision since I worked with another big three and I knew their strength but as usual, he was adamant. I'm even shocked that he has become somewhat calmer."

"So who did he challenge?" Jake asked.

"I was getting to that, stop interrupting me!" Zee shouted in Jake's mind.

"My bad." Jake said.

"As luck will have it, the fool went ahead to challenge the strongest big three; Rex Slade! Although the big three all had tremendous strength, Rex was a monster in human flesh.

I can't forget that day as it was both hilarious and sad when I saw Gray's body afterwards. He was beaten so badly by Rex that he was totally covered in injuries and it would have been a miracle if he survived.

Although he put up a good fight and managed to injure Rex twice which he had never experienced before except when fighting a Beta werewolf." Zee said and then began chuckling as he remembered how Gray was like for weeks.

"After his defeat and since he managed to put up a good fight against him, Rex decided to let Gray stay at his city and he got treated by the best doctors there. And when he was fully healed, Rex decided to teach Gray how to use Qi by himself.

All the stages of Qi he knew, although not really all, he taught them all to Gray making him a new powerhouse but during that time, something weird happened that changed Gray and thinking about it now, it looks like it was after he left Slade city." Zee said.

A few weeks later after leaving Slade city, Gray was back at the phoenix guild with renewed strength that he knew nobody could stand against him except the big three so they went conquering guilds after guilds.

Even the big independent guilds that was formed, Gray toppled them on his own and stayed at their top and managed to bring the phoenix guild to the number 1 independent guild.

A little under the big three which was an amazing feat as no one as young as Gray had ever done it before and he managed to do that in just three years of him building his guild and in a year of him having the system.

But something was wrong and throughout his conquest, Gray had never used the system and only his Qi and the skills he learnt from Rex. And so when the day arrived for him to use his system, it was on the day he went for an expedition to a red portal planet.

A red portal planet that housed nothing below the advanced tier beasts. He went there with his group and they decided to hunt and when they encountered a king tier beast for the first time, Gray decided to use his system but strangely enough, it wasn't working.

No system screen, no skills and in the process, so many people died that he had to retreat as he wasn't strong enough to face against a king tier beast yet. Actually, it was a horde of them.

When they managed to retreat back, a few days later, Gray was seen storming into Jay's workshop.

"What the hell happened Jay?!" Gray shouted as soon as he walked in startling Jay who was engrossed in work.

"What do you mean? What happened?" Jay asked.

"The system isn't responding. No matter how hard I try, it won't activate. My skills—years of progress—just vanished. What is going on?" Gray shouted in anger to the extent the room was seen trembling with the tubes Jay had in his room trembling slightly.

"What do you mean by its not working? How is this possible? When last did you use the system?" Jay asked.

"During when I fought Rex. I haven't used it since then as I didn't need to." Gray replied. "What does that have to do with me not seeing it again?"

"It doesn't! But something must be wrong." Jay said and then quickly turned around searching his desk over and over until he took the needle and walked forward towards Gray. "I need your blood to examine it."

"Do whatever you want, but I need my system as soon as possible!" Gray said and Jay stabbed the needle into Gray's hand drawing blood and then walking off to his computer and began analyzing it while Gray was seen pacing around the room.

After a few minutes, Jay's eyes widened in shock as he glanced at the results which made Gray walk over.

"What's wrong? What happened?" He asked in panic.

"The... the...the system has been interfered with. Something has blocked the congrual infrastructure leading to the linkage been scrambled with." Jay said.

"I don't speak nerd you fool! Speak in English and tell me what the hell is going on?!" Gray shouted in panic.

"When I was working on the system, the advanced chip I stole from Bane was what I used as a linkage between the command and the system so it won't fail again. That chip, the signal had been blocked and there's no way I can un-block it!" Jay replied while Gray took a slight step back in disbelief.

"Ca...can't you do something? I mean you are the creator darn it!" Gray said.

"I can't! Yes I did create the system, and I co- created the advanced chip, you are forgetting that someone else did the full work on the advanced chip. Hold on! Was there a time when Bane visited you?" Jay asked.

"Yes! He came along with another big three as they wanted to see the fool that challenged Rex." Gray replied.

"Did he touch you?" Jay asked.

"Yes! What has that got to do with anything?" Gray asked when he saw Jay break out in sweat.

"Crap! You shouldn't have let him touch you. This is why you shouldn't have challenged Rex darn it! If you had shown some strange skills he hadn't seen before, don't you think he will consult the technological genius of their group?" Jay shouted in anger as all his hard work had just been rendered futile.

"Wh... what can we do now? I can't lose the system. Can't you do another one?" Gray asked.

"I can't create another one because I would need that same advanced chip I stole again and I don't have it. Even if I wanted to make another one, the first one took two years to create and even so, your body can't house two systems!" Jay said.

"So you are saying I have lost the system?" Gray asked.

"Not really. I just have to try and uncode the code Bane put on the chip. It might take a few weeks, months or even years as you know that Bane is my elder in this field." Jay said.

"Whatever! Just do something ASAP!" Gray said and then stomped out of the room.

"Shit! If Bane knows about the advanced chip, he will know that I'm here. Which means he would try an attack one way or the other to drag me out of here.

Gray is not strong enough to shield me again. I need to take matters in my own hands which means I need a system of my own." Jay said.

Chapter 369: Jay is dead!

After ascertaining he needed to get a system, he got to work on it without letting Gray know anything while on the side, he walked on un-blocking Gray's system as he poured in years of research and experience from being with Bane Josh.

It wasn't easy as he hardly slept and worked hard on both projects especially since Gray didn't let him rest always coming to ask about the progress every single day.

But honestly, there was none as it was only Bane that knew what he used to jam the system as all research was in vain. While his other project was going nicely as he had to create the advanced chip that will be merged with his system chip.

Since he was there and even helped when the first chip was being created, the process was much faster. Not like there weren't a lot of failures from trying it.

Although he was mainly focused on working on his system, he still didn't forget Gray; his best friend as he worked tirelessly that the bags under his eyes grew to the extent he fell sick.

That was when he had his first true break in months as he rested with Gray always taking care of him. After a few weeks of resting and getting treated, Jay was now fit and fine and he didn't waste time in hopping back to work.

Slowly, as the weeks turned to months, the months turned into a year as Jay had finally completed the advanced chip for his system and he was proud of it.

And slowly, even his research for Gray's system was also bearing fruition but it would take a few more weeks before he was certain of how to break the code Bane placed on the system.

While all these was going on, Gray grew impatient as days turned to weeks, weeks turned to months and months turned into a year without his system and this frustrated him to no end.

On the surface he was worried about the system but deep down, he was worried for Jay as he knew that without his system, he wouldn't be able to put up much of a fight against Bane whenever he strikes.

So he always trained his Qi and honed his fighting skills. Finally! On a particular day, Jay finally made progress after several months as he finally knew how to decode the interference and remove it.

He was staring at his computer with a wide smile as he finally made progress for his friend. Turning to the side, he also saw the advanced chip and so he got to work in merging it with another chip that had all the necessary information it needed.

While he was doing this, a loud siren was heard resounding in the whole guild and an announcement rang out.

"Alert all core members and fighters, we are being attacked by another guild! I repeat we are under attack!" The voice shouted with Jay dropping the small pin he held in shock while hearing sounds of running around the base.

"Attacked? By which guild? Which guild will be stupid enough to attack the number independent guild?" Jay asked as his heart began thumping loudly in fright.

"Don't tell me Bane hired another top guilds to attack! After all, the fear of the big three is greater than an independent guild. Crap! This is bad. I would need a day or two to clear the command Bane placed on Gray's system." He said in panic as he stood up and looked at the chips in front of him.

'Command and information is set, the advanced chip for the linkage process is set, I just need to merge them together and I will have my system to help Gray.' Jay thought and shutting of the sounds from outside, he got to work.

Meanwhile, outside the guild, in the city, a huge and terrible battle occurred with the phoenix guild clashing against their attackers and they found out that it wasn't only one guild, but two that joined hands together to attack them.

The fight turned disastrous the moment the phoenix guild's core members stepped out as they quickly got to work in destroying the attacking guilds but it wasn't enough as cries of pain and death rang out.

The men were all falling rapidly as the phoenix guild was unable to keep up and in anger, Gray stepped out turning the tides of the battle with his immense amount of Qi and all the skills he learnt from Rex.

He rained down hundreds of Qi arrows from above destroying the men that didn't know how to combat it while moving at high level speed tearing down enemies with his swords.

"Even though I don't have the system anymore, I'm still plenty strong and fast from completing quests and using my Qi!" Gray cried out as he quickly pivoted sideways and then planted his foot into his attacker sending him flying away.

Currently, Gray was displaying why he was called a one man army as only him took out about half of the enemies alone. But it didn't stop the loss they were suffering on their side as more men fell.

While all these was going on, Jay was back at the base hurriedly merging everything together and that was his mistake. His hurry! As he had made a tiny mistake that made the chips malfunction while he was merging them together.

Instead of the chip receiving the advanced chip as a linkage, it began to tug onto Jay's life and he was unaware as his vision began feeling blurry, he was bleeding from his nose but he didn't pay attention as he just wiped it and continued his work.

"Why isn't these chips merging? C'mon work darn it! I need to help Gray. Every second I'm here, the guild is falling down." He screamed as he kept on working hard when finally! A banging headache hit him hard and he collapsed with the chips shining brightly illuminating the whole room.

And then slowly dimmed back down to reveal a blue orb in the chips' place while Jay's body fell off the table lifelessly.

"And that was how I suddenly woke up to find myself in your head and you possessing the system I worked hard on to the extent I lost my life. Which meant the system used my soul as a linkage rather than the advanced chip I worked on for a year." Zee said and there was now a moment of silence as Jake was taking everything in.

"So...so how did the orb get into my pocket? I remembered I bumped into someone a few years ago when I was still a first year at the academy and when werewolves suddenly ravaged the town.

So how did the orb leave the phoenix guild and appear in the hands of a stranger and into my pockets? How did Gray manage to unblock his system if you died before doing it?" Jake asked as he was left with so many questions.

"That... I don't know. All I know was that I died, woke up in your head without any idea how many years passed by and whether Gray is even still alive and doing well." Zee replied.

"Hold on! When I was thinking of naming you, why didn't you just suggest Jay?! You let me pick the name Zee for you. Why?" Jake asked.

"Jay... Jay is dead and it's better he remains dead and that's why I let you name me. Also, I'm glad the system I risked my life for ended up in your hands and not in the wrong hands." Zee said.

"Yeah! I'm glad it did. As I'm going to use this power, this system to rid the world of werewolves totally. That's a promise." Jake said with his hands clenched.

'Talking to Zee has just left me with more questions than answers. I guess for that, I will have to talk to Gray after the expedition. Time to prepare for the hunt against a humanoid Demi-god tier beast!' he thought in his head.

Chapter 370 370: March on!

It was finally the next day! General Paul had already arrived the previous day using the teleporter so they all got enough time to rest up. Those that were to head for the expedition.

Jake had slept like never before for the first time in a while but he still had a lot of questions on his mind after his talk with Zee. But he resolved to talk to Gray after the hunt.

Finally, they all woke up, freshened up, changed their clothes, and ate to their hearts contents while waiting for the big three to give them a call.

They didn't have to wait for long as Bane Josh sent someone to get them and right on cue, the six that will be going for the expedition were seen descending from the Aeroglide owned by the Fang hunters.

The six were Jake, Paul, Alex, Jack, Kate and Gray as the five of them followed behind Jake who had his hands in his pockets walking forward to meet the other big four that stood with their own teams.

Surprisingly or unsurprisingly, they each had their eldest children with them. As Raze and Greig both gave Jake a glare which he shrugged off causally while walking to the other big four.

"Feels good, doesn't it? Standing among the world's strongest?" Bane smiled.

"Yeah! It would be a lie to say I didn't expect this as I always planned on getting here. But this is not what I expected though." Jake smirked.

"What did you expect?" Rex asked.

"I always saw myself ruling over you, not standing beside you but I guess this will have to do." Jake shrugged and walked forward.

"How dare you?!" Raze shouted as he was about to unsheath his sword but all the five that accompanied Jake all drew their weapons at once.

"Brother Raze, you shouldn't dare try to make a mistake." Alex smirked as his giant sword gleamed.

"You all should calm down and stop behaving irrationally." Bane said and then he turned towards Gray. "Now that I think about it more, I remember your face now."

Hearing this, Gray stepped back a little with his sword disappearing in his sheath.

"Not like you recognizing me does anything to me as you made me lose him." Gray said with his hands clenched.

"Him? Oh! You mean Jay?!" Bane chuckled as he walked off. "Well, I didn't expect he would die though."

"What is going on? Did you both have an encounter too?" Rivock asked.

"It was when I was irrational." Bane chuckled and kept walking forward. "Let's go and plan better."

'I... I wanted to grow powerful. Strong enough with my system so I could best and teach Bane a lesson for making me lose Jay. But who knew I would lose to Jake?! Now, my revenge is incomplete.' Gray thought with a bitter smile as he also walked forward.

The whole team walked for a few minutes before they suddenly stood in front of a huge tent with the new big four walking in while telling the others to wait outside as they thought of a plan on how to deal with the beast they wanted to hunt.

"So any Intel on this beast of ours?" Jake asked.

"Yes! It is a humanoid Demi-god tier beast and not only that, it has elemental powers too making it more dangerous." Bane replied.

"Should we be wasting time with unnecessary planning? I mean, we are the big four. I trust and believe in each of our strengths so this doesn't matter right now." Rex said.

"I second that. Let's just go and kick this things arse and get it over and done with." Rivoock added.

"Do you also agree with them?" Bane asked Jake.

"I mean although planning is important, they do make a fair point. Besides, we can't plan things all by ourselves without including our crew. So let's do that while we move. Time is of the essence." Jake shrugged.

"Fine then, let's move out." Bane said and they all exited the tent.

"I hope you all are ready?! This fight, this hunt, this expedition is for the sake of humanity. We do it well, we attain a strong weapon against the werewolves. We lose, we actually lose a weapon not the war. This expedition is to help us ascertain our success in the war more so are we ready?!" Rex asked with his loud booming voice and the whole crowd shouted all at once.

"Yes!!!"

"Good! Let's move." Rex said and they all began marching towards the direction of where the beast was located.

In this planet, the whole ground was covered with hard diamond surface while all around, there were no trees, no forest, or even buildings. It was just a vast land of nothing and that was why it was perfect for the duel.

Until they found the location for where beasts lay and dwell. Scanning more with Bane's technology, they managed to find a Demi-god tier beast at the very far edge of the planet which will take approximately a day to reach on foot.

They would have taken their Aeroglides, but they didn't want to be caught unaware by the Demi-god beast or any other beast so this was the best decision and it could also work for some team bonding.

For the hunt to work, they needed to trust their partners with their lives so this was why they opted for walking forward.

But contrary to what Bane expected, no one was really bonding with the other side. As even the big four were all silent, the five men per team they brought with them were also silent only talking to themselves.

'This is not going as planned.' Bane thought as he continued walking forward when they all halted at once as they stared in front of them to see a dozen king tier beasts roaming around the place until they locked eyes with the humans.

"Who's going to deal with them?" Rivock asked.

"Not me, I don't want to waste my strength." Bane replied.

The king tier beasts all growled at once and were getting ready to charge forward as the team behind them all drew their weapons waiting for a confrontation when...

"Let me handle them." Rex said walking forward but he didn't pull out any weapons and instead just crossed his arms with the king tier beasts all dashing forward but then, an immense amount of pressure suddenly descended all around Rex.

The pressure was so thick and suffocating that it made the beasts that looked like wolves of some kind to back away slowly with a whimper. Right now, Rex was channeling all his Qi into a killing intent forcing the beasts back slowly.

Until they all ran away in fright.

'So that's the power of Rex Slade! I wonder how Gray even managed to go toe to toe with this monster.' Jake thought as he turned around to see half of the team behind them all sweating buckets from the pressure as even the hard diamond surface cracked badly.

'I wonder why I'm not affected. Is it because I have grown too strong? But I still have a feeling though that I won't be able to fight with him right now.' he thought and then they all marched on.
