

MY SLAYER SYSTEM: RISE TO SUPREMACY

Chapter 421: Not a demon!

"For making me breakthrough, I want you to tell me your name. So when I visit your universe, I can pay you your respect." The mysterious individual smirked.

"I'm Jake Lucas, what about you?" Jake spoke coldly and calmly.

"Dawn! Grey Dawn, the Supreme mage." The individual said, his crimson hair fluttering in the wind above his shoulders.

"Well Grey Dawn, you are wrong! I won't be dying today!" Jake roared as he blitzed forward at tremendous speed and so did Grey as they met in the center with a loud bang.

Fireballs were hurled towards Jake who swiftly turned around, his cloak fluttering up and absorbing the impact before he spun around sending fifty Qi swords hurling at Grey.

But an earth wall just rose up in time absorbing the impact from the Qi swords with only a minor crack running through it until Jake dashed forward, his hands being coated with Qi.

Snapping his fist forward, it slammed against the wall and shattered it like fragile glass while Grey was sent skidding and from above, two Qi swords hurled down towards him but he swiftly waved his hands and wind surrounded him causing him to fly backwards just in time.

The Qi swords smashed into the ground kicking up dust and debris. Out of the dust, several wind swords were shot towards Jake.

In one smooth movement, Jake grabbed his cloak, tore a piece from it, threw it down to the ground causing it to form a massive shadow on the ground that sprawled forward until it got to Grey's feet.

Not knowing what it was, Grey swiftly used his wind magic to float above the ground causing the shadowy ground to miss him. For the wind swords, Jake swiftly spun around, his cloak absorbing and swallowing the swords in a flash and causing them to reappear from the shadowy ground.

'Oh?! He can redirect attacks using that shadow cloak.' Grey thought as he saw his own wind blade heading towards him in the air.

Moving around, weaving and dodging, Grey managed to avoid every single wind blade until Jake suddenly appeared above him, Qi swirling around his hands and then with a bang, his hands smashed into Grey with a deafening boom that sent him hurling to the ground at immense speed.

That before he could cast his wind magic, his body had already slammed into the ground hard. Blood spurted out of his mouth in waves as he slowly rose up.

But from above him, a hundred Qi swords hovered in the air.

"Damn it! The people." Grey muttered as he looked around and then snapped his fingers causing ripples to form in the air and the people all got teleported out of the streets.

But he was a tad too late as the hundred Qi swords hurled towards him at terrifying speed while. But just in the nick of time, he snapped his fingers causing a huge earth wall to rise above him in an attempt to absorb the impact but the wall shattered and the swords lunged deep into the ground.

Luckily for Grey, he had managed to avoid the Qi swords in time as he looked up to spot where Jake would be but he was nowhere to be seen.

Unknowingly for Grey, he had stepped into the shadow ground and that was when he felt his legs being grabbed and the next instant, he was sent smashing into the ground hard that the shadow ground split apart for a second before coming back together.

"Shit!" He muttered as he kicked off from whatever was holding him and used his wind magic to hover above the ground with blood dripping down his mouth.

"You know," Jake said, a smirk appeared on his face as his eyes glowed with more intensity. "I jumped into that portal thinking that I will pop into a place where the werewolves are so I can slay them all before they invade Earth not knowing that I will jump into another universe.

I didn't want to fight you Grey Dawn, but you forced my hands. Since there are obviously no werewolves here, I need to get back in my universe, my people needs me."

"You came into my universe through a portal? Wait, what's this about Earth? Is that where you are from?" Grey asked looking genuinely surprised.

"Isn't this Earth?" Jake asked with a raised eyebrow.

'He definitely is from another universe and looks to be in trouble but I still need to test him a bit. He could be lying about everything and might be a demon instead.' Grey thought inwardly as his body began glowing bright white again.

Above him, two hundred lightning arrows materialized in the blink of an eye crackling and gleaming with so much intensity that made Jake gulp slightly.

'Shit! This guy is a weirdo.' Jake thought as he turned to his system.

"System, activate cloning skill! Activate magical ability, lightning! And activate Rampage!"

{Cloning activated!}

The system announced as puffs of smoke appeared around Jake, and when they settled, six Jakes could be seen standing with the same expression and fluttering cloak.

{Lightning activated!}

Lightning began crackling around their hands as they stared at the hundred of lightning arrows above them with a gulp.

'Huh? He can use magic?! Then that definitely means he is a demon! And hence, he has to perish!' Grey thought with a grim look on his face.

{Rampage activated}

The notification flashed in front of Jake's face as he felt a burst of strength and speed bubbling in him when without warning, Grey launched the hundred arrows forward.

"Shit! I haven't done this before but there's a first time for everything!" Jake muttered as he and his clones raised their hands and shot out lightning arrows mixed with QI arrows all at once towards the two hundred lightning arrows from Grey.

When they clashed, the whole atmosphere trembled, a loud boom rang out as four buildings crumbled to the ground, the ground shook with so much force that fissures ran deep in the ground.

The force of the two attacks colliding even sent Grey hurling from the air, Jake went skidding as the two attacks cancelled each other out.

"Begone demon!" Grey roared as he hurled a lightning spear forward at terrifying speed that most people wouldn't be able to avoid but not Jake as he swiftly pivoted around avoiding the lightning attack.

But his senses screamed at him and so he turned back to look at the lightning spear hurling towards a frozen little girl.

"Shit!" Jake muttered as he bolted forward at immense speed and even sunk in deep into his shadow and appeared in front of the girl in time as the lightning spear slammed into him causing him to fall on his knees.

"Arghhhhhh!" Jake cried out as the lightning sent joules of pain running through him, his teeth was grit, his curly hair got frizzled up, his transformation was now reverting back and so were his clones as they went up in clouds of smoke.

{-50 HP}

'What the fuck?! That single spear took half of my HP? How fucking strong is this guy?' Jake screamed inwardly as he fell on one knee when something strange began occurring in front of him.

The little girl was rupturing in and out as if paper was being scrunched and then, she disappeared from view.

"That checks it, he isn't a demon. If he was, he wouldn't have had the heart to save an illusion." A voice spoke into Jake's mind and this time, it wasn't that of Zee.

"Zee, was that you?" Jake asked.

"Does that sound like my voice?" Zee retorted back.

"Then what was that?!" Jake muttered as he turned around to see a red wolf materializing beside Grey.

Chapter 422: Learn magic!

"That checks it, he isn't a demon. If he was, he wouldn't have had the heart to save an illusion." A voice spoke into Jake's mind and this time, it wasn't that of Zee.

"Zee, was that you?" Jake asked.

"Does that sound like my voice?" Zee retorted back.

"Then what was that?!" Jake muttered as he turned around to see a red wolf materializing beside Grey.

"A beast? How can a beast speak to me?" Jake mumbled under his breath in confusion.

"Noir, what do you mean?" Grey asked as he looked at the small wolf beside him which looked at Jake over and over again. "I don't interrupt you when you are fighting, why did you interrupt me?"

"Because you were about to kill someone who is important to his universe." Noir retorted back as he glanced back at Jake. "All what that guy was saying, is the truth. His universe is really in trouble."

"How can you say that?" Grey asked as he also glanced back at Jake who was now standing back up but he was in no condition whatsoever to fight. "How can you be so sure?"

"Let's just say, it's another power of mine." Noir replied.

"Excuse me, but what the hell is going on?!" Jake asked in frustration but he was totally ignored.

"Then explain how he can use lightning magic! I mean, we both saw the same thing. Only those of this universe are supposed to use magic, so how can he?" Grey asked.

"That, we have to ask him." Noir replied with a sigh.

"Hello! Will anybody answer my damn question?! How can a beast speak? What is this universe and how can I get back to my world?!" Jake asked in anger.

When the wolf and Grey were arguing, Jake had tried to use his blink skill so as to get back to Earth and prepare for the war since it was obvious that this place didn't have werewolves but for some reason, the skill refused to activate.

Therefore it looked like he was stranded on this universe with nowhere of getting home.

'Curse me! I shouldn't have jumped through that portal. I'm so freaking reckless!' Jake screamed in his mind.

"You are in our universe, Arondale and in this universe, we are people called mages. People that can use extraordinary power like that lightning power of yours. So that brings me to my first question, how do you have lightning magic? Because I can't sense any mana running through you." Grey said as his eyes narrowed down to a slit.

After the wolf had made an appearance, Grey's glowing form had reverted back to normal as he walked forward towards Jake.

"Uhm... what's this mana you speak of? And for your question, it was system that gave me the lightning powers. I have no idea what it is and how it really works." Jake replied.

"System? What system?" Grey asked as he glared at Jake as if he was lying.

"Look, I don't know what this magic stuff you are talking about is, nor do I know what mana is. All I care about is how to get back and end this war with the werewolves!" Jake screamed in anger as his hands were tightly clenched.

"How did you get here?" Noir asked as it walked forward with steady steps.

"Jumped through a portal I found on a planet under the werewolves' grip which we had conquered back." Jake replied.

"And you didn't think of investigating the portal before jumping through? How foolish can you be?" Grey asked.

"Yeah, I admit, I acted foolishly. No need to rub it in." Jake scoffed as he crossed his arms.

"What are the werewolves thingy you speak of?" Noir asked.

"Beings that can transform, gain superhuman strength and speed and then kill others that are not like them while also consuming their kills so as to gain more strength and powers." Jake replied.

"Sounds a lot like demons to me." Grey shrugged.

"Do you not know any other thing than demons?" Jake asked, his eyes narrowed in anger.

"So what's going in your universe?" Noir asked ignoring the banter.

"The humans are at war against the werewolves, one of the world leaders got killed by the leader of the werewolves; the Alpha. I'm part of the remaining three world leaders and I was on a mission to reclaim all planets the werewolves took from the humans where I encountered a portal that brought me here." Jake explained.

"That sounds interesting." Noir mumbled.

"How strong are the werewolves?" Grey asked with a little grumble.

"Quite strong. Wait, weren't you listening to what I was saying? The leader of the werewolves killed a world leader who is as equal strength as I am, if not more." Jake explained again.

"No surprise there." Grey said walking away while snapping his fingers and the humans that had been teleported returned back to the streets, Noir followed Grey's footsteps.

"What do you mean no surprises there?" Jake asked causing Grey to halt his steps.

"If they are as weak as you, then it's safe to say that your universe has lost the war already. If the leader of the werewolves killed a world leader, and ate his body just like you said werewolves do, don't you realize he is now way above your league? Which means..."

"Humanity have lost." Jake mumbled. "Is that what the celestial saw? That we can't win this war?"

"Luckily for you, even though you don't know what it is, you have the lightning magic and at its current level, it's far weak so what do you say, let the supreme mage teach you magic." Grey said as he tilted his head to the side to glance back at Jake.

"That is if you are interested."

"Jake, all what that Grey individual is saying is right. At your current level, you are no match for the Alpha as you might lose in a few minutes, no! In a new seconds. So take this offer. It doesn't harm to try something new for a change." Zee suggested.

'Even if you didn't say anything, I was about to agree.'

"Wait! Why can't you come with me to my universe and help me fight against the werewolves?!" Jake asked and Grey halted his steps, turned around and smirked.

"I sense something in you, Jake! You don't realize this yet, but you are your universe guardian and I'm my own universe guardian.

I can't leave my universe otherwise, my foes will have a chance to rampage freely. Which is why I'm asking again, will you learn magic?"

Jake just sighed and walked forward. "Sure, why not?!"

"Great! Let's go." Grey said as he snapped his fingers and a portal appeared in front of them and they all stepped through.

Immediately they disappeared, the humans finally began moving again, the wind moved as usual but the humans looked confused.

"What the hell happened here? The town was okay just a few seconds ago."

"It must have been Grey. Anywhere he goes, destruction follows."

"Which means a huge fight had occurred here."

"At least he didn't destroy half a city like he did the last time he fought."

"That guy's strength really scares me."

"Same here. If I didn't know better, I would have called him a god."

"Anyway, let's make plans of fixing the town, again."

Chapter 423: A worried leader!

Back on Earth, in Jake's universe, it has now been two weeks and so many things were happening at once on Earth. Rivoock's death had been kept under wraps so humanities' morale wouldn't be shaken.

But under the guise of this, Rex and Bane were shaken as they got to work in rebuilding multiple defenses and at times mobilizing men to different planets for help.

After the simultaneous attack launched by the werewolves, that officially marked the beginning of the war as both sides went full on attack.

Now, both sides were slowly pushing into each other's territories. Occasionally, the remaining world leaders received word from the Fang hunters about the planetary conquest.

They had been informed about Jake's decision of jumping into a portal and causing all of them to snap shut. This news even hit them hard just like when Rivock died.

Losing two world leaders, was a big hit but knowing that Jake must still be alive, they soldiered on. After conquering five planets under the werewolves' grip and Jake jumping through a portal, the team went on conquering more planets.

And out of eight planets, they managed to conquer six planets successfully in just two weeks leaving about two more planets left unconquered.

In his huge mansion in the Slade country, Rex was seen in a room on a chair as he swiveled around the chair in deep thought. His crimson hair fluttering in the slight wind when a soft knock was heard on his door.

"Come in." Rex said and the door opened up to reveal Raze, Rex's first son and Alex's brother walk into the room.

"Dad." Raze said as he took a seat and sat opposite Rex.

"What happened?" Rex asked as he suddenly sat up. "Is there trouble brewing?"

"Not really, I just came to check up on you since i haven't seen you in quite some time." Raze replied.

"When did you come back from that planet trip?" Rex asked.

"Just yesterday. And don't worry, the planet is secure. A rank adventurers are posted on every corners of the planet." Raze replied.

"Isn't that too much? Since A ranked adventurers are not that many in the world." Rex asked.

"Every single day, more adventurers rise up. Does that can't stand the werewolves and so they work harder than ever and in few months, are able to get to the A rank comfortably." Raze replied.

"I guess even normal civilians are picking up arms now." Rex sighed as he glanced at the window.

"Something on your mind?" Raze asked.

Rex just sighed, stood up and walked towards the window in the room to glance at it.

"Just that I can't help but worry about the future of the world. Rivock was killed like it was nothing, Jake foolishly jumped into a portal that leads to only heavens knows where, the werewolves are making more heavy moves.

We are losing forces rapidly and the Alpha had just made an appearance ones and we lost a world leader, lost about hundreds of thousands of men. All these just got me thinking."

"To be sincere, I lie anytime I say that I'm not also worried." Raze sighed as he also stood up from his chair and walked forward. "My younger brother is out there conquering planets that are under the werewolves' grip.

And although they are being successful, I worry for his wellbeing. I'm always on the front lines fighting and you dad, you are forced to face off against the Alpha whenever he attacks. I wish I was strong enough to help but I know." Raze said as he looked at his hands and he clenched it tightly.

"I'm still too weak."

"You are not weak, son." Rex said turning around, his eyes carried a tint of sadness. "It's just that the enemy is too strong."

"I wish there was a way to end this war once and for all without more bloodshed. Honestly, I miss the time of the peace treaty." Raze sighed.

"Yeah, me too..." Rex trailed off as a loud beeping sound was heard ringing in the room.

"Trouble." Raze muttered as he dashed towards as he quickly grabbed a tab in the room, scrolled through it continuously until he froze, worry, fear etched on his face as he slowly looked up at Rex.

"What happened? What are we dealing with this time?" Rex asked as he strode over, his crimson cape fluttering in the wind.

"A...a... A Beta werewolf has attacked." Raze stuttered and Rex just sighed as he snatched the tab from Raze's hands and surveyed it.

"Hmm...A Beta werewolf and by the looks of its fur..." Rex stuttered as he zoomed in on the location. "Th... this is Aurora Academy! The werewolf is attacking the Fang hunters' base! Damn it! Majority of their core members are out of the base and Jake is not even around."

"That's why I froze. Their strongest fighters are not around, and even their leader is not here." Raze gulped as he looked over at Rex who had his hands tightly clenched in frustration.

"And not only that, it is attacking with two hundred werewolves." Rex muttered and the colour got drained from Raze's face.

"We need to help now! I need to help. The Fang hunters' are needed, they can't be wiped out now." Rex said as he turned towards the door and swiftly exited the room, his cape fluttering after him.

"Crap! It's like the werewolves are giving us breaks to recover every few days." Raze muttered as he slumped into a chair. "The Fang hunters are indeed cooked it Dad doesn't get there on time. But luckily, they have head general Humfree, he should be enough to hold them back."

"I just everything is going to be okay."

Chapter 424: Protect Aurora!

"Head General Humfree! The werewolves are heading our way!" Kron shouted as he burst through Humfree's meditation room in a panic.

"Is that supposed to cause any panic? Just take some men and handle the situation." Humfree scoffed as he closed his eyes back to meditate.

"These are not some strays, it's a full on fight! And a Beta werewolf is leading the charge." Kron said as sweat drenched his face.

Hearing this, Humfree snapped his eyes open as a wave of panic settled into his mind and he quickly rose up from his position.

"Then why didn't you tell me this sooner? Why were you beating around the bush?" Humfree asked in frustration as he walked towards the door.

"I tried to." Kron replied as he headed out along with Humfree.

"Contact the Raven wing's guild, tell them we need their help. Also contact the world leaders and tell them the situation." Humfree ordered.

"What about the iron fist guild?" Kron asked as they walked down the stairs.

"This fight is not something the younglings can handle. That's right, contact Gray too and tell him to come over here ASAP!" Humfree barked the orders as they swiftly exited the guild building.

A thousand fighters stood in front of Humfree ready for the battle that was about to occur and they didn't have to wait for long as a huge Aeroglide hovered in the air above them and in the next instant, several lasers were shot from above.

"Take cover!" Humfree cried out as everybody unleashed their Qi above them in an attempt to shield them from the lasers and it worked as the adventurers came out unscathed.

"Crap, they had to target us now." Kron muttered in anger as the werewolves were now jumping down one after the other and with each landing, the ground trembled with immense pressure.

"AWHOOOO!" the werewolves all howled together as they dashed towards the Fang hunters and boom!

Chaos erupted in front of the base as the werewolves swung their claws ripping through the adventurers like hot knife ripping through butter.

"Wait! Aren't these omega werewolves? How can they kill B rank adventurers so easily?" Kron shouted as he punched the air several times unleashing fist of Qi that smashed into a few werewolves ripping gaping holes in their heads.

The werewolves were all moving like blur and wherever they went, several human bodies fell down with thuds as the claws always seemed to rip through them.

"Shit!" Humfree leapt forward, Qi swirling around his body as he landed in the midst of a few werewolves and with him, a wave of Qi spread out knocking a few of them back.

With a spread of his hands, dozens of Qi swords shot forward clashing against claws as the werewolves all managed to shatter the Qi swords as if they were mere glasses.

'What the hell is going on?! It's like their claws have become sharper and stronger. These are just mere omega werewolves damn it! What's going on?!' Humfree cursed inwardly as he swung his hand down and a sword shot forward from his sleeves.

With a spin, he clashed against a claw as sparks flew out, the werewolf was sent skidding and before it could react, a Qi sword shot forward and slammed into its furry head causing it to fall limply.

Without turning around, Humfree lifted his sword behind him just in time to block a swift kick to his side but the force of the kick sent him skidding a few inches as his hands throbbed in pain, his teeth tightly grit.

'Curses! This is the first time in ages I despise my old age!' Humfree cried out in his mind as Qi surged through his weak limbs and he managed to push the werewolf leg away.

And then, in a precise arc, his sword cleaved the werewolf's leg as he leapt back just in time to avoid another werewolf who was lunging at him.

Before he could attack the werewolf, Kron had already appeared beside him and with a swing of his hands that were wrapped in gauntlets, he smashed the werewolf away with a gaping hole tearing through its side.

"Thanks." Humfree muttered as he looked around to see a thousand men reduce to half their numbers but they were still holding their grounds.

As they learnt to work together against the werewolves and that was their current saving grace as werewolves fell down rapidly.

"Let's go!" Humfree roared as he pushed forward, his sword moving like a blur of movements, Qi swords were beginning to rain down when the Aeroglide above them moved again and sent two hundred werewolves crashing down again.

"Shit! Are we facing waves of them now?" Kron cried out as a werewolf smacked him in the face, its claws scratching his face as he was sent skidding back, the ground cracked badly.

Luckily for Aurora, young students were no longer trained again as the academy doubled up as a guild, rather it was those that were strong enough to fight that were trained and no more children otherwise, it would have been disastrous.

Kicking off from the ground, Kron began running in the air and with each step, he sent bullets of Qi raining down piercing the werewolves in their heads, limbs or eyes.

This went on for a while until a werewolf leapt up, its furry hand smashed into Kron sending him flying from the air while another werewolf waited for him from below as it planted a strong earth shattering kick into Kron's side sending him flying with blood spraying from his mouth.

"Okay, I have had enough!" Humfree roared as the air above them began shaking with tremendous power and in an instant, two hundred Qi swords formed materialized in the air as he coughed out mouthful of blood.

"Perish, all of you!" Humfree shouted in anger as he swung his hands down and the swords rained down pure havoc.

Heads were ripped off, gaping holes formed on their heads and the werewolves that tried to fight back, had their limbs shredded off until no more werewolves were left.

The ground was totally destroyed, dead bodies lay on the ground, Kron was slowly getting up as he held his side in pain while the remaining three hundred men that were left had beaming smiles on their faces.

"Have we won?"

"I think it is over."

"Man, that was harder than I thought."

"C'mon, let's take Head General Humfree back. He really went all out."

"Yeah." They all agreed as the adventurers tried to move, an earth shattering bang was heard and all their heads slid off from their necks.

All three hundred adventurers had their heads blown off as a figure suddenly emerged from the Aeroglide, his glowing blue eyes burning with intensity.

Chapter 425: Reunion!

Just as the Fang hunters fighters thought that the fight was over, and were about to head back into the academy, an earth shattering bang rang out as the three hundred adventurers had their heads blown off and a figure with blue glowing eyes emerged.

"Crap! I knew it wasn't as easy as that." Humfree mumbled as he slowly stood up to see the Fang hunters' members hit the ground with sickening thuds, Kron stood beside him, his gauntlets radiating with immense energy as he was vibrating in anger.

"Long time no see Fang hunters." The individual said as he stepped forward with a twisted grin on his face.

A broad-shouldered young man with a massive build sat at the table, his neatly swept-back black hair adding to his imposing presence. The human wore no clothes on his upper body as his upper body was out on display without any shirt on it.

The human only had a pair of trousers on and a pair of shoes while his eyes were sharp as if devoid of emotions and non-chalant.

"Who are you?" Humfree asked in anger as he wiped the specks of blood from his mouth.

"Me? I thought this would have made it obvious what I am." The individual smirked as his eyes glowed bright blue.

"A Beta werewolf?!" Kron muttered in shock.

"And not just any Beta werewolf, I'm the senior Beta. Just in case you don't know, I was the one who attacked humanity during the first war." The werewolf smirked.

'No way! This was the werewolf who attacked humanity during the first war? The one that made the big three and Head General Humfree band together to take care of?!' Kron shuddered inwardly.

"Now, I don't want to waste time." The werewolf said as it lifted its fingers pointing it towards Humfree and Kron. "Where is the one who calls himself the werewolf slayer?!"

"Werewolf slayer? You mean Jake?" Kron asked with a chuckle as he suddenly erupted in a loud laughter. "He isn't home currently and do you think that if he was here, you would be able to do anything to him?"

"You speak too much, I can fix that." The werewolf howled as it just took a single step and it appeared in front of Kron who was about ten metres away.

It swung its claws that suddenly elongated forward and it almost hit Kron's head when a loud clang was heard.

A sword appeared in the claws' path and holding onto the sword was Humfree, his white hair floating in the wind as he grit his teeth and then pushed the claws away.

"Old man? Look at you, look at me. You were this young when we first met, and now, look at you. You can barely stand and you want to go against me?" The werewolf asked with a slight frown.

"Not only will I go against you, I will also make sure to bury you here." Humfree replied as he pointed his sword forward towards the werewolf.

"You will bury me?! Ha! How delusional." The werewolf laughed and then its other claws elongated forward again making his furry hand look like blades were fixed on his finger nails.

"Let's dance, old man." The Beta werewolf said as it dashed forward at tremendous speed towards Humfree and when close, it swung its claws forward towards Humfree causing a loud bang to resound.

But Humfree's sword clashed against the claw as a shockwave spread out, hitting Kron away sending him skidding.

"Impressive, you still got fire in you." The werewolf roared as it bolted forward, and it began swinging its claws out in a blur of movements while Humfree was barely keeping up.

A slash to the side, Humfree's sword was there blocking it and then he unleashed an earth shattering kick was swung forward slamming into the werewolf and sending it skidding.

A snap of his fingers, Humfree launched twenty Qi swords forward and the werewolf bolted forward slamming its claws against each and every one of the shattering it to pieces.

Leaping up, it came crashing down towards Humfree who was about to react a tad bit late but Kron had already leapt forward, pushing the Head General out of the way just in time.

As the werewolf crashed into the ground sending a wave of shockwave forward. The academy shuddered from this jump.

Spinning around, Kron punched the air several times unleashing fist of Qi flying forward towards the werewolf who just slammed its hands together unleashing a shockwave that shattered them to bits.

"Above you!" Humfree stated as the werewolf looked up and a giant fist made of Qi hung in the air.

With a snap of his fingers, it came crashing down towards the werewolf creating another round of shockwave to the extent the giant gates of the academy got dented.

"Got to hand it to you, even after you have lost your vitality, you still got this spark in you." The werewolf said as it was seen just a few metres away from where the Qi fist had slammed into.

"I thought you said you didn't like too much talk?" Kron roared as he had moved so fast that he appeared beside the werewolf with his hands swung forward mid swing.

But the werewolf had moved faster appearing behind Kron who stumbled forward a bit but quickly caught himself and spun around swinging his fist forward which was caught in the werewolf's palm.

"Too weak!" The werewolf exclaimed as it slammed its knee into Kron who coughed out blood and spit as it felt like his insides got ruptured.

"Leave him alone!" Humfree roared as he shot a dozen Qi arrows forward that flew at terrifying speed.

"As you wish." The werewolf said and then spun around kicking Kron in the path of the arrows and in the blink of an eye, his body smashed into the arrows which impaled him hard as his body fell down with a thud.

"Kron!" Humfree cried out in horror as he swiftly dashed forward to see the General bleeding continuously, his eyes closing in and out but a smile was on his face. "No! I'm so sorry, I didn't mean for the arrows to hit you, please don't die!"

"It's okay Head General Humfree. I know it wasn't intentional, and I don't blame you at all so... so... don't blame... blame yourself! I...I don't have anymore time left again, it's... it's being an honor serving you Head General Hum...Humfree... just please...kill that...that...that beast!" Kron said as his eyes finally closed shut, his hands fell on his side.

"NOOOOO!" Humfree cried out in pain as his teeth was tightly grit.

"Aww! So sad." The Beta werewolf said. "Let me send you to him for a reunion!" It said and the dove towards Humfree so fast that he wouldn't be able to react until....

"Hey loser! Catch." A voice said as a humongous Qi fist shot down from above and the werewolf swiftly jumped back in time.

"You?!" The werewolf said in surprise as the dust settled and a man with his crimson hair fluttering in the wind along with his crimson cape was seen.

"What a reunion." Rex smirked.

Chapter 426: Let's go again!

The battle at Aurora was so terrible that a thousand men had now been lost to a few hundred advanced omega werewolves that could rip anything through with their claws and so, the thousand B rank adventurers were all lost.

Not only that, even General Kron was dead leaving only Head General Humfree to face off against a Beta werewolf not until...

"Hey loser! Catch." A voice said as a humongous Qi fist shot down from above and the werewolf swiftly jumped back in time.

"You?!" The werewolf said in surprise as the dust settled and a man with his crimson hair fluttering in the wind along with his crimson cape was seen.

"What a reunion." Rex smirked.

VROOOM!

From above, a whirring sound was heard as dropping down, a middle aged man in a white lab coat dropped down perfectly, his coat fluttering in the wind as he turned to glance at the greaving Humfree and Rex.

"Glad you could make it to the party." Rex smiled.

"Couldn't miss it for the world." Bane smirked as he turned towards the Beta werewolf who still had its hands crossed. "What a reunion."

"It is a reunion indeed. Just that the first time we met, there were four of you, but after our leader's attack, there are just only three of you here." The Beta werewolf laughed as Humfree suddenly stood up after placing Kron's body aside.

"Usually, I don't get too attached to people." Humfree said as he strode forward, his hands wiping his tears, his long silver robe fluttering in the wind.

His hands moved and packed his long flowing white hair into a ponytail.

"Why? Because during my time in the military, I knew that people come and go. People die, people live, loved ones betray and loved ones got killed." Humfree continued as he grabbed his loose robe and tossed it aside.

In place of the robes, was a complete set of silver coloured armour. A chest piece, a pair of boots, shoulder pads, and a silver coloured sword in his hand.

"But during my time as the coordinator and overseer of the Fang hunters, I learnt to care. My military heart warmed up, I cared, I loved and now, you not only killed a beloved General, you also killed a member of the Fang hunters. And in the process, you have just incurred the wrath of a Head General!" Humfree declared, his silver coloured sword trembling with energy.

From the blade to its tip, it was being encased in a yellow energy, Humfree's eyes gleaming with anger.

"It has been long I have seen you this angry." Rex said as he stepped forward and stood side by side with Humfree, his coat fluttering in the wind.

"Same here." Bane added, his lab coat flowing in the wind freely.

"The last time, you all were unable to kill me. Do you think you can do that now?" The werewolf asked as it uncrossed its hands, his claws that were elongated receded back as its hands began bulging until fur covered its hands fully.

"That was last time, this time I will make sure to finish the job." Humfree roared as he exploded from his position so fast that some people would not be able to keep up.

In a wide arc, his sword thrust forward, Qi exploding out of it towards the werewolf but it simply swung its claws smashing against the Qi and then swiveled around to avoid Humfree's sword.

"I will take revenge for what your Alpha did to Rivock!" Rex roared as he swung his hands down, two huge Qi swords flew down with tremendous speed towards the werewolf.

But punching the air with two of its hands, the swords cracked and were about to slam into the Beta werewolf when it leapt to the side avoiding the swords that slammed into the ground with tremendous power that a crater was created.

Bang!

Bane's hands that had formed two cannons had released balls of energy forward that slammed into the werewolf with tremendous force that blood sprayed from its mouth, its body went flying so back that it smashed into Aurora's gate.

A huge dent appeared on the gate as the werewolf's body smashed into it.

Swoosh!

Humfree's sword wheezed in the air, slicing the wind as it moved towards the werewolf that was slowly standing up. Hearing the sharp sound, it swiftly lifted its hands up, grabbing the sword and then planting an earth shattering punch into Humfree's side sending him skidding.

"That's some surprisingly sturdy armour!" The werewolf laughed as Humfree winced a little, stumbling to his knees when Rex leapt forward.

Two giant whips of Qi flashed forward wrapping around the werewolf's arms. Tugging at it, Rex tried to pull back as the ground cracked hard. The werewolf was trying to pull its hands back resulting in a tug of war between it and Rex.

Bang!

Another explosion occurred as Bane fired two consecutive shots of energy forward and in a bid to save itself. The werewolf's hands grew more as it nudged at the whips causing Rex to go flying.

His body smashed against the energy blasts that sent his body reeling in pain, blood trickling down his mouth.

"Damn you Bane! Look where you are aiming at!" Rex cursed as his body bounced on the ground a few times before he stabbed his hands into the ground coming to a halt.

"Not my fault that your body went flying into my line of fire." Bane scoffed as his hands were getting ready to fire another shot.

"Time to get rid of the most dangerous threat." The werewolf said as it leapt towards Rex who was just getting up.

Its claws elongated while Rex looked up ready to block as the werewolf swung its hands forward unleashing a devastating claw strike forward but then...

Clang!

A metal sword appeared in front of the claw strikes blocking and destroying every single one.

"I have had enough of you!" Humfree roared as he stabbed his sword hard into the ground unleashing a wave of Qi that smashed into the werewolf sending it flipping back in the air but it managed to regain it's footing as it skidded on the ground.

"Impressive!" The Beta werewolf smiled as it glanced at its brown fur that looked to have light scratches on it.

Humfree, Rex and Bane stood side by side ready to go for another round again.

"Alright, let's go again. But this time," the werewolf said as it glanced around and its claws grabbed the gates ripping it off its hinges with a single hand. "I attack." It said as it tossed the gate with tremendous force that the sound barrier shattered with loud bangs as the huge gate went flying forward.

Chapter 427: It's about to get bloody!

"Alright, let's go again. But this time," the werewolf said as it glanced around and its claws grabbed the gates ripping it off its hinges with a single hand. "I attack." It said as it tossed the gate with tremendous force that the sound barrier shattered with loud bangs as the huge gate went flying forward.

Rex and Bane swiftly dove aside avoiding the huge gate while Humfree stood rooted. His sword in its sheath as his hand hovered above the hilt waiting for the perfect time while the gates approached him with terrifying speed.

When the gate was about two inches away from him. In one smooth motion, he pulled his sword from its sheath, swung it forward, and put it back in its sheath as the torn gate fell apart on either side of him.

But contrary to what Humfree had expected, the Beta werewolf had already leapt forward and smashed its furry hands into Humfree's face sending him skidding quite a distance, his face trickling with blood.

Bang!

Bane's cannon hands shot two energy blasts again but the werewolf had already moved faster, its claws heading towards Bane's face faster than he could avoid.

But just in time, from above, a hundred Qi swords rained downwards towards the werewolf but it managed to leap back in time causing the swords to smash into the ground kicking up dust and debris.

Before the werewolf could react, a Qi fist from the side shot forward and smashed into the werewolf hurling it from the academy and out of the broken gates and into the entrance that led to the academy.

The werewolf's body bounced on the rough ground as it skidded a bit on the streets, its fur a little bit roughed up from the hits.

It tried to stand up when it felt its feet was being withheld by something. Glancing down, it could see a yellow whip made of Qi and at the end of it, was Rex.

Lifting it up, the werewolf went flying up and then smashed back down in the ground with so much force that the ground cracked, blood spurted out of its mouth.

"I will kill you!" Humfree roared as he had leapt up and was seen falling back down with his sword gleaming with Qi energy.

The sword was heading towards the werewolf's head but at the last moment, it managed to twist around avoiding the attack as Humfree crashed into the ground.

The werewolf was about to react when it felt its feet tugged at and then, it was sent flying forward towards Rex who had coated his hands with tremendous amount of Qi.

Bang!

His hands shot forward and slammed into the werewolf sending it flying back as a shockwave and a deafening bang rang out, the ground cracked with fissures running through it after that punch.

The werewolf's body was hurled further back with so much force that dust, craters formed with each path the hurling werewolf's body passed through.

'Damn it! How strong are these individuals now?! Did we leave them for so long?!' the werewolf thought inwardly as it's body finally crashed into a building crumbling it down immediately.

"Huh?! How far back was I punched?" The werewolf wondered in confusion as it suddenly saw buildings surrounding him.

It turns out that the werewolf was now in Aurora city after getting punched by Rex from Aurora Academy which was about a hundred metres away.

"Shit! That guy has definitely grown stronger than when we last fought." The werewolf muttered as it looked around to see some civilians were initially standing around after they saw a building crumble.

Then the werewolf stepped out of the building, blood trickled down its mouth as it glared at the humans eyeing it up but they didn't fret.

"Huh? Why aren't they ru..." The werewolf muttered as it glanced at its body.
"Oh right! I'm still in my human form."

"Everyone!" A booming voice rang out as Humfree, Rex and Bane were seen approaching.

"Look! It's Head General Humfree!"

"Wait! Aren't those the other world leaders there?! What is going on?"

"Who even is this man?"

"Is he that dangerous for these three to walk together?"

"Wait! Haven't something like this happened in history?"

"Yeah. When a Beta werewolf attacked, the world leaders along with Head General Humfree had band together against it."

"Wait, don't tell me..."

Panic began to settle in the hearts of the civilians that were in the streets as they stared at the Beta werewolf who was smiling at the trio walking over.

"I want every single soul wherever you are." Humfree said, Qi coursing through his throats amplifying his words to every single corner of the city.

"Whether you are in your house, the restroom, the restaurant, playing video games, or playing with your spouse, whatever you are doing, vacate this city now!"

"Are you sure you want to cause that amount of panic?" The Beta werewolf smirked.

"Why... why should we vacate?" Someone from the crowd that were on the streets asked.

"If it's the three of you against the threat, you can handle it right?"

"Wait, where's the werewolf slayer? Isn't he the protector of this city?!"

"That's right! I can't even see the other world leader. Rivock Dem, where is he?"

"Crap. This has just gotten worse." Bane muttered when Rex stepped forward.

"I will advise every single soul to adhere to what Humfree is saying because," Rex said as the air in the whole city, the sky trembled, the ground quaked with energy as Rex was finally unleashing his Qi.

Slowly, in the sky, swords made from Qi were starting to materialize.

"1, 2, 3, ,4 ,5,,6,18,60, 70,100,600,800,900, 1000."

A thousand Qi swords materialized in the air all of their tips pointed straight at the Beta werewolf as Humfree took a stance, his silver coloured sword gleaming with tremendous energy.

Bane's hands were now breaking down and forming another shape. Instead of a cannon, his hands now formed two blades each shaking with energy.

"It's about to get bloody." Rex said, his hands pointed in the sky.

"You all are finally going all out huh?! Fine, let's play." The werewolf said as it began to grow in size, it's snot now grew bigger, deadly fangs appeared in its mouth, brown, thick fur surrounded its body and it's eyes glowed bright blue.

"AWHOOOOO!"

"It's a Beta werewolf!"

"A freaking Beta werewolf!"

"Run!"

The whole civilians scattered around the city began running away from the streets where the battle was going to take place as they swiftly went into buildings that were far away from the streets where the battle was about to occur.

Chapter 428: Do it the hard way!

"I will advise every single soul to adhere to what Humfree is saying because," Rex said as the air in the whole city, the sky trembled, the ground quaked with energy as Rex was finally unleashing his Qi.

Slowly, in the sky, swords made from Qi were starting to materialize.

"1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 18, 60, 70, 100, 600, 800, 900, 1000."

A thousand Qi swords materialized in the air all of their tips pointed straight at the Beta werewolf as Humfree took a stance, his silver coloured sword gleaming with tremendous energy.

Bane's hands were now breaking down and forming another shape. Instead of a cannon, his hands now formed two blades each shaking with energy.

"It's about to get bloody." Rex said, his hands pointed in the sky. "Obliterate!" He said as he swung his hands down and the thousand swords all moved at once.

Focused on only one single individual, the Beta werewolf that had now fully transformed into a werewolf.

The air trembled as the werewolf leapt upwards, it's leap creating a crater where it earlier stood, something was seen wrapping around its brown furry hands and swinging it forward, another terrifying bang was heard.

The werewolf spun in the air, energy surrounding it from head to toe making it glow slightly as its body smashed into the Qi swords dozen after dozen unleashing bangs after bangs.

But Rex didn't relent. Despite the destruction of the Qi swords, he kept unleashing more projectiles towards the werewolf that were smashing into its skin hard.

But it kept spinning and flying in the air destroying each of the swords until it levitated slightly several metres above the ground and then...

Bang!

It shot back down towards the ground that its speed destroyed the sound barrier and in a split moment, it landed back down with a sickening crash that the air trembled. All Qi swords shattered instantly, a deep crater that went eleven metres deep appeared where it had struck.

Nearby buildings crumbled in an instant.

"Is that all?" The werewolf struggled to say through its snout as it stood up to reveal slight scratches on its skin that didn't seem to draw the slightest bit of blood.

"Not even close!" Humfree and Bane roared as they dashed forward heading towards the either side of the werewolf with their blades gleaming brightly.

A swing of their swords sent huge slashes of energy flying forward. They were as big as a crescent moon heading towards the werewolf on either side.

Without saying anything, the werewolf spun around deepening the crater beneath it, and then with a wave of its hands, it stopped spinning as a huge tremendous burst of wind shot out slamming into the energy slashes and crumbling them down.

"My turn!" The werewolf howled as it blitzed forward that for a second, an affrimage still stood where the werewolf was a few moments ago.

A swing of its claw, sent a deafening bang ringing as it headed towards Humfree's head at tremendous speed but Bane had swiftly blitzed forward, his bladed hands shot forward towards the claws intercepting their paths with a ringing clang.

Crack!

"What the?!" Bane stuttered as an earth shattering kick from the werewolf sent his body hurling like a rag doll across the street with blood spewing from his mouth and nose as his body finally slammed into a building coming to a halt.

"Eat my visual Qi!" Rex roared as he bolted forward, his hands being surrounded by fiery visual Qi as he swung it forward, distorting the air slightly but the werewolf swiftly turned around, it's hands clamping hard on Rex's knuckles while he was seen skidding back a bit.

"Not bad." The werewolf said as it lifted Rex with a single hand and then smashed him into the ground hard creating a deep crater that had fissures running around, blood and dust filled Rex's nose as tremendous amount of pain shot through his body.

'Damn it! And I was coating my body with Qi and still?! I would have been dead by now if I didn't have my QI.' Rex thought.

"I knew the Alpha was strong," the werewolf said as it leapt back. It's snout reverting back to normal letting him speak properly.

Rex and Bane were slowly standing up, their hands clutched their sides that was aching badly. Blood dripping down from Bane's mouth and nose.

"But I was still surprised by the fact that he managed to take out one of you so easily and I thought maybe you all have grown weaker. But I see that I was indeed right.

You all gave me a tougher challenge during the first war, or is it because you are one man short?" The werewolf chuckled.

"Argh!" Humfree exclaimed as he fell on a single knee, his body coursing with tremendous pain. "My Qi is almost depleted."

"See, side effect of old age. Join us, join the werewolves, let me turn you and you won't have to worry about pains or old age anymore. You will regain all lost vitality and strength." The werewolf said as it shook its head slightly.

"How about you shove your shitty words down your arse!" Rex roared as his hands roared with fiery Qi, a dangerous glint appeared in his eyes.

"You know, before Jake left, I had promised him." Humfree said as he slowly rose up, his grip on his sword tighter than ever, his teeth grit in determination. "That I will take care of his guild, take care of his members and take care of the city. So what do you want me to say to him? When he comes back and see that Kron is dead and I didn't kill his murderer."

"What?! You want to kill me? With your puny strengths? Ha! You all are even unable to injure me and you want to kill me? How do you want to do that?" The werewolf asked.

"By beating you to a pulp that your natural healing is unable to keep up!" Bane said as he blitzed forward, his energy blades gleaming brightly while heading towards the werewolf.

"Fine, since you all don't want to learn the easy way," the werewolf said as his mouth turned into a snout, his eyes glowing bright blue. "Let's do it the hard way!"

Chapter 429: Reclamation begins!

"Wow!" Geo exclaimed as he slumped into a chair in the Aeroglide's lounge area. A drink in his hand as he heaved a sigh of relief.

Slight injuries spread across his face. His forehead had a band aid on it as he quietly sipped his drink. Sophia could be seen across him, she was seen cleaning her sword with a frown on her face.

"Why can't Jade create a tech that can make cleaning weapons easier?" She grumbled in annoyance as she lifted the sword up, examined it and then placed it back down.

"I'm so tired." Paul's voice echoed as he walked through the doors to the lounge, his hands on his head as he headed towards the counter where the drinks were placed, poured himself one and then strode over to sit back down.

"General Paul, we have been orbiting around space for a few days now. When are we going to the next planet?" Geo asked as he swirled the content in his glass.

"And I told you all, as soon as we get word from the others." Paul replied before taking a swig of his drink.

"I don't really care. I love the few moments of rest but something keeps bothering me though." Sophia said as she glanced at the men in the room.

"Which is?" Paul asked barely sparing her a glance as he took a swig again.

"The more planets we conquer, the less werewolves we see. Doesn't that bother you all?" Sophia asked.

"It does. But who are we to complain? The less werewolves we see, the less work we have to do." Geo replied with a shrug. "Besides, we lost less men."

"True. Although, it does bother me too. What Geo said is right, the less werewolves we see, the less we lose men." Paul added.

"I'm just thankful that after the others conquer their respective planets now, we would just have three planets to conquer and then, we can now head back to Earth." Geo said finally swallowing the last content from his glass.

"Same here. I'm so thankful that I don't have to stay here for so long." Sophia sighed.

"I still feel saddened, it has been two weeks now and Jake hasn't returned. Didn't you all say that he has this skill that could teleport him back here? Why hasn't he returned?" Geo asked as he tossed his glass aside.

"I'm also worried too." Sophia said as she slumped back into her seat. "But if he hasn't arrived yet, means that he must be doing something important. We all know that he is quite strong."

"What I'm worried is the portals all snapping shut at the same time after he went through one. We still haven't determined what caused it." Paul said as he swirled his glass. "Assuming the portals were still open, I would have called over Jade to check them out."

"Too bad that they all snapped shut." Sophia sighed as she stood up, grabbed her sword and looked at the rest. "Since we are not heading anywhere now, let me g..."

Beep!

"Oh will you look at that, Wilfred's team are finally contacting us." Paul said as he quickly swallowed his drink and dropped the glass. "Answer!"

Right on cue, Wilfred's holographic display appeared in the room as he looked at team with a smile on his face.

"I'm glad you all are ok..." Wilfred stuttered as another beep was heard in the room.

"Hang on, looks like Sunny is also calling." Paul said as he answered the call and now, Sunny's display hovered in the room.

"Oh great! You all are okay." Sunny heaved a sigh of relief.

"Of course we are okay, we aren't weak." Sophia scoffed.

"So are you all done conquering your planets?" Geo asked.

"Yeah." Wilfred and Sunny answered in unison.

"Great!" Geo said as he lifted his hands in the air with a smile.

"Did any of you encounter those portals again?" Paul asked with a raised eyebrow.

"None at all. It felt like after Jake went through that portal, all of the portals snapped shut all across the planets." Wilfred sighed.

"Wait, what are you all talking about?" Sophia asked as she was suddenly intrigued about the conversation and strode over to take a seat.

"Along with deciding on conquering the planets, we thought that we would be able to find even one of those strange portals so as to find a way to reach Jake." Sunny replied with a sigh.

"No offense, but are you all nuts?" Geo asked as he shot out of his seat. "Did you all forget what happened after Jake went through a portal? It f*cking snapped shut! What if you all go in and the same thing happens?"

"Relax." Paul said. "It would only happen if we get a hold of any of the portals."

"Yeah. Besides, we aren't that stupid to jump into a strange portal that leads to only heavens knows where." Wilfred added.

"Better." Geo heaved a sigh of relief as he sat back down.

"So I'm assuming everyone has conquered their planets successfully, right?" Paul asked and Wilfred along with Sunny nodded.

"I guess that leaves us with Rivock's planets that were conquered." Sunny sighed.

"The ones close to the forbidden planet where no human can enter." Sophia replied with a sigh of her own.

"So, when do we attack?" Wilfred asked and Paul looked to be in deep thought.

"Something about those planets keep bothering me." Paul muttered.

"Which is?" Wilfred asked.

"Rivock has strong men, those that have supernatural strengths along with Rivock and yet, they lost those planets easily. What if some strong forces are on those planets?

We were lucky so far that we didn't encounter a large force of werewolves but what if our luck runs out right now?" Paul asked.

"I understand how you feel. And honestly, this whole thing still worries me but we still have to attack those planets." Wilfred said. "And we need to move soon because Alex won't let me rest peacefully. He wants to attack the planet and return back to Earth soon."

"I guess we are all tired of staying in space for weeks now." Geo chuckled.

"So Paul, give the damned order now." Sunny said.

"Fine, let the reclamation of Rivock's planets begin!" Paul ordered and everybody smiled.

Chapter 430: Attack the forbidden planet!

"So nice of General Paul to give the order." Alex smirked as his team's Aeroglide were seen hovering above their designated planet which they were about to attack now.

"Yeah! Thanks to you, we won't have a moment to rest now." Kate sighed as she took her bow and examined the strings while at times pulling on it.

"You're welcome." Alex chuckled as he swung his giant sword around which cut the air with deadly precision with sharp whistling sounds.

"The fortress has been locked in." Wilfred said as he walked forward. "Strangely enough, there are no werewolves patrolling on the walls."

"Good enough. Which means just like always, this will be a piece of cake." Alex smirked.

"Let's not get too ahead of ourselves here." Kate said as she stared back at Alex.

"I'm not getting ahead of myself, I'm speaking the truth." Alex shrugged.

"Call it whatever you wan..." Kate trailed off as a beeping sound echoed in the glide.

"Huh?! Didn't we just discuss just a few minutes ago?" Wilfred muttered as he saw that the caller was Paul.

"What is it? Any problem?" Wilfred asked as Paul's holographic display popped up in the room.

"Good, you all are in the room." Paul said as Sunny's holographic display also popped up. "I have discussed with Sophia and Geo here and they have agreed so I want to discuss with you all too."

"About?" Peter's voice echoed from Sunny's holographic display.

"The forbidden planet." Paul replied, his voice carrying a heavy weight around the room.

"What about it?" Kate asked with a raised eyebrow.

"I have thought long and hard about it and also assigned Jade on this task and the results came out yesterday. This was the reason I asked you all to hold on, on any attacks for now." Paul said as Wilfred turned towards another holographic display in the room that displayed the planet they were on.

'The werewolves aren't making any movements. Even though we are on camouflage, they should have sensed us if a high enough werewolf was on the planet. Which means, just as Alex said, this might be a piece of cake.' he thought.

"What task did you assign Jade on?" Kate asked, her voice betraying her worry.

"I asked him to create a drone that carried a sensor on it so as to scan the forbidden planet." Paul replied.

"Huh?!" Emily muttered. "Why is that?"

"Doubt." Paul replied. "I doubted all what was told to us and I was right. Do you know when I said that the planet didn't allow any humans on it? That any humans that step foot on the planet are immediately killed?"

"Yes!" Alex replied suddenly intrigued.

"That is because of what Jade's drone found there." Paul said as from his side, he swiped a screen and a map appeared in the room.

"Huh? This isn't a planet, it's as big as a continent." Kate muttered as she looked at the large terrain in front of her.

"I don't get it, why are you showing us this?" Peter asked.

Paul then zoomed in and finally, the whole crew could see what was being displayed.

"Wait, red dots? There's nothing below the orange dot here." Emily gasped.

"Exactly! Orange dots means they are not something we have to worry about while red means they are quite the dangerous things there. But look at this!" Paul said as the display zoomed in again and they finally saw something at the heart of the continent.

"Hold on! Black? What does this mean?" Peter asked as he stared at the display.

"Not even one black, but two. What are those?" Wilfred asked genuinely surprised.

"Just as green means that they are easy prey, orange means they are on equal footing as us, red means a tier above us and possibly only those at the triple A rank can handle it, black means they are several levels above us." Paul explained.

"Hold on, I don't understand all these." Peter interrupted Paul before he could continue. "Why are you showing us a planet or continent filled with beasts?"

"That's not just a planet filled with beasts, but it's teeming with werewolves." Paul's words felt like a bomb got dropped on the team.

"We...werewolves? How's this possible? How did the big three not realize this sooner?" Alex asked genuinely shocked.

"They knew. No! More like only one of them knew and decided to keep it under wraps." Paul replied.

"Rivock..." Wilfred muttered as his eyes widened in shock.

"Rivock?" Peter asked in surprise.

"That would explain why his planets that are under his grip are directly around that planet." Kate murmured loudly.

"And would explain why it never got out and why it was said that no humans can step foot on that planet. Because every single one that tried to step foot, must have been killed and since the other world leaders didn't want to lose more men, they let it go." Sunny added.

"Correct." Paul replied.

"But... how did you figure it all out?" Peter asked.

"I still haven't... all these are just theories with sound evidence that have not been proven yet." Paul replied.

"So what do we do now?" Kate asked.

"We prove these theories with sound evidences." Paul replied with a smirk.

"How?" Sunny asked.

"Simple! After we conquer these three planets, we choose a few of us that will head over to that planet and check it out." Paul suggested.

"But we just saw two black energies there which you said are way above our levels. How do we handle those?" Emily asked as she gulped loudly.

"There's something I noticed about Jake." Paul's voice cut through the tension. "The more he battles, the more it looks like he levels up. The more battles he partake in, the more stronger he becomes."

So why don't let us be like Jake? We have three unconquered planets right? I have a plan." He smirked.

"Okay, with that smirk, I'm sure that plan will be twisted." Wilfred gulped in fright.
