

MY SLAYER SYSTEM: RISE TO SUPREMACY

Chapter 441: Clash of former friends!

When Sunny decided to tag along on these planetary conquest, he wasn't dumb to think that he might survive on this quest. Especially if they were to encounter any strong werewolf.

But who he didn't expect would kill him, was the one that killed him. Sunny came to Planet Nivareth and he thought that after this, he would finally relax.

What he didn't expect was to die at the hands of a former student. Even if Sunny never taught Jack directly, Jack was still a student of Aurora Academy earlier and now, he has become a werewolf and a powerful omega werewolf at that.

And before Sunny could say 'Jack' literally, he got sliced apart by Jack.

Buzz!

A yellow aura shot out from his eyes like a laser of some kind and before anybody could react, it slammed into Sunny, slicing his body apart.

"I'm a werewolf now, and a powerful one at that. So I'm sorry, you all have to go." Jack said as Sunny's body slid apart to the ground.

"ARGHHH!" Emily shouted out in fright.

"I'm sorry, but for the Alpha's will to be instated, yoh all have to go." Jack said as his eyes glowed brighter again towards the remaining duo.

"Screw you! You mother f*cking bastard!" Peter roared in anger, tears still gushing down his face as he dashed forward, his grip on his axe tighter.

"I'm sorry Peter." Jack muttered as another yellow beam shot out from his eyes towards Peter at an immense speed.

"Take your sorry, and shove it up your freaking arse!" Peter roared as his Qi flared around his body, coating his axe.

And in one smooth motion, Peter swung his axe down slamming it into the yellow beam and sending it crashing and tearing a gaping hole in the ground.

"You will pay for all these!" Peter cried out as he swung his axe several times sending slashes of Qi heading towards Jack who stood un-bothered.

His eyes glowing again as he shot a continuous stream of yellow beams towards the slashes of Qi breaking them totally.

"ARGH!" Peter roared as he appeared beside Jack, his axe shot forward at tremendous speed aiming to cleave Jack's head off.

But in one smooth motion, Jack's hands shot forward, the claws gleaming with energy as he grabbed Peter's axe.

Boom!

A shockwave spread out as the two weapons clashed against each other, the ground quaked from the force of the clash.

"Surprised? That I didn't go flying?" Peter asked with a smirk as he swung his axe aside causing Jack to stumble with a side.

Without hesitation, Peter swung his Qi coated leg forward, smashing it into Jack and sending him tumbling back.

"Even when we were at the academy, you were never able to beat me completely." Peter smirked as he wiped a tear from his eyes and he got ready to dash forward when...

Buzz!

Two beams of yellow lasers shot towards Peter but he quickly leapt back in time causing the attacks to slam into the ground.

Within the twinkle of an eye, Jack had already appeared in front of Peter, his claws shot forward as his eyes held a hint of melancholy.

"I'm sorry Peter. Rest knowing that Jake your best friend will come to meet you soon enough." Jack said as his claws were now inches away from Peter's neck.

"Screw you!" A feminine voice roared as a sword shot down and smashed Jack's claws to the ground.

A heavy roundhouse kick sent his body skidding, fissures ran through the ground with every step as he shot back, anger evident in his eyes as he saw Emily stand in front of Peter, her sword in hand as she glared at Jack with anger burning in her eyes.

Sigh!

A small sigh escaped from Jack's face as he wiped a slight tint of blood from where Emily had whacked him earlier.

"I was feeling generous. Even though I had known Peter the longest before we met, I still made a resolve to kill him and let you live. Why?" Jack asked as he stared at Emily gripping her sword tightly.

"That's because I want someone to be there to console Alex when he finds out his dad and brother are dead. I can't take you away too, he will be distraught. But now," Jack said, his eyes glowing bright red.

"I see you don't deserve my kindness!" He howled as a yellow beam shot forward towards Emily, faster than she could react until...

Bang!

Peter shot forward, his axes came crashing down in front of Emily, absorbing the impact from the laser beams without sustaining a single scratch.

"And I didn't want to kill you because I still considered you a friend. But what you just tried to do, what you said and your actions has made me decided." Peter said, his puffy eyes glaring down at Jack with so much intensity that it looked like a laser beam might shoot out of his eyes.

"You don't deserve this kindness from me. I don't want to burden Jake with the task of killing a dear friend himself, so I will help him do that!" Peter roared as the ground beneath his feet cracked, a small crater appeared as he bolted forward towards Jack with tremendous speed.

"That's if you can catch me." Jack grinned as he also blitzed forward and the two met dead in the center with a bang.

Peter's axe sliced through the air as it shot towards Jack's face but Jack retaliated by lifting his claws in front of him absorbing the impact with a clang.

Jack's feet shot forward, slamming into Peter's side and sending him skidding in pain with a cracked rib.

"ARGH!" Emily made a battle cry as she appeared before Jack, her Katana thrusting forward with immense speed that it connected with Jack sending him skidding.

"If I can't take revenge from your brother for killing Vynn, then you have to do!" Peter roared as he bolted forward, before even getting to Jack's spot, he swung his axe in the air and used the second axe to whack the first and sent it rocketing towards Jack who lifted his claws in an X formation trying to block it.

Bang!

The axe smashed into Jack's clawed hands and his body went flying and tumbling on the snowy ground, blood dripping from the wounded hands.

Chapter 442: For the werewolf slayer!

On planet Cryora, Paul, Sophia and Geo didn't even have to lift a finger against the werewolves on the current planet as they had all been taken care of by the three hundred A rank adventurers brought by Paul to the planet.

The battle had just drawn to a conclusion when something hit them hard, a realization, a betrayal and the thought of possible death.

"Wait, Greig?! What the hell are you doing here?" Sophia shouted as she saw the figure reveal itself.

"I didn't want to do this especially to former allies... wait, sorry! I meant to say to those I pretended to be their allies." Greig grinned.

"What do you mean?" Geo asked as he reached for his back and pulled out two axes, the blades gleaming under the dim light.

"I mean I'm here to kill you all. Is that so hard to understand?" Greig asked as his eyes shone bright blue, his hands bulging ripping through his shirt with fur appearing on his arms.

"Yo...you...you are a werewolf?!" Geo shouted in shock as he stared at the glowing blue eyes, the bulging muscles and the fur covered hands.

"And a Beta werewolf at that." Paul muttered beneath his breath.

"How is this possible? How are you a werewolf?" Sophia asked in shock and surprise.

Being the daughter of one of the world leaders, she had the privilege to interact with the other kids of the world leaders but Greig was different.

He was hardly seen around and when he is, it's when Rivock had an urgent meeting with the others and that's when Greig always accompanied him.

And now, he suddenly turned up in front of her as a werewolf and a Beta werewolf at that.

"Wa...do... does Jack know about this? Did you conspire with the Alpha to kill your brother and father? What the hell is going on?" Geo asked as his mouth went dry.

"Keh!" Greig just laughed a little as he kept his hands by his side, a grin curled up on his face. "Unlike Jack, I'm not one to answer questions. So I will advise you just die."

"What the f*ck are you saying?! Greig! How do you want your dad and brother to feel?! You betrayed humanity, you betrayed the Dem faction, you betrayed everybody! And you are here to kill us?! What nonsense." Sophia roared, tears streaming down her face when she saw Greig bow his head down.

His hands clenched tightly, his head refused to be lifted as his shoulders moved up and down.

'Did it work? Did Sophia's words hit him? Is that why he is crying?' Paul wondered inwardly when...

"Keh Keh Keh Keh Keh Keh Keh Keh Keh Keh!" Greig laughed so hard, that his hands were clutched around his stomach, a single tear dropped down his eyes as he stared at the others in front of him in amusement.

"What? Did you expect that those sentimental words will get to me? I guess you don't realize how heartless werewolves can be, so let me show you."

Greig grinned as he lifted a single finger, the trio swiftly gripped their weapons tighter.

"Don't let anything happen to the core members!" The A ranked shield user shouted and all two hundred plus adventurers gripped their weapons tightly as they stood a few metres in front of the core members.

"You all amuse me, Fang hunters!" Greig said as from his fingers, nails were shot forward at tremendous speed.

Not the usual nails, but long, elongated and sharp nails burst forward at immense speed, slamming into several dozen adventurers at once.

"Screw you!" The shield user shouted as he swung his shield forward sending it flying towards Greig who causally glanced at the incoming projectile.

"A shield, how cute." He smirked as his hands bulged a little more and with a resounding bang, he sent his knuckles flying forward and smashing against the shield with a tremendous bang that shockwaves and dust rippled out.

'Huh?! Why isn't it breaking?' Greig wondered in surprise when...

"Surprised right? Well here is one more!" The adventurer roared as he held out his hands, the shield flew back and he slammed it back down to the ground.

Suddenly, a tremendous wave of energy burst forward and it slammed into Greig lifting and throwing him away as he bounced on the ground, his body skidding a few metres away until he dug his nails into the ground coming to a skidding halt.

"Okay, that shield is cool." Geo commented as he saw the remaining two hundred adventurers get ready to attack.

"What kinda shield is that?" Sophia muttered as she stared at the proud A rank adventurer hold his shield tighter.

'This shield... it was crafted by the best blacksmith... someone so unknown that even the world leaders don't know about him. It is said to be indestructible and has the passive skill of absorbing kinetic energy and releasing it back at double the absorbed energy.' the shield user thought with a proud smile.

Sigh.

A short sigh escaped from Greig's mouth as he slowly rose up, a grin plastered on his face as he twirled his wrists around and around.

"Cute! Uhm... sorry to disappoint you all, I would have loved to play with you all more, but uhm..." Greig stuttered as he stared at the two hundred men charge right at him with the shield user out front.

"I don't have much time." Greig said and in the next instant, he grew bigger, fur covering his whole body as fangs protruded out from his mouth and in the next instant, his hands smashed into the ground hard.

Dust and debris were kicked up, shockwaves rippled around, the adventurers stumbled as the ground quaked hard and the next instant, Greig was now a blur of movement.

His claws ripped through skulls, limbs, necks and even heads.

Screams of pain, agony and death filled the air as Greig moved from one adventurer to the next, while using the dust as cover.

In just a few seconds, all two hundred adventurers hit the ground and at the same time, the dust settled to reveal Greig who had his sharp fangs protruding from his mouth due to him grinning.

The shield user was the only one left, his legs shaking due to fear but he shoved it back away.

"For the werewolf slayer!" The shield user roared as he bolted forward towards Greig as he swung his shield forward.

Without wasting time, Greig twirled around, grabbed the shield and sent it flying back.

Tchk!

The sound of metal cutting through something was heard as the shield lunged deep into the ground behind its user while from the waist down, his body was split in half.

"Yo...you...you... you are the one who killed Vynn!" Sophia roared in anger as she stared at Greig's full werewolf form with anger blazing in her eyes.

Chapter 443: You are next!

"If I can't take revenge from your brother for killing Vynn, then you have to do!" Peter roared as he bolted forward, before even getting to Jack's spot, he swung his axe in the air and used the second axe to whack the first and sent it rocketing towards Jack who lifted his claws in an X formation trying to block it.

Bang!

The axe smashed into Jack's clawed hands and his body went flying and tumbling on the snowy ground, blood dripping from the wounded hands.

Sigh.

A short sigh escaped from Jack's lips as he slowly rose up to see Peter in front of him.

"You should have aimed for the head." Jack said as his claws shot towards Peter's face but a Qi sword from above slammed into the claws and Peter leapt back, his brows furrowed.

"Yo...you... you are not fighting at full strength, why?" Peter asked, anger evident in his voice as he glared at Jack.

"Aren't I?" Jack asked as he slowly rose up, his eyes glowing bright yellow.

"You are holding back, why?" Peter asked again as Emily walked over, her Katana gleaming in her hands.

"What makes you think I'm holding back? Huh?" Jack asked with a raised eyebrow.

"I know you, I know Jack! At least I thought I knew him." Peter sighed as he gripped his axes tighter. "You are the first werewolf to learn how to use Qi, and you are not using that? You are also not transforming fully, so why won't I think you are holding back?"

"Oh?!" Jack chuckled slightly as he stared at his claws and then back at Peter. "He thinks I'm holding back. Kek! I just don't find it necessary to go all out before I take care of you."

"Oh really?! Then how about I force you to go all out!" Emily roared as she dashed forward, her Katana glowing slight yellow.

"I never did like you from the onset, so rest." Jack said as a laser beam shot towards Emily at immense speed but still airborne, she swung her hands down and a huge Qi shield appeared absorbing the brunt of the attack before shattering back down.

But it had already served its job as Emily bolted forward, her sword slicing through the air aiming for Jack's head but his claws shot forward and grabbed the tip of the blade stopping her dead in her tracks.

"Do you really think you are as strong as an omega werewolf?" Jack asked, a grin on his face as he held the blade tighter.

"No, she isn't. But I am!" Peter roared as he appeared beside Jack and whacked him with his axe sending the werewolf skidding away from Emily.

Without wasting time, Emily swung her sword rapidly from side to side unleashing slashes of Qi which Jack avoided easily until Peter decided to unleash his...

Swoosh×4

Several invisible slashes of wind shot out from Peter's axe's towards Jack who was unable to see them but could feel them as he pivoted on one foot avoiding one, another one appeared beside him.

Raising his hands up, it smashed into it hard, blood trickled down from the injured hand as Peter darted forward, Emily came in from above.

"I guess I have played with you all long enough." Jack said as he began growing in size.

"Stop there!" Peter roared as he swung his axe from the side causing it to lunge deep in Jack's side, blood trickling down but Jack kept growing in size, blood dripping down his injured side, fur covering his body as he grabbed Peter's axe with a single hand.

Pulled it out and in the process whacked Peter away and then spun around just in time for the axe to collide with Emily's sword sending a mini shockwave spreading around, the ground cracked a little.

"Eat Qi!" Emily roared as four Qi swords shot forward from the side towards Jack while she leapt away and landed a few feet away.

"Nwot ownly ywo cwan use Qwi!" Jack struggled to say as he swung his claws down unleashing a dozen Qi swords that smashed into Emily's swords cancelling each other out.

"That's more like it," Peter said as he bolted forward. "Now I won't feel bad for killing you while you were at your weakest!" He said as he appeared behind Jack, his axe shooting forward towards the werewolf's back.

But Jack leapt forward avoiding the swing while Peter stumbled forward a bit but he swiftly controlled himself as two laser beam and a dozen Qi swords were heading towards his head at tremendous speed.

"Handle the laser beams, I will take care of the Qi swords!" Emily shouted as she dashed forward and without warning, she began clashing against the Qi swords.

Her sword a blur of movement as she struck each sword with precision, the air shook with each clash, the snow got pushed away as Emily finally destroyed the last one while huffing and puffing.

At that moment, Peter had also managed to block the laser beams with his axe although, he was pushed back slightly by their strengths.

"Your reaction speeds are too slow!" Jack smirked as he appeared in front of Peter just as he had managed to finish blocking the laser beams.

And then...

Bang!

Jack's hands shot forward, slamming into Peter and sending his body hurling with so much force that the snow beneath his body was blown away.

Blood trickled down his mouth as his eyes rolled back, his remaining axe slid down his hand as his body finally bounced a few times on the ground before coming to a halt.

"Peter!" Emily cried out as she turned to see Jack in front of her.

"No bother screaming his name, you are next!" Jack said as he grabbed Emily by the face with his claws.

{A/N}

I hope you are all enjoying the book so far? If yes, please continue to keep supporting the book with all resources you have.

Power stones, Golden tickets, gifts or even comments, everything is appreciated... thank you!

Chapter 444: You need to die!

Back on planet Cryora, the team formation of Sophia, Paul and Geo had just encountered Greig and after a bit of back and forth, he transformed and destroyed an army of two hundred men in a few seconds of kicking up dust and transforming.

"For the werewolf slayer!" The shield user roared as he bolted forward towards Greig as he swung his shield forward.

Without wasting time, Greig twirled around, grabbed the shield and sent it flying back.

Tchk!

The sound of metal cutting through something was heard as the shield lunged deep into the ground behind its user while from the waist down, his body was split in half.

"Yo...you...you... you are the one who killed Vynn!" Sophia roared in anger as she stared at Greig's full werewolf form with anger blazing in her eyes.

Sophia hadn't realized it earlier but now when the dust finally settled down, it clicked in her head where she had seen this type of fur and destructive strength from.

This was the same Beta werewolf that had attacked Aurora Academy when Jake and his friends were still students there and this was the same werewolf who killed Vynn; one of Jake's friends.

"Huh?! What was that?" Greig asked as he looked up to see the trio grip their weapons tighter except Sophia who looked at the werewolf in front of her with wide eyes.

"Y...you... you were the one who attacked Aurora, right?" Sophia asked with a raised eyebrow.

"What gave it away?" Greig asked, a sinister smile plastered on his face.

"Wait, you are the one?!" Paul asked in shock as he glared at Greig in front of him.

"You... you were the one who killed Vynn! That innocent friend of ours, you wrecked us that day. Killed so many innocent students and you have the guts to face us here?!" Sophia roared, tears streaming down her face as she gripped her rapier tightly.

"I don't recall this Vynn guy you speak about." Greig yawned slightly as he looked at the rest of the group. "All I remember is killing dozens of students that day and I would have killed you all too if that son of a b*tch called Jake hadn't interfered. You wouldn't be here now."

"You still have the guts to gloat?!" Sophia shouted, the tears gushing down her face like a fountain as she grit her teeth while staring angrily at the Beta werewolf in front of her.

"Hey! Don't shout at me, okay! Not my fault that you were too weak to protect your friend." Greig said, a grin curled on his face.

"It shows you are unrepentant and unremorseful." Paul sighed as he stepped forward, his katana gleaming in his hands as he stared at the full transformed Greig. "So I have to teach you a lesson for attacking my academy, and killing my students! I declare death as your punishment."

"That sounds like Jake's lines but okay." Greig grinned as he shrugged at Paul who had just kicked off from his position, kicking the air and speeding towards him at full speed.

"Qi Slash!" Paul roared as a gigantic wave of Qi strike left his sword heading towards Greig who just yawned and then, blurred away as he avoided the slash that crashed into the ground tearing the ground for several metres open.

Dust and debris kicked up as Paul was seen floating in the air. But he wasn't technically floating as he had created an invisible Qi platform beneath his feet that held his weight while he stared around looking for Greig.

"Destructive. And you have grown way stronger than the last time I attacked, that's for sure." Greig said as he was seen standing several metres away from Paul, his arms crossed.

"Qi Slash!" Paul called out again as he swung his sword out unleashing a massive slash of Qi again towards Greig who moved like a blur avoiding the attack that tore through the hard, red ground.

"You are just no match for me." Greig's voice was heard booming from above.

General Paul quickly lifted his head to see Greig descending with rapid speed, his claws were held out and in less than a second, he smashed into Paul sending him flying out of the air, blood spraying from his mouth as his body flew back and landed into their glide while causing it to skid a few inches.

"General Paul!" Geo cried out as he saw Paul slid off the Aeroglide, blood dripping down his mouth, his sword laying a few inches away from him.

"I won't let you take someone else we care about again!" Sophia roared as she bolted forward, her rapier sword pointed behind her back.

"I'm with you on that one!" Geo shouted as he also blitzed forward, his two axes in each hand.

"You all don't learn huh?! Fine! Let's roll." Greig muttered as he also bolted forward leaving an afterimage in his wake.

He appeared in front of Sophia in a flash, his claws swinging forward but just at the right moment, Sophia swung her sword down clashing against the claws in a reverberating boom sending shockwaves spreading around.

Geo quickly jumped up, and now, he was falling back down with his axe above his head. Seeing this, Greig quickly kicked Sophia while leaping back sending the poor girl flying backwards creating deep fissures in the ground before she finally held her steps, blood dripping down her mouth.

Meanwhile, Geo crashed into the ground where Greig was standing on earlier, his axe cleaving the ground cleanly, a mini shockwave erupted out blowing a few bodies of both adventurers and werewolves away.

"Missed me, now you got to catch me!" Greig taunted as he bolted away while looking behind him to see Geo dashing forward too, his axes in hand as his eyes were fixated on Greig who occasionally turned around to see where Geo was.

"You son of a..." Sophia roared as she blitzed so fast that she got in front of Greig in the blink of an eye, her rapier shot forward slamming into Greig and sending him skidding towards Geo's path.

"Qi Slash!" Geo shouted as he swung his axes in an X shape sending two crescent slashes of Qi in an X shape flying forward.

In a split second, they slammed into Greig hard as blood spurted from his mouth, his body got lifted up as the residual attacks cleaved the ground hard kicking up another dust that obscured their views.

"Something is coming." Geo muttered as he swiftly turned around to see a pair of glowing blue eyes staring right at him.

"You are dangerous and so you need to die." Greig grinned as his claws shot and the next moment, Geo's head hit the ground with a sickening thud.

Chapter 445: Join us!

Bang!

Jack's hands shot forward, slamming into Peter and sending his body hurling with so much force that the snow beneath his body was blown away.

Blood trickled down his mouth as his eyes rolled back, his remaining axe slid down his hand as his body finally bounced a few times on the ground before coming to a halt.

"Peter!" Emily cried out as she turned to see Jack in front of her.

"No bother screaming his name, you are next!" Jack said as he grabbed Emily by the face with his claws and the next second, she was slammed down with a loud sickening crunch.

The ground shattered beneath the impact, a deep crater that went on for ten metres deep formed beneath Emily's body.

Blood spayed from her mouth, her eyes rolled back from the impact.

"Tsk!" Jack scoffed as he stood up from Emily's body, his gaze lingering on her slightly unconscious body.

"I still wonder what Alex saw in you. You are too weak!" Jack said as he lifted his furry foot and sent it crashing towards Emily.

Bang!

A loud bang resounded as Peter dove forward, his back facing Jack's foot, blood poured from his mouth as he lay above Emily. His eyes twitching and his body wincing in pain.

"Peter?!" Jack growled slightly as he lifted his foot off and saw Peter fall onto Emily's unconscious body.

Transforming his snout back to normal for easy communication, Jack clenched his claws tightly as he stared at the duo in front of him.

"How stupid can you be?! I'm trying to save you here. I gave you an easy beating so you can escape with your life while I kill this b*tch but you preferred to risk your life for her? How stupid can you be?" Jack howled in anger as he saw Peter twitching slightly.

His body slowly rose up, his face half covered with crimson droplets, his teeth grit as he stared at Jack, hands clenched as his eyes wandered around until it laid on an axe a few metres away.

"It's like... it's like your humanity, the bond we all shared and the good times together are totally erased after you transformed into a werewolf. Don't you recall any of that?

The late night chats, the battles together, the life and death situation, the attack on Aurora, the take over, all the missions we all went together, don't you recall any of that?" Peter asked, his hands trembling in anger as he clenched it.

"Indeed." Jack said as he crossed his furry arms, his gaze fixated on Peter. "I do remember all those. Every single thing. But you must have also forgotten something... all those years, all those times we were at Aurora, I was the top dog.

Peter, I was at the top of the class, the strongest and you were the second strongest until Jake came and ruined it all... don't you find it suspicious? The most weakest student of our time, the most useless student that even Vynn who was deemed the weakest could best.

Don't you find it suspicious how he suddenly grew so strong that he toppled us? Toppled me? How on Earth did he get so strong? The strange powers, strange movements and the immense amount of Qi, how did he get all those? Peter wake up! Come over to us and we can help you regain your strength that even Jake can't put you down."

"And what? Get controlled? Kill all my friends?!" Peter asked in anger.

"No! And grow stronger than Jake. Look at you! You were part of the top three strongest during our academy days and now, you have been reduced to an errand boy! You aren't even the second in command of the guild!" Jack howled.

"Do you think I freaking care?!" Peter retorted back. "I attended the academy in search of strength, power so I can slay all werewolves! So I can protect the human race from the danger they pose. And I got just that!

I'm able to slay all werewolves, with Jake! I don't care whether I'm the leader or second in command, that doesn't matter. A win for one is a win for all! Jake won, means I also won as long as werewolves are erased from this world."

"Do you really believe that? Do you really still want to be ruled over? By someone your age?" Jack asked with a low chuckle.

Peter clenched his hands, his head held down as he contemplated what Jack said to him.

'It is working, just a little more push. If I can get him on our side and get the Alpha to turn him, he would boost our strength tremendously. This is great. I won't have to kill him as the Alpha ordered.'

"Jack..." Peter called out softly as he slowly rose his head while a smile crept on Jack's face. "Go to hell!" Peter roared as he dashed forward at immense speed.

To the extent the air distorted greatly behind him, Qi swirling around his feet as he bolted toward one of his axe which he slid on the ground, grabbing it and spinning around while sending it flying towards Jack who was stunned by all these.

"You have always been a stubborn kid!" Jack howled as his mouth transformed back to a snout and he swung his claws forward slamming the axe out of the air.

Before he could move, Peter already appeared in front of him. His fist smashed into Jack's abdomen sending him skidding.

Before he could go far, Peter leapt up, his leg whipped through the air as he unleashed a solid roundhouse kick that landed on Jack's neck causing him to flip and land back down with a boom.

"Unlike you, I'm not a betrayal!" Peter cried out as Qi swirled around his legs with so much force that fissures ran through the ground.

In one smooth motion, Peter raised his leg and sent it crashing towards Jack from above in an axe kick formation. But Jack's claws shot forward and grabbed onto the leg sending a shockwave spreading around.

"You refuse to obey me, you refuse to join me. Just because of what? Of your stubbornness? You are nothing but a lap dog!" Jack howled as he grabbed Peter in one smooth motion slamming him into the ground hard that a seven metres deep crater erupted beneath Peter's body.

Blood dripped down his head, blood spurted from his mouth like a fountain and his eyes were now filled with blood as Jack lifted him again and slammed him back down causing three of Peter's ribs to crack as blood filled his mouth which he coughed out.

"Since you refuse to join my side, then you are no use to me. So die!" Jack said as he grabbed Peter's head lifting him off the ground. "This is going to be painful!" He said as he grabbed Peter's head and began squeezing on tight.

"ARGHHHHHH! KUK!" Peter cried out in pain while still coughing from blood filling his mouth.

"Sorry Jack, you have to go." A feminine voice called from behind Jack and before he could spin around, a sea of crimson filled his vision.

Peter's body slid down his claws with a sickening thud, then Jack's body followed next as his head rolled down his body and bounced over to where Peter lay helplessly.

Looking up to see who saved him, Peter could see Emily sway and stagger a few times before hitting the ground in exhaustion. Her katana sliding out of her hands and rolling away.

The battle was over, Jack; Jake and the other's friend was dead as his head was decapitated from his body.

Chapter 446: Where is Jake?

"You son of a..." Sophia roared as she blitzed so fast that she got in front of Greig in the blink of an eye, her rapier shot forward slamming into Greig and sending him skidding towards Geo's path.

"Qi Slash!" Geo shouted as he swung his axes in an X shape sending two crescent slashes of Qi in an X shape flying forward.

In a split second, they slammed into Greig hard as blood spurted from his mouth, his body got lifted up as the residual attacks cleaved the ground hard kicking up another dust that obscured their views.

"Something is coming." Geo muttered as he swiftly turned around to see a pair of glowing blue eyes staring right at him.

"You are dangerous and so you need to die." Greig grinned as his claws shot and the next moment, Geo's head hit the ground with a sickening thud.

The dust settled, Sophia's eyed widened as she saw Geo's head rolling on the ground, his body stood upright for a second, his neck, where his head was supposed to be was spurting out blood like a fountain before hitting the ground with a thud.

Sophia paused, her brain unable to register what she had just seen, her eyes blinking rapidly as she stared at Geo's headless body.

"Oh will you look at that? One down, two more to go." Greig said, a twisted grin crept on his face as he stared at the body.

"Wh...what did you just do?" Sophia asked, her voice low and almost like a growl as she slowly raised her head to look at Greig.

"Uhm... I kinda killed him, that's what I did." Greig shrugged.

A silent sigh escaped Sophia's lips as she closed her eyes, tear dropping down as she clenched her hands on her weapon tightly, her hands trembling not of fear, but of anger, sadness and regret.

'An...another one has been taken from me. Although Geo and I were never that close, he is still part of the Fang hunters and this filthy beast killed him?! He freaking killed him just as he killed Vynn!'

"Now that he's gone, it's your turn." Greig calmly said as he took a single step, just a single step and he appeared directly in front of Sophia, his claws shooting out faster than a normal person could react.

"You shouldn't have." Sophia said as she snapped her eyes open, her rapier sword flashing forward at tremendous speed.

Bang!

Sophia's rapier collided against Greig's claws with a deafening boom, the ground cracked beneath their feet, dust and debris got kicked up as more bodies were flung aside.

'Crap! I can't hold out for long!' Sophia screamed in her mind as she swiftly leapt back just in time for her sword was already cracking and her hands were throbbing in pain.

"Running away?" Greig asked as he bolted forward at immense speed appearing in front of Sophia like he teleported.

His claws elongated beyond normal as he began swinging it like a sword towards Sophia who met every swing skillfully. She deflected each and every strike so skillfully but she was being pushed back slowly, fissures running deep through the ground.

"How long can you keep on blocking for?" Greig asked as he suddenly sped up, his claws moving like a blur while Sophia's hands throbbed as she struggled to match with Greig's speed.

Each swing was met by Sophia's rapier until, her speed began decreasing, Greig seeing this, smirked as he began pressuring her.

Clangs were heard ringing out, slowly, Greig was now breaking through Sophia's defenses. First was a strike to her shoulder, to her face, to her legs, arms and clothes.

Each strike was a graze drawing blood slightly. Each graze was continuously drawing blood until it began to stack up, Sophia's face was now a bloody mess, her clothes were almost completely torn, her arms were dripping with blood.

But even with this, she grit her teeth and bolted forward towards Greig who just causally licked his lips.

"You know, if I wanted to kill you, I would have. Even though I'm a werewolf, my sexual feelings are still there and I have always wondered how delicious you would taste." Greig smirked as he was taking several steps back blocking each and every one of Sophia's rapier blade strike.

The sound of metal striking claws were heard, blood and sweat dripping down Sophia's face as she began to lose her breathing and finally, Greig sped up.

His hands moving like a blur and striking Sophia squarely in her gut. Blood, spit and air all got knocked out of her as her body flew back like a ragdoll and then continued tumbling down until it came to a skidding halt.

"Yawn!" Greig stretched as he causally strode over to where Sophia's body lay and soon, he was just two feet away as he knelt down and stared at her curves with a sinister grin on his face.

"I was ordered to kill everybody here. But for you, I will make an exception. I will take you back, treat your injuries, have them deck you up nicely and only then will I have my way with you." Greig smirked as he grabbed Sophia's hair causing her head to snap up.

But contrary to his expectations of seeing an unconscious Sophia, he could see her eyes staring back at him with malice and then, movements.

Looking down, he could see her hand shot forward, her rapier gleaming slightly as it plunged deep into one of Greig's eyes, blood dripping down.

"ARGHH!" Greig shouted as he shot up, his hands clutched his face as he threw his head around while Sophia slowly stood up, her body a bloody mess.

Face covered with blood that the droplets were getting into her eyes. But one thing remained on her face, a grin.

"I'm not done with you! You will pay for the dear lives you took and for looking at me like a food of some kind!" Sophia roared as she swirled the last of her Qi around her feet to give her a speed boost as she bolted forward.

Her hands tightly clenched on her sword which she swung forward at tremendous speed towards Greig who still had his eyes closed until...

Snap!

Bang!

Greig's good eye snapped open and his hand shot forward and grabbed the rapier without bulging an inch, anger contorting around his face as he glared at Sophia who looked to be struggling to get her sword out.

"I wanted to spare your life, give you a good life. And make you my queen but you decided to act stupid and do this!" Greig howled in anger as he pointed at his face where one of his eyes used to be, a black hollow remained.

"You don't deserve to live!" He shouted in anger as the sword in his grip shattered after he clenched his claws around it.

Before Sophia could blink, Greig had already moved, his claws shot forward slamming into her abdomen with such force that she threw up, the planet trembled, the ground shattered, an eighth metres deep crater appeared beneath their feet.

The next instant, Sophia's body shot far back that with every ground she hit, it cracked from the weight of her body as she finally came to a skidding halt, blood continuously pouring from her mouth.

She laid there, unmoving and unshaken. Her breath grew erratic, unable to speak, move or even twitch as she could do nothing but watch Greig approach her.

"Die!" Greig roared as he lifted his feet and sent it flying towards her head until...

Bang!

Something appeared in front of Sophia, a man, his back turned against her as he held something in front of him that absorbed the impact from Greig's feet.

The next moment, another deafening bang echoed as Greig's body shot back, tumbling and bouncing on the ground with such force that with every bounce, craters and cracks runned through the ground.

"Ge... ge...General Paul..." Sophia's voice barely a whisper managed to pronounce as the sky suddenly grew dark.

"I'm sorry, I was late." Paul said as he lifted his hands in the sky, blood pouring from his mouth, a dozen, two dozen, and finally, four hundred Qi swords rattled in the air directly above Greig who was feeling groggy from being blasted by the energy stored in a certain shield.

Looking up, his expression darkened as Paul swung his hands down sending the condensed Qi swords crashing back down towards Greig at immense speed that in the next instant...

Boom!

The ground quaked, the air trembled, shockwaves rippled out blowing dozens of dead bodies away as the swords smashed into Greig hard.

Slowly, the dust settled to reveal a kneeling Greig, his werewolf form reverted back to normal as he was seen with blood dripping from every part of his body, his eyes still glowed with intense malice as he slowly stirred to his feet.

"I... I... I won't be brought down that easily! I...I will kill..." Greig's words trailed off as a heavy whistle shot towards him and before he could blink, a shield tore through his body and ripped him apart from his torso.

"How ironic, died by the weapon which was owned by someone you killed." Paul muttered as blood sprayed from his mouth and he fell to the ground with a sickening thud.

With this, the battle on all three conquered planets was over. But at what cost? So many dead members from the Fang hunters and one question still remains amongst those that were still alive and conscious.

"Where was Jake?"

Chapter 447: Continue Training!

The Fang hunters were suffering a crisis back on his universe, Jake was busy kind of chilling in another universe with Grey, the protector of the universe Jake stumbled in.

"Is this what you called chilling?!" Jake roared as he leapt up just in time.

Suddenly, with an explosive eruption of dirt and stone, a monstrous creature burst forth from beneath the earth.

It was colossal—its sinuous, armored body stretched endlessly like a living mountain serpent. Easily over two hundred meters in length, the beast was thick as an ancient tree trunk at its narrowest, and wider than a castle gate at its broadest.

Its body was sheathed in overlapping scales as dark as midnight obsidian, each scale glinting with a faint green hue under the sun, like the polished plates of a dragon's hide.

Earth clung to its body as it undulated forward, dirt and stone falling in clumps from between its interlocking scales.

Its head was a monstrous wedge, elongated and plated with jagged, bone-like ridges that formed a natural plow for tearing through solid rock and soil.

Two slitted, glowing amber eyes gleamed with primal intelligence, and from its wide maw jutted dozens of hooked fangs, each longer than a grown man's arm and dripping with venom thick enough to burn through steel.

A forked tongue flicked out, tasting the air with a hiss that sent vibrations through the ground.

Along its back, rows of jagged spines jutted outward in intervals, twitching and flexing with every movement. Its massive tail, equally armored and lined with bony ridges, thrashed behind it like a battering ram capable of reducing stone to powder.

But what made this monstrosity truly terrifying was not its size or its teeth—it was its affinity with the earth.

With a rumble and a flick of its massive body, the creature suddenly plunged back into the ground, moving through solid rock as if it were swimming through water, leaving a vast tunnel in its wake.

Then, in the blink of an eye, it erupted from the opposite side of the battlefield, roaring with such force that the sky itself seemed to flinch.

It was a living siege weapon. A subterranean leviathan. A nightmare born from the deepest layers of the world.

"Use your magic, you moron!" Grey roared as he was seen floating several metres in the air watching Jake struggle down below.

"Curse you!" Jake roared as he spun in the air avoiding the giant snake from snapping its jaws on him.

"System! Activate Stun strike!"

{Stun Strike failed! Enemy too strong.}

"What?!" Jake shouted when...

Whack!

The beast's tail smacked into Jake and sending him tumbling into a small mountain in the distance that shattered when his body made impact.

Blood trickled down his mouth as he slowly rose up to see the ground rumbling louder again and exploding from the ground, was the beast's jaws heading for Jake who quickly coated his hands with Qi and swung it forward letting the beast's fangs sink into it hard.

"ARGHH! Even with Qi, it's fangs are still sharp!" Jake cried out as blood trickled down his hands.

"Damn it!" He roared as he swung his hands that was now crackling with lightning into the beast's face sending its massive head sprawling away from it.

Stirring up to his feet, he could see the beast hissing loudly and then it burrowed into the ground again heading towards Jake.

"Damn it! When it's in the ground, it's hard to track it." Jake cursed.

"Use your other senses you fool! I have mana, you have something called Qi. If I can channel my mana to track moving targets, you can also do the same with Qi!" Grey scolded from above as he hovered, cross legged watching Jake struggle.

"You could have just said..." Jake trailed off as he leapt back just in time to avoid the snake bursting from the ground to swallow him.

"Use your Qi to sense the beast rather than scolding and giving me a lecture!" Jake replied as a king tier sword appeared in his hand.

"My bad for trying to help you!" Grey shouted in anger.

"Tsk!" Jake scoffed as he took a stance and watched the beast slithering towards him at immense speed.

"Qi Slash!" Jake roared as Qi exploded from his sword and slammed into the beast sending it skidding.

Channeling his lightning to his feet, Jake bolted forward so fast that the beast was unable to keep up. He leapt up high into the air that he was almost about to touch Grey who glared at him.

Before he fell back down, his body spinning in the air rapidly, lightning surrounding and becoming one with his body and then...

Bang!

Boom!

He slammed into the snake's head so hard, that it caved in, he went crashing into its skulls breaking it, shockwaves spreading outwardly, sparks of electricity shot out, slamming and scorching the ground.

The ground for ten metres out trembled with a loud boom as Jake tore through the beast's body and came out from its mouth, the body fell, his body covered in black blood.

"Damn it! This is so ann..." Jake was about to say when...

Tring!

{Quest Completed!}

{Level 8 beast killed.}

{Rewards will be distributed: 50,000 XP granted, level up ×2, +5 stat points to strength and +10 point to magical points.}

"Well, at least I got something good out of this." Jake muttered before bringing up his status screen.

<Status>

<User: Jake Lucas>

<Level: 31>

<Title: Supreme System User>

<Combat level: Master>

<Skill level: Expert>

<XP level: 162,750/250, 000>

<HP: 80/100>

<Strength: 127>

<Agility:127>

<Endurance: 106>

<Stamina: 105>

'Being on this universe, allowed me to level up countless times that I'm now at level 31, my stats have all increased, and so has some of my skills leveled up.' Jake thought as he stared at his system screen with a smirk on his face.

<Magical Abilities>

<Magical points: 30/40>

<Ability Tab>

<Blink (max): This allows the user to teleport away to any distance he wishes to but he must have been there before to be able to go there. Skill can only be used twice; Cool down:(2hr)>

<Lightning(LV3): This skill allows the user to create lightning strikes from their hands that could paralyze the opponent and also electrocute them. This ability cost a total of 10 points per thirty minutes to use.>

"And will you look at that, my lightning powers have also leveled up again." Jake muttered with a smirk.

"Congratulations Jake Lucas." Grey's voice boomed as he descended from the air gracefully and carefully with a smirk on his face. "Just two weeks of you being here, I have seen you grow stronger than when you came here.

You are really a genius but not like me though." He chuckled.

"Yeah, but I couldn't have done it without your help and guidance." Jake said as he turned around to face Grey with a soft smile on his face.

"So are you satisfied with your growth? Do you want to head back to your universe now? I can surely help with that, I think I can create a portal for you." Grey said as he stroke his chin.

'I'm definitely strong, stronger than when I came here, but is it enough?' Jake thought as he clenched his hands tightly letting his Qi course through his body. 'If the Alpha werewolf struck, will I be able to take him down?

If I decided to stay here and train more, what if the Alpha struck now? Will Earth be able to handle him? Should I head back now?'

"So what's it going to be?" Grey asked, tapping his foot on the ground restlessly.

A soft sigh escaped from Jake's mouth as he looked at his bloody body. "I need to clean up and then we continue training."

"That's the spirit." Grey smiled as he walked forward. "Never be satisfied with where you are if you know that you can push forward and break through your limits."

Chapter 448 - 448

It has been two weeks now! Two weeks since the Fang hunters' planetary conquest where they encountered shocking betrayals, painful and emotional death and the destruction of half their members.

Those that died during the conquest were sent back to the guild with the army that were still alive for a proper ceremony while those that were still alive and badly injured, all gathered on a single planet.

And that was the one which General Paul and Sophia were on. Two huge glides were parked on the planet with each one housing three people each in it.

These people were the core members that were still alive from the shocking betrayals and the death of their comrades. These were General Paul, Sophia, Kate, Alex, Peter and Emily.

The guild and especially core members were not the same after what happened in the past two weeks. News had even reached them about the attack on Earth were General Kron had lost his life.

Head General Humfree had lost an arm and was still on critical condition, Rex and Bane were badly injured but still alive.

During those past two weeks, the werewolves didn't relent as they kept on launching several attacks on humanity where sometimes, the world leaders had to step in but it was occasional.

The injuries dealt to Rex and Bane was so immense that they were unable to unleash their full strength for now but even with that, they were still strong.

Those two weeks made it a single full month since when Jake had hopped into a portal that led to only heavens knows where.

Matters relating to the guild back on Earth was handled by Humfree who although was severely injured, was still alive and hence, could give commands and orders.

While those in space, General Paul had taken command over them. And currently, every single one of them were in Paul's glide.

"I know, each and every one of us here are still grieving." Paul said, his voice carried a slight solemn in it, the room fell silent as every single member had their heads held down. "Each of us lost those we care about, members of the guild, close knitted friends and some of us killed long time friends with our bare hands."

Peter on hearing that, clenched his hands tightly, his eyes moist as he looked up to see Paul wiping a tear from his eyes that were now moist as he was struggling to hold back tears.

"I lost Wilfred..." Paul stuttered, his voice croaked a little causing the others to look up at him. "You students and younglings knew him as a General, but he was my best friend and together, we had rose up in the military ranks to become strong Generals.

Together, we made it to the Fang hunters and vowed to rid the world of werewolves bu...bu... but he left this world before me."

"General Paul..." Sophia croaked out as Paul quickly wiped his face clean of tears to look at the others with a clear eye.

Peter still had a little bandaid on his head, Alex's bare body was riddled with scars, Emily had a deep scar to her face, although Sophia's external injuries looked to have healed, she still suffered an internal injuries.

She had two broken ribs from the continuous bash from Greig.

A soft sigh escaped from Paul's lips as he forced a smile while looking at the others. "But the good thing is that, we are here... we have managed to complete our planetary conquest and only one task remain and that is to head over to the forbidden planet."

"Are we still doing that?" Alex asked as he turned to face Paul with a deep frown on his face.

"Yes! And I think now is the best time." Paul replied.

"Why is that?" Kate asked with a raised eyebrow.

"Jade had scanned the planet a few days back and he found out that one of the black energies along with more than half of the red, and orange energies have left the planet and heading for somewhere else." Paul replied.

"Wait, what?!" Peter shouted as he turned towards Paul who had a soft smile on his face.

"Do... does that mean?!" Emily asked, her eyes widening in shock.

Another soft sigh escaped from Paul's lips. "I'm afraid so... if my guess was right, and that planet is where the werewolves lived, then sadly, we are now in the final phase of the war."

"Wait! You just said that more than half the life forces there are moving, where are they headed?" Sophia asked in panic.

"Jade said they are heading towards Earth, and they are rapidly approaching Earth's atmosphere." Paul replied.

"Shit! Earth is about to be attacked by thousands of werewolves?!" Peter asked in fear.

"Sadly, yes and that's why we need to play our part." Paul said leaning forward to face those at the table. "Our task here now is to destroy that planet... destroy it, destroy the werewolves there, whatever they are using to make more werewolves, we destroy it totally so that when the Alpha wants to return, he would have nowhere to head back to."

"What if the Alpha destroys humanity before we destroy his planet?" Emily asked with a raised eyebrow.

But Paul just smiled softly. "Do you think the world is that weak? The world leaders aren't done yet so don't count them out. Besides, Jake will come."

"Jake?" Kate asked as her expression suddenly darkened. "Are we even sure if he's alive?"

"Being in love with Jake, how can you give up on him so soon?" Alex asked as he slumped back in his chair. "I also have faith that he will come and before he does, I'm with the General on this one. Let's hit their base and wipe their operation out."

"I'm with General Paul on this idea too." Peter said as he stretched his arms. "I need to make them pay for taking Jack and my friends away from me."

"They attack our planet, our home, our guild and our friends. We retaliate." Emily said, her eyes gleaming with determination.

"I agree with you." A voice was heard saying as the doors to the glide swung open with a young teenage guy stepping forward, heavy black bags under his eyes.

"Jade." Sophia called out.

"When did you?" Alex asked.

"I asked him to come over. His technical expertise would be very much needed and he arrived just a few moments ago." Paul replied as he pointed to a small screen off to the distance that displayed the footage outside.

"Let's take revenge and end this once and for all. If possible, we can end this war before Jake gets back." Jade smiled.

"For Jake!" Peter lifted his fists up in the air.

"And for those we lost!" Sophia added.

"For the world!" Kate smiled.

"For humanity!" Alex added.

"We would rid this world of werewolves totally." Paul said, his expression darkened.

Chapter 449: This ends now!

"What the hell?!" Rex roared as his hands slammed into his table destroying it totally, his attendant stood off to the side, a holographic display of Bane hovered in the room.

"Calm down sir Slade, the amount of tables you have destroyed along with your shirts, is enough to start an orphanage." Rex's attendant off to the side said with a huge gulp.

"I wish what I saw was not real but I'm afraid, this is the final war." Bane sighed, his gaze turned from the tech that displayed his face. "Yup! Final war and I'm afraid, but it looks like the Alpha is joining this one."

"How many?" Rex asked.

"I'm not sure, but the ship they are on, it's like merging four giant Aeroglides together. So we know that the army is going to be massive." Bane sighed.

"Crap! Where are they now?" Rex asked.

"Approaching Earth's atmosphere now. I will send some things to slow them down a bit. But it won't do much." Bane replied.

"How many weeks do we have?" Rex asked with a large gulp.

"Weeks?" Bane asked as he turned back to the screen. "I'm talking about days here... four days at most in the best case scenario."

"And worst case scenario?" Rex asked.

"A day." Bane replied and a hush befell them that it felt like a sword could cut through the silence easily.

"Fine then. Do what you can do. I will prepare on my end and when they do attack, we would be ready. Just send the location and I will be there. We end this now!" Rex said as he slammed the button turning Bane's holographic display off.

—

On the other side, Bane could be seen staring at a screen, his eyes blinking rapidly and then, his gaze fell back on his hands which he clenched tightly.

"For years now, I have carried this burden. Burden of responsibility, fear of the werewolves, burden of being on top of the world that I was sure that no one on earth except the others could match me.

But here, I'm getting humbled... I can't help but fear for what's about to occur. And I can't help but pin my hopes on a certain individual." Bane muttered, his hands clenched tightly on his lab coat, his head hung low.

"Jake, this world needs you, humanity needs you. At this point, I know we can't do it alone. We have been ignorant for long, we have also been arrogant to think we can handle this alone but we can't. Where the fuck are you Jake?!" Bane roared in anger as he felt like banging his head on the desk but withheld himself.

"I just hope he is okay, I hope he is still alive. I need to do my duty and try delay the werewolves from attacking us." Bane said as his hands moved across a tablet rapidly.

In a luxurious sky scrapper, that had the bold words 'Bubble's news channel' written on it, in a luxurious office, Bubble sat.

Bubble, a middle aged man with a clean shaved face and a huge pot belly along with a fat body and black hair on his head, was seated behind a desk that had a screen in front of him that was currently running with words on it and he was reading them.

The room was big enough to fit fifty people in it as it was decorated with beautiful gold and silver colours which was the colour of the cloth bubble wore with luxurious looking rings on each of his fingers.

"Something keeps bothering me." Bubble mumbled as a stunning female that was dressed in tight fitting black skirt that highlighted her curves and also a white shirt and a black jacket of some kind on it which was also tight fitting bringing out her melons out.

She had glasses on her beautiful oval face with her black hair neatly swept back and falling over her shoulder and with a beautiful smile that could sweep most men away, she walked forward elegantly.

"And what is that?" Erin asked with a raised eyebrow.

"We heard that the Fang hunters are out on a planetary conquest for a whole month which turned out successful, the main base of the Fang hunters got attacked, but the werewolf slayer is nowhere to be seen. Doesn't that sound suspicious?" Bubble asked.

"Yeah, it does." Erin replied with a sigh. "But what can we do? There's no way we can head out in space and begin going from planet to planet looking for him."

"No we can't do that. But there's something we can do." Bubble said. "We head over to a faction... either the Fang hunters, the Slade faction or the Bane faction and interview them.

Bring to the public the steps the world leaders are doing to ensure the success of this war."

"That would have worked if these factions decided to gr..." Erin stuttered as she tapped her ear, eyes widened, mouth agape.

"What's going on? What news did you receive?" Bubble asked as he leaned back in his chair.

"The world leaders, they are pulling out all the rank A and above adventurers from whatever planet they are on back to Earth. Something big seems to be brewing up." Erin replied.

"Damn it! How do we get this out to the public? For the past few weeks, I have been having this uneasy feeling that something big is going to happen soon and I feel it's now." Bubble said.

"Uhm...I have a suggestion if I may?" Erin said politely.

"I will welcome anything." Bubble replied with a sigh.

"How about I take my equipment and Druig over to Aurora city; the Fang hunters base." Erin suggested.

"Why?" Bubble raised an eyebrow.

"I don't know." Erin shrugged. "It seems like majority of the interesting things that happen stem from there so why not stay with them for a few days, interview them and maybe, just maybe something big happens, we would be quick to respond."

Bubble just leaned forward, his hands cupped, in front of him as he stared at Erin.

"You are right, you know I will always agree to whatever you say. So head over there now and let's bring something to our viewers." Bubble smiled.

"Right on it." Erin said as she exited the office.

—

In a gigantic spaceship that was flying towards Earth, just two figures were seen in a dark and gloomy room.

"Alp...Alpha." Ulric's voice croaked slightly. "We lost them."

"It's fine, you will be surprised by what I have been cooking up. They will come back and humanity, will be doomed. This ends now!" The Alpha howled, his eyes glowing bright red.

Chapter 450: A creature as strong as the Alpha!

"Woah! This glide is tremendously fast!" Peter commented as he looked out the window of their current moving glide.

This one was not like the huge glides which they left back on the planet they just left from, this glide was medium sized, with a sleek beautiful design. The speed was twice of a normal glide and inside, it could fit about ten people comfortably.

So currently, there was enough space for the six people who sat in the small lounge area and could see the pilot cockpit where Jade currently was, controlling the glide.

"Yo! Now I see how the hell you were able to get to the planet we were on so fast." Alex said as he watched them accelerate through planets.

"You designed this yourself?" Sophia asked.

"Yeah, took a few days and that was because I was trying something new. I decided to take Bane's designs, break it down to create this." Jade replied as he steadily controlled the glide.

"Although Bane's design was okay, his glides were too slow so I decided to recreate mine and make it faster. It wasn't..."

"Alright, stop talking now." Sophia said cutting Jade off.

"Exactly! She only asked if you made it or not. She didn't ask you to give her a breakdown of the glide. Shish!" Peter said.

"Pardon me for trying to explain how troublesome it was to create this beautiful baby that's taking you all to your damned destination at twice the speed if were to take the glide her dad made." Jade shouted from his seat and then scoffed while concentrating on driving.

"Don't be upset Jade." Kate calmly said. "This is cool, and we are glad to have a brain like you on the team and most especially, in the guild."

"Thank you!" Jade said with a warm smile on his face. "You see, that's how you thank someone who's helped you. You know, if it wasn't because you are in love with Jake, I would have loved t..."

"Alright, don't push it." Kate firmly said.

"So what's the plan, guys?" Emily asked as she stared at the others.

"Do we still need a plan?" Peter asked with a raised eyebrow. "I thought we are to head over to the planet, bash up some werewolves, destroy their base and head back."

"Are you forgetting that we might encounter something beyond our strength?" Emily asked.

"Not might, we will definitely encounter something powerful." Jade said as he suddenly stood up and walked towards the others.

"Jade!" Everybody including General Paul shouted in unison.

"That's my name, what's up?" Jade asked with a raised eyebrow of confusion.

"What are you doing here? Aren't you supposed to be piloting this thing?" Peter asked in a panic.

"Relax. This baby is on autopilot." Jade replied as he sat down beside General Paul and then tapped the table.

A 3D image of the planet appeared in the room, several dozen orange dots on the map, a black dot was on the map too.

"See here," Jade said pointing towards the black dot. "That is the main problem here and I feel like it's very important to the werewolves."

"What's that?" Alex asked.

"Remember they were two black dots on the planet earlier? Well now there's one and why is that?" Jade asked.

"Because one of the dots was the Alpha and he is currently on the move to Earth." Kate replied.

"Exactly! So if the first black dot is the Alpha, then what is the second dot?" Jade asked.

"A second Alpha?" Peter asked with a raised eyebrow.

"No you fool!" Jade shouted while facepalming his face.

"Who are you calling a fool?! Remember that I'm older than you." Peter roared, his eyes narrowing towards Jade.

"Woah! I'm scared!" Jade chuckled as he turned towards the hologram.

"Relax Peter, he is just a kid." Sophia said.

"Yeah. Although I'm a kid, I could probably do something with you, you know?!" Jade smiled widely towards Sophia who stared at him for a few seconds.

"Alright Peter, chop his head off." Sophia scoffed as she slumped back in her seat.

"Gladly." Peter replied pulling out his axe.

"Hey, hold on a second. Are you seriously thinking of chopping my head off?" Jade asked as he stood up, his hands in front of him defensively.

"I think I will give it a try." Peter smirked, his axe gleaming.

"Yo what the hell?! Guys! Aren't you going to say something? You all need me." Jade said as he stepped back slightly.

"Who says we need you?" Paul asked with a smirk. "We would do just fine without you."

"What the hell?! Guys stop this! Don't make me report to Jake when he comes back." Jade said, his heart thumping loudly in fear as he took several steps back.

"How are you going to do that when you are dead?" Peter asked, a dangerous glint appearing on his face while Jade gulped loudly, his eyes snapped shut in fear.

"Alright, playtime is over. Let the poor boy go." Alex said and the whole glide exploded in laughter.

"No... not funny guys." Jade said as he wiped the sweat off his face and walked forward.

"So what is this second black dot?" Paul asked.

"Tsk! I feel like it's a beast." Jade replied after calming his wildly beating heart.

"A beast? How can a beast have the same strength as the Alpha?" Alex asked in shock.

"Beats me." Jade shrugged.

"Wait! We all know that we need Jake before we can defeat the Alpha right? Then how the hell are we supposed to defeat something on par with the Alpha?" Emily asked.

"See these." Jade said pointing towards the hologram at the moving orange dots.

"Yes." The group said in unison.

"These are werewolves that we could probably handle. And what are they doing?" Jade asked while looking at the group.

"Based on the dots, they are moving around." Paul replied.

"Correct! But look at this." Jade said as he pointed towards the black dot.

"It's stagnant." Kate replied.

"Correct! Which means at the moment, it is unable to move." Jade said as he stood up, turning towards the cockpit. "If we manage to blow up the planet without the beast disturbing us, we would be able to kill the beast or at least injure it terribly."

"If we are unable to kill it in the explosion?" Emily asked.

"Then may Jake save us all." Jade said with a shrug.

"Well, that is if he is okay wherever he is." Peter sighed.

—

"I'm not freaking okay!" Jake roared in anger while sitting down cross legged in front of a burning volcano on the universe he stumbled into.

"Push through it lazy bones! You want to learn magic, face this." Grey barked in anger as Jake was now drenched in sweat.

'I hope the others are okay.' Jake thought as he continued listening to Grey's orders.